Preliminary Information

Important Note to Users

Training Packages are not static documents; they are amended periodically to reflect the latest industry practices and are version controlled. It is essential that the latest version is always used.

Check the version number before commencing training or assessment

This Training Package is Version 2.0 - check whether this is the latest version by going to Training.Gov.au (www.training.gov.au) and locating information about the Training Package. Alternatively, contact Service Skills Australia (www.serviceskills.com.au) to confirm the latest version number.

Explanation of version number conventions

The primary release Training Package is Version 1. When changes are made to a Training Package, sometimes the version number is changed and sometimes it is not, depending on the extent of the change. When a Training Package is reviewed it is considered to be a new Training Package for the purposes of version control, and is Version 1. Do not confuse the version number with the Training Package's national code (which remains the same during its period of endorsement).

Explanation of the review date

The review date (shown on the title page and in the footer of each page) indicates when the Training Package is expected to be reviewed in the light of changes such as changing technologies and circumstances. The review date is not an expiry date. Endorsed Training Packages and their components remain current until they are reviewed or replaced.

Overview

What is a Training Package?

A Training Package is an integrated set of nationally endorsed competency standards, assessment guidelines and Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) qualifications for a specific industry, industry sector or enterprise.

Each Training Package:

- provides a consistent and reliable set of components for training, recognising and assessing peoples skills, and may also have optional support materials
- enables nationally recognised qualifications to be awarded through direct assessment of workplace competencies

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- encourages the development and delivery of flexible training which suits individual and industry requirements
- encourages learning and assessment in a work-related environment which leads to verifiable workplace outcomes.

How do Training Packages fit within the National Skills Framework?

The National Skills Framework applies nationally, is endorsed by the Ministerial Council for Vocational and Technical Education, and comprises the Australian Quality Training Framework 2010 (AQTF 2010), and Training Packages endorsed by the National Quality Council (NQC).

How are Training Packages developed?

Training Packages are developed by Industry Skills Councils or enterprises to meet the identified training needs of specific industries or industry sectors. To gain national endorsement of Training Packages, developers must provide evidence of extensive research, consultation and support within the industry area or enterprise.

How do Training Packages encourage flexibility?

Training Packages describe the skills and knowledge needed to perform effectively in the workplace without prescribing how people should be trained.

Training Packages acknowledge that people can achieve vocational competency in many ways by emphasising what the learner can do, not how or where they learned to do it. For example, some experienced workers might be able to demonstrate competency against the units of competency, and even gain a qualification, without completing a formal training program.

With Training Packages, assessment and training may be conducted at the workplace, off-the-job, at a training organisation, during regular work, or through work experience, work placement, work simulation or any combination of these.

Who can deliver and assess using Training Packages?

Training and assessment using Training Packages must be conducted by a Registered Training Organisation (RTO) that has the qualifications or specific units of competency on its scope of registration, or that works in partnership with another RTO, as specified in the AQTF 2010.

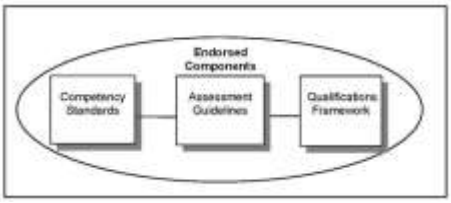
Training Package Components

Training Packages are made up of mandatory components endorsed by the NQC, and optional support materials.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Training Package Endorsed Components

The nationally endorsed components include the Competency Standards, Assessment Guidelines and Qualifications Framework. These form the basis of training and assessment in the Training Package and, as such, they must be used.



Competency Standards

Each unit of competency identifies a discrete workplace requirement and includes the knowledge and skills that underpin competency as well as language, literacy and numeracy; and occupational health and safety requirements. The units of competency must be adhered to in training and assessment to ensure consistency of outcomes.

Assessment Guidelines

The Assessment Guidelines provide an industry framework to ensure all assessments meet industry needs and nationally agreed standards as expressed in the Training Package and the AQTF 2010. The Assessment Guidelines must be followed to ensure the integrity of assessment leading to nationally recognised qualifications.

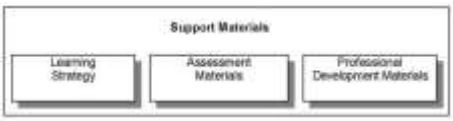
Qualifications Framework

Each Training Package provides details of those units of competency that must be achieved to award AQF qualifications. The rules around which units of competency can be combined to make up a valid AQF qualification in the Training Package are referred to as the ‘packaging rules’. The packaging rules must be followed to ensure the integrity of nationally recognised qualifications issued.

Training Package Support Materials

The endorsed components of Training Packages are complemented and supported by optional support materials that provide for choice in the design of training and assessment to meet the needs of industry and learners.

Training Package support materials can relate to single or multiple units of competency, an industry sector, a qualification or the whole Training Package. They tend to fall into one or more of the categories illustrated below.



Training Package support materials are produced by a range of stakeholders such as RTOs, individual trainers and assessors, private and commercial developers and Government agencies.

Training Package, Qualification and Unit of Competency Codes

There are agreed conventions for the national codes used for Training Packages and their components. Always use the correct codes, exactly as they appear in the Training Package, and with the code always before the title.

Training Package Codes

Each Training Package has a unique five-character national code assigned when the Training Package is endorsed, for example XYZ08. The first three characters are letters identifying the Training Package industry coverage and the last two characters are numbers identifying the year of endorsement.

Qualification Codes

Within each Training Package, each qualification has a unique eight-character code, for example XYZ10108. Qualification codes are developed as follows:

- the first three letters identify the Training Package;
- the first number identifies the qualification level (noting that, in the qualification titles themselves, arabic numbers are not used);
- the next two numbers identify the position in the sequence of the qualification at that level; and
- the last two numbers identify the year in which the qualification was endorsed. (Where qualifications are added after the initial Training Package endorsement, the last two numbers may differ from other Training Package qualifications as they identify the year in which those particular qualifications were endorsed.)

Unit of Competency Codes

Within each Training Package, each unit of competency has a unique code. Unit of competency codes are assigned when the Training Package is endorsed, or when new units of competency are added to an existing endorsed Training Package. Unit codes are developed as follows:

- a typical code is made up of 12 characters, normally a mixture of uppercase letters and numbers, as in SITXEVT019;
- the first three characters signify the Training Package – SIT12 Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package - in the above example and up to eight characters relating to an industry sector, function or skill area follow;
- where changes are made that alter the outcome, a new code is assigned and the title is changed.

Training Package, Qualification and Unit of Competency Titles

There are agreed conventions for titling Training Packages and their components. Always use the correct titles, exactly as they appear in the Training Package, and with the code always placed before the title.

Training Package Titles

The title of each endorsed Training Package is unique and relates the Training Package's broad industry coverage.

Qualification Titles

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

The title of each endorsed Training Package qualification is unique. Qualification titles use the following sequence:

- firstly, the qualification is identified as either Certificate I, Certificate II, Certificate III, Certificate IV, Diploma or Advanced Diploma
- this is followed by the words 'in' for Certificates I to IV and 'of' for Diploma and Advanced Diploma
- then the industry descriptor follows, for example Telecommunications
- if applicable, the occupational or functional stream follows in brackets, for example (Computer Systems).

For example:

- SIT10112 Certificate I in Tourism (Australian Indigenous Culture)
- SIT40413 Certificate IV in Commercial Cookery.

Unit of Competency Titles

Each unit of competency title is unique. Unit of competency titles describe the competency outcome concisely, and are written in sentence case.

For example:

- SITHACS101 Clean premises and equipment
- BSBADM502B Manage meetings.

Introduction to the SIT12 Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package

Overview of the Development of Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package

Version 2

The SIT12 Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package Version 2 represents the key changes that were reflected in the SIT12 Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package Version 1 and also contains two new units of competency, and a change to the core of 15 qualifications. These changes ensure that the Training Package continues to remain relevant and responsive to the current and emerging needs and requirements of industry

This review, resulting in the development of SIT12 Version 2, has been funded by the Department of Industry, Innovation, Climate Change, Science, Research and Tertiary Education (DIICCSRTE) and managed by Service Skills Australia (SSA). The review was overseen by the Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Industry Advisory Committee and also involved input from a diverse range of employers, employer bodies, public and private RTOs, and government departments.

The following key changes have been incorporated into the Training Package and reflect the skilling requirements of industry:

New units of competency

Following the submission for endorsement of SIT12 Version 1, SSA received feedback on behalf of the accommodation sector, representing 533 hotels and 27,700 employees around the need to remove SITXFSA101 Use hygienic practices for food safety from the core of all hospitality qualifications. SSA formed an industry technical working group to review this feedback and consider an alternative. This feedback was flagged the submission for endorsement of SIT12 Version 1 where it was identified that this issue would be resolved through continuous improvement. The result of this review was the development of the generic hygiene unit SITHIND101 Use hygienic practices for hospitality service, which is appropriate for all job outcomes of these qualifications.

SIT12 Version 2 also contains a new cruise specialist unit SITTTSL314 Provide specialist advice on cruises, which directly responds to an industry need identified in the 2013 SSA Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Environmental Scan. The development of this unit of competency has been driven by peak travel and cruise bodies to ensure that the training system will produce graduates with the skills and knowledge to work in specialised job roles in this rapidly growing sector.

Changes to qualifications

The development of SITHIND101 Use hygienic practices for hospitality service requires a change to the core and packaging rules for the following revised qualifications:

- SIT10213 Certificate I in Hospitality
- SIT20213 Certificate II in Hospitality
- SIT30713 Certificate III in Hospitality
- SIT40313 Certificate IV in Hospitality
- SIT50313 Diploma of Hospitality
- SIT60313 Advanced Diploma of Hospitality

This change will result in the core of the current qualifications being reduced by ONE unit of competency and the elective requirement being increased by ONE unit of competency:

A new compulsory Group A Elective group has been created containing SITXFSA101 Use hygienic practices for food safety and SITHIND101 Use hygienic practices for hospitality service. One elective is required to be selected from this group, which allows individuals undertaking these qualifications to complete an appropriate personal hygiene or food safety unit of competency.

SIT20213 Certificate II in Hospitality has undergone the same change as the other hospitality qualifications listed however the total number of units required has increased by ONE due to the addition of SITXCOM201 Show social and cultural sensitivity to the core of the qualification. This unit is appropriate for all job outcomes and therefore should be included in the core of this qualification.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

SIT12 Version 1 includes the imported unit HLTFA311A Apply first aid in the core of nine qualifications. This unit of competency has recently been replaced by HLTAID003 Provide first aid, endorsed as part of the HLT Health Training Package and compliant with the Standards for Training Packages. The proposed inclusion of this updated unit of competency in the core of these nine qualifications will allow learners to complete the most up-to-date and relevant training in first aid:

- SIT30513 Certificate III in Guiding
- SIT30813 Certificate III in Commercial Cookery
- SIT30913 Certificate III in Asian Cookery
- SIT31013 Certificate III in Catering Operations
- SIT31113 Certificate III in Patisserie
- SIT40413 Certificate IV in Commercial Cookery
- SIT40513 Certificate IV in Asian Cookery
- SIT40613 Certificate IV in Catering Operations
- SIT40713 Certificate IV in Patisserie

The SIT12 Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package represents the review, redevelopment, rationalisation and integration of the previous SIT07 Tourism, Hospitality and Events Training Package.

This review, resulting in the development of SIT12, has been funded by the Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations (DEEWR) and managed by Service Skills Australia. The review was directed by a national industry reference group and involved input from a diverse range of employers, employer bodies, employees, unions, public and private RTOs, state training authorities and key government regulators of the tourism, travel and hospitality industry.

The review commenced in January 2011 and was carried out in three industry-aligned phases:

- Phase 1: The Tourism Review includes the tourism qualifications and units
- Phase 2: The Hospitality Review includes the hospitality qualifications and units
- Phase 3: The Events Review includes the events qualifications and units.

The cross-sector units, which apply to all three sectors, were reviewed in each of the three phases.

The primary purpose of the review was to ensure the SIT12 Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package is relevant and responsive to the current and emerging skilling requirements of industry.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

The following key changes have been incorporated into the Training Package. In the majority of cases, the change reflects changes in the industry. Changes have also been a result of policy changes, e.g. changes in the Training Packages Development policy.

Changes impacting the overall Training Package:

- The Training Package name has been updated to include the Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package:
  - The Tourism and Hospitality Industry Advisory Committee made a strategic decision to change the Training Package name so that it succinctly reflects the industries represented by the Training Package.
- Employability skills for each qualification reviewed and refined.
- Qualification packaging rules refined:
  - Less complex units are generally not replicated in the core of higher level qualifications as the higher level units subsume the skills and knowledge of the less complex units. This reduces redundancy within the core of qualifications. However, the packaging rules have sufficient flexibility to allow for inclusion of less complex units via elective selection, if required.
  - The core units represent units that are mandatory for all the job outcomes for the qualification. Elective units represent competencies that are relevant for some of the job outcomes for the qualification. Elective groupings have been used to ensure that units of competencies that affect most job outcomes can be selected, where relevant.
- Changes made in line with the Streamlining policy of VET Products for the 21st Century and the Training Package Development policy:
  - Language has been simplified, and repetitive and unnecessary information removed
  - Qualification titles simplified
  - Units rationalised and redundancy removed within the Training Package, i.e. merging or removing units where content is covered by other units within the Training Package
  - Units rationalised and redundancy removed across Training Packages, i.e. importing units where content is covered by units in other Training Packages.
  - Prerequisites retained only when competency cannot be achieved in a given unit without first gaining essential knowledge and skills from other units.
  - ‘Must’ statements were removed from the Range Statements of units. To ensure the information regarding mandatory components is retained, the ‘must’ requirements have been relocated to the Required knowledge and Critical aspects sections of the unit.
- All unit codes include an AQF level indicator to show the level at which the unit first appears in the qualifications in the Training Package. Units may be included in qualifications at varying levels, where appropriate for the job outcome.
- Assessment information strengthened:
  - Assessor vocational competency requirements in relation to industry experience and currency clarified.
  - Importance of, and in some cases mandatory use of, industry realistic contexts for assessment clarified.

Cross-sector specific changes:

- Units reviewed for coverage of environmental, economic and social sustainability requirements.
- Units developed for the following competencies to address defined industry needs:
  - Crisis management:
    - Manage a business continuity crisis
    - Respond to a customer in crisis.
  - Revenue and yield management:
    - Manage revenue.
  - Coverage of units broadened to all tourism, travel and hospitality sectors:
    - Prepare and present proposals
    - Purchase goods.
  - Developed to complement the existing suite of customer service units:
    - Interact with customers.
- New cross-sector skill sets developed to address defined industry needs:
  - Business Management
  - Customer Service
  - Customer Service Management
  - Mentoring and Supervision
  - Product Development for International Markets
  - Product Sales for International Markets
  - Service for International Visitors.

Tourism and Travel specific changes:

- Improving the visibility of the Travel industry by including ‘travel’ in the title of relevant qualifications and the name of the Training Package. Inclusion of this terminology brings the Training Package in line with the international approach.
- Qualifications rationalised to ensure they meet industry’s increasing need for multi-skilled workers. Importantly, packaging rules are also flexible enough to allow for qualifications to be tailored for specialist job functions:
  - Certificate III in Travel broadened to cover the Tour Wholesaling outcome. Certificate III in Tourism (Tour Wholesaling) removed.
  - Certificate III in Tourism broadened to cover the Visitor Information Service outcome. Certificate III in Tourism (Visitor Information Services) removed.
- Entry requirements introduced for higher level travel and tourism qualifications to reflect the importance of operative skills, knowledge and experience prior to the development of management and strategic skills and knowledge. Entry requirements can be met through workplace experience or through formal study. While the entry requirements have resulted in significant changes to the packaging rules, the intent of the qualifications have not changed. Qualifications with entry requirements:

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

  - Certificate IV in Travel and Tourism
  - Certificate IV in Holiday Parks and Resorts
  - Certificate IV in Guiding
  - Diploma of Travel and Tourism
  - Diploma of Holiday Parks and Resorts
  - Advanced Diploma of Travel and Tourism.
- New skills sets for the tourism and travel industry developed to address defined industry needs and licence and regulation requirements:
  - Airfare Construction
  - Licenced Travel Agency
  - Visitor Information Services.

Hospitality specific changes:

- Preparatory qualifications rationalised to ensure candidates have an understanding of the broad range of hospitality jobs. Preparatory qualification Certificate I in Hospitality broadened to cover Kitchen Operations. Certificate I in Hospitality (Kitchen Operations) removed.
- Cookery qualifications refined:
  - Cookery qualifications updated to ensure core concentrates on kitchen skills; some soft skills made electives.
  - Catering Operations qualifications updated to ensure focus on catering outcomes, as distinct from the commercial cookery outcome.
  - Patisserie qualifications updated to ensure focus on patisserie, as distinct from the commercial cookery outcome.
  - Consistent coverage of first aid and sustainable work practice requirements at Certificate III and above.
- Hospitality service holistic units streamlined:
  - The Use hospitality skills effectively unit broadened to apply to all types of hospitality service including accommodation services, food and beverage, gaming operations and housekeeping. Use hospitality skills effectively now covers the outcome of the Apply food and beverage skills in the workplace unit. Apply food and beverage skills in the workplace removed.
  - The Work effectively in hospitality service unit broadened to cover the outcome of the Provide and coordinate food and beverage service unit. Provide and coordinate food and beverage service removed.
- Cookery units have common titling and a common structure.
- Units developed for the following competencies to address defined industry need:
  - Basic menu costing:
    - Plan and cost basic menus.
  - Units rationalised to remove duplication across units, for example:
    - Coordinate cooking operations
    - Prepare simple dishes

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

    - Produce cook-chill and cook-freeze foods
    - Produce desserts
    - Rethermalise chilled and frozen foods
    - Use food preparation equipment.
- Additional skills sets for the hospitality industry developed to address defined industry needs and licence and regulation requirements:
    - Food Advice
    - Food Handling
    - Food Safety Supervision
    - Hospitality Compliance.
- No changes to the composition to the skill sets already defined for hospitality:
    - Beverage Specialist
    - Espresso Machine Operator (previously titled Barista)
    - Essential Business Skills for a Restaurant Manager
    - Responsible Service of Alcohol
    - Sommelier.

Events specific changes:

- Entry requirement removed for Diploma of Events and Advanced Diploma of Events. Entry requirement previously defined as a Certificate III qualification in an events-related area, or equivalent experience. Training package development policy prohibits an entry requirement of a whole qualification. The flexible packaging rules of the qualifications cater for the many diverse industry pathways into the event sector.
- Additional generic management skills and knowledge included in the core of the higher level Events qualifications.
- Unit developed for the following competency:
    - Developed to address sector requirements around development of detailed event plans and monitoring plans through to event execution and evaluation
        - Develop and implement event management plans.
- New skills sets for the event sector developed to address defined sector needs:
    - Event Coordination
    - Event Development.

Licensing and other regulatory arrangements for the tourism, travel and hospitality industries

The industry sectors covered by this Training Package are subject to a range of business licensing, business compliance and occupational licensing arrangements, in the areas of:

- Casino table games
- Commercial cookery
- Food safety

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- Guiding
- Responsible service of alcohol
- Sale of Travel Insurance
- Travel agent licensing
- Work health safety and occupational health and safety.

Individual units of competency cover the requirements of relevant national and state or territory legislation and provide information within the unit descriptor about any special requirements for trainers, assessors, RTOs and candidates themselves. Information is further summarised within the Assessment Guidelines in this Training Package.

Overview of the tourism, travel and hospitality industries

The Service Skills Australia Environmental Scan provides an overview of current and emerging trends in tourism, travel and hospitality. A summary of the key trends relevant to workforce development and vocational education and training (VET) for this industry is presented below.

Tourism, travel and hospitality are separate industries but have such close links that they are often thought of and presented as one. The interrelationship exists because of the integrated products and services they produce, the close business-to-business relationships that exist across all three industries, the common customers they service and the sales and service staff employed, who often cross industries during their career. Many skills are common across these three service industries and this Training Package provides for both specialist and generic skills development.

Tourism is difficult to define given that it is not an ‘industry’ in the strict sense. Industries are defined by the goods and services they produce, whereas tourism is defined by whether consumption is by visitors. Tourism is measured in the ABS Tourism Satellite Account (TSA), which calculates the portions of industries that are tourism-related.

The TSA captures the activities of ‘tourism characteristic’ and ‘tourism connected’ industries.

Tourism characteristic industries encompass the industries in which visitors consume 25 percent or more of its output and capture those industries that would be ‘significantly affected if tourism were to cease’. However, tourism connected industries are those in which consumption of goods by visitors is significant, but below 25 percent. This includes the education and retail industries.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Tourism related industries include travel agencies and tour operator services; accommodation; cafés, restaurants and takeaway food services; pubs, clubs, bars and taverns; casinos and other gambling services; cultural services; retail; sport and recreation; transport, and education and training.

Tourism contributes $34 billion to Australia's Gross Domestic Product (GDP), employs over 500,000 individuals and provides an invaluable source of income for many thousands of Australians living in remote and regional areas.

Tourism, overall, has performed modestly in recent times. In 2010–11, tourism expenditure in Australia decreased by three percent compared to 2009. However, some segments within tourism have experienced growth, albeit at varying degrees. In particular, outbound and business travel has remained buoyant. Furthermore, the continued growth in the mining and construction sectors has increased demand for business travel and hospitality in their associated regions.

International outbound travel by Australians has increased in response to the favourable exchange rate and the expansion of low-cost carrier flight services. In particular, international travel within the Asia-Pacific region has replaced domestic travel due to price competitiveness. This trend has resulted in a situation whereby tourism-dependent regions in Australia are suffering, whereas travel agencies have seen strong demand for their services.

The hospitality industry includes businesses that provide accommodation, food and drinks. It includes cafes, restaurants and takeaway food, pubs, taverns and bars, hotels, motels, caravan holiday parks and other accommodation, and hospitality clubs. The Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) classifies these businesses under the Australia New Zealand Standard Industrial Classification (ANZSIC) of 'Accommodation and Food Services'.

The accommodation and food sector is experiencing strong growth in both local and visitor markets. Over the 2010–11 financial year the accommodation and food sector reported a 5.4 percent increase in seasonally adjusted Industry Gross Value Added. This equated to a contribution of $29.94 billion to Australian GDP over this period. This growth comes as a result of strong turnover in the sector; just in the cafe, restaurant and takeaway sector, total turnover in the 2010-11 financial year amounted to just over $32 billion14. This represents an increase of 4.95 percent from the previous year. Credited as the cause of this growth is an increasingly time constrained society seeking the convenience of eating out.

Event organisation and management takes place across the full spectrum of business and community activity, often within tourism, travel and hospitality, as well as the community, cultural and sporting industries. The events sector can be broadly characterised as:

- business events—conventions, meetings, seminars and incentive travel
- sporting events

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- community and local events
- food and wine festivals
- cultural and religious festivals
- arts-based events.

The primary occupation in events, events coordination and management, is classified under ‘other administrative services’ by ANZSIC.

The business events market is especially high yielding and is experiencing strong growth, despite subdued levels of domestic leisure travel. Business Event (BE) visitor spending in Australia was worth around $9.7 billion in 2008. BE arrivals in total grew by 19 percent between 2009 and 2010. This is being driven by new international source markets, such as Malaysia, China and India. However, the majority of this market is made up by domestic business travellers, with 16.3 million domestic visitors compared to 820,000 international business travellers in 2010.

The tourism, travel and hospitality industries are dominated by a mix of interdependent small to medium businesses. They are complex industries with no standard way of defining the sectors they comprise. Commonly the industries identify the following sectors which are all covered by this Training Package:

- accommodation
- attractions and theme parks
- casinos
- clubs
- holiday parks and resorts, also known as caravan parks
- hotels
- information services and promotion (local, regional, state or territory, and national)
- meetings, incentives, conventions and events (MICE)
- restaurants, cafes and catering
- retail travel
- tour guiding
- tour operations
- tour wholesaling, both inbound and outbound.

This Training Package provides flexible units of competency and qualifications to meet the needs of the very diverse occupations that exist within each of these sectors. Occupations covered by SIT12 include a range of activities in the tourism, travel and hospitality industries, such as customer service and sales, operational, commercial cookery and catering, food and beverage service, accommodation service, product development, and marketing and promotion.

Introduction to the workforce

Employment in the service industries can be characterised as having a higher proportion of younger, female and part-time and casual workers. In the year to February 2011, 56.4 percent of jobs within the accommodation and food services industry were employed part-time. This represents the highest share of part-time employment compared across all industries. Furthermore, in 2009, 64.2 percent of employees were casual workers, which was also the highest proportion across all industries.

Educational Attainment

The majority of future jobs available in the service industries are at the entry level – that is, Certificates II and III. These skill levels suit the majority of employer needs, with most employees commencing with basic skills in customer service and then, for some, gaining skills and experience in specialised fields.

In the accommodation and food service sector, as at May 2010, 57.7 percent of workers were without non-school qualifications. While this suggests a greater need for formal training within the industry, it does not imply that up-skilling need always take place at the diploma or higher level.

Ageing Population

A significant effect of the ageing population is the intensification of competition for workers as the working age population diminishes. The working age population is projected to decline from 67 percent in 2004 to between 57–59 percent in 2051. For tourism, travel and hospitality, the changing profile and size of the working age population will have particularly noticeable effects. This is because these industries traditionally employ a very large number of young people. In 2010, 45 percent of employees in the accommodation and food sector were between the ages of 15 and 24, despite being 16.9 percent for all industries. Furthermore, 21.8 percent of workers were aged 45 and over compared to 38.4 percent across all industries.

Within the accommodation and food sector, the reliance on a young workforce is particularly pronounced for the café, restaurant and takeaway food sectors, but less pronounced in the accommodation industry. For travel and tour arrangement services, only 11 percent of workers were aged 15 to 24, which is below the average for all industries. However, the industry is still relatively young, with 36.7 percent of workers being aged 25–34 compared to 22.2 percent for all industries.

In 2015, demand for an additional 18,000 and 13,000 chef and fast food workers, respectively, is projected. While growth is the main factor driving demand for qualified chefs, both growth and attrition are affecting the demand for qualified fast food chefs. Projected employment growth is not uniform across the accommodation and food sector, as the following data from DEEWR (Figure 2) demonstrates.

Qualifications Framework

The Australian Qualifications Framework

What is the Australian Qualifications Framework?

A brief overview of the Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) follows. For a full explanation of the AQF, see the AQF Implementation Handbook.
http://www.aqf.edu.au/Portals/0/Documents/Handbook/AQF_Handbook_07.pdf

The AQF provides a comprehensive, nationally consistent framework for all qualifications in post-compulsory education and training in Australia. In the vocational education and training (VET) sector it assists national consistency for all trainees, learners, employers and providers by enabling national recognition of qualifications and Statements of Attainment.

Training Package qualifications in the VET sector must comply with the titles and guidelines of the AQF. Endorsed Training Packages provide a unique title for each AQF qualification which must always be reproduced accurately.

Qualifications

Training Packages can incorporate the following eight AQF qualifications.

- Certificate I in ...
- Certificate II in ...

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- Certificate III in ...
- Certificate IV in ...
- Diploma of ...
- Advanced Diploma of ...
- Vocational Graduate Certificate of ...
- Vocational Graduate Diploma of ...

On completion of the requirements defined in the Training Package, a Registered Training Organisation (RTO) may issue a nationally recognised AQF qualification. Issuance of AQF qualifications must comply with the advice provided in the AQF Implementation Handbook and the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration.

Statement of Attainment

A Statement of Attainment is issued by a Registered Training Organisation when an individual has completed one or more units of competency from nationally recognised qualification(s)/courses(s). Issuance of Statements of Attainment must comply with the advice provided in the current AQF Implementation Handbook and the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration.

Under the AQTF 2010, RTOs must recognise the achievement of competencies as recorded on a qualification or Statement of Attainment issued by other RTOs. Given this, recognised competencies can progressively build towards a full AQF qualification.

AQF Guidelines and Learning Outcomes

The AQF Implementation Handbook provides a comprehensive guideline for each AQF qualification. A summary of the learning outcome characteristics and their distinguishing features for each VET related AQF qualification is provided below.

Certificate I

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity of knowledge and skills would prepare a person to perform a defined range of activities most of which may be routine and predictable.

Applications may include a variety of employment related skills including preparatory access and participation skills, broad-based induction skills and/or specific workplace skills. They may also include participation in a team or work group.

Distinguishing Features of Learning Outcomes

Do the competencies enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate knowledge by recall in a narrow range of areas;
- demonstrate basic practical skills, such as the use of relevant tools;
- perform a sequence of routine tasks given clear direction
- receive and pass on messages/information.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Certificate II

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity of knowledge and skills would prepare a person to perform in a range of varied activities or knowledge application where there is a clearly defined range of contexts in which the choice of actions required is usually clear and there is limited complexity in the range of operations to be applied.

Performance of a prescribed range of functions involving known routines and procedures and some accountability for the quality of outcomes.

Applications may include some complex or non-routine activities involving individual responsibility or autonomy and/or collaboration with others as part of a group or team.

Distinguishing Features of Learning Outcomes

Do the competencies enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate basic operational knowledge in a moderate range of areas;
- apply a defined range of skills;
- apply known solutions to a limited range of predictable problems;
- perform a range of tasks where choice between a limited range of options is required;
- assess and record information from varied sources;
- take limited responsibility for own outputs in work and learning.

Certificate III

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity of knowledge and competencies would cover selecting, adapting and transferring skills and knowledge to new environments and providing technical advice and some leadership in resolution of specified problems. This would be applied across a range of roles in a variety of contexts with some complexity in the extent and choice of options available.

Performance of a defined range of skilled operations, usually within a range of broader related activities involving known routines, methods and procedures, where some discretion and judgement is required in the section of equipment, services or contingency measures and within known time constraints.

Applications may involve some responsibility for others. Participation in teams including group or team co-ordination may be involved.

Distinguishing Features of Learning Outcomes

Do the competencies enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate some relevant theoretical knowledge
- apply a range of well-developed skills
- apply known solutions to a variety of predictable problems
- perform processes that require a range of well-developed skills where some discretion and judgement is required
- interpret available information, using discretion and judgement

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- take responsibility for own outputs in work and learning
- take limited responsibility for the output of others.

Certificate IV

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity of knowledge and competencies would cover a broad range of varied activities or application in a wider variety of contexts most of which are complex and non-routine. Leadership and guidance are involved when organising activities of self and others as well as contributing to technical solutions of a non-routine or contingency nature.

Performance of a broad range of skilled applications including the requirement to evaluate and analyse current practices, develop new criteria and procedures for performing current practices and provision of some leadership and guidance to others in the application and planning of the skills. Applications involve responsibility for, and limited organisation of, others.

Distinguishing Features of Learning Outcomes

Do the competencies enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate understanding of a broad knowledge base incorporating some theoretical concepts
- apply solutions to a defined range of unpredictable problems
- identify and apply skill and knowledge areas to a wide variety of contexts, with depth in some areas
- identify, analyse and evaluate information from a variety of sources
- take responsibility for own outputs in relation to specified quality standards
- take limited responsibility for the quantity and quality of the output of others.

Diploma

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity covering planning and initiation of alternative approaches to skills or knowledge applications across a broad range of technical and/or management requirements, evaluation and co-ordination.

The self directed application of knowledge and skills, with substantial depth in some areas where judgment is required in planning and selecting appropriate equipment, services and techniques for self and others.

Applications involve participation in development of strategic initiatives as well as personal responsibility and autonomy in performing complex technical operations or organising others. It may include participation in teams including teams concerned with planning and evaluation functions. Group or team co-ordination may be involved.

The degree of emphasis on breadth as against depth of knowledge and skills may vary between qualifications granted at this level.

Distinguishing Features of Learning Outcomes

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Do the competencies or learning outcomes enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate understanding of a broad knowledge base incorporating theoretical concepts, with substantial depth in some areas
- analyse and plan approaches to technical problems or management requirements
- transfer and apply theoretical concepts and/or technical or creative skills to a range of situations
- evaluate information, using it to forecast for planning or research purposes
- take responsibility for own outputs in relation to broad quantity and quality parameters
- take some responsibility for the achievement of group outcomes.

Advanced Diploma

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity involving analysis, design, planning, execution and evaluation across a range of technical and/or management functions including development of new criteria or applications or knowledge or procedures.

The application of a significant range of fundamental principles and complex techniques across a wide and often unpredictable variety of contexts in relation to either varied or highly specific functions. Contribution to the development of a broad plan, budget or strategy is involved and accountability and responsibility for self and others in achieving the outcomes is involved.

Applications involve significant judgement in planning, design, technical or leadership/guidance functions related to products, services, operations or procedures.

The degree of emphasis on breadth as against depth of knowledge and skills may vary between qualifications granted at this level.

Distinguishing Features of Learning Outcomes

Do the competencies or learning outcomes enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate understanding of specialised knowledge with depth in some areas
- analyse, diagnose, design and execute judgements across a broad range of technical or management functions
- generate ideas through the analysis of information and concepts at an abstract level
- demonstrate a command of wide-ranging, highly specialised technical, creative or conceptual skills
- demonstrate accountability for personal outputs within broad parameters
- demonstrate accountability for personal and group outcomes within broad parameters.

Vocational Graduate Certificate

Characteristics of competencies or learning outcomes

- The self-directed development and achievement of broad and specialised areas of knowledge and skills, building on prior knowledge and skills.

- Substantial breadth and complexity involving the initiation, analysis, design, planning, execution and evaluation of technical and management functions in highly varied and highly specialised contexts.
- Applications involve making significant, high-level, independent judgements in major broad or planning, design, operational, technical and management functions in highly varied and specialised contexts. They may include responsibility and broad-ranging accountability for the structure, management and output of the work or functions of others.
- The degree of emphasis on breadth, as opposed to depth, of knowledge and skills may vary between qualifications granted at this level.

Distinguishing features of learning outcomes

Vocational Graduate Diploma

Characteristics of competencies or learning outcomes

- The self-directed development and achievement of broad and specialised areas of knowledge and skills, building on prior knowledge and skills.
- Substantial breadth, depth and complexity involving the initiation, analysis, design, planning, execution and evaluation of major functions, both broad and highly specialised, in highly varied and highly specialised contexts.
- Further specialisation within a systematic and coherent body of knowledge.
- Applications involve making high-level, fully independent, complex judgements in broad planning, design, operational, technical and management functions in highly varied and highly specialised contexts. They may include full responsibility and accountability for all aspects of work and functions of others, including planning, budgeting and strategy development.
- The degree of emphasis on breadth, as opposed to depth, of knowledge and skills may vary between qualifications granted at this level.

Distinguishing features of learning outcomes

- Demonstrate the self-directed development and achievement of broad and highly specialised areas of knowledge and skills, building on prior knowledge and skills.
- Initiate, analyse, design, plan, execute and evaluate major functions, both broad and within highly varied and highly specialised contexts.
- Generate and evaluate complex ideas through the analysis of information and concepts at an abstract level.
- Demonstrate an expert command of wide-ranging, highly specialised, technical, creative or conceptual skills in complex and highly specialised or varied contexts.
- Demonstrate full responsibility and accountability for personal outputs.
- Demonstrate full responsibility and accountability for all aspects of the work or functions of others, including planning, budgeting and strategy.

Qualifications and Packaging Rules

Qualification requirements

An RTO will award a qualification when the required number of units of competency, as determined by the packaging rules for the specific qualification, has been demonstrated. If a learner does not complete all of the units of competency required for a qualification he/she will receive a Statement of Attainment for the units completed.

Units of competency within each qualification have been categorised as either core or elective. The core units are essential to the qualification. Individuals must also choose the specified number of elective units required for each qualification.

Qualification Pathways

The following pathways charts are provided to show the types of pathways into and from qualifications that are possible with this Training Package. For more information about qualifications and pathways contact Service Skills Australia (www.serviceskills.com.au).

Tourism and Travel

The following summary chart provides examples of common qualification pathways within the sector, but it is recognised that typical career paths are not always linear. The tourism, travel and holiday parks and resorts qualifications are flexible to meet a range of job outcomes and to support a wide range of career paths. They allow for various entry options, including via relevant industry experience or through a training program or recognition process. They enable credit transfer between qualifications, including from related industry areas.

Skill Sets

Definition

Skill sets are defined as single units of competency, or combinations of units of competency from an endorsed Training Package, which link to a licence or regulatory requirement, or defined industry need.

Wording on Statements of Attainment

Skill sets are a way of publicly identifying logical groupings of units of competency which meet an identified need or industry outcome. Skill sets are not qualifications.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Where skill sets are identified in a Training Package, the Statement of Attainment can set out the competencies a person has achieved in a way that is consistent and clear for employers and others. This is done by including the wording 'these competencies meet [insert skill set title or identified industry area] need' on the Statement of Attainment. This wording applies only to skill sets that are formally identified as such in the endorsed Training Package. See the 2010 edition of the AQF Implementation Handbook for advice on wording on Statements of Attainment. http://www.aqf.edu.au/Portals/0/Documents/Handbook/AQF_Handbook_07.pdf

Skill Sets in this Training Package

This section provides information on Skill Sets within this Training Package, with the following important disclaimer: Readers should ensure that they have also read the part of the Training Package that outlines licensing and regulatory requirements.

Where this section is blank, nationally recognised Skill Sets have yet to be identified in this industry.

The Skill Sets have been developed by industry to meet skill needs for:

- a range of specialist job functions
- business management
- certification or licensing in the tourism, travel or hospitality industries
- customer service
- mentoring and supervision
- servicing the international market.

These Skill Sets consist of logical clusters of units which are commonly practised together. They are based on units from SIT12 Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package and some include units from other Training Packages.

Cross Sector Skill Sets:

- Business Management
- Customer Service
- Customer Service Management
- Essential Business Skills for a Franchisee
- Mentoring and Supervision
- Product Development for International Markets
- Product Sales for International Markets
- Service for International Visitors
- Sustainable Hospitality and Restaurant Operations
- Understanding Basic Financial Concepts

Tourism and Travel Skill Sets:

- Airfare Construction
- Grounds Keeping and Maintenance
- Licenced Travel Agency
- Visitor Information Services

Hospitality Skill Sets:

- Beverage Advice
- Espresso Machine Operation
- Essential Business Skills for a Restaurant Manager
- Food Advice
- Food Handling
- Food Safety Supervision
- Hospitality Compliance
- Housekeeping
- Responsible Service of Alcohol
- Sommelier
- Supervision of Apprentices

Events Skill Sets:

- Event Coordination
- Event Development

Assessment Guidelines

Introduction

These Assessment Guidelines provide the endorsed framework for assessment of units of competency in this Training Package. They are designed to ensure that assessment is consistent with the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration. Assessments against the units of competency in this Training Package must be carried out in accordance with these Assessment Guidelines.

Assessment System Overview

This section provides an overview of the requirements for assessment when using this Training Package, including a summary of the AQTF requirements; licensing and registration requirements; and assessment pathways.

Quality assessment underpins the credibility of the vocational education and training sector. The Assessment Guidelines of a Training Package are an important tool in supporting quality assessment.

Assessment within the National Skills Framework is the process of collecting evidence and making judgements about whether competency has been achieved to confirm whether an individual can perform to the standards expected in the workplace, as expressed in the relevant endorsed unit of competency.

Assessment must be carried out in accordance with the:

- benchmarks for assessment
- specific industry requirements
- principles of assessment
- rules of evidence
- assessment requirements set out in the AQTF

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Benchmarks for Assessment

The endorsed units of competency in this Training Package are the benchmarks for assessment. As such, they provide the basis for nationally recognised Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by Registered Training Organisations (RTOs).

Industry Requirements

Assessment in the Tourism, Travel and Hospitality industries

To ensure valid and reliable assessment for units of competency within this Training Package, a range of requirements must be met. The following table is a summary of these requirements. Further detail for individual units of competency is available within the evidence guide of each unit.

Context of and specific resources for assessment	The tourism, travel and hospitality industries have determined the assessment requirements for: • environments – where the unit must be assessed • equipment – what large and small equipment must be used • workplace documentation – what types of workplace resources and documents must be available • interaction with customers, team members and other people – who must be involved. Contextualised requirements are often prescribed in the 'Context of and specific resources' section for each unit of competency. It is not, however, always possible to provide extensive lists of large and small equipment at unit level. Many units will include this or a similar statement: • an operational industry environment with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines. The tables in this section of the Assessment Guidelines provide details of the mandated resource requirements for this training package. Industry acknowledges that not all businesses will have the complete range of specified resources. In this case RTOs should partner with industry businesses to provide access.
Simulated assessment environments and activities	Industry highly values graduates who are ready to work in their businesses because they have been exposed to industry conditions.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

	The tourism, travel and hospitality industries strongly encourage practical assessment of skills and knowledge in the workplace and on-the-job mentoring and coaching. However, assessment in the workplace is not always possible. It may also be the case that the assessment can be conducted in the workplace environment but cannot happen on-the-job (as part of the normal operation of the business) so that a simulated activity is undertaken, e.g. providing quotations for tourism products that are not currently on order. Wherever a simulated assessment is conducted it is vital that the assessment environment is as industry realistic as possible. It is essential that assessment is conducted using suitable resources and equipment and under industry-relevant conditions as close to a real work situation as possible. This involves: • appropriate environments as prescribed in the 'Context of and specific resources for assessment' section within each unit of competency • adequate numbers of up-to-date equipment and technology that is currently used within industry and would be generally available in a modern tourism, hospitality or events business • workplace documents which are currently used in industry and would generally be available in a modern tourism, hospitality or events business including items such as policies, procedures, product manuals, plans, reports and regulatory information • a diverse, comprehensive and commercially realistic product range of food and beverage ingredients, and touring and event supplies • sufficient customer traffic that accurately reflects the complexity of the role and allows candidates to deal with multiple tourism, hospitality or events sales, service or operational tasks simultaneously • working with multiple and varied team members, supervisors, managers and customers, including difficult ones • speed, timing and productivity for tasks typical of a commercial operation • dealing with multiple and varied problems and prioritising competing tasks in given timeframes • interruptions to work typical of the workplace • integration of multiple competencies which a candidate would naturally complete simultaneously as part of their job function.

Integrated (holistic) assessment	Within each qualification there are units of competency describing individual skills which do not exist in isolation. In the workplace, people always combine the skills described in different units to do their jobs. Holistic assessment brings together a number of units of competency, relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, that reflect actual workplace practices. The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to collect evidence for a number of units together. Industry sees this realistic approach as essential for both delivery and assessment. All units, in the 'Guidance information for assessment' section, recommend a range of related units which can be grouped together for a logical integrated assessment. However, any units that relate to a job function can be combined to ensure an efficient and effective assessment process. The combination must be identified by the assessor to support the needs of industry businesses and job functions. Additionally, elements, performance criteria and employability skills should be drawn together in an integrated manner.
Prerequisite requirements at unit of competency level	A prerequisite requirement, for a unit of competency, means that it is necessary to develop a primary skill and the required knowledge before progressing to another. Prerequisites are not nominated to assist in a logical sequence of training but only exist where it is absolutely necessary for a person to have a skill and hold a certain body of knowledge before they can perform other workplace tasks. Prerequisites have been kept to a minimum in this package because: • there are only a few tourism, travel and hospitality skills that must be achieved before higher order skills can be developed • the tourism, travel and hospitality industries do not wish to create unnecessary barriers to the sequencing of training and assessment. The existence of a prerequisite does not necessarily mean that training or assessment has to be fully completed before starting on the secondary unit. An integrated approach to delivery and assessment of the prerequisite and secondary unit is possible. However, to satisfy formal requirements the prerequisite unit must be signed off prior to the secondary unit. It may also be the case that some state and territory regulators will not allow enrolment in the secondary unit prior to completion of its prerequisite.

Evidence required for demonstration of consistent performance	For valid and reliable assessment, evidence should be gathered: • using a range of methods • on multiple occasions • over a period of time • covering a diversity of products and circumstances. This ensures that evidence is collected of a candidate's consistent performance and ability to respond to different situations and product requirements. When using direct observation in the workplace as a method, managers, supervisors, mentors or coaches can work in partnership with any off-site assessor.
Numbers of assessments	Nominating specific numbers of assessments can create barriers if too many are mandated. Alternatively, a specified number may not be enough for a particular candidate to demonstrate competency. Industry's preference is to indicate, more broadly, that multiple assessments are essential to collect evidence of consistency of performance. In other words, a single assessment would not be reliable. This allows for assessors' professional judgment on how many assessments are appropriate. The terminology, of multiple assessments, within the 'Critical Aspects' unit statement, is supported by references to using a range of methods, conducting assessments over a period of time and covering a diversity of products and circumstances. When these requirements are met, multiple assessments will be a natural outcome.
Involvement of the candidate	The individual being assessed needs to be part of the planning, conduct and review of the assessment process and needs to be aware that the collection of evidence is ongoing.

Assessment methods	All units identify assessment methods appropriate to the individual unit of competency. This may include observation of workplace tasks, review of written or oral questions to assess knowledge, review of completed workplace documents and the use of projects and role-plays.
Holistic units for Hospitality	Some units in the Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package describe the integration of individual technical skills that make up a job role. These "holistic units" require demonstration of integrated skills on multiple occasions during service periods (shifts). Breakfast, lunch, dinner and special function are examples of service periods. They are designed to assess the candidate's ability to: • perform consistently over a period of time • deal with multiple sales, service or operational tasks simultaneously. Skills would best be achieved and assessed in a real work environment through an Australian Apprenticeship pathway, or a significant period of work placement in industry. However, they can be achieved and assessed in a hospitality industry environment operated within a training organisation that services customers such as a training kitchen, restaurant or bar. An integrated approach to assessing these units with other technical units required for a qualification is possible and expected. For commercial cookery, Asian cookery, patisserie and catering operations these units are: • SITHCCC207 Use cookery skills effectively • SITHCCC309 Work effectively as a cook. For all other areas of the hospitality industry including food and beverage, accommodation services, gaming operations and housekeeping there are two units: • SITHIND202 Use hospitality skills effectively • SITHIND301 Work effectively in hospitality service.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Work placement for Tourism and Events	Mandated work placement and the use of holistic units for the tourism, travel and events sectors is not a preferred option for those industry sectors. Because of the lack of tourism and events apprenticeships and long term work placements, both registered training organisations and candidates would be disadvantaged by their inability to achieve such a mandated requirement. The tourism and events sectors are supportive of on-the-job training and assessment and work is underway to support employers to offer and administer work placements. This will encourage the integration of a range of individual technical skills within an industry environment and ultimately lead to a better trained workforce.

Employability skills in the industry context

Employability skills are integral to effective performance in the workplace. They are explicitly embedded in each unit and should be assessed holistically with other skills and knowledge that make up the unit.

The complexity of these skills, for example communication, varies between job roles and work processes. The breadth and depth of the full set of employability skills are summarised for each qualification and should be assessed accordingly.

Assessment environment, equipment and resources

Context of and specific resources for assessment

The tourism, travel and hospitality industries have determined the assessment requirements for:

- environments – where the unit must be assessed
- equipment – what large and small equipment must be used
- workplace documentation – what types of workplace resources and documents must be available
- interaction with customers, team members and other people – who must be involved.

Contextualised requirements are often prescribed in the ‘Context of and specific resources’ section for each unit of competency. It is not, however, always possible to provide extensive lists of large and small equipment at unit level. Many units will include this or a similar statement:

an operational industry environment with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

The tables in this section of the Assessment Guidelines provide details of the mandated resource requirements for this training package. Industry acknowledges that not all businesses will have the complete range of specified resources. In this case RTOs should partner with industry businesses to provide access.

Environments and Equipment

The following environments are referred to in the 'Context of and specific resources' section of particular units:

- accommodation
- front office
- events
- office environment (for tourism, travel and events)
- operational commercial bar
- operational commercial cellar
- operational commercial kitchen; mainstream and Asian
- operational food preparation area
- operational pastry kitchen
- operational restaurant or food and beverage outlet
- touring environment.

The tables are divided into those environments and describe generic equipment required for all units within a competency field e.g. for an operational pastry kitchen for units coded PAT. This is divided into:

- fixtures and large equipment
- small and electronic equipment
- stock
- cleaning equipment and materials
- workplace documentation.

The tables then describe specialist equipment required for particular units of competency e.g. specific equipment for producing chocolate confectionery.

It is assumed that the same piece of equipment will be accessed by multiple candidates at different assessment times. Per-person equipment ratios are specified for assessment purposes.

Workplace Documentation

To avoid duplication of generic workplace documents such as policies and procedures, a general list is provided at the end of the environmental tables.

Customers

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

People working in the tourism, travel and hospitality industries have daily contact with customers which can be face-to-face, via the telephone or electronic communication. All people working in the service industries must be able to interact with business to business or direct customers. The industry sets high standards for quality customer service and this is reflected throughout the units of competency.

Units describe situations, like these examples below, where service industry personnel are required to:

- provide professional and personalised customer service experiences to meet and exceed the expectations of a variety of customers
- communicate with a diverse range of customers to provide a total quality service experience
- resolve difficult customer service situations and complaints
- demonstrate professional service industry behaviour and accepted service standards
- complete service within commercial time constraints and designated response times so that all customers are served effectively.

It is vital, and therefore a requirement of many units, that people in a training and assessment environment have access to customers with whom they can interact.

Customers in Real Industry Workplaces

Wherever assessments are conducted in the workplace, customers must participate in the selling and or delivery of the product or service. They would, by nature, be paying for the product or service provided by a commercial business.

Customers in Simulated Industry Environments

Most units allow for simulated situations including the involvement of customers.

For this training package a customer being served in a simulated industry environment such as a training bar or restaurant is defined as follows:

A customer is a person or organisation who utilises a product or service and expects the product and service to be of equivalent standard to that provided in a commercial business. They may be paying for the product or service or be invited to participate as a guest.

Customers must participate in the sale and or delivery of the product or service. There must be sufficient customer traffic that accurately reflects the complexity of the role and allows candidates to deal with multiple tourism, hospitality or events sales, service or operational tasks simultaneously.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Assessors are required to use professional judgement based on their industry experience to make determinations on how best to involve customers.

Some examples of how customers can be involved:

- In a training restaurant, a customer can be a person who either pays for, or is invited to consume, a meal prepared, cooked and served by trainees.
- Event participant customers can be invitees to student, college or external events coordinated and staged by the trainees.
- Passengers can be paying or invited guests on a day or extended tour coordinated, delivered and guided by trainees with other students (not necessarily from the tourism faculty) as their customers.
- Practice retail travel agencies can be set up with trainee travel consultants providing information on destinations to other students, even if money is not transacted for an actual sale.
- Colleges can divide students into wholesale and retail groups with retailers acting as business to business customers.

Events units coded EVT.	Key Assessment Requirement - Actual Events The units require the assessor to collect evidence of a candidate's ability to plan for and operate actual events. The meaning of Events for this Training Package Events may be created for the specific purpose of skills assessment, but must be of sufficient complexity to allow the candidate to demonstrate a fully-developed range of skills. This means events involving: • comprehensive event plans • dedicated event budgets • formal communications plans • multiple operational components • an event operations team • a wide range of stakeholders. Events must have commercial, community or business relevance. Small personal events are not appropriate as a means of assessing a candidate's skills.
	Event Staging Environment The assessment environment is prescribed in the 'Context of and specific resources' section for each unit of competency. For the majority of units, assessment must ensure use of venues and sites where events are operated; these can be: • real event venues and sites • event venues and sites operated within a training organisation such as auditoria, exhibition areas, conference rooms, restaurants and sporting facilities and where real events are staged by the training organisation.
	Office Environment The planning and sale of events largely takes place in an office environment which must be replicated for training and assessment purposes. The equipment requirements for an office environment are found under a separate heading in this document.
	Equipment • calculators, computers, printers and general word processing, presentation, spreadsheet and accounting software programs currently used by the events industry to administer event management • specific computerised systems and software programs currently used by the events industry to: • plan events and issue event orders • prepare budgets, quotations and proposal costings • process event registrations and coordinate on-site registrations • book supplier services • develop event and exhibition layouts and floor plans • develop operational documents for the staging of events. • event staging elements including: • catering • client displays and livery • exhibitor or sponsor stands • furniture for different room layouts • on-site registration area and desk • technical equipment and services: • audio-visual • sound and lighting • venue styling • two-way radio communications system.

	Workplace Documentation Event coordinators and managers use documents and information in the workplace and RTOs must, therefore, have these available when preparing students for a job role in events. These documents can apply to many different events units. Contextualised requirements are prescribed in the 'Context of and specific resources' section for each unit of competency. • tender briefs and specifications for events • financial and operational data used to prepare tenders for event products and services • event tenders, proposals or bids • event budgets • event orders • supplier contracts • comprehensive event plans: • overarching concept plans • communication plans • marketing plans • operations plans used to manage the delivery of events • risk management plans • event programs, schedules, inclusions and costs

Office environment. For units coded EVT, PPD and TSL.	In the majority of cases, the planning and sale of travel and touring arrangements takes place in an office environment which must be replicated for training and assessment purposes. The office environment is equally applicable to event coordination. Some selling units allow for in-the-field selling by people including mobile retailers, tour guides and event personnel operating at an event venue. Travel and tourism office environments are diverse and include: • retail shopfronts • reservation call centres • operational offices with multiple workstations • reception, front office and back office areas • board and meeting rooms. Fixtures, Large and Electronic Equipment: • access to the internet and email • brochure display racks and product displays • computers, monitors, keyboards, mouse and mouse pads • desk and chair

Assessment of imported units of competency

SIT12 Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package includes a number of units of competency imported from other endorsed Training Packages. These units must be assessed according to the relevant requirements of the parent training package. For guidance on assessment of imported units of competency, check the Assessment Guidelines of the originating Training Package by referring to a hard copy, or accessing Training.gov at www.training.gov.au

Principles of Assessment

All assessments carried out by RTOs are required to demonstrate compliance with the principles of assessment:

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- validity
- reliability
- flexibility
- fairness
- sufficiency

These principles must be addressed in the:

- design, establishment and management of the assessment system for this Training Package
- development of assessment tools, and
- the conduct of assessment.

Validity

Assessment is valid when the process is sound and assesses what it claims to assess. Validity requires that:

(a) assessment against the units of competency must cover the broad range of skills and knowledge that are essential to competent performance

(b) assessment of knowledge and skills must be integrated with their practical application

(c) judgement of competence must be based on sufficient evidence (that is, evidence gathered on a number of occasions and in a range of contexts using different assessment methods). The specific evidence requirements of each unit of competency provide advice on sufficiency

Reliability

Reliability refers to the degree to which evidence presented for assessment is consistently interpreted and results in consistent assessment outcomes. Reliability requires the assessor to have the required competencies in assessment and relevant vocational competencies (or to assess in conjunction with someone who has the vocational competencies). It can only be achieved when assessors share a common interpretation of the assessment requirements of the unit(s) being assessed.

Flexibility

To be flexible, assessment should reflect the candidate's needs; provide for recognition of competencies no matter how, where or when they have been acquired; draw on a range of methods appropriate to the context, competency and the candidate; and support continuous competency development.

Fairness

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Fairness in assessment requires consideration of the individual candidate's needs and characteristics, and any reasonable adjustments that need to be applied to take account of them. It requires clear communication between the assessor and the candidate to ensure that the candidate is fully informed about, understands and is able to participate in, the assessment process, and agrees that the process is appropriate. It also includes an opportunity for the person being assessed to challenge the result of the assessment and to be reassessed if necessary.

Sufficiency

Sufficiency relates to the quality and quantity of evidence assessed. It requires collection of enough appropriate evidence to ensure that all aspects of competency have been satisfied and that competency can be demonstrated repeatedly. Supplementary sources of evidence may be necessary. The specific evidence requirements of each unit of competency provide advice on sufficiency. Sufficiency is also one of the rules of evidence.

Rules of Evidence

The rules of evidence guide the collection of evidence that address the principles of validity and reliability, guiding the collection of evidence to ensure that it is valid, sufficient, current and authentic.

Valid

Valid evidence must relate directly to the requirements of the unit of competency. In ensuring evidence is valid, assessors must ensure that the evidence collected supports demonstration of the outcomes and performance requirements of the unit of competency together with the knowledge and skills necessary for competent performance. Valid evidence must encapsulate the breadth and depth of the unit of competency, which will necessitate using a number of different assessment methods.

Sufficient

Sufficiency relates to the quality and quantity of evidence assessed. It requires collection of enough appropriate evidence to ensure that all aspects of competency have been satisfied and that competency can be demonstrated repeatedly. Supplementary sources of evidence may be necessary. The specific evidence requirements of each unit of competency provide advice on sufficiency.

Current

In assessment, currency relates to the age of the evidence presented by a candidate to demonstrate that they are still competent. Competency requires demonstration of current performance, so the evidence collected must be from either the present or the very recent past.

Authentic

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

To accept evidence as authentic, an assessor must be assured that the evidence presented for assessment is the candidate's own work.

Assessment Requirements of the Australian Quality Training Framework

Assessment leading to nationally recognised AQF qualifications and Statements of Attainment in the vocational education and training sector must meet the requirements of the AQTF as expressed in the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Registration.

The AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration can be downloaded from <www.training.com.au>.

The following points summarise the assessment requirements.

Registration of Training Organisations

Assessment must be conducted by, or on behalf of, an RTO formally registered by a State or Territory Registering Body in accordance with the AQTF. The RTO must have the specific units of competency and/or AQF qualifications on its scope of registration.

Quality Training and Assessment

Each RTO must provide quality training and assessment across all its operations. See the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration, Standard 1.

Assessor Competency Requirements

Each person involved in training and assessment must be competent for the functions they perform. See the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration, Standard 1 for assessor (and trainer) competency requirements. See also the AQTF 2010 Users' Guide to the Essential Standards for Registration – Appendix 2.

Assessment Requirements

The RTOs assessments, including RPL, must meet the requirements of the relevant endorsed Training Package. See the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration.

Assessment Strategies

Each RTO must have strategies for training and assessment that meet the requirements of the relevant Training Package or accredited course and are developed in consultation with industry stakeholders. See the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration.

National Recognition

Each RTO must recognise the AQF qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by any other RTO. See the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration..

Access and Equity and Client Outcomes

Each RTO must adhere to the principles of access and equity and maximise outcomes for its clients. See the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Monitoring Assessments

Training and/or assessment provided on behalf of the RTO must be monitored to ensure that it is in accordance with all aspects of the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration.

Recording Assessment Outcomes

Each RTO must manage records to ensure their accuracy and integrity. See the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration.

Issuing AQF qualifications and Statement of Attainment

Each RTO must issue AQF qualifications and Statements of Attainment that meet the requirements of the current AQF Implementation Handbook and the endorsed Training Packages within the scope of its registration. An AQF qualification is issued once the full requirements for a qualification, as specified in the nationally endorsed Training Package are met. A Statement of Attainment is issued when an individual has completed one or more units of competency from nationally recognised qualification(s)/courses(s). See the AQTF and the edition of the AQF Implementation Handbook—available on the AQF Council website <www.aqf.edu.au >

Licensing/Registration Requirements

This section provides information on licensing/registration requirements for this Training Package, with the following important disclaimer.

Licensing and registration requirements that apply to specific industries, and vocational education and training, vary between each State and Territory, and can regularly change. The developers of this Training Package consider that the licensing/registration requirements described in this section apply to RTOs, assessors or candidates with respect to this Training Package. While reasonable care has been taken in its preparation, the developers of this Training Package and the Department cannot guarantee that the list is definitive or accurate at the time of reading; the information in this section is provided in good faith on that basis.

Contact the relevant State or Territory Department(s) to check if the licensing/registration requirements described below still apply, and to check if there are any others with which you must comply. For further information contact www.serviceskills.com.au.

Requirements for Assessors

In order to conduct assessment for statutory licensing or other industry registration requirements, assessors must meet the requirements outlined in the following chart, in addition to the AQTF requirements.

LICENCE/ REGISTRATION	JURISDICTION	REQUIREMENTS
Food Safety	State and territory food safety authorities	Some state and territory food safety authorities have specific requirements for assessors. Those delivering assessment services for the units: • SITXFSA101 Use hygienic practices for food safety

		• SITXFSA201 Participate in safe food handling practices must consult with the relevant state or territory food safety authority to determine accreditation arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors.
Responsible Service of Alcohol	State and territory liquor licensing authorities	Some state and territory liquor licensing authorities have specific requirements for assessors. Those delivering assessment services for the unit SITHFAB201 Provide responsible service of alcohol must consult with the relevant state or territory liquor licensing authority to determine accreditation arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors.
Administration of the Billing and Settlement Plan (BSP).	International Air Transport Association (IATA)	Assessment in the unit SITTTSL313 Administer billing and settlement plan must ensure the use of an assessor currently accredited by IATA for BSP. A partnership arrangement is appropriate. Those delivering assessment services for this unit must consult with IATA to determine accreditation arrangements for trainers and assessors.
Certification to Guide within Kakadu and Uluru National Parks, NT.		Tour guides, residing anywhere in Australia, are required to undertake training and assessment prescribed by Parks Australia to guide within Kakadu and Uluru National Parks in the Northern Territory. This training is based on the following units: • SITTGDE101 Interpret aspects of local Australian Indigenous culture • SITTGDE306 Research and share general information on Australian Indigenous cultures. Those delivering assessment services for this certification must consult with Parks Australia to determine accreditation arrangements for trainers and assessors.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

The AQTF 2010 specifies mandatory competency requirements for assessors. For information, Element 1.4 from the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Registration – (2010) follows:

1.4 Training and assessment are conducted by trainers and assessors who:

a) have the necessary training and assessment competencies as determined by the National Quality Council or its successors, and

b) have the relevant vocational competencies at least to the level being delivered or assessed, and

c) can demonstrate current industry skills directly relevant to the training/assessment being undertaken, and

d) continue to develop their Vocational Education and Training (VET) knowledge and skills as well as their industry currency and trainer/assessor competence.

Vocational competency requirements for tourism, travel and hospitality industry assessors

As described above, to satisfy the requirements of the AQTF, assessors must have mandatory units of competency in assessment plus the relevant vocational competencies they are assessing.

For the tourism, travel and hospitality industries assessors, or at least one person in the assessment team, must satisfy two vocational competency requirements for AQTF compliance:

a) Have employment experience in the specific units of competency they are assessing. This industry experience must be relevant to the job role/s for which performance is being assessed. Supervisory and or managerial experience and a qualification in the industry field would be of benefit.
b) Have comprehensive current knowledge of the industry, current industry practices and the job role for which performance is being assessed. This current knowledge may be developed and demonstrated through:
    a. recent and relevant work experience in a commercial environment
    b. participation in relevant industry professional development activities
    c. conduct of relevant industry projects and research activities
    d. involvement in professional industry networks and memberships
    e. participation in assessment and or training activities conducted in the workplace.

Currency of vocational competence is crucial to the success of assessment outcomes for the tourism, travel and hospitality industries so that assessments reflect up to date workplace practice. It ensures that those involved in assessment processes have current industry knowledge, expertise in current operational practice and knowledge of what workplace equipment, software packages and workplace documents are currently used.

Certificates III and IV in Commercial Cookery

Assessors for the Certificate III or IV qualification in Commercial Cookery must hold a commercial cookery qualification and have post-qualification work experience in a commercial kitchen.

Alternative ways of meeting the requirement to use qualified assessors

OPTIONS	Assessors, technical experts and workplace supervisors (includes mandated requirements and recommended attributes)
Single assessor An individual assessor conducts the assessment	An assessor is required to: • hold formal recognition of the assessment competencies, as determined by the National Skills Standards Council or its successors, for AQTF compliance • have employment experience in the specific units of competency they are assessing and, where possible, hold formal recognition • have industry experience relevant to the job role/s for which performance is being assessed • for the Certificate III or IV qualification in Commercial Cookery, hold a commercial cookery qualification and have post-qualification work experience in a commercial kitchen • have comprehensive current knowledge of the industry, current industry practices and the job role against which performance is being assessed.
• Partnership arrangement An assessor works with a technical expert to conduct the assessment	An assessor is required to: • hold formal recognition of the assessment competencies, as determined by the National Skills Standards Council or its successors, for AQTF compliance • communicate and liaise with the technical expert throughout the assessment process. A technical expert must be a person who has who has the relevant vocational competencies and is required to: • have employment experience in the specific units of competency they are assessing and, where possible, hold formal recognition have industry experience relevant to the job role/s for which performance is being assessed • for the Certificate III or IV qualification in Commercial Cookery, hold a commercial cookery qualification and have post-qualification work experience in a commercial kitchen • have comprehensive current knowledge of the industry, current industry practices and the job role against which performance is being assessed.

	• communicate and liaise with the assessor throughout the assessment process.
• Assessment team/panel A team working together to conduct the assessment	• Members of an assessment team or panel that combines expertise in assessment and vocational competence, work together to collect evidence and make judgements about competency. The members of the team are required to collectively: • hold formal recognition of the assessment competencies, as determined by the National Skills Standards Council or its successors, for AQTF compliance • have employment experience in the specific units of competency they are assessing and, where possible, hold formal recognition • have industry experience relevant to the job role/s for which performance is being assessed • for the Certificate III or IV qualification in Commercial Cookery, hold a commercial cookery qualification and have post-qualification work experience in a commercial kitchen • have comprehensive current knowledge of the industry, current industry practices and the job role against which performance is being assessed • communicate and liaise with all members of the assessment team throughout the assessment process.

Assessment requirements

Assessments must meet the criteria set out in the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Registration.

For information, the mandatory assessment requirements from Standard 1 from the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Registration are as follows:

"1.5 Assessment, including Recognition of Prior Learning:

a) meets the requirements of the relevant Training Package or accredited course

b) is conducted in accordance with the principles of assessment and the rules of evidence

c) meets workplace and, where relevant, regulatory requirements

d) is systematically validated."

Requirements for Candidates

Individuals being assessed under statutory licensing and industry registration and certification systems must comply with training and experience requirements additional to the requirements identified in this Training Package. These additional requirements may apply to the following areas:

Casino table games

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

The following suite of nine units applies to dealers working within licensed casinos which are regulated by state and territory gaming authorities:

- SITHGAM302 Operate table games
- SITHGAM303 Deal Baccarat games
- SITHGAM304 Conduct Big Wheel games
- SITHGAM305 Deal Blackjack games
- SITHGAM306 Deal Poker games
- SITHGAM307 Deal Pontoon games
- SITHGAM308 Conduct Rapid Roulette games
- SITHGAM309 Conduct Roulette games
- SITHGAM310 Conduct Sic Bo games.

Under some state and territory laws these are required occupational licensing units for those personnel conducting table games in licensed casinos. Candidates should seek advice from their local gaming authority and their casino employer on their requirement to complete one or more of these units.

Commercial cookery

Certificate III in Hospitality (Commercial Cookery) is recognised as the appropriate certificate for trade recognition. Some states and territories impose a mandatory period of industry experience before awarding trade recognition. Candidates should seek advice from their local department of education and training.

Food safety

In some states and territories there is a requirement for certain personnel involved in food handling to complete training and assessment in the following units:

- SITXFSA101 Use hygienic practices for food safety (previously SITXOHS002A Follow workplace hygiene procedures)
- SITXFSA201 Participate in safe food handling practices (previously SITXFSA001A Implement food safety procedures).

Candidates should seek advice from their local food safety authority on their requirement to complete these units.

Guiding

Tour guides, residing anywhere in Australia, are required to undertake training and assessment prescribed by Parks Australia to guide within Kakadu and Uluru National Parks in the Northern Territory. This training is based on the following units:

- SITTGDE101 Interpret aspects of local Australian Indigenous culture
- SITTGDE306 Research and share general information on Australian Indigenous cultures.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Candidates should seek advice from Parks Australia on this requirement and the availability of training.

Responsible service of alcohol

The unit SITHFAB201 Provide responsible service of alcohol incorporates the knowledge requirements, under state and territory liquor licensing law, for employees engaged in the sale or service of alcohol. Certification requirements differ across states and territories. In most cases all people involved in the sale, service and promotional service of alcohol in licensed premises must be certified in this unit. This can include the licensee and security staff.

Candidates should seek advice from their local liquor licensing authority on their requirement to complete this unit.

Sale of Travel Insurance

Tourism personnel selling travel insurance to a retail client must meet the requirements of the Financial Services Reform Act (2001). They must complete a course delivered by the insurance provider in order to interpret provisions of the insurance policy and provide purchase advice. Candidates should seek advice from providers of travel insurance policies.

Travel agent licensing

Some travel and tourism businesses, including travel agencies, tour wholesalers and tour operators, must hold a travel agent's licence. They must meet the requirements of the relevant state or territory Department or Office of Fair Trading. Training and industry experience requirements vary but are most often linked to the achievement of the following unit by the manager of the business:

- SITTTSL310 Construct normal international airfares (previously THTSOP20B Construct normal international airfares).

Candidates should seek advice from their local business licensing authority on their requirement to complete this unit.

Requirements for RTOs

Selected units of competency and qualifications in this Training Package provide the basis for a range of statutory licensing and industry registration arrangements. To satisfy these licensing and registration arrangements, RTOs must meet the additional requirements detailed in the following table.

LICENCE/ REGISTRATION	JURISDICTION	REQUIREMENTS

Food Safety	State and territory food safety authorities	Some state and territory food safety authorities have specific requirements for training organisations. Those developing training and assessment strategies for the units: • SITXFSA101 Use hygienic practices for food safety • SITXFSA201 Participate in safe food handling practices must consult with the relevant state or territory food safety authority to determine accreditation arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors.
Responsible Service of Alcohol	State and territory liquor licensing authorities	Some state and territory liquor licensing authorities have specific requirements for training organisations. Those developing training and assessment strategies for the unit SITHFAB201 Provide responsible service of alcohol must consult with the relevant state or territory liquor licensing authority to determine accreditation arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors.
Casino Table Games	State and territory gaming authorities	State and territory gaming authorities restrict the training and assessment of casino table game units to licensed casinos and partnership RTOs. Those developing training and assessment strategies for these units must consult with the relevant state or territory gaming authority to determine accreditation arrangements for their organisation, courses, trainers and assessors.
Administration of the Billing and Settlement Plan (BSP)	International Air Transport Association (IATA)	Assessment in the unit SITTTSL313 Administer billing and settlement plan must ensure the use of an assessor currently accredited by IATA for BSP. A partnership arrangement is appropriate. Those developing training and assessment strategies for this unit must consult with IATA to determine accreditation arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors.
Certification to Guide within Kakadu and Uluru National Parks, NT.		Tour guides, residing anywhere in Australia, are required to undertake training and assessment prescribed by Parks Australia to guide within Kakadu and Uluru National Parks in the Northern Territory. This training is based on the following units: • SITTGDE101 Interpret aspects of local Australian Indigenous culture • SITTGDE306 Research and share general information on Australian Indigenous cultures. Those developing training and assessment strategies for this certification must consult with Parks Australia to determine accreditation arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors.

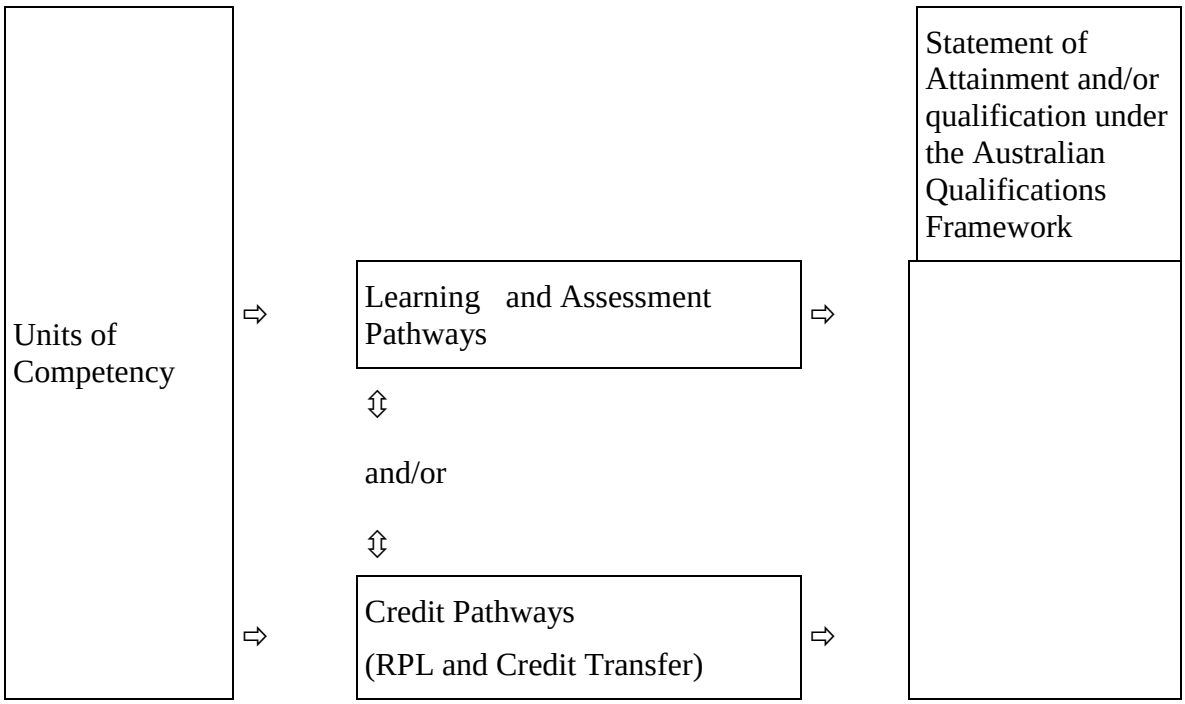
Pathways

The competencies in this Training Package may be attained in a number of ways including through:

- formal or informal education and training
- experiences in the workplace
- general life experience, and/or
- any combination of the above.

Assessment under this Training Package leading to an AQF qualification or Statement of Attainment may follow a learning and assessment pathway, or a recognition pathway, or a combination of the two as illustrated in the following diagram.



© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Each of these assessment pathways leads to full recognition of competencies held – the critical issue is that the candidate is competent, not how the competency was acquired.

Assessment, by any pathway, must comply with the assessment requirements set out in the Assessment Guidelines of the Training Package , the AQTF and, where relevant, the Australian Qualifications Framework.

Learning and Assessment Pathways

Usually, learning and assessment are integrated, with evidence being collected and feedback provided to the candidate at anytime throughout the learning and assessment process.

Learning and assessment pathways may include structured programs in a variety of contexts using a range of strategies to meet different learner needs. Structured learning and assessment programs could be: group-based, work-based, project-based, self-paced, action learning-based; conducted by distance or e-learning; and/or involve practice and experience in the workplace.

Learning and assessment pathways to suit Australian Apprenticeships have a mix of formal structured training and structured workplace experience with formative assessment activities through which candidates can acquire and demonstrate skills and knowledge from the relevant units of competency.

Credit Pathways

Credit is the value assigned for the recognition of equivalence in content between different types of learning and/or qualifications which reduces the volume of learning required to achieve a qualification.

Credit arrangements must be offered by all RTOs that offer Training Package qualifications. Each RTO must have a systematic institutional approach with clear, accessible and transparent policies and procedures.

Competencies already held by individuals can be formally assessed against the units of competency in this Training Package, and should be recognised regardless of how, when or where they were acquired, provided that the learning is relevant to the unit of competency outcomes.

Recognition of Prior Learning

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is an assessment process which determines the credit outcomes of an individual application for credit.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

The availability of Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) provides all potential learners with access to credit opportunities.

The recognition of prior learning pathway is appropriate for candidates who have previously attained skills and knowledge and who, when enrolling in qualifications, seek to shorten the duration of their training and either continue or commence working. This may include the following groups of people:

- existing workers;
- individuals with overseas qualifications;
- recent migrants with established work histories;
- people returning to the workplace; and
- people with disabilities or injuries requiring a change in career.

As with all assessment, RPL assessment should be undertaken by academic or teaching staff with expertise in the subject, content of skills area, as well as knowledge of and expertise in RPL assessment policies and procedures.

Assessment methods used for RPL should provide a range of ways for individuals to demonstrate that they have met the required outcomes and can be granted credit. These might include:

- questioning (oral or written)
- consideration of a portfolio and review of contents
- consideration of third party reports and/or other documentation such as documentation such as articles, reports, project material, papers, testimonials or other products prepared by the RPL applicant that relate to the learning outcomes of the relevant qualification component
- mapping of learning outcomes from prior formal or non-formal learning to the relevant qualification components
- observation of performance, and
- participation in structured assessment activities the individual would normally be required to undertake if they were enrolled in the qualification component/s.

In a Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) pathway, the candidate provides current, quality evidence of their competency against the relevant unit of competency. This process may be directed by the candidate and verified by the assessor. Where the outcomes of this process indicate that the candidate is competent, structured training is not required. The RPL requirements of the AQTF must be met.

As with all assessment, the assessor must be confident that the evidence indicates that the candidate is currently competent against the endorsed unit of competency. This evidence may take a variety of forms and might include certification, references from past employers, testimonials from clients, work samples and/or observation of the candidate. The onus is on candidates to provide sufficient evidence to satisfy assessors that they currently hold the relevant competencies. In judging evidence, the assessor must ensure that the evidence of prior learning is:

- authentic (the candidate’s own work);

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- valid (directly related to the current version of the relevant endorsed unit of competency);
- reliable (shows that the candidate consistently meets the endorsed unit of competency);
- current (reflects the candidate's current capacity to perform the aspect of the work covered by the endorsed unit of competency); and
- sufficient (covers the full range of elements in the relevant unit of competency and addresses the four dimensions of competency, namely task skills, task management skills, contingency management skills, and job/role environment skills).

Credit Transfer

Credit transfer is a process which provides learners with agreed and consistent credit outcomes based on equivalences in content between matched qualifications.

This process involves education institutions:

- mapping, comparing and evaluating the extent to which the defined learning outcomes and assessment requirements of the individual components of one qualification are equivalent to the learning outcomes and assessment requirements of the individual components of another qualification
- making an educational judgment of the credit outcomes to be assigned between the matched components of the two qualifications
- setting out the agreed credit outcomes in a documented arrangement or agreement, and
- publicising the arrangement/agreement and credit available.

Combination of Pathways

Credit may be awarded on the basis of a combination of credit transfer plus an individual RPL assessment for additional learning. Once credit has been awarded on the basis of RPL, subsequent credit transfer based on these learning outcomes should not include revisiting the RPL assessment but should be based on credit transfer or articulation or other arrangements between providers.

Where candidates for assessment have gained competencies through work and life experience and gaps in their competence are identified, or where they require training in new areas, a combination of pathways may be appropriate.

In such situations, the candidate may undertake an initial assessment to determine their current competency. Once current competency is identified, a structured learning and assessment program ensures that the candidate acquires the required additional competencies identified as gaps.

Assessor Requirements

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

This section identifies the specific requirements on the vocational competence and experience for assessors, to ensure that they meet the needs of industry and their obligations under AQTF, and clarifies how others may contribute to the assessment process where one person alone does not hold all the required competencies.

Assessor Competencies

The AQTF specifies mandatory competency requirements for assessors. For information, Element 1.4 from the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration follows:

1.4 Training and assessment are conducted by trainers and assessors who:

a) have the necessary training and assessment competencies as determined by the National Quality Council or its successors, and

b) have the relevant vocational competencies at least to the level being delivered or assessed, and

c) can demonstrate current industry skills directly relevant to the training/assessment being undertaken, and

d) continue to develop their Vocational Education and Training (VET) knowledge and skills as well as their industry currency and trainer/assessor competence.

* See AQTF 2010 Users' Guide to the Essential Standards for Registration – Appendix 2

Designing Assessment Tools

This section provides an overview on the use and development of assessment tools.

Use of Assessment Tools

Assessment tools provide a means of collecting the evidence that assessors use in making judgements about whether candidates have achieved competency.

There is no set format or process for the design, production or development of assessment tools. Assessors may use prepared assessment tools, such as those specifically developed to support this Training Package, or they may develop their own.

Using Prepared Assessment Tools

If using prepared assessment tools, assessors should ensure these relate to the current version of the relevant unit of competency. The current unit of competency can be checked on the National Register <www.ntis.gov.au>.

Developing Assessment Tools

When developing their own assessment tools, assessors must ensure that the tools:

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- are benchmarked against the relevant unit or units of competency;
- are reviewed as part of the validation of assessment strategies required under the AQTF; and
- meet the assessment requirements expressed in the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration.

A key reference for assessors developing assessment tools is TAE10 Training and Education Training Package.

Language, Literacy and Numeracy

The design of assessment tools must reflect the language, literacy and numeracy competencies required for the performance of a task in the workplace and not exceed these expectations.

Conducting Assessment

This section details the mandatory assessment requirements and provides information on equity in assessment including reasonable adjustment.

Mandatory Assessment Requirements

Assessments must meet the criteria set out in the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration. For information, the mandatory assessment requirements from Standard 1 from the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration are as follows:

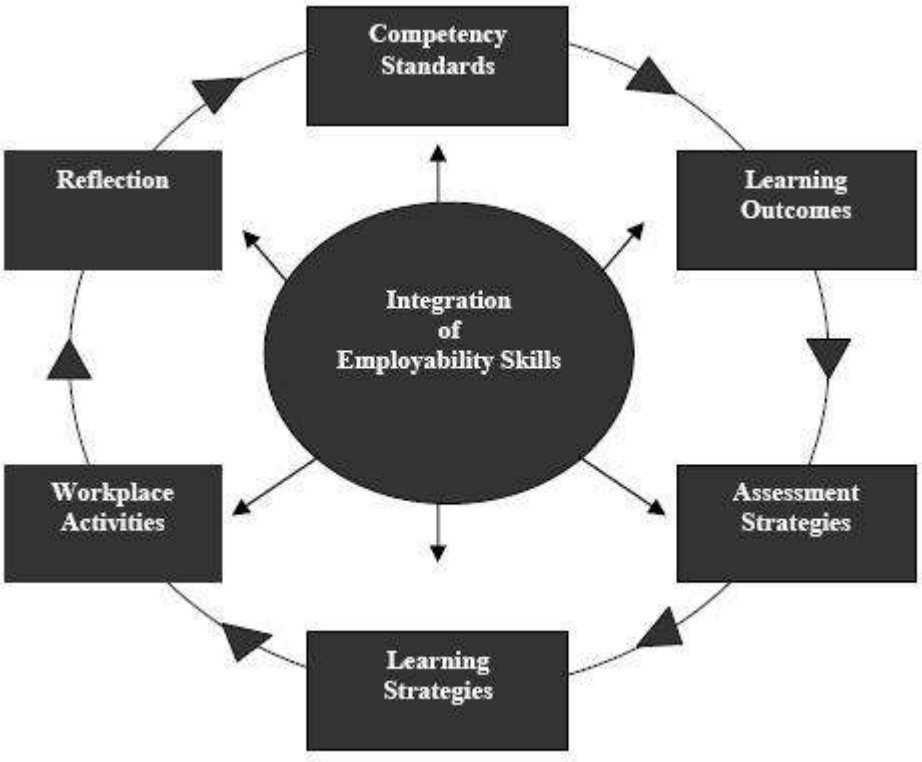
1.5 Assessment, including Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL):

a) meets the requirements of the relevant Training Package or accredited course
b) is conducted in accordance with the principles of assessment and the rules of evidence
c) meets workplace and, where relevant, regulatory requirements
d) is systematically validated.

Assessment of Employability Skills

Employability Skills are integral to workplace competency. As such, they must be considered in the design, customisation, delivery and assessment of vocational education and training programs in an integrated and holistic way, as represented diagrammatically below.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia



Employability Skills are embedded within each unit of competency, and an Employability Skills Summary is available for each qualification. Training providers must use Employability Skills information in order to design valid and reliable training and assessment strategies. This analysis could include:

- reviewing units of competency to locate relevant Employability Skills and determine how they are applied within the unit
- analysing the Employability Skills Summary for the qualification in which the unit or units are packaged to help clarify relevant industry and workplace contexts and the application of Employability Skills at that qualification outcome
- designing training and assessment to address Employability Skills requirements.

The National Quality Council has endorsed a model for assessing and reporting Employability Skills, which contains further suggestions about good practice strategies in teaching, assessing, learning and reporting Employability Skills. The model is available from <http://www.training.com.au/>.

The endorsed approach includes learners downloading qualification specific Employability Skills Summaries for Training Package qualifications from an online repository at <http://employabilityskills.training.com.au>

For more information on Employability Skills in

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

SIT12 Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Packages go to the Service Skills Australiawebsite at www.serviceskills.com.au.

Employability Skills are reported on each qualification using the following statement on the qualification testamur: "A summary of the Employability Skills developed through this qualification can be downloaded from http://employabilityskills.training.com.au "

Access and Equity

An individual's access to the assessment process should not be adversely affected by restrictions placed on the location or context of assessment beyond the requirements specified in this Training Package: training and assessment must be bias-free.

Under the rules for their development, Training Packages must reflect and cater for the increasing diversity of Australia's VET clients and Australia's current and future workforce. The flexibilities offered by Training Packages should enhance opportunities and potential outcomes for all people so that we can all benefit from a wider national skills base and a shared contribution to Australia's economic development and social and cultural life.

Reasonable Adjustments

It is important that education providers take meaningful, transparent and reasonable steps to consult, consider and implement reasonable adjustments for students with disability.

Under the Disability Standards for Education 2005, education providers must make reasonable adjustments for people with disability to the maximum extent that those adjustments do not cause that provider unjustifiable hardship. While 'reasonable adjustment' and 'unjustifiable hardship' are different concepts and involve different considerations, they both seek to strike a balance between the interests of education providers and the interests of students with and without disability.

An adjustment is any measure or action that a student requires because of their disability, and which has the effect of assisting the student to access and participate in education and training on the same basis as students without a disability. An adjustment is reasonable if it achieves this purpose while taking into account factors such as the nature of the student's disability, the views of the student, the potential effect of the adjustment on the student and others who might be affected, and the costs and benefits of making the adjustment.

An education provider is also entitled to maintain the academic integrity of a course or program and to consider the requirements or components that are inherent or essential to its nature when assessing whether an adjustment is reasonable. There may be more than one adjustment that is reasonable in a given set of circumstances; education providers are required to make adjustments that are reasonable and that do not cause them unjustifiable hardship.

The Training Package Guidelines provides more information on reasonable adjustment, including examples of adjustments. Go to http://www.deewr.gov.au/tpdh/Pages/home.aspx .

Assessment Resources

Registered training organisations (RTOs) are at the forefront of vocational education and training (VET) in Australia. They translate the needs of industry into relevant, quality, client-focussed training and assessment.

RTOs should strive for innovation in VET teaching and learning practices and develop highly flexible approaches to assessment which take cognisance of specific needs of learners, in order to improve delivery and outcomes of training.

Resources can be purchased or accessed from:

- TVET Australia – provides an integrated service to enable users of the national training system to identify and acquire training materials, identify copyright requirements and enter licenses for use of that material consistent with the scope and direction of the NQC.

Competency Standards

What is competency?

The broad concept of industry competency concerns the ability to perform particular tasks and duties to the standard of performance expected in the workplace. Competency requires the application of specified skills, knowledge and attitudes relevant to effective participation in an industry, industry sector or enterprise.

Competency covers all aspects of workplace performance and involves performing individual tasks; managing a range of different tasks; responding to contingencies or breakdowns; and, dealing with the responsibilities of the workplace, including working with others. Workplace competency requires the ability to apply relevant skills, knowledge and attitudes consistently over time and in the required workplace situations and environments. In line with this concept of competency Training Packages focus on what is expected of a competent individual in the workplace as an outcome of learning, rather than focussing on the learning process itself.

Competency standards in Training Packages are determined by industry to meet identified industry skill needs. Competency standards are made up of a number of units of competency each of which describes a key function or role in a particular job function or occupation. Each unit of competency within a Training Package is linked to one or more AQF qualifications.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Contextualisation of Units of Competency by RTOs

Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) may contextualise units of competency in this endorsed Training Package to reflect required local outcomes. Contextualisation could involve additions or amendments to the unit of competency to suit particular delivery methods, learner profiles, specific enterprise equipment requirements, or to otherwise meet local needs. However, the integrity of the overall intended outcome of the unit of competency must be maintained.

Any contextualisation of units of competency in this Training Package must be within the bounds of the following advice:

- RTOs must not remove or add to the number and content of elements and performance criteria.
- RTOs can include specific industry terminology in the range statement.
- Any amendments and additions to the range statement made by RTOs must not diminish the breadth of application of the competency, or reduce its portability.
- RTOs may add detail to the evidence guide in areas such as the critical aspects of evidence or required resources and infrastructure—but only where these expand the breadth of the competency and do not limit its use.

Components of Units of Competency

The components of units of competency are summarised below, in the order in which they appear in each unit of competency.

Unit Title

The unit title is a succinct statement of the outcome of the unit of competency. Each unit of competency title is unique, both within and across Training Packages.

Unit Descriptor

The unit descriptor broadly communicates the content of the unit of competency and the skill area it addresses. Where units of competency have been contextualised from units of competency from other endorsed Training Packages, summary information is provided. There may also be a brief second paragraph that describes its relationship with other units of competency, and any licensing requirements.

Employability Skills

This sub-section contains a statement that the unit contains Employability skills.

Pre-requisite Units (optional)

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

If there are any units of competency that must be completed before the unit, these will be listed.

Application of the Unit

This sub-section fleshes out the unit of competency's scope, purpose and operation in different contexts, for example, by showing how it applies in the workplace.

Competency Field (Optional)

The competency field either reflects the way the units of competency are categorised in the Training Package or denotes the industry sector, specialisation or function. It is an optional component of the unit of competency.

Sector (optional)

The industry sector is a further categorisation of the competency field and identifies the next classification, for example an elective or supervision field.

Elements of Competency

The elements of competency are the basic building blocks of the unit of competency. They describe in terms of outcomes the significant functions and tasks that make up the competency.

Performance Criteria

The performance criteria specify the required performance in relevant tasks, roles, skills and in the applied knowledge that enables competent performance. They are usually written in passive voice. Critical terms or phrases may be written in bold italics and then defined in range statement, in the order of their appearance in the performance criteria.

Required Skills and Knowledge

The essential skills and knowledge are either identified separately or combined. Knowledge identifies what a person needs to know to perform the work in an informed and effective manner. Skills describe the application of knowledge to situations where understanding is converted into a workplace outcome.

Range Statement

The range statement provides a context for the unit of competency, describing essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment, depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts. As applicable, the meanings of key terms used in the performance criteria will also be explained in the range statement.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide is critical in assessment as it provides information to the Registered Training Organisation (RTO) and assessor about how the described competency may be demonstrated. The evidence guide does this by providing a range of evidence for the assessor to make determinations, and by providing the assessment context. The evidence guide describes:

- conditions under which competency must be assessed including variables such as the assessment environment or necessary equipment;
- relationships with the assessment of any other units of competency;
- suitable methodologies for conducting assessment including the potential for workplace simulation;
- resource implications, for example access to particular equipment, infrastructure or situations;
- how consistency in performance can be assessed over time, various contexts and with a range of evidence; and
- the required underpinning knowledge and skills

Employability Skills in Units of Competency

The detail and application of Employability Skills facets will vary according to the job-role requirements of each industry. In developing Training Packages, industry stakeholders are consulted to identify appropriate facets of Employability Skills which are incorporated into the relevant units of competency and qualifications.

Employability Skills are not a discrete requirement contained in units of competency (as was the case with Key Competencies). Employability Skills are specifically expressed in the context of the work outcomes described in units of competency and will appear in elements, performance criteria, range statements and evidence guides. As a result, users of Training Packages are required to review the entire unit of competency in order to accurately determine Employability Skills requirements.

How Employability Skills relate to the Key Competencies

The eight nationally agreed Employability Skills now replace the seven Key Competencies in Training Packages. Trainers and assessors who have used Training Packages prior to the introduction of Employability Skills may find the following comparison useful.

Employability Skills	Mayer Key Competencies
Communication	Communicating ideas and information
Teamwork	Working with others and in teams

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Problem solving	Solving problems Using mathematical ideas and techniques
Initiative and enterprise
Planning and organising	Collecting, analysing and organising information Planning and organising activities
Self-management
Learning
Technology	Using technology

When analysing the above table it is important to consider the relationship and natural overlap of Employability Skills. For example, using technology may involve communication skills and combine the understanding of mathematical concepts.

Explicitly embedding Employability Skills in units of competency

This Training Package seeks to ensure that industry-endorsed Employability Skills are explicitly embedded in units of competency. The application of each skill and the level of detail included in each part of the unit will vary according to industry requirements and the nature of the unit of competency.

Employability Skills must be both explicit and embedded within units of competency. This means that Employability Skills will be:

- embedded in units of competency as part of the other performance requirements that make up the competency as a whole
- explicitly described within units of competency to enable Training Packages users to identify accurately the performance requirements of each unit with regards to Employability Skills.

This Training Package also seeks to ensure that Employability Skills are well-defined and written into units of competency so that they are apparent, clear and can be delivered and assessed as an essential component of unit work outcomes.

Sample unit of competency components showing Employability Skills

The following table shows the sequence of a unit of competency, and each cell contains text taken from a range of units. It provides examples of where and how various Employability Skills could be embedded in each component.

Please note that in the example, the bracketed Employability Skills are provided for clarification only and would not be present in units of competency within this Training Package.

Employability Skills Summaries and units of competency

An Employability Skills Summary exists for each qualification. Summaries include broad advice on industry expectations with regard to Employability Skills at the qualification level. Summaries should be used by trainers and assessors to assist in identifying the Employability Skills requirements contained within units of competency.

SIT40112 Certificate IV in Guiding

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed qualification are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
2.0	Entry requirements updated.
1.2	Imported unit updated. Editorial correction to the Modification History and Mapping notes.
1.1	Editorial correction to Modification history. Updates to metadata.
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SIT40107 Certificate IV in Tourism (Guiding). Intent of the qualification remains unchanged. Title of qualification simplified. Now a discrete qualification representing a Certificate IV outcome. Core units of the Certificate III are no longer included in this qualification but have become an entry requirement. Entry requirement can be met through workplace experience or through formal study.

Description

This qualification reflects the role of individuals who use a broad range of specialist guiding skills combined with a substantial depth of subject matter knowledge. They operate independently or with limited guidance from others and use discretion to solve non-routine problems.

Job roles

This qualification provides a pathway to work as a guide in many tourism industry sectors. Guides at this level usually conduct tours that involve multiple products, services and sites involving the management of tour logistics. They are employed or contracted by inbound tour operators, outbound tour wholesalers, local tour operators, or they may be owner-operators of small tourism or travel businesses.

Possible job titles include:

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- cultural guide
- heritage guide
- interpretive guide
- nature-based guide
- tour director
- tour guide
- tour manager
- walking guide.

Pathways Information

This qualification is suitable for an Australian Apprenticeship pathway.

Pathways into the qualification

It is highly recommended that individuals entering this qualification have SIT30513 Certificate III in Guiding or equivalent vocational expertise.

Pathways from the qualification

After achieving SIT40112 Certificate IV in Guiding, individuals could undertake a Diploma or Advanced Diploma of Travel and Tourism.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this qualification at the time of endorsement.

Entry Requirements

Entry to this qualification is open to individuals who are able to demonstrate guiding industry knowledge, customer service and operational skills. The individual must either:

Be formally assessed through a training program or recognition process, against the following core units of competency from SIT30513 Certificate III in Guiding:

- HLTAID003 Provide first aid
- SITTGDE301 Work as a guide
- SITTGDE303 Lead tour groups
- SITTGDE304 Prepare and present tour commentaries or activities
- SITTGDE305 Develop and maintain the general and regional knowledge required by guides
- SITXCCS303 Provide service to customers

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- SITXCOM201 Show social and cultural sensitivity
- SITXWHS101 Participate in safe work practices
- SITXWHS301 Identify hazards, assess and control safety risks

OR

Have relevant guiding industry employment experience. A job that has involved the application of skills described in core units of competency from SIT30513 Certificate III in Guiding would be a satisfactory indicator for entry. A determination need not involve a formal process of measuring, evaluating or recording performance against the units of competency.

SIT50212 Diploma of Events

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed qualification are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

1.1	Updates to metadata.
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SIT50207 Diploma of Events. Intent of the qualification remains unchanged. Total number of units reduced by 4. Core units reduced by 5. Elective units increased by 1. Some units removed from core as they did not apply to all job roles. They are now in elective list. Entry requirement removed. New policy prohibits a requirement for a whole qualification. In lieu of an entry requirement, many of the operational units required to fulfil the Event Coordinator job outcome covered by this Diploma are available in the elective pool. Diploma requires the selection of a substantial number of electives.

Description

This qualification reflects the role of individuals who use sound knowledge of event management processes and a broad range of skills to coordinate event operations. They operate independently and make operational event management decisions.

Job roles

Events are diverse in nature and this qualification provides a pathway to work in events in a range of industries including the tourism and travel, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors.

These may be event management companies, event venues, or organisations that organise their own events. Work could be undertaken in an office environment where the planning of events takes place, on-site at venues where events are staged or a combination of both.

Possible job titles include:

- conference coordinator
- event coordinator

- event planner
- event sales coordinator
- exhibitions coordinator
- in-house meetings coordinator
- meetings coordinator
- venue coordinator.

Pathways Information

This qualification is suitable for an Australian Apprenticeship pathway.

Pathways into the qualification

It is strongly recommended that those entering this qualification possess a Certificate III qualification or vocational experience in events, or fields such as business, creative industries, hospitality, sport, tourism or travel. However this is not mandatory.

Pathways from the qualification

After achieving SIT50212 Diploma of Events, individuals could further their vocational or higher education through SIT60212 Advanced Diploma of Events, advanced diploma or degree programs in business management, creative industries, events, hospitality, sport, tourism or travel.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this qualification at the time of endorsement.

Entry Requirements

There are no entry requirements for this qualification.

Version	Comments
1.2	Imported units updated. Editorial correction to Modification History and Mapping notes. BSBFRA402B Establish a Franchise added to the Elective group.
1.1	Updates to metadata.
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SIT50409 Diploma of Holiday Parks and Resort. Intent of the qualification remains unchanged. Significant changes to packaging because this is now a discrete management qualification with an entry requirement comprising the operational skills that underpin work at this level. The entry requirement includes industry knowledge, customer service and sales/operational skills. Entry requirement can be met through workplace experience or through formal study.

Description

This qualification reflects the role of individuals who use sound knowledge of industry operations and a broad range of managerial skills to coordinate holiday park operations or marketing and product development activities. They operate independently, have responsibility for others and make a range of operational business decisions.

Job roles

This qualification provides a pathway to work as a business manager or owner-operator of a holiday park or resort.

Possible job titles include:

- manager
- operations manager

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- park manager.

Pathways Information

This qualification is suitable for an Australian Apprenticeship pathway.

Pathways into the qualification

It is strongly recommended that individuals entering SIT50412 Diploma of Holiday Parks and Resorts have SIT31212 Certificate III in Holiday Parks and Resorts or a related area such as Hospitality or Tourism.

Pathways from the qualification

After achieving SIT50412 Diploma of Holiday Parks and Resorts, individuals may engage in further learning in vocational or higher education through Advanced Diploma and Degree qualifications in Tourism, Hospitality and other Business disciplines.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this qualification at the time of endorsement.

Entry Requirements

Entry to SIT50412 Diploma of Holiday Parks and Resorts is open to individuals who are able to demonstrate holiday parks and resorts industry knowledge, customer service and operational skills. The individual must either:

Be formally assessed through a training program or recognition process, against one of the unit clusters below.

OR

Have relevant holiday parks and resorts industry employment experience. A job that has involved the application of skills described in one of the unit clusters would be a satisfactory indicator for entry. A determination need not involve a formal process of measuring, evaluating or recording performance against the units of competency.

The unit clusters for different pathways are as follows:

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed qualification are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
1.2	Imported unit updated.
1.1	Updates to metadata.
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SIT60207 Advanced Diploma of Events. Intent of the qualification remains unchanged. Total number of units retained. Number of core and elective units retained. Some units removed from core as they did not apply to all job roles. They are now in elective list. Entry requirement removed. New policy prohibits a requirement for a whole qualification. In lieu of an entry requirement: Some of the core units within the Diploma are repeated in the Advanced Diploma core. Some of the units in the core of Advanced Diploma subsume the skills and knowledge of core Diploma units e.g. SITXWHS601 Establish and maintain a work health and safety system overtakes SITXWHS301 Identify hazards, assess and control safety risks.

Description

This qualification reflects the role of individuals operating at a senior level who use substantial knowledge of event management processes and a wide range of specialised managerial skills to conceive, plan and stage events. They operate with significant autonomy and are responsible for making a range of strategic business and event management decisions.

Job roles

Events are diverse in nature and this qualification provides a pathway to work for event management organisations operating in a range of industries including the tourism and travel, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors.

These may be event management companies, event venues, or organisations that organise their own events. Work could be undertaken in an office environment where the planning of events takes place, on-site at venues where events are staged or a combination of both.

Possible job titles include:

- conference manager
- event manager
- functions manager
- exhibitions manager
- in-house meetings manager
- meetings manager
- project manager
- venue manager.

Pathways Information

This qualification is suitable for an Australian Apprenticeship pathway.

Pathways into the qualification

It is strongly recommended that those entering this qualification possess a Diploma qualification or vocational experience at a coordination or management level in events, or in fields such as business, creative industries, hospitality, sport, tourism or travel. However this is not mandatory.

Pathways from the qualification

After achieving SIT60212 Advanced Diploma of Events, individuals could further their vocational or higher education through advanced diploma or degree programs in business management, creative industries, events, hospitality, sport, tourism or travel.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this qualification at the time of endorsement.

Entry Requirements

There are no entry requirements for this qualification.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Suggested words for Statement of Attainment

This unit of competency from the SIT12 Tourism, Travel and Hospitality Training Package provides the skills and knowledge for individuals to responsibly sell or serve alcohol. It meets the prescribed certification requirements, under each Australian State and Territory liquor licensing law, for those involved in the sale or service of alcohol.

Disclaimer

Some responsible service of alcohol (RSA) legislative requirements and knowledge differ across borders. In some cases, after completion of the RSA unit in one state or territory, secondary state and territory liquor authorities require individuals to complete a bridging course to address these specific differences.

Those developing training to support the RSA unit must consult the relevant state or territory liquor licensing authority to determine any accreditation arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors.

SITHGAM201 Provide responsible gambling services

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed unit of competency set are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
2.0	Editorial corrections.
1.2	Correction to Licensing/Regulatory information statement.
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITHGAM006A Provide responsible gambling services. Minor adjustments to expression of content to streamline and improve unit.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to provide responsible gambling services, and information to customers who require assistance with their problem gambling.

Application of the Unit

Responsible gambling services must be provided wherever gambling activities are undertaken. In the hospitality industry, the gambling environment is usually referred to as the gaming area and is provided in a range of venues such as hotels, motels, clubs, pubs and casinos.

Gambling is defined as the staking of money on uncertain events driven by chance. The major forms of gambling are wagering (racing and sport) and gaming (gaming machines, table games, Keno and lotteries). Both forms of gambling are relevant to the hospitality industry.

Hospitality venues operate Totalisator Agency Board (TAB) outlets for wagering on racing and sport events. They also cover the full range of gaming activities, including the operation of gaming machines, table games, Keno and lotteries.

The responsible provision of gambling services is an essential underpinning skill for all hospitality personnel involved in the sale and service of gambling activities in licensed premises, including the licensee, gaming supervisors and gaming managers when involved in operational gambling activities.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

The unit applies equally to frontline operational gambling personnel who operate with a limited level of autonomy and under some supervision and guidance from others. They would operate within the predefined organisational procedures and industry and regulatory authority codes of conduct.

Operational job roles would include gaming attendant, table game attendant, croupier and multi-skilled food and beverage attendant.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

The unit also relates to satisfying the requirements for providing responsible gambling services under state and territory legislation. The terms used to describe this vary across state and territory regulatory bodies and can include Responsible Conduct of Gambling (RCG) and Responsible Service of Gaming or Responsible Service of Gambling (RSG).

Those developing training to support this unit must consult the relevant state and territory gaming licensing authority to determine accreditation arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors.

Under differing state and territory legislation this is a required certification unit only for certain nominated personnel operating in licensed gambling premises.

procedures, information, signage and brochures relating to responsible gambling services.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess the practical skills and knowledge required to provide responsible gambling services. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual providing information to customers
- use of role-plays to demonstrate appropriate interpersonal skills
- use of case studies or problem-solving to assess the application of knowledge to various problem-gambling situations and contexts
- oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of gaming legislation, codes of practice and industry and organisational procedures
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITHGAM202 Attend gaming machines
- SITHGAM203 Operate a TAB outlet
- SITHGAM204 Conduct Keno games.

Determining competency for this unit must focus on the understanding and implementation of responsible provision of gambling services to meet the requirements of state and territory legislation.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a real or simulated tourism, hospitality or event industry business operation or activity for which tender, proposals or bids are prepared
- computers, printers and software programs currently used by the tourism, hospitality and event industry to prepare proposals
- tender briefs and specifications for tourism, hospitality or event products and services
- financial and operational data used to prepare tenders for tourism, hospitality and event products and services.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- evaluation of a complete tender proposal, prepared by the individual, for the provision of products
- evaluation of reports produced by the individual detailing the processes undertaken to prepare a proposal
- activities that allow assessment of the individual's ability to:
  - analyse the content of different tender brief, product specifications or client needs
  - prepare budgets and quotations for the provision of different products and services
  - write proposals that present information relevant to client criteria or needs
- direct observation of the individual delivering a presentation of a tender, proposal or bid
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of the role and nature of tender, proposal or bid processes; details of organisational products, services and facilities, and a range of formats for and inclusions of tender proposals
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- food preparation lists and standard recipes
- a variety of commercial ingredients.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual preparing sauces, dips and accompaniments
- evaluation of the taste of sauces, dips and accompaniments prepared by the individual
- projects that allow assessment of the individual's ability to produce a variety of sauces, dips and accompaniments for different occasions
- use of visual and taste recognition exercises so the individual can identify ingredient and product characteristics
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of culinary terms, quality indicators for sauces, dips and accompaniments, equipment, cookery methods and appropriate environmental storage conditions

- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITHASC202 Produce Asian appetisers and snacks
- SITXFSA201 Participate in safe food handling practices.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Ingredients may include:

- aromatics
- fish sauce

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to:
	• prepare sashimi and its accompaniments, including:
	  • kobujime
	  • sashimi (moriawase)
	  • tataki
	  • usu zukuri
	• produce food for multiple customers within commercial time constraints
	• integrate knowledge of:
	  • quality indicators for sashimi
	  • sashimi ingredients
	  • cultural considerations
	  • features, functions and safe use of food preparation equipment
	• food safety practices for handling and storing sashimi.

Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure use of: • an operational commercial kitchen with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the • Assessment Guidelines; this can be a:

- real industry workplace
- simulated industry environment such as a training kitchen servicing customers
- industry-realistic ratios of kitchen staff to customers
- food preparation lists and standard recipes
- a variety of commercial ingredients.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual preparing sashimi
- evaluation of the taste and visual appeal of sashimi prepared by the individual
- projects that allow assessment of the individual's ability to produce a variety of sashimi for different occasions
- use of visual and taste recognition exercises so the individual can identify ingredient and product characteristics
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of culinary terms, quality indicators for sashimi, equipment, cookery methods and
- appropriate environmental storage conditions
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITXFSA201 Participate in safe food handling practices.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Food production requirements may include:

- deadlines
- portion control

- special customer requests
- special dietary needs.

Freshness and quality may be indicated by:

- clear eyes
- correct colour of scales
- firm texture of flesh
- moist but not slimy
- pleasant sea odour
- red gills.

Equipment may include:

- items for:
  - momiji oroshi
  - sarashi-negi.

Accompaniments may include:

- fresh condiments:
  - daikon
  - ginger root and sauces
  - wasabi
- prepared items:
  - momiji
  - oroshi
  - tosa joyu.

To adjust presentation may involve:

- changing accompaniments and garnishes to maximise eye appeal:
  - balance
  - colour
  - contrast
- changing plated food for practicality of:
  - customer consumption
  - service
  - wiping drips or spills.

Environmental conditions relates to appropriate:

Version	Comments
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITXCCS305A Provide lost and found facility. Title changed to better reflect the intent and content of the unit. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge to more fully articulate content.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to provide service to customers who have lost and found items. It requires the ability to determine and record details of items, investigate lost items, assist claimants and complete documentation.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to all tourism, travel, hospitality and event sectors.

This unit mainly applies to frontline operations personnel who operate with some level of independence and under limited supervision. It does, however, describe a basic operational function of minimal complexity and individuals who work with very little independence under close supervision would also use this skill.

It applies to a range of people, including club, hotel and venue receptionists, hotel porters and customer service personnel within attractions and event facilities.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to:
	• prepare a variety of sandwiches of different types using different breads and ingredients
	• prepare a quantity of sandwiches within commercial time constraints
	• present sandwiches attractively
	• integrate knowledge of:
	  • different sandwich and bread types
	  • features, functions and safe use of food preparation

equipment
- food safety practices for handling and storing different food types.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- an operational food preparation area for sandwich production with the fixtures, large and small equipment defined in the Assessment
- Guidelines; this can be a:
  - real industry workplace
  - simulated industry environment such as a training kitchen servicing customers
- industry-realistic ratios of staff to customers
- food preparation lists and standard recipes
- a variety of commercial ingredients for preparing sandwiches.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual preparing for and producing sandwiches
- evaluation of the taste and visual appeal of sandwiches prepared by the individual
- use of visual and taste recognition exercises so the individual can identify ingredient and product characteristics
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of culinary terms, quality indicators for sandwiches and appropriate environmental storage
- conditions
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITHCCC202 Produce appetisers and salads.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work

SITHCCC104 Package prepared foodstuffs

Modification History

Version	Comments
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITHCCC030A Package prepared foodstuffs. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge to more fully articulate content. One prerequisite unit removed. SITXFSA101 Use hygienic practices for food safety retained as a prerequisite.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to package and label prepared foodstuffs for storage and transportation. It requires the ability to check the quality of food and select correct packaging materials.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to all hospitality and catering organisations which prepare, package and label food. This could include restaurants, educational institutions, health establishments, defence forces, cafeterias, kiosks, cafes, residential caterers, in-flight and other transport caterers, and event and function caterers.

It applies to operational personnel in kitchens and catering facilities who work with very little independence and under close supervision. They apply little discretion and judgement because they follow predefined organisational procedures to report any discrepancies to a higher level staff member for action.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

Food businesses which produce pre-packaged food items must comply with the legal requirements for labelling contained within the Food Standards Australia New Zealand (FSANZ) Act and the Australia New Zealand Food Standards (ANZFS) Code (the Code).

Pre-Requisites

This unit must be assessed after the following prerequisite unit:

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to:
	• produce a variety of stocks, sauces and soups from different recipes and cultural backgrounds, including:
	  • sauces:
	  • reduced
	  • thickened
	  • hot, warm and cold emulsion
	  • soups both hot and cold:
	  • clear
	  • broth
	  • purée
	  • cream
	  • bisque
	  • stocks
	• produce food for multiple customers within commercial time constraints
	• integrate knowledge of:
	  • quality indicators for stocks, sauces and soups
	  • different types of stocks, sauces and soups
	  • features, functions and safe use of food preparation equipment
	  • food safety practices for handling and storing different food types.

Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure use of:
	• an operational commercial kitchen with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment
	• Guidelines; this can be a:
	  • real industry workplace
	  • simulated industry environment such as a training kitchen servicing customers
	• industry-realistic ratios of kitchen staff to customers
	• food preparation lists and standard recipes
	• a variety of commercial ingredients.

Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct observation of the individual preparing for and producing stocks, sauces and soups • evaluation of the taste and visual appeal of stocks, sauces and soups prepared by the individual • projects that allow assessment of the individual's ability to produce a variety of stocks, sauces and soups • use of visual and taste recognition exercises so the individual can identify ingredient and product characteristics • written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of culinary terms, quality indicators for stocks, sauces and soups, equipment, cookery • methods and appropriate environmental storage conditions • review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.
Guidance information for assessment	The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present

Version	Comments
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITHCCC009A Prepare vegetables, fruit, eggs and farinaceous dishes. Title simplified. Unit structure made consistent across all cooking units. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge to better articulate content. Any 'must' statements in Range moved to Required Knowledge and Critical aspects for assessment. Some adjustments made to reduce focus on eggs.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to prepare and cook various vegetables, fruit, eggs and farinaceous dishes following standard recipes. It requires the ability to select and prepare ingredients, and to use relevant equipment and cookery methods.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to hospitality and catering organisations, and to cooks who usually work under the guidance of more senior chefs.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

SITHCCC205 Produce cook-chill and cook-freeze foods

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed unit of competency set are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
1.0	New unit. Replaces cook-chill and cook-freeze components of: SITHCCC017A Organise bulk cooking operations, SITHCCC032A Apply cook-chill production processes and SITHCCC034A Apply cook-freeze production processes.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to safely produce bulk amounts of cook-chill and cook-freeze foods. It requires the ability to select, prepare and portion bulk ingredients and to use equipment and a range of cookery methods to cook, chill, freeze and store food.

Application of the Unit

Cook-chill and freeze foods may be entire meals or individual items. This unit applies to all hospitality and catering organisations which produce bulk amounts of precooked food which is chilled or frozen. It is then transferred to internal or external service outlets for rethermalisation.

These organisations include hotels, restaurants, educational institutions, correctional centres, health establishments, defence forces, cafeterias, kiosks, cafes, canteens, residential caterers, meals-on-wheels services in-flight and other transport caterers, event and function caterers.

It mainly applies to operational kitchen and catering personnel who work with very little independence and under close supervision. This includes catering assistants and cooks.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

SITXFSA101 Use hygienic practices for food safety retained as a prerequisite. 'Service' broadened to any production context. Minor adjustments to expression of content to streamline and improve unit.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to use a range of cookery skills for live service or production periods. The unit integrates key technical and organisational skills. It brings together the skills and knowledge covered in individual units and focuses on the way these must be applied in a commercial kitchen. This unit underpins the more advanced integrated unit SITHCCC309 Work effectively as a cook, which applies to qualified cooks.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to hospitality and catering operations and to individuals who prepare a range of food items, but who may not be fully qualified cooks. Styles of menus may be classical, contemporary or ethnic and may be formal or informal according to organisational requirements.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Pre-Requisites

This unit must be assessed after the following prerequisite unit:

meat
- features ,functions and safe use of food preparation equipment
- food safety practices for handling and storing meat.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- an operational commercial kitchen with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment
- Guidelines; this can be a:
  - real industry workplace
  - simulated industry environment such as a training kitchen servicing customers
- industry-realistic ratios of kitchen staff to customers
- food preparation lists and standard recipes
- a variety of commercial ingredients.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual preparing for and producing meat dishes
- evaluation of the taste and visual appeal of meat dishes prepared by the individual
- projects that allow assessment of the individual's ability to produce a variety of meat dishes
- use of visual and taste recognition exercises so the individual can identify ingredient and product characteristics
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of culinary terms, quality indicator for meat, equipment, cookery methods and appropriate
- environmental storage conditions
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITXFSA201 Participate in safe food handling practices.

- problem-solving skills to evaluate quality of cheese and cheese presentation and make adjustments.

Required knowledge

- commodity knowledge of varieties of cheeses, including:
  - classification and characteristics
  - manufacturing methods, place of origin, and historical and cultural aspects
  - uses of various cheeses
  - appropriate garnishes and accompaniments for cheese
  - optimum conditions for serving cheese, including degree of ripeness and temperature
- nutritional knowledge, in particular the food value and composition of cheese
- culinary terms related to different cheeses commonly used in the industry
- hygiene requirements relating to possible bacterial spoilage in the preparation, storage and service of cheese.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • demonstrate a detailed knowledge and understanding of the different classifications and characteristics of cheeses • prepare and present cheeses with suitable garnishes and accompaniments • integrate knowledge of: • food safety practices for handling and storing cheese.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure use of: • a fully equipped food preparation area with appropriate equipment and serviceware, as defined in the Assessment Guidelines • cheeses of varying types.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct observation of the individual preparing and

- demonstrate knowledge of:
  - key health and legal consequences of failing to address special requirements
  - main types and culinary characteristics of special and cultural diets that are part of contemporary Australian society
- produce special dishes for multiple customers within commercial time constraints.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- an operational commercial kitchen with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines; this can be a:
  - real industry workplace
  - simulated industry environment such as a training kitchen servicing customers
- industry-realistic ratios of kitchen staff to customers
- recipes for special dietary requirements
- Dietary Guidelines for Australians, including those for older Australians, children and adolescents
- a variety of commercial ingredients for special dietary and cultural dishes.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual preparing for and producing a range of dishes for customers with special dietary requirements
- evaluation of the taste and visual appeal of dishes produced by the individual
- use of problem-solving exercises so the individual can identify and evaluate the dietary needs of different types of customer and provide responses
- projects that allow assessment of the individual's ability to produce, within designated deadlines, a variety of special dishes that meet the cultural food requirements of a designated customer group attending a cultural event or function
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - meaning food allergies and intolerance and common allergic and food intolerance reactions
  - health and legal consequences of non-compliance with special requests
  - characteristics of special and cultural diets

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to:
	• prepare, cook and present multiple items for a minimum of 48 complete food service periods (shifts) including:
	  • breakfast
	  • dinner
	  • lunch
	  • special function
	• prepare, cook and present items for at least two different menu types
	• prepare cook and serve items from different food types that meet quality requirements, including:
	  • appetisers and salads
	  • fish and shellfish
	  • hot and cold desserts
	  • meat
	  • pastries, cakes and yeast goods
	  • poultry and game
	  • stocks, sauces and soups
	  • vegetables, eggs and farinaceous products
	• use safe food hygiene and work practices
	• multi-task and integrate technical and other skills to respond to multiple demands simultaneously
	• work as part of a team and coordinate team activities in a positive and courteous manner

resources for assessment	• an operational commercial kitchen with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines; this can be a:
	  • real industry workplace
	  • commercial kitchen operated within a training organisation that services customers
	• industry-realistic ratios of kitchen staff to customers
	• food preparation lists and standard recipes
	• a variety of commercial ingredients.

Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • evaluation of a training record book used as part of apprenticeship arrangements • direct observation of the individual preparing and cooking food items in a commercial kitchen • sampling of menu items prepared by the individual • evaluation of customer feedback about menu items and speed and timing of service • written or oral questioning to test knowledge about commodities, cookery techniques, equipment and food hygiene • review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.
Guidance information for assessment	The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example: • any Asian cookery, commercial cookery, kitchen operations or patisserie unit relevant to the job role.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • communicate with colleagues and customers from diverse range of social and cultural groups with respect and sensitivity • integrate knowledge of different cultures and cultural characteristics when communicating with colleagues and customers.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a real or simulated tourism, hospitality or events industry business activity where communication with socially diverse customers and colleagues takes place
- current workplace anti-discrimination policies
- plain English documents issued by government regulators that provide information on anti-discrimination laws
- others with whom the individual can interact.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation, using role plays, of the individual interacting with colleagues and customers from diverse social and cultural backgrounds
- exercises and activities to assess the individual's ability to recognise the general characteristics of diverse colleagues and customers
- use of problem-solving exercises so the individual can suggest ways of resolving difficulties or misunderstandings
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of anti-discrimination laws and workplace policies
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITHACS201 Provide porter services
- SITHACS303 Provide accommodation reception services
- SITXCCS101 Provide information and assistance
- SITXCCS201 Provide visitor information
- SITXCCS202 Interact with customers
- SITXCCS301 Provide lost and found services
- SITXCCS302 Provide club reception services
- SITXCCS303 Provide service to customers
- SITXLAN21__ Conduct basic workplace oral communication in a language other than English.

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- access and interpret regulatory information and determine the scope of compliance for specific business operations
- develop a diverse range of policies and procedures for legal compliance
- integrate, into compliance planning activities, knowledge of:
  - sources of detailed information and advice on regulatory compliance
  - objectives and primary components of a broad range of local, state, territory and commonwealth government laws relevant to specific tourism, hospitality or event business operations
  - use of policies and procedures in managing regulatory compliance.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a real or simulated tourism, hospitality or event industry business operation for which a tailored set of regulatory requirements can be researched and compliance management implemented
- computers, software programs, printers and communication technology used to administer regulatory requirements
- current legislation
- current plain English regulatory documents distributed

by government regulators
- codes of practice and standards issued by regulatory authorities
- regulatory information and business management manuals issued by industry associations or commercial publishers
- current commercial policies and procedures used to manage regulatory issues.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- evaluation of a portfolio, prepared by the individual, on managing regulatory compliance for a specific business operation including:
  - notes and reports on regulatory information sourced
  - written report evaluating the scope of compliance requirements
  - list of policies and procedures required to manage regulatory compliance
  - sample policies and procedures
  - documents completed for submission to regulatory authorities
  - briefings and internal memos provided to personnel on current compliance requirements
- use of case studies so the individual can suggest appropriate scope of regulatory compliance requirements for different business operations
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - sources of information on regulatory compliance
  - objectives and primary components of laws relevant to specific tourism, hospitality or events business operations
  - use of policies and procedures in managing regulatory compliance
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- BSBMGT617A Develop and implement a business plan
- BSBPMG501A Manage projects
- BSBRSK501A Manage risk

SITXICT401 Build and launch a small business website

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed unit of competency set are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITXICT001A Build and launch a website for a small business. Title simplified.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to build a basic website to meet business needs, including selecting a hosting service and appropriate web development software, planning the website structure and undertaking actual construction of the site. It requires technical skills and knowledge typically needed by a business that elects to develop its own site rather than access the services of IT professionals.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to all industry sectors, and is particularly relevant to small businesses that develop their own websites. People undertaking this role work independently or with limited guidance. Depending on the business context, this could include owner-operators.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

1.0	New unit.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to identify the ramifications of a crisis on a customer and to respond with assistance and support. It requires the ability to identify and interpret information relevant to the crisis, provide customer crisis care and organise operational services to assist the customer in crisis.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to all tourism, travel, hospitality and event sectors. It has particular application to accommodation providers, tour operators, retail travel agencies and inbound tour operators.

The crisis would be significant and could involve the death, injury, illness or psychological trauma of a customer. It does not cover more operational circumstances, such as the loss of travel documents, passports and money.

This unit applies to people who operate independently or with limited guidance from others. This includes senior tour coordinators, senior retail travel consultants, hotel duty managers, guides, and tour managers who are able to use significant discretion and judgement to respond to customer crises.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify and assess the ramifications of a crisis on business continuity
- assess and adapt business operations to manage a business continuity crisis
- develop clear, accurate and complex emergency operational plans
- implement an emergency operational plan and monitor, evaluate and adapt the outcomes over a period of time
- integrate knowledge of the key characteristics of internal and external crises and impacts on business viability.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a real or simulated tourism, hospitality or event industry business operation or event facing a business continuity crisis
- computers, software programs, printers and communication technology used to administer crisis management
- current commercial plans and financial reports
- crisis information
- a team so that consultative actions can be implemented.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- evaluation of a portfolio, prepared by the individual, incorporating documents used for the management of a business or event crisis:
  - summary of crisis research material
  - recommendations for managing the situation
  - an emergency operational plan detailing strategies to ensure the financial viability of the organisation
- direct observation, using role plays, of the individual consulting with and briefing key staff members on emergency operational practices
- use of case studies and problem-solving exercises so the individual can identify and evaluate the impacts of different types of crises on tourism, hospitably and event businesses

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- written and oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - the key characteristics of internal and external crises
  - historical impacts of crises on tourism, hospitality and event operations
  - the major triggers for a downturn in customer sales
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- BSBFIM601A Manage finances
- BSBMGT515A Manage operational plan
- SITHKOP501 Design and cost menus
- SITTPPD503 Research and analyse tourism data
- SITTPPD601 Develop tourism products
- SITXFIN501 Prepare and monitor budgets.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Triggers may include:

- changes in the length and regularity of holidays taken by the source market
- changes in the popularity of:
  - destinations

SITXEVT301 Access information on event operations

Modification History

Version	Comments
1.0	N Replaces but is not equivalent to SITXEVT001B Develop and update event industry knowledge. New title. Significant change to Elements, Performance Criteria and Required knowledge. New Element 2 covers event industry products and services. Coverage of laws and ethical issues limited to those specifically relevant to the event industry. Other legal knowledge, e.g. work health and safety is covered in relevant units.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to access and interpret current and emerging information on event industry operations. This includes industry structure, technology, laws and ethical issues specifically relevant to event coordination. Event personnel integrate this essential knowledge on a daily basis to work effectively in the industry.

Research skills and knowledge to source more specialised information is covered in:

- SITXEVT601 Research event trends and practice.

Application of the Unit

Events are diverse in nature and are coordinated in many industry contexts, including the tourism, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors.

This unit applies to many people working at different levels in event management companies, in event venues, or in organisations which organise their own events.

This unit is not about having in-depth knowledge but focuses on the ability to research and interpret current information to enhance the quality of event coordination.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
  - elicit information from customers about registration requirements
  - answer enquiries about costs and other event details
  - liaise with event coordinators and managers on attendance issues
- literacy skills to:
  - read and interpret complex event information including event schedules, costs and conditions of sale
  - write and input accurate customer and operational details
  - create accurate and succinct notes for special requests and event operational details
- numeracy skills to manage the accounting processes for event registrations and interpret statistical data within various reports
- planning and organising skills to meet deadlines for completion of registrations, collection of payments and issuance of documents and reports
- problem-solving skills to:
  - identify and collect missing customer information
  - offer alternatives for unavailable registrations
  - identify, report and respond to attendance deficiencies
- self-management skills to coordinate own workflow for processing and monitoring registrations within deadlines
- technology skills to use calculators, computers, software programs and printers for processing event registrations.

Required knowledge

- range of operation systems and software programs used to process and monitor event registrations
- types of customers for different types of events and methods of administering different registrations
- customer information required to administer registrations
- a range of formats for, inclusions and uses of:
  - financial administration documents for customer payments
  - customer event attendance documents
  - event registration reports

- for the specific organisation:
  - features of event programs, schedules, inclusions and specific costs
  - information required by event coordinators and managers to monitor attendance numbers and deliver events
  - procedures and deadlines for processing and administering registrations and issuing registration reports.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- accurately process and administer registrations through to finalisation for multiple events
- issue financial administration and event attendance documents for multiple and diverse customers
- generate accurate registration reports and proactively identify and report on attendance problems
- integrate knowledge of:
  - event programs and costs
  - formats for reports and documents
  - information required by event managers to monitor attendance numbers and deliver events
- process and monitor event registrations with speed and efficiency and within event deadlines.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- actual events for which event registrations are processed and monitored. Events may be created for the specific purpose of skills assessment, but must have commercial, community or business relevance. Small personal events are not appropriate as a means of assessing an individual's skills and knowledge
- comprehensive operational and capacity information for venues and sites where events are operated; these can be:
  - real event venues and sites
  - event venues and sites operated within a training organisation such as auditoria, exhibition areas, conference rooms, restaurants and sporting facilities where real events are staged

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- industry current computer systems and software programs for processing event registrations
- comprehensive event programs, schedules, inclusions and costs
- industry current template documents for:
  - financial administration of event payments
  - customer event attendance
  - registration reports
- procedures for processing and administering registrations.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual using the various features of a computerised event registration system to administer a series of customer registrations
- activities that allow assessment of the individual's ability to process and monitor registrations for different events and for varying customer requirements
- review of documents prepared by the individual:
  - confirmation letters
  - credit notes
  - information or sales kits
  - invoices
  - participant name badge or identification document
  - receipts
  - registration reports
  - service vouchers
  - tickets
- problem-solving exercises to allow the individual to respond to and report on event attendance problems
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - event programs and costs
  - formats for reports and documents
  - information required by event managers to monitor attendance numbers and deliver events
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, organisation and job role, for example:

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
  - liaise with venue or site personnel on registration set up
  - interact with attendees in a polite, professional and friendly manner
  - respond to attendees with diverse and special needs and expectations
- literacy skills to:
  - read and interpret documents detailing name, payment status and booking details for attendees; complex registration reports, event programs and costs
  - write and input accurate customer and event operational details; customer notes and receipts
- numeracy skills to:
  - interpret payment details for registrations and calculate any under or over payments
  - calculate costs for on-site event payments
- planning and organising skills to:
  - prepare and check a diverse range of registration materials and equipment in advance of the event
  - coordinate the set up of the registration area for operational efficiency
- problem-solving skills to identify, resolve or report:
  - registration area safety issues
  - deficiencies with registration equipment
  - attendee registration discrepancies
- self-management skills to manage own speed, timing and productivity for processing on-site registrations
- teamwork skills to:
  - work with venue or site personnel for smooth service delivery to attendees
  - provide feedback on registration procedures and suggest improvements
- technology skills to use calculators, computers, software programs and printers for processing event registrations.

Required knowledge

- reasons for and a range of on-site registration processes for diverse event types
- safety and access issues for on-site registration areas especially those associated with the gathering or movement of large numbers of people
- different types of operation systems and software programs used to process on-site event registrations

- attendee information required to provide on-site event documentation and admission
- a range of formats for, inclusions and uses of:
  - event registration reports
  - registration materials required to process on-site event registrations
  - financial administration documents for attendee payments
  - event attendance documents
- for the specific organisation and event:
  - agreements with the venue or site for registration set up
  - features of event program, schedules, inclusions and specific costs
  - procedures for processing on-site registrations.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- prepare registration materials and equipment and process on-site attendee registrations for multiple events
- check registration details and provide event documentation for multiple and diverse attendees
- identify and resolve registration discrepancies
- integrate knowledge of:
  - event programs and costs
  - formats for registration reports and attendee documents
  - procedures for processing on-site registrations
  - safety and access issues for on-site registration areas
- process on-site event registrations with speed and efficiency and within event deadlines.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- actual events for which on-site event registrations are coordinated. Events may be created for the specific purpose of skills assessment, but must have commercial, community or business relevance. Small personal events are not appropriate as a means of assessing an individual's skills and knowledge
- venues and sites where events are operated with a designated on-site registration area; these can be:
  - real event venues and sites

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- event venues and sites operated within a training organisation such as auditoria, exhibition areas, conference rooms, restaurants and sporting facilities where real events are staged
- industry-realistic ratios of registration staff to attendees
- industry current computer systems and software programs for processing on-site event registrations
- comprehensive event programs, schedules, inclusions and costs
- industry current template documents for:
  - registration reports
  - attendee documents
  - financial administration of on-site event payments
- procedures for processing on-site registrations.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- activities that allow assessment of the individual's ability to prepare registration materials and equipment and process on-site attendee registrations for different events and for varying attendee requirements
- review of materials prepared by the individual in advance of the event:
  - attendee documents
  - registration reports
- direct observation of the individual using the various features of a computerised event registration system to process a series of on-site registrations
- direct observation, using role plays, of the individual:
  - interacting with venue staff to set up the registration area and resolve safety issues
  - interacting with attendees to check registration details and provide event documentation
- problem-solving exercises to allow the individual to respond to on-site registration discrepancies and safety issues
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - event programs and costs
  - formats for registration reports and attendee documents
  - procedures for processing on-site registrations
  - safety and access issues for on-site registration areas
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, organisation and job role, for example:

- SITTTSL308 Use a computerised reservations or operations system
- SITXCCS303 Provide service to customers
- SITXFIN201 Process financial transactions.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Registration materials and equipment may include:

- attendee:
  - kits
  - lanyards
  - lists
  - name badge or identification documents
  - receipts
  - service vouchers
  - tickets
- cash float
- computer
- display stands
- event:
  - program
  - running sheet
- promotional display materials
- registration reports:
  - attendance lists per session, site, venue or table
  - name lists
  - payment status
  - special requests
- signage
- site maps
- stationery.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- plan in-house events or functions involving:
  - comprehensive event plans
  - multiple operational components
  - an event operations team

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- plan the delivery of multiple events or functions within a venue to meet the operational requirements of diverse customers
- prepare and present accurate and comprehensive event proposals, customer and operational documents for events
- liaise with internal personnel and external suppliers to facilitate effective event planning and book their services
- integrate knowledge of:
  - purpose and format for different types of events and functions staged in commercial venues
  - key features and functions of event staging products and services
  - venue features and capacity to service different types of events
  - formats for and inclusions of event documentation
- plan events and issue documents within commercial time constraints and event deadlines.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- actual events or functions which are planned for and delivered within a venue. Events may be created for the specific purpose of skills assessment, but must still meet the requirements outlined under Critical aspects of assessment, and have commercial, community or business relevance. Small personal events are not appropriate as a means of assessing a individual's skills and knowledge
- venues and sites where events are operated; these can be:
  - real event venues and sites
  - event venues and sites operated within a training organisation such as auditoria, exhibition areas, conference rooms, restaurants and sporting facilities where real events are staged
- customers with whom the individual can interact
- internal personnel and external suppliers with whom the individual can interact
- a computerised operations system currently used in the events industry to administer event planning functions
- current and comprehensive event venue information:
  - product information within sales kits, brochures, product manuals, information kits or information databases
  - site specifications, operational and capacity information
  - technical production and staging specifications
- industry current template documents for:
  - event proposals
  - event documentation issued to customers including booking

conditions, confirmation letters, contracts and invoices
    - event operational documentation including event orders
    - floor plans
- procedures for preparing proposals.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation, using role plays, of the individual:
    - interacting with customers to elicit information on their event requirements
    - interacting with internal venue staff and external suppliers to facilitate effective event planning
- evaluation of documents prepared by the individual:
    - event proposals
    - event documentation issued to customers including booking conditions, confirmation letters, contracts and invoices
    - event operational documentation including event orders
- case studies and problem-solving exercises to allow the individual to analyse and respond to service difficulties for different event staging options and event impacts for different types of events
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
    - purpose and format for different types of events and functions staged in commercial venues
    - key features and functions of event staging products and services
    - venue features and capacity to service different types of events
    - formats for and inclusions of event documentation
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, organisation and job role, for example:

- BSBWRT401A Write complex documents
- SITTTSL303 Sell tourism products and services
- SITTTSL304 Prepare quotations
- SITTTSL306 Book supplier services
- SITXCCS401 Enhance the customer service experience
- SITXEVT505 Manage on-site event operations.

SITXEVT501 Develop conference programs

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed unit of competency set are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITXEVT014A Develop conference programs. Minor changes to Elements, Performance Criteria, Required skills and Required knowledge to more fully articulate content. Re-worked Evidence Guide to better articulate assessment requirements.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to develop conference programs that include a significant business component. It requires the application of detailed knowledge of conference formats and options as well as a sound understanding of learning and development issues that impact on program design.

Application of the Unit

Conferences are diverse in nature and occur in all industry contexts.

This unit applies to conference coordinators who operate independently, and are responsible for making a range of operational decisions. They may work in event management companies, in conference venues, or in organisations that organise their own conferences.

More general conference organisation skills are found in business units such as BSBADM503A Plan and manage conferences.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Establish program requirements.	1.1 Analyse conference context, scope and objectives in consultation with stakeholders to determine program parameters and balance. 1.2 Develop and agree on program requirements with relevant stakeholders. 1.3 Assess internal and external factors for impact on program design.
2. Design conference program.	2.1 Develop conference format within known budget, venue and staging constraints. 2.2 Research and analyse options for different program components and investigate ways to incorporate innovative approaches. 2.3 Identify and integrate use of appropriate technologies in program development. 2.4 Include activities that integrate learning and development principles appropriate to the target audience.
3. Finalise program details.	3.1 Create cohesive program by integrating program components. 3.2 Prepare realistic program cost estimates. 3.3 Present proposed conference program to appropriate stakeholders within required timeframe. 3.4 Negotiate program details with stakeholders and gain appropriate approvals. 3.5 Initiate actions for publication of conference program in the context of broader conference management plans.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Required skills

- communication skills to consult and reach agreement on program design with stakeholders
- critical thinking skills to analyse conference requirements and develop program options that best meet conference objectives
- initiative and enterprise skills to consider and incorporate innovative approaches to program design
- learning skills to develop and maintain knowledge of conference programming options
- literacy skills to:
  - research and interpret potentially wide-ranging and complex information sources about conference programming options
  - develop clear program documentation
- numeracy skills to work with conference scheduling and timing issues
- planning and organising skills to create cohesive conference programming and scheduling
- problem-solving skills to analyse and respond to potential risks and issues in program design.

Required knowledge

- needs of different conference market segments and relevant stakeholders:
  - associations
  - corporate
  - government
- conference session formats, and the features, advantages and disadvantages of different options
- current, emerging and innovative approaches to conference program design
- links between different conference program components and how these affect program design:
  - breaks
  - business program:
    - plenary
    - break-outs
  - catering
  - links with other parallel events
  - pre and post-touring elements
  - social program
- scheduling options and issues for conferences of varying durations
- options for conference staging, including:
  - key staging components
  - room layouts
  - current technologies
- educational, learning and development principles:
  - learning principles for different groups

- varying learning styles
- features of learning materials
- features of academic abstracts and how these are used.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- design cohesive and practical conference programs that meet overall objectives, audience needs and program budgetary guidelines
- design multiple and diverse conference programs
- integrate knowledge of:
  - needs of different conference market segments
  - options available to conference organisers in terms of:
    - venues
    - staging
    - format
    - pre and post-touring components
  - learning and development principles.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- industry-realistic conferences for which programs are developed. Conferences may be created for the specific purpose of skills assessment, but must still meet the requirements outlined under Critical aspects of assessment, and have commercial, community or business relevance. Small personal events are not appropriate as a means of assessing an individual's skills and knowledge
- venues where conferences are operated
- dedicated conference budgets
- current industry documentation and publications relating to conference venues
- stakeholders with whom the individual consults.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- evaluation of a project to develop a program for a conference
- use of case studies or projects to assess knowledge of programming for different types of conferences
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of conference programming formats and considerations
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, organisation and job role, for example:

- SITTPPD401 Package tourism products.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Conference context, scope and objectives may relate to:

- delegates:
  - numbers

- host organisation:
  - development needs
  - objectives
  - profile
- industry context:
  - development needs
  - current issues of concern
- practical issues:
  - dates
  - duration
  - location.

Program requirements may relate to:

- balance of social and business program
- duration
- learning and development focus
- speakers and facilitators.

Internal and external factors may include:

- current and emerging industry trends

Required skills

- communication skills including active listening and open and closed questioning to:

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

  - consult with venue or site personnel on capacity to meet event requirements
  - provide clear and accurate stakeholder briefings on venue or site options
- critical thinking skills to:
  - analyse event staging plans and determine venue or site requirements
  - evaluate a range of venue or site options against complex specifications and make substantiated selection
- learning skills to seek and assimilate new knowledge of event venues and sites
- literacy skills to:
  - read and interpret complex event plans and product and service specifications for venues and sites
  - research, collate and analyse information on new venue and site options
  - write detailed and accurate venue or site specifications
- numeracy skills to determine a range of spatial venue or site specifications including:
  - attendee capacity
  - size of assembly, storage and maintenance areas for event staging items
  - size and capacity of various areas for seating, stands and on-site registration
- planning and organising skills to access and collate all information required for venue or site selection and to source and select venues or sites within designated deadlines
- problem-solving skills to anticipate and analyse risks associated with venues or sites and to resolve with risk management plans or abandon options before selection
- self-management skills to take responsibility for all processes involved in sourcing and selecting venues or sites for events
- teamwork skills to integrate the needs of all stakeholders when defining venue or site specifications and to consult with them during the selection process
- technology skills to use calculators, computers, printers, word processing and spread sheet software packages.

Required knowledge

- operational and venue requirements for different types of events
- sources of information on event venues or sites for a broad range of event types
- key features of event venues or sites, especially those in the local area, and their capacity to service different types of events including venues for:
  - exhibitions, expositions and fairs
  - festivals
  - meetings and conventions
  - social functions
- event staging products and services offered by event venues or sites and their suitability for particular event types
- risk and regulatory issues associated with different types of venues and sites and methods of managing these
- social and environmental sustainability issues associated with different venues and sites including:

  - water and energy use
  - waste
  - local community rights during operation of events
  - maintenance of natural and cultural integrity
- operational structures within venues and sites, including relevant personnel, organisational relationships and reporting structures
- a range of formats for, inclusions and uses of:
  - venue or site specifications for the staging of events
  - venue or site contracts.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- research and select appropriate venues and sites for events involving:
  - comprehensive event plans
  - dedicated event budgets
  - formal communications plans
  - multiple operational components
  - an event operations team
  - a wide range of stakeholders
- develop selection specifications, assess and choose venues or sites for multiple and diverse events

- current and comprehensive event venue or site information:
  - product information within sales kits, brochures, product manuals, supplier information kits or information databases
  - site specifications, operational and capacity information
  - technical production and staging specifications
- industry current template venue or site specifications for the staging of events.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- case studies that allow the individual to analyse event plans and determine venue or site requirements for multiple and diverse events
- evaluation of venue or site specifications developed by the individual
- review of a comprehensive portfolio prepared by the individual that documents the entire venue selection process including notes on the event plan, draft and final venue specification, notes on discussions with venue personnel, issues taken into account when assessing various venues to meet event requirements and rationale for the final selection
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:

1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITXEVT013A Manage event staging. Title changed for clarification. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required skills and Required knowledge to more fully articulate content. Re-worked Evidence Guide to better articulate rigorous assessment requirements.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to analyse event staging requirements and organise and monitor different staging services and products. It requires the ability to use advanced planning, organisation and communication skills combined with a detailed knowledge of the event management process and broad understanding of specialist component services.

Application of the Unit

Events are diverse in nature and this unit is relevant to any type of event coordinated in any industry context, including the tourism, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors.

This unit applies to event coordinators who operate independently, and are responsible for making a range of operational decisions. They may work in event management companies, in event venues, or in organisations that organise their own events.

The unit does not cover the high levels of technical expertise required to provide individual specialist services, including catering, technical, creative and sporting. The unit is also distinct from staging specialisation units that apply to staging technicians and stage managers in the entertainment industry.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

4. Evaluate staging components.	4.1 Obtain feedback from stakeholders according to predetermined evaluation criteria. 4.2 Evaluate staging components in terms of operational efficiency and service quality. 4.3 Use information to enhance future event planning.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and negotiation skills to:
  - conduct negotiations for the supply of products and services
  - manage relationships with staging contractors
- critical thinking skills to analyse complex event requirements and make assessments about most appropriate staging options
- learning skills to maintain and expand knowledge of staging services
- initiative and enterprise skills to pro-actively identify potential for innovative approaches
- literacy skills to:
  - interpret complex event documentation
  - develop contractor specifications
- numeracy skills to:
  - evaluate event budgets
  - assess contractor quotations and negotiate costs
- planning and organising skills to:
  - organise and monitor event requirements across multiple areas of staging
  - integrate potentially competing operational and management requirements
- problem-solving skills to:
  - monitor progress and develop responses to potentially complex operational problems
- self-management skills to take responsibility for the complete contractor management process.

Required knowledge

- roles and responsibilities of organisations involved in event staging
- suppliers of staging products and services
- sources of information on staging services and products
- product and service terminology, features and options, current technology and risk considerations in key areas of staging, including:

1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITXEVT016B Organise and monitor event infrastructure. Simplified title. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required skills and Required knowledge to more fully articulate content. Re-worked Evidence Guide to better articulate rigorous assessment requirements.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to organise event infrastructure and facilities, where these do not already exist at a venue or site. The unit focuses only on the additional knowledge and skills required in this context. The unit SITXEVT503 Manage event staging components covers the coordination of all other event products and services.

Application of the Unit

Events are diverse in nature and this unit is relevant to any type of event coordinated in any industry context, including the tourism, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors.

This unit applies to event coordinators who operate independently, and are responsible for making a range of operational decisions. They may work in event management companies, in event venues, or in organisations that organise their own events.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Analyse infrastructure requirements.	1.1 Evaluate infrastructure and facility requirements based on detailed review of the proposed event and venue. 1.2 Liaise with relevant authorities at the commencement of the event management cycle and integrate regulatory requirements into the planning process. 1.3 Develop an accurate summary of infrastructure requirements for each event component in consultation with key stakeholders. 1.4 Develop a work schedule to address staging requirements identifying key activities, interrelationships and timelines. 1.5 Incorporate risk and sustainability issues into planning processes.
2. Source and organise infrastructure requirements.	2.1 Identify and source infrastructure and facilities contractors according to work schedule. 2.2 Provide accurate and complete specifications to contractors about infrastructure requirements. 2.3 Obtain complete and timely quotations for the provision of products and services. 2.4 Evaluate quotations against specifications and other relevant quality criteria. 2.5 Involve relevant authorities in the planning process by providing relevant and timely information. 2.6 Confirm agreements with contractors in writing to include details and costs of all services.
3. Monitor event infrastructure.	3.1 Monitor event preparations through ongoing liaison with contractors and other stakeholders. 3.2 Evaluate work completed against event requirements and schedules, and take appropriate action to address delays or other problems. 3.3 Assess the need for staging adjustments to maintain event quality and integrity. 3.4 Negotiate and confirm required changes.

4. Evaluate success of event infrastructure operations.	4.1 Obtain feedback from stakeholders according to predetermined evaluation criteria. 4.2 Evaluate infrastructure arrangements in terms of operational efficiency and service quality. 4.3 Use information to enhance future event planning.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and negotiation skills to:
  - conduct negotiations for the supply of products and services
  - manage relationships with staging contractors and other stakeholders
- critical thinking skills to analyse complex event requirements and make assessments about most appropriate infrastructure options
- learning skills to maintain and expand knowledge of infrastructure options and services
- initiative and enterprise skills to pro-actively identify potential for innovative approaches
- literacy skills to:
  - interpret complex event documentation
  - develop contractor specifications
- numeracy skills to:
  - evaluate event budgets
  - assess contractor quotations and negotiate costs
- planning and organising skills to:
  - organise and monitor varying infrastructure requirements
  - integrate potentially competing operational and management requirements
- problem-solving skills to:
  - anticipate and analyse risks associated with event infrastructure
  - monitor progress and develop responses to potentially complex operational problems
- self-management skills to take responsibility for the complete process of organising infrastructure.

Required knowledge

- roles and responsibilities of organisations involved in staging of events
- infrastructure requirements for a range of event types, including suitability of infrastructure for different venues
- suppliers of event infrastructure and facilities

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- sources of information on infrastructure and facilities
- product and service terminology, features and options, current technology and risk considerations in key areas related to event infrastructure and facilities, including:
  - temporary water and power supply
  - portable and demountable toilets
  - temporary structures, including marquees and demountables
  - mobile catering outlets
  - waste disposal and recycling
- sustainability considerations when introducing event infrastructure and facilities to venues and sites:
  - community and cultural values
  - environmental impacts
- regulatory considerations associated with event infrastructure and facilities, including those related to:
  - builders
  - catering facilities
  - electricians
  - plumbers
  - local government noise regulations
  - special effects
  - waste management
- typical problems that occur in event contractor management, and ways to avoid or manage these
- key inclusions for contractor briefing and specification documents.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- organise infrastructure for events involving:
  - staging at a venue or site without existing infrastructure
  - comprehensive event plans
  - dedicated event budgets
  - formal communications plans

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

- multiple operational components
- an event operations team
- a wide range of stakeholders

- organise infrastructure for multiple and diverse events
- liaise with contractors and other stakeholders during the event organisation process
- integrate knowledge of:
  - issues that impact on the organisation of events in venues without infrastructure, including:
    - range of options available
    - regulatory requirements
    - sustainability considerations.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- actual events for which infrastructure is organised. Events may be created for the specific purpose of skills assessment, but must still meet the requirements outlined under Critical aspects of assessment, and have commercial, community or business relevance. Small personal events are not appropriate as a means of assessing an individual's skills and knowledge
- venues and sites that require infrastructure; these can be:
  - real event venues and sites
  - event venues and sites within a training organisation where real events are staged
- comprehensive event plans
- dedicated event budgets formal communications plans
- suppliers, local authorities and stakeholders with whom the individual can interact.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- evaluation of event infrastructure through attendance at an event managed by the individual
- review of documentation used to coordinate infrastructure prepared by the individual
- questioning of contractors to assess the organisational skills of the individual
- use of case studies to assess individual's ability to determine infrastructure requirements for different events
- written or oral questioning to assess individual's knowledge of infrastructure services and terminology
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, organisation and job role, for example:

- SITXEVT502 Select event venues and sites.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Infrastructure and facility requirements may include:

- emergency services:
  - first aid stations
  - police
- parking
- signage
- temporary structures:
  - access structures (disabled access)
  - accommodation
  - camping
  - catering
  - dining
  - marquees
  - scaffolding
  - tents
  - toilets
- utilities:
  - air conditioning or heating
  - power supply
  - waste disposal and recycling facilities
  - water supply.

Event may include:

- business and corporate
- entertainment and leisure
- exhibitions, expositions and fairs
- festivals
- fundraising
- government and civic
- marketing

	• meetings and conventions • social • sports.
Venue may be:	• established event location • indoor • outdoor • untested event location.
Relevant authorities may include:	• emergency services • land management and protection authorities • local government • state or territory government.
Key stakeholders may include:	• business associations • clients • local businesses • local residents • organising committees • potential and actual attendees • sponsors.
Evaluation criteria may relate to:	• communication • contingency management • operational efficiency • profitability • resource efficiency • success in meeting event objectives • stakeholder feedback.

SITXEVT602 Develop event concepts

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed unit of competency set are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
1.0	N Replaces but not equivalent to SITXEVT009A Develop event concepts. Re-written and based on BSBCRT501A Originate and develop concepts. Unit now more fully articulates the creative process of developing event concepts.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to explore and refine ideas for event concepts, and to progress those concepts to the point where they can be made operational.

Application of the Unit

Events are diverse in nature and this unit is relevant to any type of event coordinated in any industry context, including the tourism, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors. Sometimes the concept development phase is undertaken in parallel with feasibility analysis or the event bidding process.

This unit applies to event managers who operate with significant autonomy and who are responsible for making a range of strategic event management decisions.

They may work in event management companies, in event venues, or in organisations that organise their own events.

The unit does not include the specialist concept development undertaken by experts such as writers, technical specialists or lighting, sound, exhibition, set or costume designers. Consultation with relevant experts, however, may be a key aspect of overall event concept development.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Evaluate and explore needs and opportunities.	1.1 Research and evaluate existing information that informs new concept development. 1.2 Expand the potential of new ideas through exploration of opportunities beyond the obvious. 1.3 Evaluate factors that impact event concept development. 1.4 Develop preliminary ideas on innovative and different ways to address needs and opportunities in consultation with relevant stakeholders.
2. Develop a range of creative approaches.	2.1 Use creative thinking techniques to generate innovative and creative concepts. 2.2 Challenge, test and experiment with different concepts as part of a collaborative process. 2.3 Evaluate event concepts in terms of suitability for the target audience or purpose, feasibility and commercial potential. 2.4 Take account of regulatory, risk and sustainability considerations as concepts and ideas are developed. 2.5 Identify resources required to achieve desired outcomes. 2.6 Evaluate and select strategies for achieving desired outcomes. 2.7 Present proposed concepts in an appropriate format.
3. Refine concepts.	3.1 Ensure concept development process is open to ongoing refinement and testing. 3.2 Seek input and feedback on concepts from relevant stakeholders. 3.3 Seek specialist advice on creative and technical aspects of proposals as required.

	3.4 Compare concepts with best practice examples of similar products, programs, processes or services. 3.5 Use creative and practical criteria to determine the advantages and disadvantages of different concepts. 3.6 Evaluate constraints on the realisation of concepts. 3.7 Refine proposals based on analysis and feedback.
4. Progress concepts to operational stage.	4.1 Verify the operational practicality and cohesiveness of the concept through consultation and analysis. 4.2 Develop implementation specifications from refined concepts. 4.3 Present specifications to relevant parties for approval, funding or approval. 4.4 Facilitate effective planning and implementation through timely provision of information on the concept relevant stakeholders. 4.5 Reflect on methodology used to generate concepts and ideas and note ways of improving this in the future.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
  - consult and liaise on potentially complex concepts and planning issues
  - engage in a collaborative process of ideas generation and refinement
- critical thinking skills to analyse, develop and refine complex information and ideas
- initiative and enterprise skills to develop innovative ideas for events
- literacy skills to analyse complex information from varied sources
- planning and organisational skills to:
  - integrate practical considerations into the concept development process
  - create implementation specifications for concepts
- numeracy skills to estimate costs and develop broad budgetary scenarios
- problem-solving skills to develop and adjust ideas in response to varied creative, management and operational challenges.

Required knowledge

- techniques for exploring, generating and testing creative ideas, and for translating these ideas into workable concepts
- internal and external factors that affect event concept development:
  - market factors:

    - competitive environment
    - potential levels of participation and interest
    - media interest
  - operational considerations:
    - access
    - climate
    - regulatory requirements
    - risk
  - resource availability, constraints and potential:
    - human
    - physical
    - financial
  - sustainability
- different creative, promotional, technical and operational options to consider when developing an event concept
- key stakeholders for different types of event.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • engage in a creative process of concept generation and refinement • develop multiple event concepts, substantiated and supported with sufficient information to allow for implementation to occur • integrate knowledge of event planning and operations opportunities and constraints.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure use of: • other people with whom the individual can interact and collaborate.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • evaluation of event concepts generated by the individual, and of the processes used to generate and test the ideas

- debate and discussion with the individual to assess knowledge of the operational context and the broader factors that impact on event concept development
- evaluation of presentation or 'pitch' made by the individual in relation to a particular concept
- use of case studies to develop concepts for different types of events
- oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of the range of key market factors and management issues to be considered in the concept development phase
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, organisation and job role, for example:

- SITXEVT603 Determine event feasibility.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Information may include:

- creative brief
- event objectives:
  - business
  - creative
  - educational
  - profile creation
  - community impact
  - participation or attendance
- event parameters:
  - date, time and duration
  - size and scope
  - location
  - resourcing

- market research
- organisational vision
- personal vision.

Exploration of opportunities beyond the obvious may involve:

- challenging existing assumptions and preconceptions
- considering change to the way things are done
- exploring practice in a different industry context
- investigating new technologies
- making connections between seemingly unrelated activities.

Stakeholders may include:

- clients
- colleagues
- creative professionals
- entertainers
- event principal
- local authorities
- local community
- organising committees
- staging contractors.

Creative thinking techniques may include:

- brainstorming:
  - bulletin board
  - buzz session
  - computer-aided
  - sequencing
  - stop and go
- Edward de Bono's six thinking hats
- ego alter or heroes
- graphic organisers:
  - concept fans
  - visual maps
  - webbing
- lateral thinking games
- making associations
- mind mapping
- morphological analysis
- sub-culture surfing
- trigger words
- use of metaphors and analogies
- vision circles
- word salads

Creative and practical criteria may relate to:	• visualisation.
	• cost-effectiveness
	• competing priorities
	• 'fit' with:
	  • creative aspirations
	  • strategic directions of organisation
	  • target market needs
	• how innovative the concept is
	• risk benefit analysis
	• technical feasibility
	• time to realise the concept.

Operational practicality and cohesiveness may relate to:	• components of the event and how they fit together • managing risk • resource availability • scheduling • sustainability • time constraints • venue or site constraints.
Implementation specifications may include:	• briefs for work • concept specification • operational plan • resource breakdown • staging requirements.

Version	Comments
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITXEVT007B Determine event feasibility. Minor changes to Elements, Performance Criteria, Required skills and Required knowledge to more fully articulate content.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to assess the viability of a proposed event, and to develop recommendations and models for its future planning and operation. It requires the ability to use advanced research, analytical and communication skills combined with a detailed knowledge of the event management process.

Application of the Unit

Events are diverse in nature and this unit is relevant to any type of event coordinated in any industry context, including the tourism, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors. Event feasibility may be determined after or in parallel with the creation of the initial event concept.

This unit applies to event managers who operate with significant autonomy and who are responsible for making a range of strategic event management decisions.

They may work in event management companies, in event venues, or in organisations that organise their own events.

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Analyse event context and rationale.	1.1 Confirm event rationale and objectives through consultation with key stakeholders and evaluation of event concept information. 1.2 Determine the place of the proposed event in relation to other events and its economic, environmental and social sustainability. 1.3 Assess the marketability of the proposed event through research and consultation. 1.4 Evaluate internal and external factors that impact on the viability of the proposed event.
2. Assess resource requirements and opportunities.	2.1 Develop complete and realistic estimates of primary event costs based on breakdown of all event components. 2.2 Identify potential sources of revenue and other resources and develop realistic estimates. 2.3 Test and explore different resource scenarios with a range of possible event models.
3. Evaluate planning and operational requirements.	3.1 Analyse overall event planning and management requirements. 3.2 Evaluate operational requirements for each event component. 3.3 Identify compliance requirements and their impact on event management and operations. 3.4 Consider and develop opportunities to enhance sustainability.
4. Develop recommendations and models.	4.1 Develop positions and recommendations based on outcomes of analysis. 4.2 Develop planning, management and operational recommendations for the overall event and key event components. 4.3 Clearly articulate contingency planning requirements.

4.4 Present accurate and complete income and expenditure estimates to inform future decision-making.

4.5 Offer different models and options, including clear details of benefits and risks of suggested models.

4.6 Present key stakeholders with feasibility outcomes in appropriate format.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to consult and liaise with stakeholders on strategic event management proposals and issues
- critical thinking skills to analyse complex information from varying sources and develop strategic positions and recommendations as a result of analysis
- initiative and enterprise skills to develop innovative models and recommendations for event management
- literacy skills to:
  - analyse complex event information
  - articulate complex arguments, scenarios and recommendations
- numeracy skills to estimate costs and develop different budgetary scenarios and models
- planning and organising skills to provide recommendations for cohesive event planning and management
- problem-solving skills to develop strategic positions and recommendations in response to complex event management and operational challenges.

Required knowledge

- features and formats or a wide range of event types
- internal and external factors that impact on event feasibility and affect its management and operation
- resource requirements for the overall staging of complex events, and for specific event components
- sources of potential revenue for different types of event
- sources of event industry references, and broader references that may inform emerging and innovative practice in event management and operations
- current and emerging event industry trends across all areas of planning, management and operations, including:
  - marketing trends
  - management models
  - opportunities offered by new technologies
  - sustainable event management

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to:
	• develop and present a detailed feasibility analysis that includes substantiated positions and recommendations for at least one event concept that involves the need for:
	  • comprehensive event plans
	  • dedicated event budgets
	  • formal communications plans
	  • multiple operational components
	  • an event operations team
	  • a wide range of stakeholders
	• integrate knowledge of:
	  • current and emerging event industry trends across areas of planning, management and operations
	  • internal and external factors that impact on event feasibility
	  • resource requirements for the overall staging of events, and for specific event components.

Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure use of: • a real event concept on which to base the feasibility analysis. Event concepts may be created for the specific purpose of skills assessment, but must still meet the requirements outlined under Critical aspects of assessment, and have commercial, community or business relevance. Small personal events are not appropriate as a means of assessing an individual's skills and knowledge • event stakeholders with whom the individual interacts • current industry data and information sources to inform the feasibility analysis.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- evaluation of feasibility studies prepared by the individual
- oral or written questioning to assess depth of individual's event industry knowledge
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, organisation and job role, for example:

- SITXEVT602 Develop event concepts
- SITXEVT604 Develop and implement event management plans.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Key stakeholders may include:

- community groups
- host organisation
- industry bodies
- organising committees
- potential sponsors.

Event concept information may relate to:

- dates and times
- duration
- format
- management structures
- objectives
- proposed location or venue.

Place of the proposed event may relate to:

- community values
- economic objectives
- other events:
  - competing and complementary events
  - similar formats

- philosophy of host organisation
- previous events or past practice
- supplementary events
- wider industry directions.

Internal and external factors may include:

- competitor activity
- industry context
- management structures
- organisation objectives
- resource constraints
- social, political or economic factors.

Primary event costs may include:

- catering
- collateral materials
- equipment
- marketing costs
- security
- staffing requirements
- transport
- venue.

Potential sources of revenue and other resources may include:

- community organisations
- general public
- government funding
- grants
- industry bodies
- participating organisations
- sponsors.

Planning and management requirements may relate to:

- administration
- marketing
- management structures, roles and responsibilities
- resources:
  - financial
  - human
  - physical
- sustainability
- technology.

Operational requirements for each event component may relate to:

- minimal impact practices for the construction, maintenance and disposal of event staging
- components paid and voluntary staff requirements
- specialist assistance
- staging requirements, including:
  - catering
  - equipment

4.3 Review and assess the effectiveness of event plans in delivering outcomes and identify deficiencies.

4.4 Use information to enhance future event planning.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and negotiation skills to elicit diverse stakeholder input to complex event plans and negotiate agreements
- critical thinking skills to:
  - analyse complex event information to determine planning requirements
  - develop practical and operationally sound event plans and management responses
- literacy skills to:
  - interpret complex and varied event information from diverse sources
  - write complex event plans and performance measurement documents to facilitate event planning and evaluation
- numeracy skills to interpret event budgets for diverse components and develop resource specifications within budgetary parameters
- planning and organising skills to collect information from diverse sources, establish integrated event plans and regularly monitor event planning activities
- problem-solving skills to address a broad range of operational issues at a management level
- teamwork skills to consult with stakeholders and incorporate their views to develop effective event plans.

Required knowledge

- sources of information that inform event plan development including:
  - event concepts
  - feasibility analysis
  - initial budget
  - proposals or bids
  - sources of revenue
- internal and external factors and their impacts on event plans
- key event planning concepts:
  - steps in the planning process
  - technologies that support effective event planning

- integrate knowledge of:
  - key planning concepts, techniques and steps in the planning process
  - event plan formats and inclusions
  - event performance measurement systems
  - risk, regulatory and sustainability issues associated with staging events and methods of managing these.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- actual events for which plans are developed and implemented. Events may be created for the specific purpose of skills assessment, but must still meet the requirements outlined under Critical aspects of assessment, and have commercial, community or business relevance. Small personal events are not appropriate as a means of assessing an individual's skills and knowledge. Events can be operated in:
  - real event venues and sites
  - event venues and sites operated within a training organisation such as auditoria, exhibition areas, conference rooms, restaurants and sporting facilities where real events are staged
- information to inform event plan development including dedicated event budgets and concept documents
- stakeholders with whom the individual can interact.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- evaluation of event plans prepared by the individual
- review of event evaluations prepared by the individual
- evaluation of reports prepared by the individual detailing the plan, how the planning process was undertaken, the ways in which implementation and evaluation of the plan and event operation were carried out and the lessons learned to inform future event planning
- use of case studies that allow the individual to analyse event information and determine the scope, nature and format required for plans
- problem-solving exercises to allow the individual to respond to the need for plan adjustments
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - key planning concepts and techniques
  - risk, regulatory and sustainability issues and methods of managing these
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace

1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITXEVT018B Develop a transport strategy for an event. Simplified title. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required skills and Required knowledge to more fully articulate content. Re-worked Evidence Guide to better articulate rigorous assessment requirements.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to analyse event transport needs and develop appropriate plans and procedures for transporting people to, from and between event venues. It requires the ability to use critical thinking, planning and organisational skills, combined with a knowledge of transport management issues and options.

Application of the Unit

Events are diverse in nature and this unit is relevant to any type of event coordinated in any industry context, including the tourism, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors.

This unit applies to event managers who operate with significant autonomy and who are responsible for making a range of strategic event management decisions. They may work in event management companies, in event venues, or in organisations that organise their own events.

The unit may have particular application in the transport industry, where transport companies may be called upon to work on the development of an event transport strategy. However, the unit does not cover the specialist skills required to manage and monitor large transport fleets, as these roles are undertaken by people working as transport specialists.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to consult with diverse stakeholders on complex management and operational issues
- critical thinking skills to:
  - analyse complex event information to determine nature of transport requirements
  - develop practical and operationally sound event transport solutions
- literacy skills to:
  - interpret complex event documentation
  - develop plans and operational documents for the management of event transport
- numeracy skills to work with event budgets
- planning and organisational skills to develop cohesive operational plans and procedures
- problem-solving skills to anticipate and respond to potential transport risks and problems with effective strategies and procedures.

Required knowledge

- role of transport planning in the overall context of event management
- types of events that require the development of dedicated transport strategies
- sources of specialist assistance for complex transport planning
- transport alternatives for consideration in the planning process:
  - private
  - public
  - air, land and sea
- legislation, regulations and industry codes that affect transport planning
- transport strategy resource requirements:
  - financial
  - human
  - physical

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to:
	• develop transport plans for events involving:
	  • comprehensive event plans
	  • dedicated event budgets
	  • formal communications plans
	  • multiple operational components
	  • an event operations team
	  • a wide range of stakeholders
	• analyse event transport needs and develop resource and cost efficient strategies and operational plans for multiple and diverse events
	• integrate knowledge of:
	  • transport alternatives
	  • legislation, regulations and industry codes that affect transport planning
	  • transport strategy resource requirements
	  • issues and risks associated with event transport.

Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure use of: • real or simulated events for which transport plans are developed. Events may be created for the specific purpose of skills assessment, but must still meet the requirements outlined under Critical aspects of assessment, and have commercial, community or business relevance. Small personal events are not appropriate as a means of assessing an individual's skills and knowledge

- comprehensive event plans
- dedicated event budgets
- formal communications plans
- current industry documentation and publications relating to transport options
- event stakeholders with whom the individual consults.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- evaluation of event transport strategies and operational plans prepared by the individual
- use of case studies to assess individual's ability to develop transport strategies for a range of different events
- written or oral questioning to assess detailed knowledge of different event transport issues and options
- review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, organisation and job role.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Events may include:

- business and corporate
- entertainment and leisure
- exhibitions, expositions and fairs
- festivals
- fundraising
- government and civic
- marketing
- meetings and conventions
- social
- sports.

Key event information may relate to:

- dates and times
- duration

- efficient use of combined transport options to maximise profitability for the event operator
- environmental targets
- financial targets
- service quality
- time targets for movement of people and equipment.

Transport procedures may relate to:

- adequate provision for buses
- adequate provision for disabled people
- arrival of clients – dump or trickle
- communication
- contingency and backup options
- emergency services presence and access
- human resource requirements:
  - drivers

SITXEVT606 Develop crowd management plans

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed unit of competency set are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITXEVT011A Develop crowd control plans and procedures. Simplified title. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required skills and Required knowledge to more fully articulate content.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to develop plans and procedures for the admittance, seating and dispersal of crowds to ensure the safety, security and well-being of personnel and participants. It requires the ability to use critical thinking, planning and organisational skills, combined with a detailed knowledge of risk management issues, crowd control techniques and relevant emergency procedures.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to individuals responsible for the development of plans and procedures for the management of large crowds in any industry or community context, including events.

This unit applies to managers who operate with significant autonomy and who are responsible for making a range of strategic management decisions.

The unit does not cover the specialised operational crowd management skills required by police or other security experts.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Analyse risks associated with large crowds.	1.1 Identify and evaluate crowd management regulatory constraints and requirements. 1.2 Identify and analyse general risks associated with gathering of large crowds. 1.3 Identify and analyse current and emerging situation-specific risks and assess for their impact on planning. 1.4 Inspect, or organise inspection of, venue and facilities to ensure regulatory compliance and facilitate risk assessment. 1.5 Assess need for specialised security assistance or involvement of authorities in crowd management.
2. Develop crowd management strategies.	2.1 Establish maximum limits for admission based on analysis of risks and venue. 2.2 Estimate expected crowd numbers based on historical data and current trends or attendance information. 2.3 Consult with relevant stakeholders on crowd management approaches. 2.4 Develop approaches that minimise identified risks. 2.5 Evaluate and respond to broader management constraints and issues. 2.6 Develop evaluation criteria for crowd management strategies in consultation with stakeholders.
3. Develop crowd management operational plan.	3.1 Develop and document crowd management procedures, including contingency procedures. 3.2 Determine and document resource requirements for crowd management. 3.3 Identify critical tasks and allocate responsibilities and timelines. 3.4 Develop contractor specifications as required. 3.5 Obtain approval for plan from relevant stakeholders.

	3.6 Provide operational information to staff and other stakeholders.
4. Develop emergency crowd management procedures.	4.1 Develop and document procedures for managing crowds in emergency situations in consultation with relevant stakeholders. 4.2 Identify and document safety needs of special populations in emergency situations. 4.3 Implement and accurately document required practice drills.
5. Evaluate crowd management plans and procedures.	5.1 Evaluate effectiveness of crowd management, based on agreed evaluation criteria. 5.2 Incorporate outcomes of evaluation into future planning.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to consult with diverse stakeholders on management and operational issues
- critical thinking skills to:
  - analyse risks associated with large crowds
  - develop appropriate crowd management strategies and procedures
- literacy skills to:
  - interpret complex information from diverse sources
  - develop plans and operational documents explaining crowd control strategies and procedures
- numeracy skills to work with concepts around capacity
- planning and organisational skills to develop cohesive operational plans and procedures
- problem-solving skills to anticipate and respond to potential crowd control risks and problems with effective strategies and procedures.

Required knowledge

- types of situations that require specific crowd control planning
- sources of specialist assistance in relation to crowd management and the role and scope of security services
- legislation, regulation and industry codes that affect crowd management:
  - duty of care
  - emergency procedures
  - first aid
  - professional indemnity

    - public liability
    - work health and safety
- risk management issues associated with gathering of large crowds and ways to manage these:
    - access
    - accident
    - congestion and overcrowding
    - crowd stress
    - fire
- resource requirements for crowd management:
    - financial
    - human
    - physical:
        - equipment for controlling access
        - security technologies.

1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITXEVT019A Manage multi-venue events. More accurate title. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required skills and Required knowledge to more fully articulate content. Re-worked Evidence Guide to better articulate rigorous assessment requirements.

Unit Descriptor

This unit deals with the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to address the particular issues that apply to events that operate across a number of venues. It requires the ability to use significant analytical and management skills, combined with a strong understanding of event management operational issues. The unit focuses only on the additional knowledge and skills required in the context of cross-venue event operations.

Application of the Unit

Events are diverse in nature and this unit is relevant to any type of event coordinated in any industry context, including the tourism, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors.

This unit applies to event managers who operate with significant autonomy and who are responsible for making a range of strategic event management decisions. They may work in event management companies, or in organisations that organise their own events.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and negotiation skills to:
  - consult with stakeholders on complex management and operational requirements
  - manage relationships and negotiations with venue stakeholders
- critical thinking skills to analyse complex information from varying sources and develop operational strategies and procedures in response
- learning skills to evaluate and reflect on potential improvements for future event planning
- literacy skills to:
  - interpret complex event documentation
  - develop clear operational procedures for event personnel across multiple venues
- numeracy skills to assess budgetary impacts of multi-venue operations
- planning and organising skills to:
  - manage information from multiple sources
  - develop cohesive strategies and procedures for smooth operation of multi-venue events
- problem-solving skills to anticipate and address management and operational issues across multiple venues.

Required knowledge

- types of events that require the use of multiple venues
- implications of multi-event operations and ways to address these:
  - communication
  - management structures
  - operational complexities
  - resources:
    - financial
    - human
    - physical
  - safety
- inter-venue communication options, including relevant technologies to suit particular event requirements
- risk management issues associated with the use of multiple venues for an event:

SITXEVT608 Plan and allocate exhibition space

Modification History

Version	Comments
1.0	N Replaces but not equivalent to SITXEVT015B Manage exhibitions. Previously a large unit that described many processes for exhibition planning. Unit has been split into two. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required skills and Required knowledge to more fully articulate content. Re-worked Evidence Guide to better articulate rigorous assessment requirements.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to establish exhibition floor plans and allocate exhibitor and service space. It requires the ability to liaise closely with exhibition stakeholders to determine operational requirements and meet exhibitor and consumer expectations.

Application of the Unit

Exhibitions are diverse in nature and this unit is relevant to any type of exhibition coordinated in any industry context, including the tourism, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors.

Exhibitions are events that bring any type of sellers and buyers together. They could be trade or consumer focussed, and may be stand-alone exhibitions or a component of other events such as fairs, expos, conferences and festivals.

This unit applies to exhibition managers who operate with significant autonomy and who are responsible for making a range of strategic exhibition management decisions. They may work in exhibition management companies, in event venues or for organisations such as industry bodies that stage exhibitions.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to consult, liaise and negotiate with a wide range of stakeholders on complex planning and operational issues
- critical thinking skills to evaluate operational requirements for exhibitions
- initiative and enterprise skills to identify exhibition profit expectations and establish floor plans which maximise profitability
- literacy skills to:
  - read and interpret complex exhibition planning documents
  - write criteria for the allocation of exhibitor space
- numeracy skills to calculate complex spatial designs for exhibitor formats and sizes
- planning and organising skills to access and collate all information required to establish floor plans and to allocate space within designated deadlines
- problem-solving skills to:
  - assess safety, security and environmental risks and plan layouts to minimise these
  - identify and resolve conflicting demands for exhibitor space
- teamwork skills to:
  - integrate the needs of all stakeholders when establishing floor plans
  - consult on the allocation of exhibitor space
  - seek feedback from personnel and contractors on exhibition operations.

Required knowledge

- characteristics of different types of exhibitions; their purpose and objectives
- roles, responsibilities and hierarchy of control of different stakeholders in the exhibition planning process
- spatial design techniques for maximising exhibitor space and profitability
- safety, security and environmental risks and methods of managing these when designing exhibition floor plans
- buyer and seller interaction formats and methods to incorporate requirements into exhibition floor plans
- a range of formats for and inclusions of:

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

  - criteria for the allocation of exhibitor space
  - floor plans
- for the specific industry sector:
  - overall exhibition layout themes and schemas
  - exhibitor formats and sizes to meet different exhibitor requirements
  - key features and functions of ancillary exhibition services operated at exhibition venues
- profiles for exhibitors involved in the specific exhibition
- environmentally sound disposal methods for all types of waste and in particular for recycling high levels of paper based resources associated with exhibitions.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

- plan and allocate exhibition space within commercial time constraints and exhibition deadlines.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- actual exhibitions for which space is planned and allocated. Exhibitions may be created for the specific purpose of skills assessment, but must still meet the requirements outlined under Critical aspects of assessment, and have commercial, community or business relevance.
- venues and sites where exhibitions are staged; these can be:
  - real exhibition venues and sites
  - exhibition venues and sites operated within a training organisation where real exhibitions are staged
- exhibition stakeholders with whom the individual consults
- comprehensive exhibition plans
- dedicated exhibition budgets
- exhibitor profiles
- current and comprehensive exhibition venue information:
  - product information within sales kits, brochures, product manuals, supplier information kits or information databases
  - site specifications, operational and capacity information
  - technical production and staging specifications
- accurate and complete exhibition floor plans for venues and sites.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation, using role plays, of the individual liaising with exhibition stakeholders to plan and allocate space
- case studies that allow the individual to analyse operational requirements and plan layouts for multiple and diverse exhibitions
- evaluation of exhibition floor plans developed by the individual
- review of a comprehensive portfolio prepared by the individual that documents the entire planning process for exhibition layouts including notes on discussions with stakeholders, notes on the exhibition purpose and objectives, evaluation of operational requirements, issues taken into account when assessing safety, security and environmental risks, draft and final floor plan and rationale for the final layout
- problem-solving exercises to allow the individual to analyse and respond to conflicting demands for exhibitor space
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - characteristics of, purpose and objectives for different types of exhibitions

- spatial design techniques for maximising exhibitor space and profitability
- exhibitor formats and sizes to meet different exhibitor requirements
- key features and functions of ancillary exhibition services operated at exhibition venues

- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, organisation and job role, for example:

- SITXEVT502 Select event venues and sites
- SITXEVT606 Develop crowd management plans
- SITXWHS301 Identify hazards, assess and control safety risks.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Stakeholders may include:

- corporate clients
- exhibition or event management companies
- industry associations
- media organisations

SITXEVT609 Recruit and manage exhibitors

Modification History

Version	Comments
1.0	N Replaces but not equivalent to SITXEVT015B Manage exhibitions. Previously a large unit that described many processes for exhibition planning. Unit has been split into two. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required skills and Required knowledge to more fully articulate content. Re-worked Evidence Guide to better articulate rigorous assessment requirements.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to recruit and work with exhibitors during the planning, staging and follow up phases of an exhibition.

Application of the Unit

Exhibitions are diverse in nature and this unit is relevant to any type of exhibition coordinated in any industry context, including the tourism, hospitality, sport, cultural and community sectors.

Exhibitions are events that bring any type of sellers and buyers together. They could be trade or consumer focussed, and may be stand-alone exhibitions or a component of other events such as fairs, expos, conferences and festivals.

This unit applies to exhibition managers who operate with significant autonomy and who are responsible for making a range of strategic exhibition management decisions. They may work in exhibition management companies, in event venues or for organisations such as industry bodies that stage exhibitions.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Confirm exhibition scope and format.	1.1 Assess proposed exhibition concept to determine planning and operational requirements. 1.2 Consult with key stakeholders about exhibition objectives. 1.3 Develop overall format in consultation with stakeholders. 1.4 Develop a work schedule to address exhibitor recruitment and management requirements identifying key activities, interrelationships and timelines.
2. Establish format for buyer and seller interaction.	2.1 Determine most appropriate format for buyer and seller interaction based on analysis of exhibition objectives, operational constraints and consultation with key stakeholders. 2.2 Establish and monitor procedures and systems for one to one appointment scheduling when required. 2.3 Ensure format, systems and procedures integrate well with other exhibition components and considerations through liaison with colleagues and stakeholders.
3. Recruit exhibitors.	3.1 Develop clear, professional and legally compliant exhibitor prospectus, including breakdown of costs, benefits and other relevant exhibitor information. 3.2 Distribute and present exhibitor prospectus according to agreed targets and marketing plan. 3.3 Maximise take-up of space and profitability through follow up promotion and negotiation as required. 3.4 Execute exhibitor contracts and agreements to include full details of commitments made by both parties.
4. Support	4.1 Provide or organise exhibitor support services.

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed unit of competency set are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITXFIN001A Process financial transactions.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to accept and process cash and other payments for products and services and to reconcile takings at the end of the service period or day.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to all tourism, travel, hospitality and event sectors.

This unit mainly applies to frontline sales and operations personnel who operate with some level of independence and under limited supervision. It does, however, describe a fundamental operational function and those people who work with very little independence under close supervision would also use this skill.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to:
	• efficiently clean bars, public areas and equipment on multiple occasions according to cleaning schedules
	• work safely and use resources efficiently to reduce negative environmental impacts
	• work with speed and efficiency to complete cleaning tasks
	• integrate knowledge of:
	  • different types of cleaning agents and chemicals for bars, public areas and equipment
	  • cleaning sanitising and disinfecting methods for bars, public areas and equipment
	  • correct and environmentally sound disposal methods for waste and hazardous substances.

Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure use of:
	• an operational commercial bar with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines; this may be a:
	  • real industry workplace
	  • simulated industry environment such as a training bar servicing customers
	• industry-realistic ratios of bar staff to customers
	• equipment used to clean bars, public areas and equipment
	• a variety of commercial cleaning and sanitising agents and chemicals for cleaning bars, public areas and equipment
	• commercial cleaning schedules

- safety procedures
- MSDS for cleaning agents and chemicals and or plain English workplace documents or diagrams that interpret the content of MSDS.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual cleaning a fully equipped bar
- inspection of public areas cleaned by the individual
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - different types of cleaning agents and chemicals
  - cleaning sanitising and disinfecting methods
  - disposal methods for waste and hazardous substances
  - review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- BSBWOR203B Work effectively with others
- SITHFAB202 Operate a bar
- SITXCCS202 Interact with customers
- SITXWHS101 Participate in safe work practices.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Cleaning agents and chemicals include:

- automatic dishwasher:
  - liquid
  - powder
  - tablets
- bleach
- cleaning agents for specialised surfaces

- deodorisers
- dishwashing liquid
- disinfectants
- floor cleaners
- glass cleaner
- pesticides
- stainless steel cleaner and polish
- window cleaner.

Bar surfaces and equipment include:

- beer, wine and post-mix service points
- blenders
- cash register and related equipment
- coffee machines
- dishwashers
- food containers for garnishes and chips
- glass washers
- glassware
- ice machines
- refrigeration equipment
- service counters
- utensils.

Public areas may be indoor or outdoor and include:

- bar
- function
- gaming
- restaurant.

Cleaning equipment may include:

- brooms, brushes and dustpans
- buckets
- cleaning cloths
- dishwashers
- mops.

Personal protective equipment may include:

- face masks
- gloves
- goggles
- rubber aprons.

Recyclables may include:

- glass bottles and jars
- plastics
- paper and cardboard
- tin or aluminium containers
- fruit and vegetable matter.

Hazardous substances may include:

- chemicals
- cleaning agents.

SITHFAB201 Provide responsible service of alcohol

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed unit of competency set are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
2.0 updated on 2 March 2023	Minor changes to Range Statement
2.0	Amendments to the Evidence Guide which better define the assessment environment and assessment requirements of the unit.
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITHFAB009A Provide responsible service of alcohol.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to responsibly sell or serve alcohol.

Application of the Unit

Responsible practices must be undertaken wherever alcohol is served or sold, including where alcohol samples are served during on-site product tastings. This unit, therefore, applies to any workplace where alcohol is served or sold, including all types of hospitality venues, retail liquor outlets and wineries, breweries and distilleries.

This unit applies to all levels of sales personnel involved in the sale, service and promotional service of alcohol in licensed premises. Those selling or serving alcohol may include food and beverage attendants; retail liquor sales persons; winery, brewery and distillery cellar door staff and supplier sales representatives. It also applies to security staff who monitor customer behaviour and to the licensee who is ultimately responsible for RSA management.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

The unit incorporates the knowledge requirements, under state and territory liquor licensing law, for employees engaged in the sale or service of alcohol.

© Commonwealth of Australia, 2025 Service and Creative Skills Australia

Certification requirements differ across states and territories. In most cases all people involved in the sale, service and promotional service of alcohol in licensed premises must be certified in this unit. This can include the licensee and security staff.

This unit covers the Responsible Service of Alcohol (RSA) skill and knowledge requirements common to all States and Territories. Some legislative requirements and knowledge will differ across borders. In some cases after completion of this unit, state and territory liquor authorities require candidates to complete a bridging course to address these specific differences.

Those developing training to support this unit must consult the relevant state or territory liquor licensing authority to determine any accreditation arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors.

Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Sell or serve alcohol responsibly.	1.1 Sell or serve alcohol according to provisions of relevant state or territory legislation, licensing requirements and responsible service of alcohol principles. 1.2 Provide accurate information to customers on alcoholic beverages according to organisation or house policy and government legislation, including types, strengths, standard drinks and the alcoholic percentages of a range of frequently sold alcoholic beverages. 1.3 Assist customers with information on the range of non alcoholic beverages available for purchase. 1.4 Identify issues related to the sale and service of alcohol to different types of customers, especially those at risk, and incorporate them into sales or service.

harm minimisation
- the key provisions of liquor laws and regulations at a depth relevant to the scope of job responsibility within licensed premises
- the ramifications of non-compliance with the law and industry codes for the organisation, licensee and individual staff members.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a real or simulated workplace
- a range of industry equipment to demonstrate standard drink measures or samples
- relevant and current publications, signage, information and plain English fact sheets distributed by government regulators and industry bodies.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess the practical skills and knowledge required to sell or serve alcohol responsibly.

The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- role-plays or case studies simulating customers, intoxicated patrons and alcohol that allow assessment of the individual's ability to:
  - interact with customers and explain organisational legal requirements to sell or serve alcohol responsibly
  - explain in-house policies for the service of alcohol
  - refuse service to people to whom alcohol cannot be served
  - speak to intoxicated customers to minimise confrontation
- case studies and problem-solving activities to assess the individual's ability to respond to:
  - situations where customers are engaging in erratic drinking patterns
  - signage deficiencies
  - situations that pose a safety threat
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of legislation and all other knowledge components of this unit
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

substances, recyclable glass and plastic bottles and containers.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to:
	• set up, operate and close down a bar for multiple service periods
	• prepare a diverse range of drinks, both alcoholic and non-alcoholic to meet diverse customer requests
	• use the correct equipment, ingredients and standard measures to prepare alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages
	• work with speed and efficiency to deal with numerous service and operational tasks simultaneously
	• integrate knowledge of:
	  • different types of bars and bar service
	  • organisational standards for operating the bar
	  • major types of beverages and their characteristics
	  • safety issues and safe work practices of specific relevance to bar operations.

Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure use of:

Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- prepare and present a diverse range of non-alcoholic beverages, over multiple service periods, to meet different customer requests
- present multiple non-alcoholic beverages that are attractive and consistent in quality, volume and appearance
- use the correct equipment, ingredients and standard measures
- work with speed and efficiency to deal with numerous service tasks simultaneously
- integrate knowledge of:
  - major types of teas, non-espresso coffees, other non-alcoholic beverages and their characteristics
  - preparation methods for popular non-alcoholic beverages
  - organisational and traditional presentation standards.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- an operational food and beverage outlet with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines including specific equipment for preparing non-alcoholic beverages; this may be a:
  - real industry workplace
  - simulated industry environment such as a training food and beverage outlet servicing customers
- industry-realistic ratios of service staff to customers
- commercial beverage menus and standard recipes for non-alcoholic drinks currently used by the hospitality industry
- organisational and traditional presentation standards non-alcoholic beverages
- a wide commercial range of non-alcoholic beverage ingredients.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual preparing and serving a variety of non-alcoholic drinks
- evaluation of the taste and visual appeal of drinks produced by the individual

- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - major types of teas, coffees and other non alcoholic beverages and their characteristics
  - preparation methods
  - standards for presentation
- review of portfolio of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITHFAB206 Serve food and beverage
- SITHKOP101 Clean kitchen premises and equipment
- SITXCCS202 Interact with customers
- SITXFIN201 Process financial transactions
- SITXWHS101 Participate in safe work practices.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

- planning and organising skills to select and prepare equipment and set up the dining area in advance of the service period
- problem-solving skills to recognise any delays in food service and rectify to the customer's satisfaction
- teamwork skills to provide operational information to colleagues
- technology skills to use organisational ordering systems and equipment.

Required knowledge

- for food and beverage outlets and the organisation in particular, features of:
  - work flow structure for food and beverage service
  - ordering systems and procedures
  - workflow between kitchen and front of house areas
  - service procedures
  - end of shift procedures
- techniques for:
  - carrying and placing plates containing meals
  - clearing and carrying multiple used plates and other serviceware
- key features of food and beverage items on the menus
- correct and environmentally sound disposal methods for food and beverage waste including recyclable glass and plastic bottles and containers.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to:
	• prepare for and provide effective food and beverage service for multiple service periods
	• interact with and positively respond to the diverse demands and requests of multiple customers
	• work with speed and efficiency to deal with numerous service and operational tasks simultaneously
	• integrate knowledge of:
	  • set up, service and end of shift procedures
	  • ordering systems and procedures
	  • key features of food and beverage items on menus.

Context of and specific	Assessment must ensure use of:

resources for assessment

- an operational food and beverage outlet with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines; this may be a:
  - real industry workplace
  - simulated industry environment such as a training food and beverage outlet servicing customers
- industry-realistic ratios of service staff to customers
- kitchen staff with whom the individual can interact
- commercial food and beverage menus currently used by the hospitality industry
- freshly prepared meals to be served.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual preparing for service, providing service to customers and closing down after service
- direct observation of the individual undertaking specific tasks, such as taking and processing orders, serving food and drink items or clearing tables
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - set up, service and end of shift procedures
  - ordering systems and procedures
  - key features of food and beverage items on the menus
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITHFAB203 Prepare and serve non-alcoholic beverages
- SITXCCS202 Interact with customers
- SITXFIN201 Process financial transactions
- SITXWHS101 Participate in safe work practices.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Menu may include:

- bar food
- blackboard
- buffet
- finger food
- set
- specials
- table d'hôte.

Style of service may include:

- bar
- bistro
- café
- counter
- espresso coffee bar
- plate service
- table.

Service period may include:

- afternoon tea
- breakfast
- dinner
- lunch.

Environment may include:

- background noise
- decorations and displays
- lighting
- music
- privacy
- room temperature.

Equipment may include:

- bains marie
- computerised ordering systems
- condiments and condiment containers
- crockery
- cutlery
- espresso machine
- food and beverage menus
- glassware for alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages
- linen
- oven to tableware
- placemats

- platters, lids and covers
- promotional materials
- service utensils
- tea and coffee making equipment.

Information provided to customers may relate to:

- food and beverages
- location of customer facilities
- menu choices, options and availability
- specials
- the location or area.

Ordering system may be:

- electronic:
  - PALM order pad
  - touch screen
- manual:
  - hand written on order pad.

Process accounts may involve:

- depositing money in cash register, processing and giving change
- handing account to another person to process
- processing credit cards or Electronic Funds Transfer at Point Of Sale (EFTPOS)
- using:
  - Electronic Point-Of-Sale (POS) system with touch screen or PALM order pad
  - EFTPOS equipment.

End of shift procedures may include:

- clearing, cleaning and dismantling furniture
- cleaning equipment, such as coffee machines and bains marie
- participating in debriefing sessions, including quality service reviews
- placing equipment and furniture in allocated storage areas
- preparing for the next service period:
  - polishing glassware
  - resetting tables
  - restocking.

SITHFAB301 Operate and monitor cellar systems

Modification History

Version	Comments
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITHFAB227A Operate and monitor cellar systems. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge to more fully articulate content.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to work safely in a cellar. It requires the ability to operate and maintain beverage dispensing systems, and monitor refrigeration systems, the overall safety of cellar operations and the quality of beverage products.

Application of the Unit

Cellar covers any area used as the storage location for bulk beverages and the equipment that supports its service. This unit applies to hotels, clubs, casinos and sporting venues, but is also relevant to restaurants, or any other permanent or temporary catering venue where a cellar is maintained.

This unit applies to any person who has responsibility for the operation and monitoring of a cellar. They may be a dedicated cellar person, a senior bar attendant, a manager or a business owner and they sometimes have stock control responsibilities.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

Safety issues and compliance requirements are a key focus of the unit. These reflect compliance requirements under Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) or Work Health and Safety (WHS) legislation and obligations under Australian Standard AS 5034-2005 Installation and use of inert gases for beverage dispensing.

Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Operate and maintain beverage dispensing systems.	1.1 Operate beer systems according to manufacturer instructions and relevant safety requirements. 1.2 Tap kegs according to safety requirements and manufacturer instructions. 1.3 Handle, connect and store beverage gas according to relevant safety standards. 1.4 Check post mix systems for effective operation and change syrup boxes as required. 1.5 Clean beverage system parts in accordance with manufacturer instructions and safety requirements. 1.6 Use chemicals safely according to product instructions. 1.7 Correct or report dispensing system faults to the appropriate person according to scope of individual responsibility.
2. Use and monitor refrigeration systems.	2.1 Monitor and accurately measure refrigeration system, and adjust to comply with product requirements. 2.2 Perform routine checking of glycol levels and cleaning of vents, ensuring safe use of chemicals at all times. 2.3 Promptly identify refrigeration faults and report to qualified refrigeration mechanic according to organisational procedures.
3. Monitor overall cellar safety.	3.1 Make regular routine checks of gas systems according to relevant safety standards. 3.2 Systematically monitor the use and storage of chemicals and ensure safety requirements are met. 3.3 Monitor the cellar area for safety signage and take action to rectify any deficiencies. 3.4 Proactively provide relevant information about safety issues to other workers.
4. Monitor quality of beverage	4.1 Monitor cellar temperature to ensure optimum storage conditions for different beverage products.

products.	4.2 Systematically check cellar conditions to ensure the requirements of the Australia New Zealand Food Standards (ANZFS) Code are met. 4.3 Use systematic product rotation to maintain quality. 4.4 Use manual or electronic stock control system to monitor quality of products and control stock during receiving, storage and issuing. 4.5 Test the quality of beverage products regularly and identify faults. 4.6 Take appropriate action to rectify faults within scope of individual responsibility or report to the appropriate person.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to make accurate verbal reports on dispensing system faults
- critical thinking skills to evaluate the operational efficiency of all cellar systems and implement systematic changes to improve operations
- literacy skills to:
  - read and interpret:
    - ANZFS codes
    - complex manufacturer's instructions for the operation of a range of cellar equipment
    - logbook entries
    - Material Safety Data Sheets (MSDS)
    - safety procedures and signs
    - stock control system records
  - write reports on faulty equipment, document measurements of all equipment calibrations and complete logbook entries for testing and checking activities
- numeracy skills to:
  - accurately calculate complex calibrations of a range of cellar equipment
  - calculate the dilution requirements for chemicals and cleaning products
  - measure temperatures for the storage of cellar stock items
- planning and organising skills to systematically monitor cellar conditions and the operational efficiency and safety of all cellar equipment
- problem-solving skills to identify faults in operational cellar systems and adjust equipment to rectify faults
- self-management skills to manage own speed, timing and productivity
- teamwork skills to provide practical information about cellar issues to colleagues

- technology skills to work with equipment at an operational and basic maintenance level.

Required knowledge

- key requirements of cellar compliance laws, including:
  - Health Act
  - OHS or WHS legislation
  - Food Standards Australia New Zealand (FSANZ) Act 1991
- primary elements of the ANZFS Code that directly impact on cellar operations
- full requirements of Australian Standards that directly impact on cellar operations:
  - AS5034-2005 Installation and use of inert gases for beverage dispensing, and associated standards
  - AS3780-1994 The storage and handling of corrosive substances
- operational features of beverage gas systems, including:
  - key components of beverage dispensing systems for beer and post mix syrups
  - isolating gas board
  - monitoring alarms
  - monitoring of regulator pressures
  - types of beverage gases
  - how to handle, store, connect and disconnect beverage gas cylinders (including different types of cylinder systems and different types of gas)
  - inert gas in confined spaces and the potential dangers
  - particular dangers of carbon dioxide and nitrogen
  - required fire protection equipment and other emergency and alarm procedures
  - methods and techniques for undertaking routine checks for gas leaks (including monitoring of regulators, drop tests, spray tests, disconnecting and re-connecting leads)
  - typical roles and responsibilities of different people in operating and maintaining the system including those within the hospitality establishment and external contractors
- operational features of refrigeration systems including:
  - chiller plates
  - compressors
  - glycol system or refrigerated beer line system
  - glycol tanks and pumps
- safe manual handling techniques for lifting and shifting heavy items
- procedures and safety requirements for the use and storage of hazardous substances such as chemicals and other cleaning agents
- content of labelling and material safety data sheets for hazardous substances
- correct and environmentally sound disposal methods for hazardous substances
- overview information on the way that beer is brewed and what this means for cellar operations
- cellar products, which must include beer, and their characteristics, including:

- correct handling and storage
- shelf life
- potential faults.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to:
	• safely operate and maintain beverage dispensing systems within a cellar environment
	• monitor refrigeration systems and the overall safety of cellar operations
	• systematically check cellar conditions and the quality of cellared beverages
	• monitor cellar operations over a stock delivery cycle
	• integrate knowledge of:
	  • operational features of beverage gas systems
	  • operational features of refrigeration systems
	  • Australian Standards that directly impact on cellar operations.

Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure use of:

corrosive substances
    - ANZFS Code or plain English documents issued by national, state or territory government regulators
    - MSDS for hazardous substances used in cellars
    - current commercial policies and procedures used for the operation of cellars
- an industry manual or electronic stock control system.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual operating and monitoring cellar systems including a bulk dispensing and refrigeration system for a whole shift
- evaluation of documents produced by the individual:
    - fault reports
    - temperature checks
    - maintenance log books
    - stock control records
- direct observation of the individual carrying out maintenance of beverage system parts
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
    - operational features of beverage gas systems
    - operational features of refrigeration systems
    - Australian Standards that directly impact on cellar operations
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Beer systems may include:

- approved cleaning keg or dosing unit
- direct pull systems
- flow back systems
- ice bank systems
- multiple hook-up
- party kegs
- refrigerated beer line systems
- Temprite or instantaneous cooler system.

Safety requirements may relate to:

- chemical and detergent use, including manual or a dosing unit detergent system
- conducting risk assessments
- correct lifting, moving and handling techniques for kegs and cylinders
- correct servicing and maintenance of equipment which operate under pressure e.g. connectors and couplers
- dealing with pressure factors
- legislative requirements
- requirements under Australian Standards
- safe use of electrical equipment.

Beverage system parts include:

- beer lines
- beer pumps
- beer taps
- connectors
- couplers
- foam on beer (FOB) detectors
- manifolds
- transfer leads.

Chemicals may include:

- ‘Corrosive 8’ detergents
- general cleaning agents
- low pH detergents
- one-part detergent solutions
- specialised-part cleaning agents
- two-part detergent solutions.

Dispensing systems include:

- beer
- frozen drink dispensers

SITHFAB302 Conduct a product tasting for alcoholic beverages

Modification History

The version details of this endorsed unit of competency set are in the table below. The latest information is at the top.

Version	Comments
1.0	E Replaces and is equivalent to SITHFAB222A Conduct a product tasting for alcoholic beverages. Re-worked Elements, Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge to more fully articulate content.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to set up and conduct product tastings of alcoholic beverages and provide information on the key characteristics of the alcohol on offer for tasting. It requires the ability to taste and self-evaluate products on offer, set up and conduct tastings, interact with customers and maintain products at optimum quality throughout the product tasting.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to hospitality, retail and wholesale organisations which conduct product tastings of wines, beers, spirits or liqueurs.

It applies to frontline sales and operational personnel who operate with some level of independence and under limited supervision. This includes beverage sales consultants, winery sales staff, bar specialists, sommeliers and bar attendants.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

The sale and service of alcohol, including within product tastings, is subject to the provisions of Responsible Service of Alcohol (RSA) law in each state and territory of Australia. Skills and knowledge for compliance with this law are covered by the prerequisite unit SITHFAB201 Provide responsible service of alcohol.

Pre-Requisites

This unit must be assessed after the following prerequisite unit:

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Taste and evaluate alcoholic beverages.	1.1 Identify basic characteristics of alcoholic beverages using sensory evaluation techniques. 1.2 Use information from evaluations to prepare for tastings.
2. Set up and serve tasting samples.	2.1 Set up tasting area, equipment and supplies according to safety procedures and organisational standards. 2.2 Make tasting environment conducive to effective tasting. 2.3 Prepare and open products using techniques appropriate to particular product characteristics. 2.4 Pour and present product to customers according to legal requirements and organisational standards. 2.5 Serve tasting samples in an order that allows the customer to experience different product characteristics most effectively. 2.6 Collect and dispose of tasting waste according to safety, hygiene and other organisational requirements.
3. Interact with customers during tasting.	3.1 Proactively provide relevant and correct information on alcoholic beverage products to customers. 3.2 Encourage customers to ask questions or provide opinions on products being served. 3.3 Correctly answer customer questions about alcoholic beverage products and provide appropriate assistance with selections. 3.4 Facilitate tasting by customers according to responsible service of alcohol procedures.
4. Maintain and rotate alcoholic beverage products.	4.1 Maintain the quality of open and closed alcoholic beverages according to product characteristics.

4.2 Store and rotate products to ensure optimum quality.

4.3 Identify beverage product faults and substitute other stocks or products.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills including active listening and open and closed probe questioning to:
  - determine customer preferences and offer suitable products for tasting
  - develop rapport and engage customers in the tasting of various products
- critical thinking skills to evaluate the site where product tastings are conducted and set up an appealing and safe tasting environment
- learning skills to continuously update knowledge of alcoholic beverages on offer for tasting
- literacy skills to:
  - read and interpret organisational standards for:
    - presentation of the tasting area
    - display of product and promotional material
    - responsible service of alcohol procedures for tastings
  - research information on the product on offer at the tasting
- numeracy skills to:
  - calculate sampling quantities for each pour
  - measure and determine the correct temperature for storing and serving alcohol
- planning and organising skills to co-ordinate the set up and conduct of a tasting
- problem-solving skills to identify product faults and respond by substituting other stock
- self-management skills to take responsibility for coordinating the product tasting
- technology skills to use tasting equipment including temperature control devices.

Required knowledge

- sensory evaluation techniques and their relevance to wines, beers, spirits and liqueurs including:
  - assessing balance of wine features on the palate
  - smell or nose appraisal
  - taste appraisal
  - visual appraisal
- attributes of tasting areas that appeal to customers, allow for free flowing customer traffic and provide a safe environment for staff and customers
- ways of ensuring conducive environment for tasting:

  - neutralising odours
  - eradicating or reducing noise
  - optimising light conditions
- organisational standards for:
  - presentation of the tasting area
  - display of product and promotional material
  - serviceware for alcoholic beverages, glass or plastic
- key characteristics of:
  - Australian and international wine types
  - main Australian wine producing areas
- key characteristics of the main grape varieties and wine types, including:
  - red, including cabernet sauvignon, shiraz, pinot noir and merlot
  - white, including semillon, sauvignon blanc, riesling and chardonnay
  - blended wines, including cabernet sauvignon, merlot, semillon and sauvignon blanc
  - sparkling wines
  - popular fortified wines, including sherry, port, muscat, vermouth, tokay and marsala
  - dessert wines
  - compatibility with different types of food
- key characteristics of Australian and imported beers, spirits and liqueurs including ready to drink products:
  - flavour
  - compatibility with different types of food
- correct order for tasting of products on offer
- for the particular products on offer for tasting:
  - content of beverage labels and interpretation of descriptive meaning
  - compatibility with different types of food
  - optimum presentation and storage conditions to ensure quality
- indicators of common faults with products
- hygiene practices for the handling and use of:
  - glassware
  - spittoons
  - opened products
  - other tableware
- organisational procedures for the responsible service of alcohol during product tastings
- correct and environmentally sound disposal methods for tasting waste especially for recyclable glass and plastic bottles and sampling glasses.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- set up and conduct tastings for a diverse range of wines, beers, spirits and liqueurs on multiple occasions
- maintain products at optimum quality throughout the product tasting sessions
- interact with customers to provide accurate product information and satisfy their questions
- integrate knowledge of:
  - key characteristics of Australian and imported wines, beers, spirits and liqueurs
  - key characteristics of the specific alcoholic beverages on offer for tasting
  - attributes of tasting areas that appeal to customers and that provide a safe environment
  - organisational standards for product presentation.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a hospitality, cellar door or retail service industry environment, where product tastings are conducted and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines; this may be a:
  - real industry workplace
  - simulated industry environment such as a training outlet servicing customers
- industry-realistic ratios of service staff to customers
- current product information within sales kits, brochures, product manuals, supplier information kits, information databases and computerised information sources
- a commercial range of alcoholic beverages to be tasted
- tasting equipment.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual:
  - choosing an appropriate location and setting up in a safe and conductive area for product tastings

- interacting with customers during a product tasting
- maintaining products at optimum quality throughout the product tasting sessions

- project activities that allow assessment of the individual's ability to:
  - research information about key characteristics of a selected range of wines, beers, spirits and liqueurs for which they will conduct a product tasting
  - make a presentation on those products
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - key characteristics of Australian and imported wines, beers, spirits and liqueurs
  - key characteristics of the specific alcoholic beverages on offer for tasting
  - attributes of tasting areas that appeal to customers and provide a safe environment
  - organisational standards for product presentation
  - review of portfolio of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- evaluate a range of imported wines using sensory evaluation techniques including:
  - assessing balance of wine features on the palate
  - smell or nose appraisal
  - taste appraisal
  - visual appraisal
- identify the characteristics of imported wines from:
  - emerging wine growing countries
  - Europe
  - New Zealand
  - North and South America
  - South Africa
- provide advice to customers on their selection
- maintain and continuously extend personal product knowledge to enhance organisational activities
- integrate knowledge of:
  - past, current and emerging trends in the international wine industry

- characteristics of international wines.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a hospitality, wine or retail industry business operation which sells imported wines and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines; this may be a:
  - real industry workplace
  - simulated industry environment such as a training outlet servicing customers
- industry-realistic ratios of bar staff to customers
- other people with whom the individual can interact to discuss beverage characteristics and options, and to answer varied questions about imported wines
- current product information within sales kits, brochures, product manuals, supplier information kits, information databases and computerised information sources
- a wide commercial range of imported wines.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual providing advice to customers or colleagues about imported wines
- observation of a presentation on selected imported wines
- project activities that allow assessment of the individual's ability to research information about imported wines and write beverage menus and lists which meet the customer preferences of a given hospitality organisation
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  - past, current and emerging trends in the international wine industry
  - characteristics of international wines
- review of portfolio of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITHFAB201 Provide responsible service of alcohol
- SITHFAB302 Conduct a product tasting for alcoholic beverages
- SITHFAB307 Provide table service of food and beverage
- SITHFAB308 Provide silver service
- SITXCCS303 Provide service to customers.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Imported wines include those from:

- emerging wine growing countries
- Europe
- New Zealand
- North and South America
- South Africa.

Sensory evaluation techniques include:

- smell or nose appraisal:
  - techniques for releasing aroma and bouquet
  - recognising ‘off’ odours
  - assessing intensity of aromas
  - describing smell characteristics (e.g. fruity, vegetal, spicy)
  - assessing age
- taste appraisal:
  - techniques for releasing wine flavours (sucking in air, swirling wine over taste buds)
  - spitting techniques
  - recognising acidity, sweetness, weight or body, length, wine faults
  - assessing balance of wine features on the palate
- visual appraisal:
  - wine swirling and glass handling
  - use of light and background
  - intensity and type of colour
  - clarity
  - identifying ‘legs’ or ‘tears’ to assess alcohol or glycerol content.

Other information may include:

- details of production methods
- presentation sessions from growers, wholesalers, distributors, visiting winemakers
- product reviews
- promotional information
- reference texts on wines.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- integrate the use of predetermined hygiene procedures and food safety practices within day-to-day food handling work functions
- integrate, into daily work activities, knowledge of the basic aspects of food safety standards and codes and the ramifications of disregarding this.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- an operational commercial food preparation area, bar or kitchen with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines; this can be a:
  - real industry workplace
  - simulated industry environment such as a training kitchen servicing customers
- food ingredients and ready to eat food items
- current plain English regulatory documents distributed by the national, state, territory or local government food safety authority
- the Code
- current commercial food safety programs, policies and procedures used for the management of food safety.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the candidate using hygienic work practices during an integrated assessment of operative functions, such as cleaning and tidying bars, cooking at a camp site, preparing meals in a commercial kitchen, storing unused foodstuffs
- use of problem-solving exercises so the individual can respond to a range of situations where food hazards exist
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of the content of hygiene procedures and food safety standards and codes
