Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects of assessment:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- Consistency of performance should be demonstrated over the required range of situations relevant to the workplace
- Where, for reasons of safety, space, or access to equipment and resources, assessment takes place away from the workplace, the assessment environment should represent workplace conditions as closely as possible
EVIDENCE GUIDE

Conditions of assessment: This unit includes skills and knowledge specific to Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander culture

Assessment must therefore be undertaken by a workplace assessor who has expertise in the unit of competency or who has the current qualification being assessed and who is:

- Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander him/herself or:

- accompanied and advised by an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person who is a recognised member of the community with experience in primary health care

Context of assessment: Competence should be demonstrated working individually, under supervision or as part of a primary health care team working with Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients

Assessment should replicate workplace conditions as far as possible

Related units: This unit may be assessed independently or in conjunction with other units with associated workplace application
Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Cultural respect

This competency standard supports the recognition, protection and continued advancement of the inherent rights, cultures and traditions of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

It recognises that the improvement of the health status of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people must include attention to physical, spiritual, cultural, emotional and social well being, community capacity and governance.

Its application must be culturally sensitive and supportive of traditional healing and health, knowledge and practices.

Community control

Community participation and control in decision-making is essential to all aspects of health work, and the role of the health worker is to support the community in this process.
RANGE STATEMENT

Supervision

Supervision must be conducted in accordance with prevailing state/territory and organisation legislative and regulatory requirements.

References to supervision may include either direct or indirect supervision of work by more experienced workers, supervisors, managers or other health professionals.

A person at this level should only be required to make decisions about clients within the organisation's standard treatment protocols and associated guidelines.

Legislative requirements

Federal, state or territory legislation may impact on workers' practices and responsibilities. Implementation of the competency standards should reflect the legislative framework in which a health worker operates. It is recognised that this may sometimes reduce the application of the Range of Variables in practice. However, assessment in the workplace or through simulation should address all essential skills and knowledge across the Range of Variables.

Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander health workers may be required to operate in situations that do not constitute 'usual practice' due to lack of resources, remote locations and community needs. As a result, they may need to possess more competencies than described by 'usual practice circumstances'.

Under all circumstances, the employer must enable the worker to function within the prevailing legislative framework.

Community confidentiality means:

- To protect the right of privacy of the community and members of the community, by providing only the information relevant to the specific issue of concern, only to those people who need to action outcomes, with the permission of the community.

Key people may be identified by:

- the local community
- community controlled organisations
RANGE STATEMENT

Review of strategies may be:

- informal
- formal

Relevant individuals or agencies may include:

- Staff of own and associated organisation(s)
- Government and non-government organisations
- Community controlled organisations
- Other agencies that provide health (including oral health) and community services

Appropriate forums to promote the rights, needs and interests of the community may include:

- Meetings with agencies and individuals
- Public meetings
- Conferences
- Seminars, workshops
- Working parties, committees
