New unit developed to address child development requirements of educators working with school age children. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be demonstrated evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks:

- supported the development of children in at least three different situations/activities (including different age groups and abilities), including:
  - interacting with children to holistically support development and learning appropriate to the individual child’s abilities and ages
  - providing a variety of experiences and environments to support the different areas of children’s development (physical, creative, social, emotional, language and cognitive)
  - performed the activities outlined in the performance criteria of this unit during a period of at least 120 hours of work in at least one regulated education and care service.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. These include knowledge of:

- code of ethics
- United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child
- how to access:
  - the National Quality Framework
  - the National Quality Standards
  - the relevant approved learning framework
- how to navigate through framework and standards documents to find areas relevant to this unit of competency
- introductory level child development for children, including:
  - early brain development
  - importance of the early years for subsequent educational success
  - foundational knowledge of developmental theory
- aspects of poor early childhood development, such as:
  - poor diet
  - lack of play
  - limited stimulation of brain development
  - inconsistent or non-existent emotional support or comfort
  - trauma
  - other life experiences, which interrupt appropriate childhood activities, and their potential long-term harmful impacts
- biological and environmental influences on development
- symbol systems including letters, numbers, time, money and musical notation.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in a regulated education and care service.

In addition, simulations and scenarios must be used where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely. These are situations relating to emergency or unplanned procedures where assessment in these circumstances would be unsafe or impractical.

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessment must ensure use of:
• National Quality Framework for Early Childhood Education and Care
• the relevant approved learning framework under the National Quality Framework for Early Childhood Education and Care.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be evidence that the candidate has:

- developed, delivered and monitored the delivery of a settlement plan for 3 groups of forced migrants

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- legal and ethical considerations (national, state/territory, local) relevant to settlement services and how these are applied in organisations and individual practice:
  - privacy, confidentiality and disclosure
  - mandatory reporting
  - conflict of interest and maintaining professional boundaries
  - discrimination
  - access and equity
- drivers and issues associated with migration and forced migration, including:
  - what migration is and what forms it takes
  - causes and impacts of forced migration
  - knowledge of the international protection regime
• Australia’s response to forced migration
• immigration processes, including how and why people selected to come to Australia
• meaning of various visa subclasses
• the profile of the current humanitarian program entrants, their experience and the impact of this on their settlement needs
• settlement process, practices and policies in Australia, including:
  • current and historical context of work in this sector
  • social, political and economic context in which the sector operates
  • what is settlement: current theories, phases and indicators
  • practical and emotional settlement needs of new migrants
  • services available to new migrants and how these services can be accessed • settlement plans and how they are developed
  • government service principles
• service delivery frameworks
• refugee experience and recognising effects of grief, loss, stress, torture and trauma
• post traumatic stress disorder
• the impact of migration on the family and the impact of change roles within the family
• the importance of identity, including recognising the significance of giving clients a chance to define themselves according to either their ethnicity or their current circumstances
• availability of resources and assistance within, and external to, the organisation, including relevant referral networks and how to access their services
• strategies for the worker to maintain their own well being and to support the well being of colleagues and clients
• international and Australian perspectives on gender, class, culture and religion

Assessment Conditions

Skills must have been demonstrated in the workplace or in a simulated environment that reflects workplace conditions. Where simulation is used, it must reflect real working conditions by modelling industry operating conditions and contingencies, as well as, using suitable facilities, equipment and resources.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be demonstrated evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks at least once:

- applied youth-centred practices when working with young people, including:
  - using interpersonal skills to engage with at least three young people
  - applying engagement skills with young people with diverse range of presenting issues and experiences
  - applying principles of ethical decision-making to ethical dilemmas when the young person is the primary client
  - establishing and maintaining a professional relationship with at least one group of young people.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role.

These include knowledge of:

- aspects of human behaviour and development related to young people, their personal and social development and relationships
- current issues facing young people and existing services to address their needs and rights
- different world views and the interrelationship of society, culture and the young person

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be demonstrated evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks:

- enabled youth participation through discussion and networking on at least three separate occasions
- actively engaged young people using communication skills appropriate to specific youth context and culture
- supported and enabled at least two young people to:
  - arrange group meetings
  - publicise group objectives to broader youth audiences
  - plan strategies and actions, resources, timelines, responsibilities
  - access support
  - identify, contact, inform and negotiate alliances with stakeholders
- evaluated strategies and reported on outcomes to stakeholders internal and external to the organisation.
Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role.

These include knowledge of:

- power imbalances in the professional relationship
- relevant policies and procedures of the organisation, including values and ideologies and how this impacts on the collective action
- ethical responsibilities when working with young people to take collective action
- models and tools of advocacy, community development, self-help, youth participation, and peer education
- theories of interpersonal communication, dispute resolution and principles of negotiation
- principles and theories of group work and structured and unstructured groups
- documentation processes and evaluation methods.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in the workplace.

In addition, simulations and scenarios must be used where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely. These are situations relating to emergency or unplanned procedures where assessment in these circumstances would be unsafe or is impractical.

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

- 1.2 Establish appropriate resources and mechanisms to assist workers to deal with crisis situations
- 1.3 Define details of organisation’s responsiveness to crisis situations and articulate to relevant personnel
- 1.4 Store and maintain all information related to crisis situations to maximise accessibility, accuracy, currency and legibility
- 1.5 Implement procedures to ensure clients have ready access to information that may help to resolve crisis situations

2. Support staff in responding to a crisis

- 2.1 Establish appropriate protocols for managing potential and actual crisis situations
- 2.2 Draft and regularly update procedures for the management of crises and communicate to staff and other relevant personnel
- 2.3 Ensure any crisis management procedures developed are consistent with legal and organisational obligations and constraints
- 2.4 Allocate resources for prompt and effective response to crisis situations
- 2.5 Provide appropriate crisis response training and update briefings to workers on a regular basis
- 2.6 Formulate appropriate advice for upgrade of organisation procedures including those related to workplace health and safety (WHS) and other industrial and legislative requirements

3. Follow-up crisis situations

- 3.1 Complete all required reporting and ensure it is comprehensive, accurate and consistent with organisation’s policies and procedures
- 3.2 Define debriefing procedures and implement routinely
ELEMENT

Elements define the essential outcomes.

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Performance criteria specify the level of performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

3.3 Provide opportunity for participation in review and evaluation of organisation responsiveness

3.4 Identify needs of all specific parties which arise from a crisis situation and develop strategies to ensure they are addressed

Foundation Skills

The Foundation Skills describe those required skills (language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills) that are essential to performance.

- Writing – in order to develop policies, procedures and reports in line with workplace guidelines.

The remaining foundation skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be demonstrated evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks at least once:

- implemented a framework to prevent and respond to crisis situations by:
  - defining circumstances contributing to a crisis situation
  - analysing the legal and statutory requirements
  - identifying and obtaining resources to respond to crisis situations
  - providing information to clients and staff about the organisation’s policies and procedures for dealing with crisis situation
  - supporting staff in responding to crises by providing training and briefings
- followed-up on crisis situations by:
  - maintaining documentation as required, including effective use of relevant information technology in line with WHS guidelines
  - effectively communicating with staff, including implementing mediation and negotiation, and conflict resolution/management
  - providing feedback to staff members.
Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role.

These include knowledge of:

- legal and organisational policies relating to safety within the work environment
- relevant specialist support services and resources
- possible factors which contribute to young people entering crisis situations
- methods of crisis intervention including mediation and negotiation
- characteristics of aggressive and abusive behaviour
- methods of promoting less aggressive/abusive behaviour
- other support agencies and the relevant specialist resources they offer
- possible factors which contribute to young people entering crisis situations
- potential repercussions of inappropriate intervention of worker behaviour.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in the workplace.

In addition, simulations and scenarios must be used where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely. These are situations relating to emergency or unplanned procedures where assessment in these circumstances would be unsafe or impractical.

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Overview of assessment

This unit of competency could be assessed through practical demonstration of inspecting a property. Targeted written (including alternative formats where necessary) or verbal questioning to assess the candidate's underpinning knowledge would provide additional supporting evidence of competence. The demonstration and questioning would include collecting evidence of the candidate's knowledge and application of ethical standards and relevant federal, and state or territory legislation and regulations. This assessment may be carried out in a simulated or workplace environment.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of:

- Conducting and completing a property inspection within agreed timeframes and in compliance with all applicable industry, legal and organisational requirements

- applying effective communication and coordination techniques required to access property and organise inspection
- knowledge of agency practices, ethical standards and legislative requirements associated with property inspections
- complying with established inspection processes, noting variations in approved property requirements, and preparing findings in a report suitable for analysis and dissemination.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Resource implications for assessment include:

- access to suitable simulated or real opportunities and resources to demonstrate competence
- assessment instruments that may include personal planner and assessment record book
- access to a registered provider of assessment services.

Where applicable, physical resources should include equipment modified for people with disabilities.

Access must be provided to appropriate learning and/or assessment support when required.

Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate, and appropriate to the language and literacy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.

Validity and sufficiency of evidence require that:

- competency will need to be demonstrated over a period of time reflecting the scope of the role and the practical requirements of the workplace
- where the assessment is part of a structured learning experience the evidence collected must relate to a number of performances assessed at different points in time and separated by further learning and practice with a decision of competence only taken at the point when the assessor has complete confidence in the person's competence
- all assessment that is part of a structured learning experience must include a combination of direct, indirect and supplementary evidence
- where assessment is for the purpose of recognition (RCC/RPL), the evidence provided will need to be current and show that it represents competency demonstrated over a period of time
- assessment can be through simulated project-based activity and must include evidence relating to each of... the elements in this unit.

In all cases where practical assessment is used it will be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge. Questioning will be undertaken in such a manner as is appropriate to the language and literacy levels of the candidate and any cultural issues that may affect responses to the questions, and will reflect the requirements of the competency and the work being performed.

Overview of assessment

This unit of competency could be assessed through practical demonstration of coordinating contractor requirements for a variety of projects. Targeted written (including alternative formats where necessary) or verbal questioning to assess the candidate's underpinning knowledge would provide additional supporting evidence of competence. The demonstration and questioning would include collecting evidence of the candidate's knowledge and application of ethical standards and relevant federal, and state or territory legislation and regulations. This assessment may be carried out in a simulated or workplace environment.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of:

- completing selection of contractors, including reviewing criteria and reporting recommendations
- evaluating and selecting contractors using appropriate selection criteria and communication techniques
- determining contractor requirements through research and consultation
- knowledge of organisation's practices, ethical standards and legislative requirements associated with coordinating contractor requirements for a variety of projects
- preparing selection schedule and criteria, and arranging people to be involved in the selection process.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Resource implications for assessment include:

- access to suitable simulated or real opportunities and resources to demonstrate competence
- assessment instruments that may include personal planner and assessment record book
- access to a registered provider of assessment services.

Where applicable, physical resources should include equipment modified for people with disabilities.

Access must be provided to appropriate learning and/or assessment support when required.

Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate, and appropriate to the language and literacy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.

Validity and sufficiency of evidence require that:
• competency will need to be demonstrated over a period of time reflecting the scope of the role and the practical requirements of the workplace
• where the assessment is part of a structured learning experience the evidence collected must relate to a number of performances assessed at different points in time and separated by further learning and practice with a decision of competence only taken at the point when the assessor has complete confidence in the person's competence
• all assessment that is part of a structured learning experience must include a combination of direct, indirect and supplementary evidence
• where assessment is for the purpose of recognition (RCC/RPL), the evidence provided will need to be current and show that it represents competency demonstrated over a period of time
• assessment can be through simulated project-based activity and must include evidence relating to each of the elements in this unit.

In all cases where practical assessment is used it will be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge. Questioning will be undertaken in such a manner as is appropriate to the language and literacy levels of the candidate and any cultural issues that may affect responses to the questions, and will reflect the requirements of the competency and the work being performed.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the performance criteria is detailed below. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE
The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Overview of assessment

This unit of competency could be assessed through practical demonstration of planning for the management of assets. Targeted written (including alternative formats where necessary) or verbal questioning to assess the candidate’s underpinning knowledge would provide additional supporting evidence of competence. The demonstration and questioning would include collecting evidence of the candidate's knowledge and application of ethical standards and relevant federal, and state or territory legislation and regulations. This assessment may be carried out in a simulated or workplace environment.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of:

- determining asset performance needs using industry benchmarks and consideration of risk
- documenting resource and support arrangements, incorporating expected costs, and processes for development and maintenance of an asset register and operational and maintenance schedules
- evaluating the asset management plan through consultation with interested parties
- knowledge of organisation's practices, ethical standards and legislative requirements associated with planning for the management of assets
- preparing a detailed asset management plan which incorporates strategies for risk management, resource needs, monitoring and reporting arrangements and quality assurance.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Resource implications for assessment include:

- a registered provider of assessment services
- assessment materials and tools
- candidate special requirements
- competency standards
- cost and time considerations
- suitable assessment venue and equipment.

Where applicable, physical resources should include equipment modified for people with disabilities.

Access must be provided to appropriate learning and/or assessment support when required.
Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate, and appropriate to the language and literacy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.

Validity and sufficiency of evidence require that:

- competency will need to be demonstrated over a period of time reflecting the scope of the role and the practical requirements of the workplace
- where the assessment is part of a structured learning experience the evidence collected must relate to a number of performances assessed at different points in time and separated by further learning and practice with a decision of competence only taken at the point when the assessor has complete confidence in the person's competence
- all assessment that is part of a structured learning experience must include a combination of direct, indirect and supplementary evidence
- where assessment is for the purpose of recognition (RCC/RPL), the evidence provided will need to be current and show that it represents competency demonstrated over a period of time
- assessment can be through simulated project-based activity and must include evidence relating to each of the elements in this unit.

In all cases activity and must include evidence relating to each of the where practical assessment is used it will be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge. Questioning will be undertaken in such a manner as is appropriate to the language and literacy levels of the candidate and any cultural issues that may affect responses to the questions, and will reflect the requirements of the competency and the work being performed.

RANGE STATEMENT
The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the performance criteria is detailed below. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Assets may be static or dynamic and include:
- buildings
- business and marketing contracts
- equipment
- furniture
- goodwill
- land
- property
- vehicles.

- discounted cash flow
- employment rates
- industry association performance index
- inflation rate
- internal rate of return
- life cycle costing
- published vacancy factors
- tenancy mix.

Asset performance criteria may include:

- age
- condition assessment
- cost
- depreciation
- down time
- emergency operation and backup
- functionality
- life span
- maintenance requirements and cost
- replacement
- security
- service levels.

Schedules may be:
- charts
- computerised
- paper-based
- prepared for daily, weekly, monthly or annual timeframes
- to-do lists
- wall-mounted planning boards
- work diary.

- cleaning
- electrical
- emergency lighting
- evacuation
- fire lighting
- garden
- housekeeping
- painting
- pests
- plumbing
- sanitary disposal
- security
- vertical movement
- waste disposal
- weather proofing.

Communication techniques may include:
- active listening
- clear presentation of options
- consultation methods
- culturally inclusive and sensitive engagement techniques
- questioning to clarify and confirm understanding
- seeking feedback
- two-way interaction
- using language and concepts appropriate to cultural differences
- verbal or non-verbal language.

Evaluation methods could be qualitative or quantitative and may include:
- checklists
- cost data analysis
- expert and peer review
- interviews
- observation
- questionnaires
- review of quality assurance data.

Business equipment and technology may include:
- data storage devices
- email
- facsimile machines
- internet, extranet and intranet
- photocopiers
- printers
- scanners
- software applications, such as databases and word applications
- work computers.

Unit Descriptor
Unit descriptor This unit of competency specifies the outcomes required to develop a life cycle asset management plan. It requires the ability to determine asset management objectives, carry out strategic analysis and formulate an asset management plan.

The unit may form part of the licensing requirements for persons working in the property industry, including in the real estate, business broking, stock and station agency and property operations and development sectors, in those States and Territories where these are regulated activities.

Application of the Unit
Application of the unit This unit of competency supports the work of those involved in developing a life cycle asset management plan.

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

2.4 Risks and contingencies are identified and quantified according to industry standards, precedents and techniques.

3 Design support processes.

3.1 Key performance criteria for measuring the achievement of objectives and strategies are developed and incorporated into asset management plan.

3.2 Financial, physical and human resources to support the asset management plan are determined and organised within budget parameters.

3.3 Quality assurance goals and strategies are determined in consultation with relevant people.

3.4 Draft asset management plan and other relevant documentation are processed using business equipment and technology.

4 Review and evaluate asset management plan.

4.1 Asset management plan is reviewed and evaluated in consultation with relevant people using appropriate communication techniques.

4.2 Systematic review processes are established and evaluation methods used to assess strategic processes and outcomes.

4.3 Evaluation results are prepared in required format, style and structure and feedback is incorporated where appropriate.

4.4 Recommendations for improvement of strategy are presented to relevant people within agreed timeframes.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required skills:

- analytical skills to interpret documentation, review and evaluate strategy, assess risks and estimate costings and budget needs
- communication skills to negotiate and consult with relevant people
- computing skills to access the internet and web pages, prepare and complete online forms, lodge electronic documents and search online databases
- interpersonal skills to relate and to people from a range of social, cultural and
REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- literacy skills to interpret written and oral information
- organisational skills to schedule and meet timelines and client requirements, assess risk, and plan management requirements and resource use
- research and evaluation skills to source asset management information and resource requirements
- technical skills to formulate and present an asset management plan.

Required knowledge and understanding:

- basic knowledge of property contracts and administrative requirements
- building codes and relevant Australian standards
- building construction practice
- building control legislation
- common hazards to public and personal safety associated with particular types of maintenance work in buildings
- industry benchmarks for maintenance procedures
- limitations of work role, responsibility and professional abilities
- OHS issues and requirements
- organisational and professional procedures, ethical practices and business standards
- relevant building service, trades and operation for maintenance operations
- relevant federal and state or territory legislation and local government regulations related to:
  - anti-discrimination
  - consumer protection
  - environmental issues
  - equal employment opportunity (EEO)
  - financial probity
  - franchise and business structures
  - industrial relations
  - OHS
  - privacy
  - property sales, leasing and management.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE
The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Overview of assessment

This unit of competency could be assessed through practical demonstration of developing a life cycle asset management plan. Targeted written (including alternative formats where necessary) or verbal questioning to assess the candidate's underpinning knowledge would provide additional supporting evidence of competence. The demonstration and questioning would include collecting evidence of the candidate's knowledge and application of ethical standards and relevant federal, and state or territory legislation and regulations. This assessment may be carried out in a simulated or workplace environment.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of:

- conducting a risk analysis and evaluating potential factors that may impact on asset management objectives
- establishing asset management objectives through research and consultation
- knowledge of organisation's practices, ethical standards and legislative requirements associated with developing a life cycle asset management plan
- organising processes to formulate, review and evaluate an asset management strategy
- preparing a detailed budget outlining resource requirements to support asset management activities.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Resource implications for assessment include:

- a registered provider of assessment services
- competency standards
- assessment materials and tools
- suitable assessment venue and equipment
- workplace documentation
- candidate special requirements
- cost and time considerations.

Where applicable, physical resources should include equipment modified for people with disabilities.

Access must be provided to appropriate learning and/or assessment support when required.

Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate, and appropriate to the language and literacy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.

Validity and sufficiency of evidence require that:

- competency will need to be demonstrated over a period of time reflecting the scope of the role and the practical requirements of the workplace
- where the assessment is part of a structured learning experience the evidence collected must relate to a number of performances assessed at different points in time and separated by further learning and practice with a decision of competence only taken at the point when the assessor has complete confidence in the person's competence
- all assessment that is part of a structured learning experience must include a combination of direct, indirect and supplementary evidence
- where assessment is for the purpose of recognition (RCC/RPL), the evidence provided will need to be current and show that it represents competency demonstrated over a period of time
- assessment can be through simulated project-based activity and must include evidence relating to each of the elements in this unit.

In all cases activity and must include evidence relating to each of the where practical assessment is used it will be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge. Questioning will be undertaken in such a manner as is appropriate to the language and literacy levels of the candidate and any cultural issues that may affect responses to the questions, and will reflect the requirements of the competency and the work being performed.

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the performance criteria is detailed below. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.
Assets may include:
- static or dynamic assets
- buildings
- equipment
- furniture
- goodwill
- land
- property
- vehicles.

Asset management objectives may relate to:
- environmental considerations
- industry benchmarks
- maintenance and repair
- maintenance of asset register
- performance measures.

Research and survey techniques may include:
- analysing asset reporting systems
- discussions with colleagues and clients
- group workshops and brainstorming
- interviews and questionnaires
- reviewing documentation, reports and risk management plans
- organisational or industry-based surveys.

Information may include:
- asset registers
- depreciation schedules
- details of maintenance schedules
- inventory turnover analysis
- output from dedicated fixed asset software
- residual life of assets
- total purchase and disposals for a period.

Roles and responsibilities may be influenced by:
- applicable codes of conduct
- job description and employment arrangements
- organisational policy relevant to work role
- skills, training and competencies
- supervision and accountability requirements, including OHS
- team structures.

Asset management activities may include:
- accounting, including cost accounting
- asset creation and acquisition
- asset maintenance
- asset strategies
- audit and management reviews
- condition and performance monitoring
- disposals.
• information and support systems
• operations • renewals.

Budgets may include:
• assets and liabilities
• budget delegations
• cash flow budgets
• projected expenditure by item
• projected income by source
• reporting mechanisms
• security measures
• variation and review procedures.

Organisational requirements may be outlined and reflected in:
• access and equity principles and practice guidelines
• business and performance plans
• complaint and dispute resolution procedures
• goals, objectives, plans, systems and processes
• legal and ethical requirements and codes of practice
• mission statements and strategic plans
• OHS policies, procedures and programs
• policies and procedures in relation to client service
• quality and continuous improvement processes and standards
• quality assurance and procedure manuals.

Legislative requirements may be outlined and reflected in:
• Australian standards, and quality assurance and certification requirements
• award and enterprise agreements
• codes of practice covering the market sector and industry, financial transactions, taxation, environment, construction, land use, native title, zoning, utilities use (water, gas and electricity), and contract or common law
• environmental and zoning laws affecting access security, access and property use
• general duty of care to clients
• home building requirements
• local regulations and by-laws
• privacy laws applying to owners, contractors and tenants
• relevant federal, and state or territory legislation that affects organisational operation, including:
  • anti-discrimination and diversity
  • environmental issues
  • EEO
  • industrial relations
- OHS
  - strata, community and company titles
  - tenancy agreements
  - trade practices laws and requirements.

Factors that may impact on asset management objectives could relate to:
- actual or estimated residual life
- commercial or technical obsolescence
- effect of planned maintenance
- effective life
- location in life cycle
- prediction of deterioration or failure
- previous inspection date and process
- when constructed, rehabilitated or replaced.

Comparative market data may include:
- best practice information
- national and international benchmarking
- inter-organisation comparison data.

Analysis may include:
- examination of cash flows and other financial projections
- examination of collected data
- explorative, descriptive, causative or predictive analysis
- quantitative and qualitative analysis
- probability analysis
- time series recognition.

Performance criteria may relate to:
- age
- condition assessment
- cost
- depreciation
- downtime
- emergency operation and backup
- functionality
- life span
- maintenance requirements and cost
- replacement
- security
- service levels.

Resources may include:
- materials
- personnel
- tools and equipment
- training
- transport.

Quality assurance goals:
- a formal structure against which progress can be and strategies may include:

- evaluated budgets and timetables that enable the commitment of resources at appropriate points in the project
- compliance with Australian standards
- contingency plans to cater for a change of corporate focus or significant project difficulties
- continuous improvement strategies
- mechanisms for involving a wide variety of interested parties or stakeholders in the project
- procedures for monitoring and evaluating project outcomes and client satisfaction
- reducing risk by anticipating, evaluating and developing strategies for the management of possible problems
- reporting procedures and protocols.

Relevant people may include:

- clients
- engineers and technicians
- government personnel
- installers
- legal representatives
- management and colleagues
- property owners
- site personnel
- subcontractors
- technical experts
- tenants.

Relevant documentation may include:

- certification, including inspection certificates
- costings, receipts and invoices
- logs of equipment and system problems or faults
- operational checks and maintenance conducted
- parts and components replaced and materials used
- planning permits
- property leases, plans or contracts
- recommendations for repairs
- service and maintenance records
- testing and commissioning results
- warranty conditions and allowances.

Business equipment and technology may include:

- data storage devices
- email
- facsimile machines
- internet, extranet and intranet
- photocopiers
- printers
• scanners
• software applications, such as databases and word applications
• work computers.

Evaluation methods could be qualitative or quantitative and may include:
• checklists
• cost data analysis
• expert and peer review
• interviews
• observation
• questionnaires
• review of quality assurance data.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor
This unit of competency specifies the outcomes required to select and apply appropriate empty hand techniques. It requires the ability to use force in circumstances where there is a risk to safety of self and others. Competency also requires knowledge of the procedures for conducting an arrest.

This unit may form part of the licensing and legal requirements for the use of empty hand techniques and tactical force procedures by persons working in the security industry in those states and territories where these are regulated activities.

Application of the unit
This unit of competency has wide application in the security industry in those roles providing guarding and personal protection activities. Competency requires legal and operational knowledge applicable to relevant sectors of the security industry. The knowledge and skills described in this unit are to be applied within relevant legislative and organisational guidelines.

ELEMENT PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

2.5 Contact with subject is limited to the minimum necessary to removing immediate threat and is discontinued at cessation of threat.

3 Isolate subject.

3.1 Weapons and potentially dangerous items are removed from subject and located a safe distance from incident area.

3.2 Situations requiring assistance are identified and sought from relevant persons.

3.3 Subject is maintained at safe distance from members of the public and opportunities for escape are identified and minimised.

3.4 Restraint of subject is conducted in compliance with established procedures.

3.5 Subject is escorted from incident scene to a secure location in accordance with organisational procedures.

4 Evaluate response.

4.1 Effectiveness of response is reviewed and evaluated against circumstances of the incident.

4.2 Incident observations are provided accurately and constructively.

4.3 Review findings identify areas for improvement and recommendations for amendment of response procedures are provided for future practice.

4.4 Relevant documentation is completed and securely maintained with due regard to confidentiality in accordance with organisational procedures.

4.5 Effects of stress and other issues related to own well-being are recognised and managed using appropriate stress management techniques.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Required skills

- communicate and negotiate using clear and concise language
- communicate effectively with people from different social, cultural and ethnic backgrounds and of varying physical and mental abilities
- determine response appropriate to incident situation
REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- identify and comply with applicable legal and procedural requirements including ‘use of force’ guidelines
- identify risk factors and assess degree of risk
- implement empty hand techniques without harming subject
- interpret and follow instructions and procedures
- minimise threat to self and to others by use of appropriate force options
- operate security and communications equipment
- participate in review and debrief procedures
- record, report and process information
- use negotiation techniques to defuse and resolve conflict.

Required knowledge

- communication techniques, codes and signals
- correct use of equipment including personal protective equipment
- documentation, reporting and reviewing or debriefing processes
- emergency and evacuation procedures and instructions
- empty hand techniques
- first aid procedures and their application
- incident management and methods of restraint
- legal provisions relating to powers of arrest and ‘use of force’ guidelines
- negotiation techniques for managing conflict
- observation and monitoring techniques
- powers and procedures for effecting an arrest
- principles of effective communication including interpersonal techniques
- problem-solving methods and techniques
- security incidents and appropriate responses.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of:

- applying appropriate use of force according to the nature of the threat without harm to the subject
• applying empty hand techniques that avoid vital areas of the body
• identifying current and potential risk factors which might impact on the safety and security of self and others and implementing appropriate response measures
• using effective communication techniques to provide warnings and clear directions to subject, and conduct basic negotiation to defuse conflict in a manner which engages minority groups
• reacting in a timely manner to the application and termination of force
• selecting response options within specified legal and strategic limits.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Context of assessment includes:
• a setting in the workplace or environment that simulates the conditions of performance described in the elements, performance criteria and range statement.

Resource implications for assessment include:
• access to plain English version of relevant statutes and procedures
• access to a registered provider of assessment services
• access to a suitable venue and equipment
• assessment instruments including personal planner and assessment record book
• work schedules, organisational policies and duty statements.

Reasonable adjustments must be made to assessment processes where required for people with disabilities. This could include access to modified equipment and other physical resources, and the provision of appropriate assessment support.

Method of assessment

This unit of competency could be assessed using the following methods of assessment:
• observation of processes and procedures
• questioning of underpinning knowledge and skills.

Guidance information for assessment

Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate and suitable to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the competency being assessed. In all cases where practical assessment is used, it should be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge.

Oral questioning or written assessment may be used to assess underpinning knowledge. In assessment situations where the candidate is offered a choice between oral questioning and written assessment, questions are to be identical.

Supplementary evidence may be obtained from relevant authenticated correspondence from existing supervisors, team leaders or specialist training staff.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Legislative requirements may relate to:
- apprehension and powers of arrest
- Australian standards and quality assurance requirements
- counter-terrorism
- crowd control and control of persons under the influence of intoxicating substances
- force continuum, use of force guidelines
- general 'duty of care' responsibilities
- inspection of people and property, and search and seizure of goods
- licensing or certification requirements
- privacy and confidentiality
- relevant commonwealth, state and territory legislation, codes and national standards for:
  - anti-discrimination
  - cultural and ethnic diversity
  - environmental issues
  - equal employment opportunity
  - industrial relations

- relevant industry codes of practice
- trespass and the removal of persons.
- access and equity policies, principles and practices
- business and performance plans
- client service standards
- code of conduct, code of ethics
- communication and reporting procedures
- complaint and dispute resolution procedures

Organisational requirements may relate to:
- access and equity policies, principles and practices
- business and performance plans
- client service standards
- code of conduct, code of ethics
- communication and reporting procedures
- complaint and dispute resolution procedures
• emergency and evacuation procedures
• employer and employee rights and responsibilities
• OHS policies, procedures and programs
• own role, responsibility and authority
• personal and professional development
• privacy and confidentiality of information
• quality assurance and continuous improvement processes and standards
• resource parameters and procedures
• roles, functions and responsibilities of security personnel
• storage and disposal of information.

Response options may include:
• arrest of person
• cultural support
• defusing the situation
• request for assistance
• restraint of person
• sending alarms
• separation or isolation
• tactical withdrawal
• use of empty hand techniques
• use of negotiation techniques
• use of specialists or experts.

Personal safety needs may include:
• access to emergency services
• access to specific security equipment
• additional training
• appropriate vehicle
• clarification of own responsibility and competence
• maintaining regular communication
• personal protective equipment
• provision of back-up support
• working in a team.

Interpersonal techniques may involve:
• active listening
• being non-judgemental
• being respectful and non-discriminatory
• constructive feedback
• control of tone of voice and body language
• culturally aware and sensitive use of language and concepts
• demonstrating flexibility and willingness to negotiate
• effective verbal and non-verbal communication
• maintaining professionalism
• providing sufficient time for questions and responses
Empty hand techniques may include:

- avoidance techniques
- blocking techniques
- body positioning
- body safety
- impact techniques
- locking and holding techniques
- take down techniques.

Relevant persons may include:

- colleagues
- emergency services personnel
- medical personnel
- specialist teams
- supervisor.

Documentation may include:

- activity logs
- incident reports
- request for assistance forms
- vehicle and personnel movements
- written and electronic reports.

Effects of stress may include:

- frustration
- inability to concentrate
- increasing aggression
- over-talking
- tiredness
- uncoordinated movements.

Stress management techniques may include:

- conscious use of personal recreational activities
- counselling
- formal debriefing processes
- informal exploration of incidents with team members and supporters
- review of practice and resources.

Application

This unit describes the skills required to assess the needs of young offenders in custody and organise their care and protection.

This unit applies to those working with young offenders requiring special supervision in detention.

The skills and knowledge described in this unit must be applied within the legislative, regulatory and policy environment in which they are carried out. Organisational policies and procedures must be consulted and adhered to, particularly those related to interaction with young offenders and allocation of offenders to programs.

Those undertaking this unit work with moderate support in roles involving routine tasks with a number of familiar steps.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to unit at the time of publication.

1. Assess the needs of young offenders in custody

1.1 Check and confirm all factors relevant to assessing the needs, risks and circumstances of young offender against all relevant sources.

1.2 Identify and note immediate concerns and risk factors.

1.3 Prioritise concerns, risk factors and resources and notify specialist support and referral.

1.4 Document issues about the welfare of young offenders.

1.5 Raise concerns during consultation with family members and involve them in assessment of need where suitable.

2. Organise the care and protection of young offenders at risk

2.1 Ensure that the personal needs of young offenders are provided for according to resources and priorities.

2.2 Ensure that special needs and additional support are included in the design of support.

2.3 Ensure that special needs are referred to specialist support according to referral protocols and procedures.

2.4 Use special protective strategies based on the interests and needs of young offenders and the level of assessed risk.

2.5 Assess the implications for use of a range of options and incorporate in planning and negotiating with young offenders and their supporters.

2.6 Identify a range of programs for young offenders and provide information and support to access recommended programs.

2.7 Provide information about responsibilities, statutory mandates and consequences of options for the safety and protection of young offenders to key people and agencies.

2.8 Comply with processes for monitoring and evaluating participation in programs and support provided by specialist services.

Performance Evidence

Evidence required to demonstrate competence must satisfy all of the requirements of the elements and performance criteria. If not otherwise specified the candidate must demonstrate evidence of performance of the following on at least one occasion.

- communicating effectively with young people to identify risks and establish needs
- assessing risks, special needs and developmental levels for young offenders
- checking and confirming with reliable sources inside and outside the organisation the accuracy and relevance of information
- taking responsibility for duty of care outcomes based on the degree of risk and the special needs of young offenders, including personal contact
- preserving the rights and responsibilities of young offenders and their safety and welfare
- making conclusions that are clearly based on available information
- clearly establishing expectations and boundaries to young offenders
- documenting information about young offender's welfare in reports that are clear, comprehensive and in the format required by the organisation
- using a range of communication strategies to discover risk factors and consult with family members and specialists
- providing supervision and care, based on assessed risk and justifiable degree of care and concern

Knowledge Evidence

Evidence required to demonstrate competence must satisfy all of the requirements of the elements and performance criteria. If not otherwise specified the depth of knowledge demonstrated must be appropriate to the job context of the candidate.

- categories of risk identified in the organisation’s risk management plans and relevant to the offender
- procedures and requirements for reporting risks and incidents, and monitoring and evaluating participation in programs by young offenders Assessment Requirements for CSCO FM007 Protect the safety and welfare of young offenders

- legislation relevant to work role and responsibilities and service guidelines
- potential special needs of young offenders
- organisation’s code of conduct, code of ethics and duty of care
- range of specialist support services and programs available to young offenders
- processes for getting advice and assistance when there are problems
- cultural practices that will have an impact on decisions made about what allowances are made and permission given
- resources available for young offenders
- limitations on family involvement in young offender's assessment of need
- special protective strategies
- consequences of options for the safety and protection of young offenders

Assessment Conditions

The knowledge requirements of this unit may be assessed off the job, for example, in a structured learning process, and performance outcomes, which should be assessed ideally in the workplace in routine activities and in conjunction with other units with specific functional focus.

Valid assessment of this unit requires the range of conditions likely to be encountered by an individual when working with young offenders. Case studies and workplace scenarios must be used to capture the range of situations that may be encountered when working with young offenders.

Assessors must satisfy the NVR/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Unit Descriptor

| Unit descriptor | This unit describes the self-management skills needed to perform effectively in the workplace. As such it relates to personal time management and the identification and management of personal learning needs. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement. |

Application of the Unit

| Application of the unit | People working in any role in any industry apply the skills and knowledge outlined in this unit. At this level individuals would typically be supervised and they would be expected to seek the advice of supervisors and peers in relation to professional development opportunities.

This unit has linkages to a range of other general units, and combined assessment and/or training with those units may be appropriate, e.g.:

- CUECOR02C Work with others
- BSBDIV301A Work in a culturally diverse environment
- CUEIND01C Source and apply entertainment industry knowledge. |

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to raise money for a creative or artistic project and to participate in negotiations with all parties.

Application of the Unit

People responsible for securing funding for creative arts projects apply the skills and knowledge outlined in this unit. In this role they are responsible for determining the amount of funding required, locating likely funding sources, developing funding proposals and maximising their chances of ongoing funding opportunities. This role would typically be undertaken by an artist, artist manager, promoter or senior administrator.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

Licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to apply a well-developed range of stagecraft skills during performances.

Application of the Unit

Musicians and performers in all genres apply the skills and knowledge described in this unit. Applying an appropriate range of stagecraft skills can lead to audiences having a more enjoyable and entertaining experience. An essential feature of stagecraft skills is the ability to engage with audiences - whether through dialogue, movement or gestures. A performer's image and reputation are often linked to the way they approach performances, not just with their ability to play an instrument or sing. More complex skills associated with leading a group in the area of stagecraft are covered in:

- CUSMPF602A Manage stagecraft aspects of performances.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to research corporate governance reporting trends, examine corporate governance standards and practices, and review compliance to develop and implement processes and procedures for meeting corporate governance obligations.

It applies to individuals who use and maintain current and specialised knowledge and analytical skills to provide advice on organisational processes to meet compliance and management requirements.

Work functions in the occupational areas where this unit may be used are subject to regulatory requirements. Refer to the FNS Implementation Guide Companion Volume or the relevant regulator for specific guidance on requirements.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:
- research corporate governance reporting trends
- determine processes for monitoring corporate governance adherence
- examine and review corporate governance standards and practices following:
  - professional accounting standards
  - organisational policy and procedures
  - statutory and regulatory requirements.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:
- access and accurately interpret authority regulations and requirements
- identify and explain the key features of current financial legislation, and statutory and regulatory requirements
- explain the current formats required for submission of statutory returns
- discuss ethical considerations relating to compliance and governance
- outline the key management processes that support corporate governance
- identify and explain the forms and functions of employee records
- identify and explain the key principles of:
  - internal control
  - valuation and common methods of depreciation
- discuss the significance of performance indicators and key result areas relevant to monitoring corporate governance activities.
Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced in the accounting field of work and include access to:

- common office equipment, technology, software and consumables
- an integrated financial software system and data
- corporate governance documentation and organisational operational policy and procedures information.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify and use digital technology appropriate to the task
- complete simple workplace tasks.

Evidence must be collected using tasks typically found in the workplace.

Note: Where a specific volume and/or frequency is not specified, evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

Evidence of the following knowledge must be demonstrated:

- procedures for accessing and using digital technology.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment texts and tasks reflect those typically found in the workplace.

Advice and support is available if requested.

Culturally appropriate processes and techniques suited to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of individuals and the work being performed must be used.
Reasonable adjustments can be made to ensure equity in assessment for people with disabilities.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements, have sound knowledge of the ACSF and have demonstrable expertise in the vocational contextualisation and assessment of digital technology.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- write routine workplace texts appropriate to audience and purpose
- review drafts to revise and finalise routine workplace texts.

Evidence must be collected using routine texts typically found in the workplace.

Note: Where a specific volume and/or frequency is not specified, evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

Evidence of the following knowledge must be demonstrated:

- features of a range of routine workplace texts
- writing strategies – planning, drafting, proofing, reviewing – to complete routine workplace texts
- grammar and vocabulary for routine workplace texts
- writing conventions for routine workplace texts.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment texts and tasks reflect those typically found in the workplace.

Individuals can access own familiar support resources.
Culturally appropriate processes and techniques suited to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of individuals and the work being performed must be used.

Reasonable adjustment can be made to ensure equity in assessment for people with disabilities.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements, have sound knowledge of the ACSF and have demonstrable expertise in the vocational contextualisation and assessment of the core skill – writing.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to work with basic information about the human body and to recognise and promote ways to maintain healthy functioning of the body.

This unit applies to any worker who needs to use and interpret information that includes references to client anatomy and physiology.

The skills in this unit must be applied in accordance with Commonwealth and State/Territory legislation, Australian/New Zealand standards and industry codes of practice.

1. Work with information about the human body

1.1 Correctly use and interpret health terminology that describes the normal structure, function and location of the major body systems

1.2 Correctly use and interpret information that relates to the interrelationships between major components of each body system and other structures
ELEMENT

 recognise and promote ways to support healthy functioning of the body **

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

- 2.1 Review factors that contribute to maintenance of a healthy body
- 2.2 Evaluate how the relationships between different body systems affect and support healthy functioning
- 2.3 Enhance quality of work activities by using and sharing information about healthy functioning of the body

Foundation Skills

The Foundation Skills describe those required skills (language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills) that are essential to performance.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be evidence that the candidate has:

- worked effectively with information about the human body and its healthy functioning in at least 3 different situations

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- basic structure and functions of the body systems and associated components, including:
  - cells, tissues and organs
  - cardiovascular system
  - respiratory system
  - musculo-skeletal system
  - endocrine system
  - digestive system
  - urinary system
  - reproductive system
  - integumentary system
  - lymphatic system
  - nervous system, including sensory systems – eye and ear
  - the special senses – smell, taste, vision, equilibrium and hearing
• immune system
• processes, conditions and resources required by the body to support healthy functioning
  • body regulation including:
    • maintenance of body temperature
    • fluid and electrolyte (including PH) balance
    • elimination of wastes from the body
    • maintenance of blood pressure
  • protection from infection
  • physical activity – active and passive

Assessment Conditions
Skills must have been demonstrated in the workplace or in a simulated environment that reflects workplace conditions. The following conditions must be met for this unit:

• use of suitable facilities, equipment and resources, including client health information
• modelling of industry operating conditions, including integration of problem solving activities

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors

- 3.2 Reinforce constructive feedback and advice provided by the care team about the client’s approach and ability to manage their dysphagia

- 3.3 Support and encourage client to maintain and enhance their efforts to manage dysphagia

- 3.4 Reinforce the benefits of continuing to practice and develop skills and knowledge for dysphagia management

- 3.5 Identify adverse reactions and/or events associated with dysphagia and respond according to the detailed risk management framework

4. Comply with supervisory requirements

- 4.1 Refer to speech pathologist when additional input from health professional is required

- 4.2 Seek assistance when client presents with needs or signs outside limits of own authority, skills and/or knowledge

- 4.3 Report client difficulties to the supervising allied health professional for advice before continuing the program

- 4.4 Participate in supervision processes with the treating allied health professional in accordance with organisational protocol

5. Document client information

- 5.1 Use accepted protocols to document information relating to the treatment program in line with organisation requirements

- 5.2 Provide accurate and prompt feedback to the speech pathologist and client’s care team to support future planning

- 5.3 Use appropriate terminology to document symptomatic expression of identified problems related to the therapeutic exercise program

| Release 1 | This version was released in HLT Health Training Package release 1.0 and meets the requirements of the 2012 Standards for Training Packages. |
|           | Significant changes to elements and performance criteria. |
|           | New evidence requirements for assessment, including volume and environment requirements. |

Application

This unit describes the required knowledge and skills for primary health care workers to assist Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities to understand their rights and communicate their needs within a self-determination framework. This includes the use of interpreter and translation services to liaise with service providers to enable clients to access a range of health services. This unit does not assume the individual worker has interpretation and/or translation qualifications to provide these services themselves.

This unit applies to Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Workers working as part, and under the supervision, of a multidisciplinary primary health care team to provide a range of primary health care services to Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities.

The skills in this unit must be applied in accordance with Commonwealth and State/Territory legislation, Australian/New Zealand standards and industry codes of practice.

New evidence requirements for assessment, including volume and environment requirements. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be evidence that the candidate has:

- supported Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and/or groups to identify, clarify and present their rights and needs on at least three occasions by:
  - using culturally safe and appropriate communication skills to work effectively with Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients
  - identifying avenues for addressing each client’s issues and/or concerns and/or improving services provided
  - supporting individual clients to express themselves in culturally appropriate and safe ways to service providers to access services
  - supporting individual clients to use their preferred language to communicate
- advocating on behalf of clients and/or community groups where they were unable to express individual or collective concerns.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role.

This includes knowledge of:

- organisational policies, guidelines and procedures and legislation or regulations relating to:
  - client confidentiality
  - referral, including various levels of urgency, and follow-up of client
  - mandatory reporting
  - notifiable communicable diseases
  - limits of own ability and authority
  - reporting procedures
  - documentation
- a basic understanding of:
  - Charter of Human Rights of the Child
  - Child Protection Legislation
  - Domestic Violence Legislation
  - Anti-discrimination Legislation
  - Centrelink and Veteran Affairs Guidelines
- referral options and resources available to community members
- existing program policy
- interpreter and/or translation services available within local and regional areas
- language or languages, written and/or spoken, as required within the community and workplace
- medical terminology relevant to the workplace
- communication style and culture of the client, caregiver and health service provider.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated working:

- in a health service or centre
- as part of, and under the supervision of, a multidisciplinary primary health care team
• with Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities.

In addition, simulations and scenarios must be used where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely. These are situations relating to emergency or unplanned procedures where assessment in these circumstances would be unsafe or is impractical.

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Assessment must be undertaken by a workplace assessor who has expertise in this unit of competency and who is:

• an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Worker

or:

• accompanied by an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander person who is a recognised member of the community with experience in primary health care.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to provide information and strategies related to promoting and enhancing the capacities of families and communities (including children and young people) as part of primary health care services for Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander communities.

This unit applies to those Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Workers providing a range of primary health care services to Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities.

The skills in this unit must be applied in accordance with Commonwealth and State/Territory legislation, Australian/New Zealand standards and industry codes of practice.

Elements and Performance Criteria

| ELEMENT | PERFORMANCE CRITERIA |
Elements define the essential outcomes. Performance criteria specify the level of performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

1. Provide strategies to promote and strengthen the capacities of families and communities

1.1 Determine the components of a ‘healthy family’ and strategies to strengthen the family unit

1.2 Demonstrate knowledge of and respect for the diversity of culture, skin and language groups and family structures in relation to achieving healthy families and communities

1.3 Provide accurate information about the incidence, impacts and social and psychological context of family health problems in Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander communities

1.4 Discuss the obstacles to healthy family and community development in relation to family and/or domestic violence, and abuse of children and young people

1.5 Provide practical advice relating to early identification, management and prevention of family health problems in accordance with community cultural needs and work role obligations

1.6 Work in collaboration with primary health care workers, multidisciplinary teams, organisations and other agencies to support ‘healthy family’ outcomes

2. Work in partnership with Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander people and communities

2.1 Develop and implement strategies to increase participation of Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander people in health service delivery

2.2 Ensure delivery of health care, services and programs reflect culturally safe and appropriate practice

2.3 Ensure health care, services and programs encourage self-determination and community control to ensure improved health outcomes

2.4 Identify and utilise resources to promote effective partnerships with Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander people, organisations and communities

2.5 Support the development of effective partnerships between staff, Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander people and their communities to facilitate accessibility, affordability and acceptability of appropriate health and workplace services

3. Identify immediate risks and needs

3.1 Comply with federal, state or territory workplace legislation which may impact on primary health care workers’ practice and responsibilities

3.2 Use culturally appropriate interpersonal skills to promote confidence and rapport, allowing the effective exchange of accurate and relevant information

3.3 Assess, analyse and respond to any indicators of risk or threats to the safety of children, young people, family and/or community members

3.4 Use culturally appropriate methods to accurately record relevant, specific and general circumstances to ensure that all relevant information is collected and complies with organisational, legal and ethical obligations

3.5 Identify own limitations in addressing and assessing clients’ needs and, where appropriate, seek assistance from appropriate community person/s or work collaboratively with relevant organisations

4. Implement strategies to empower children, young people, families and communities

4.1 Identify current community and government intervention and support policies in relation to family health issues in Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander communities

4.2 Discuss the principles of community development and ways in which community development strategies promote empowerment and re-empowerment

4.3 Use culturally appropriate educational resources to assess, analyse and prevent identified children, youth and family health issues

4.4 Make appropriate referrals for clients with family health problems in line with community and organisational legislation and guidelines
Foundation Skills

The Foundation Skills describe those required skills (language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills) that are essential to performance.

Learning

- in order to locate, evaluate and organise information to suit intended audience and purpose

Other foundation skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit.

Significant changes to elements and performance criteria.
New evidence requirements for assessment, including volume and environment requirements. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be evidence that the candidate has:

- supported at least five families (including children and/or young people) to develop their capabilities. This includes:
  - communicating effectively in a group and one-on-one environment to promote healthy practices and discussing health issues
  - providing accurate and relevant information and guidance about family issues and strategies to strengthen families, in line with identified individual and community needs
  - identifying intervention and support strategies appropriate to the client’s family issues
- making referrals to appropriate services to assist with client’s family health problems and following up as required.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role.

This includes knowledge of:

- definitions and forms of violence, sexual assault, physical and emotional abuse and neglect, including:
  - indicators and common behaviours
  - factors involved and links between them
  - potential impact on individuals and families involved and the community
  - likely needs of individuals and families involved
  - knowledge of the social, political, historical, and economic context of family and domestic violence, including types and nature of violence
  - nature and dynamics of abuse, assault and violence in Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander communities
  - impact of the risk of and actual violence and abuse on children, families, adults and community
  - misconceptions and prevalent attitudes about violence and abuse which impede individuals and families seeking help, and hinder community development and other interventions
- strategies to support children, young people and families who:
  - have experienced or are at risk of familial violence, sexual assault, physical and emotional abuse or neglect
  - are in crisis situations
  - require long-term support
- how to apply community development principles and strategies
- diversity of Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander cultures
- impact of colonisation on individual and community identity through the loss of family, kin, language, social structures, traditional land ownership, law, knowledge and cultural practices
- interaction between western and traditional practices, including impact of ‘culture shock’
- historical, social, political and economic factors contributing to ill health and chronic conditions among Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander peoples
- culturally safe and appropriate forms of communication and interaction with individuals and communities
- organisation procedures, state, territory and/or federal legislation and regulations informing own scope of practice, including:
  - duty of care
  - mandatory reporting requirements and child protection systems
  - ethical considerations
  - children’s and human rights
  - codes of practice
  - discrimination on unlawful grounds, including race, sex, sexual orientation, gender, religion, culture
- current organisation procedures, practices and standards relating to:
  - client assessment
  - allocation of services
  - case management
  - interviewing
  - code of conduct
  - confidentiality
  - file management
  - use of resources
  - programmed intervention
- additional services including:
  - other health care practices or agencies for referral of individuals and families
  - interpreter and translation services
- own professionalism, including:
  - own values and attitudes and potential impact on clients
  - ethical decision-making.

Assessment Conditions
Skills must be demonstrated working:

- in a health service or centre
- as part of a multidisciplinary primary health care team
- with Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities.

In addition, simulations and scenarios must be used where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely. These are situations relating to emergency or unplanned procedures where assessment in these circumstances would be unsafe or impractical.
Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Assessment must be undertaken by a workplace assessor who has expertise in this unit of competency and who is:
- an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Worker
or:
- accompanied by an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander person who is a recognised member of the community with experience in primary health care.

Application

This unit describes the required skills and knowledge to provide a healing response to expressions of grief, loss and trauma.

This unit applies to those Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Workers working independently and as part of a multidisciplinary team to deliver primary health care services to Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities.

This unit equips Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Workers to provide support related to social and emotional wellbeing and does not infer that they are qualified counsellors.

The skills in this unit must be applied in accordance with Commonwealth and State/Territory legislation, Australian/New Zealand standards and industry codes of practice.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be evidence that the candidate has:

• responded to loss, grief and trauma for at least three clients by:
  • developing culturally appropriate responses to situations of loss, grief and trauma
  • communicating effectively with clients. This includes:
    • building rapport
    • clarifying impact of loss
    • explaining support options
    • referring clients to specialist services
  • dealing with cross-cultural issues
  • recognising effects of stress on individuals and communities and implementing culturally appropriate strategies to manage stress
• monitoring own stress and using appropriate stress-management strategies, including consulting team members and professionals for own social and emotional support.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role.

This includes knowledge of:
• concepts of loss and grief
• nature and effects of psychological and spiritual trauma
• effects of trans-generational trauma and grief, colonisation and institutional racism on Aboriginal people
• cultural protocols and taboos
• specialist services for loss, grief and trauma
• statutory responsibilities including duty of care requirements
• narrative therapy approaches
• indicators of stress
• awareness of own values and attitudes around loss, grief and trauma
• organisational standards, policies and practices.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated working:
• in a health service or centre
• individually or as a member of a multidisciplinary primary health care team
• with Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities.

In addition, simulations and scenarios must be used where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely. These are situations relating to emergency or unplanned procedures where assessment in these circumstances would be unsafe or is impractical.

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.
Assessment must be undertaken by a workplace assessor who has expertise in this unit of competency and who is:

an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Worker

or:

accompanied by an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander person who is a recognised member of the community with experience in primary health care.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks in line with state/territory regulations, first aid codes of practice, Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) guidelines and workplace procedures:

- Followed DRSABCD in line with ARC guidelines, including:
  - performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) (5 cycles of both compressions and ventilations) on an adult resuscitation manikin placed on the floor.
• performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer CPR (5 cycles both compressions and ventilations) on an infant resuscitation manikin placed on a firm surface
• responded appropriately in the event of regurgitation or vomiting
• managed the unconscious breathing casualty
• followed single rescue procedure, including the demonstration of a rotation of operators with minimal interruptions to compressions
• followed the prompts of an automated external defibrillator (AED)
• Responded to at least one simulated first aid scenario contextualised to the candidate’s workplace/community setting, including:
  • demonstrated safe manual handling techniques
  • provided an accurate verbal or written report of the incident

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

• State/Territory regulations, first aid codes of practice and workplace procedures including:
  • ARC Guidelines relevant to the provision of CPR
  • safe work practices to minimise risks and potential hazards
  • infection control principles and procedures, including use of standard precautions
  • requirements for currency of skill and knowledge
• Legal, workplace and community considerations, including:
  • awareness of potential need for stress-management techniques and available support following an emergency situation
  • duty of care requirements
  • respectful behaviour towards a casualty
  • own skills and limitations
  • consent
  • privacy and confidentiality requirements
  • importance of debriefing
• Considerations when providing CPR, including:
  • airway obstruction due to body position
  • appropriate duration and cessation of CPR
  • appropriate use of an AED
  • chain of survival
  • standard precautions
• Basic anatomy and physiology relating to:
  • how to recognise a person is not breathing normally
  • chest
• response/consciousness
• upper airway and effect of positional change

Assessment Conditions
Skills must be demonstrated working individually in an environment that provides realistic in-depth, industry-validated scenarios and simulations to assess candidates’ skills and knowledge.

Assessment resources must include:
• adult and infant resuscitation manikins in line with ARC Guidelines for the purpose of assessment of CPR procedures
• AED training device
• workplace injury, trauma and/or illness record, or other appropriate workplace incident report form

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessor Requirements
Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

In addition hold current first aid certificate HLTAID003 or higher.

  • demonstrated safe manual handling techniques
  • post-incident debrief and evaluation
  • provided an accurate verbal or written report of the incident
• Applied first aid procedures for the following:
  • allergic reaction
  • anaphylaxis
  • bleeding control
  • choking and airway obstruction
  • envenomation, using pressure immobilisation
  • fractures, sprains and strains, using arm slings, roller bandages or other appropriate immobilisation techniques
  • respiratory distress, including asthma
  • shock

Knowledge Evidence
The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated working individually in an environment that provides realistic in-depth, industry-validated scenarios and simulations to assess candidates’ skills and knowledge.

Assessment resources must include:

- adult and infant resuscitation manikins in line with ARC Guidelines for the purpose of assessment of CPR procedures
- adrenaline auto-injector training device
- AED training device
- placebo bronchodilator and spacer device
- roller bandages
- triangular bandages
- workplace First Aid kit
- workplace injury, trauma and/or illness record, or other appropriate workplace incident report form for written reports
- wound dressings

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to provide a first aid response to infants, children and adults.

The unit applies to educators and support staff working within an education and care setting who are required to respond to a first aid emergency, including asthmatic and anaphylactic emergencies.

This unit of competency may contribute towards approved first aid, asthma and anaphylaxis training under the Education and Care Services National Law, and the Education and Care Services National Regulations (2011).
Specific licensing requirements, including requirements for refresher training, should be obtained from the Australian Children’s Education and Care Quality Authority (ACECQA) and/or relevant state/territory Work Health and Safety Regulatory Authority.

Elements and Performance Criteria

---|---
Elements define the essential outcomes. | Performance criteria specify the level of performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

1. Respond to an emergency situation

1.1 Recognise an emergency situation

1.2 Identify, assess and minimise immediate hazards to health and safety of self and others

1.3 Assess the casualty and recognise the need for first aid response

1.4 Assess the situation and seek assistance from emergency response services

2. Apply appropriate emergency first aid procedures

2.1 Perform cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) in accordance with Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) guidelines

2.2 Provide first aid in accordance with established first aid principles

2.3 Ensure casualty feels safe, secure and supported

2.4 Obtain consent from casualty, caregiver, registered medical practitioners or medical emergency services where possible

2.5 Use available resources and equipment to make the casualty as comfortable as possible

2.6 Operate first aid equipment according to manufacturer’s instructions

2.7 Monitor the casualty’s condition and respond in accordance with first aid principles
ELEMENT

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Performance criteria specify the level of performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

3. Communicate details of the incident

- 3.1 Accurately convey details of the incident to emergency response services
- 3.2 Report details of incident to supervisor
- 3.3 Complete relevant workplace documentation, including incident report form
- 3.4 Report details of incidents involving babies and children to parents and/or caregivers
- 3.5 Follow workplace procedures to report serious incidents to the regulatory authority
- 3.6 Maintain confidentiality of records and information in line with statutory and/or organisational policies

4. Evaluate the incident and own performance

- 4.1 Recognise the possible psychological impacts on self, other rescuers and children
- 4.2 Talk with children about their emotions and responses to events
- 4.3 Participate in debriefing with supervisor

Foundation Skills

The Foundation Skills describe those required skills (language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills) that are essential to performance.

Foundation skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit of competency.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks in line with state/territory regulations, first aid codes of practice, Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) guidelines and workplace procedures:

- Followed DRSABCD in line with ARC guidelines, including:
  - performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) (5 cycles of both compressions and ventilations) on an adult resuscitation manikin placed on the floor
  - Performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer CPR (5 cycles both compressions and ventilations) on a child resuscitation manikin placed on the floor
performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer CPR (5 cycles both compressions and ventilations) on an infant resuscitation manikin placed on a firm surface
responded appropriately in the event of regurgitation or vomiting
managed the unconscious breathing casualty
followed single rescue procedure, including the demonstration of a rotation of operators with minimal interruptions to compressions
followed the prompts of an Automated External Defibrillator (AED)

Responded to at least three simulated first aid scenarios contextualised to the candidate’s workplace/community setting, and involving infants and children of varying ages including:

- conducted a visual and verbal assessment of the casualty
- demonstrated safe manual handling techniques
- post-incident debrief and evaluation
- provided an accurate verbal and written report of the incident
- conducted a hazard assessment and identified strategies to minimise risk

Applied first aid procedures for the following:

- allergic reaction
- anaphylaxis
- bleeding control
- choking and airway obstruction
- envenomation, using pressure immobilisation
- fractures, sprains and strains, using arm slings, roller bandages or other appropriate immobilisation principles techniques
- head injuries
- poisoning
- respiratory distress, including asthma
- seizures & convulsions, including febrile convulsions and epilepsy
- shock

Located and interpreted workplace policies and procedures

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- State/Territory regulations, first aid codes of practice and workplace procedures including:
  - ARC Guidelines for provision of CPR and first aid to infants, children and adults
  - guidelines from Australian national peak clinical bodies
  - safe work practices to minimise risks and potential hazards
  - first aid requirements for services under the Education and Care Services National Law
• infection control principles and procedures, including use of standard precautions
• requirements for currency of skill and knowledge
• legal, workplace and community considerations, including:
  • awareness of potential need for stress-management techniques and available support following an emergency situation, including the psychological impact on children
  • duty of care requirements
  • respectful behaviour towards a casualty
  • own skills and limitations
  • consent, including situations in which parental/caregiver consent is required
  • privacy and confidentiality requirements
  • importance of debriefing
• considerations when providing first aid including:
  • airway obstruction due to body position
  • appropriate duration and cessation of CPR
  • appropriate use of an AED, including placement of pads for adults and children aged older than 8 years
  • specific considerations when using an AED on children aged between 1 and 8 years, including identification of AED with paediatric capability, paediatric voltage and use of paediatric pads
  • chain of survival
  • standard precautions
  • how to conduct a visual and verbal assessment of the casualty
• principles and procedures for application of first aid management of the following scenarios:
  • abdominal injuries
  • allergic reaction
  • anaphylaxis, including signs, symptoms and triggers and using different types of adrenaline auto injectors
  • asthma, including signs, symptoms and triggers and using different types of bronchodilators
  • basic care of a wound

  • burns
  • cardiac conditions, including chest pain
  • choking and airway obstruction
  • crush injuries
  • diabetes
  • dislocations
  • drowning
  • envenomation
• environmental impact, including hypothermia, hyperthermia, dehydration and heat stroke
• eye and ear injuries
• febrile convulsions
• fractures
• head, neck and spinal injuries
• minor skin injuries
• needle stick injuries
• poisoning and toxic substances
• respiratory distress
• seizures, including epilepsy
• shock
• soft tissue injuries, including sprains and strains
• stroke
• unconsciousness
• basic anatomy and physiology relating to:
  • how to recognise a person is not breathing normally
  • chest
  • infant respiratory systems and implications for provision of CPR
  • basic anatomical differences between adults and children, and the implications for provision of first aid
  • normal clinical values for children
  • response/consciousness
  • upper airway and effect of positional change

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated working individually in an environment that provides realistic in-depth, industry-validated scenarios and simulations to assess candidates’ skills and knowledge.

Assessment resources must include:

• adult, child and infant resuscitation manikins in line with ARC Guidelines for the purpose of assessment of CPR procedures
• AED training device
• different types of training adrenalin auto-injector training devices (e.g. EpiPen and AnaPen)
• different types of placebo bronchodilators and a spacer device
• roller bandages
• triangular bandages
• workplace First Aid kit

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to provide first aid response and emergency life support to a casualty in a remote and/or isolated situation.

The unit applies to workers who may be required to prepare for and provide a first aid response in locations beyond the reach of timely medical assistance.

Specific licensing /regulatory requirements relating to this competency, including requirements for refresher training should be obtained from the relevant national/state/territory Work Health and Safety Regulatory Authorities.

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Performance criteria specify the level of performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

3. Coordinate first aid activities until arrival of medical assistance

3.1 Identify available resources required and establish communication links with appropriate personnel, emergency management services and medical assistance as appropriate

3.2 Deploy correct amount of required resources to appropriate locations in an effective manner to ensure timely arrival

3.3 Document the provision of resources and recommend modifications as required

3.4 Monitor the condition of casualties in accordance with first aid principles and workplace procedures

3.5 Coordinate evacuation of casualties according to relevant evacuation procedures

3.6 Arrange support services for personnel involved in the incident in accordance with relevant principles and procedures

4. Communicate details of the incident

4.1 Accurately convey incident details to emergency response services

4.2 Report details of incident in line with organisational policies

4.3 Maintain confidentiality of records and information in line with statutory and/or organisational policies

5. Evaluate the incident and own performance

5.1 Recognise the possible psychological impacts on self and other rescuers involved in critical incidents

5.2 Participate in debriefing to address individual needs

5.3 Evaluate management of the incident and develop an action plan in consultation with relevant parties

5.4 Review contingency planning to identify and select alternative management principles and procedures as required
Foundation Skills

The Foundation Skills describe those required skills (language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills) that are essential to performance.

Foundation skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit of competency.

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks in line with state/territory regulations, first aid codes of practice, Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) guidelines and workplace procedures:

- followed DRSABCD in line with ARC guidelines, including:
performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) (5 cycles of both compressions and ventilations) on an adult resuscitation manikin placed on the floor

performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer CPR (5 cycles both compressions and ventilations) on an infant resuscitation manikin placed on a firm surface

performed at least 2 minutes of Bag-valve-mask ventilation and at least 2 minutes of compression during a two rescuer procedure on an adult resuscitation manikin placed on the floor

responded appropriately in the event of regurgitation or vomiting

managed the unconscious breathing casualty

followed the prompts of a Automated External Defibrillator (AED)

followed single rescue procedure, including the demonstration of a rotation of operators with minimal interruptions to compressions

responded to at least three simulated first aid scenarios contextualised to the candidate’s workplace/community setting, including:

- demonstrated safe manual handling techniques
- conducted a visual and verbal secondary survey assessment of the casualty
- assessed vital signs (respirations, pulse and temperature)
- communicated effectively with a first aid team providing direction and coordination of other first aiders
- post-incident debrief and evaluation
- provided an accurate verbal and written report of the incident

applied first aid procedures for the following:

- allergic reaction
- anaphylaxis
- bleeding control
- choking and airway obstruction
- conducted a basic triage for multiple casualty incident
- envenomation (using pressure immobilisation)
- fractures, sprains and strains (using arm slings, roller bandages or other appropriate immobilisation principles)
- head, neck and spinal injuries (using immobilisation principles)
- respiratory distress - including asthma
- seizures - including epilepsy
- shock
- located and interpreted workplace policies and procedures
Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- State/Territory regulations, first aid codes of practice and workplace procedures including:
  - ARC guidelines relevant to provision of CPR and first aid
  - guidelines of Australian national peak clinical bodies
  - safe work practices to deal with risks and potential hazards including manual handling, hazardous substances, dangerous goods and chemicals
  - infection control principles and procedures, including use of standard precautions

- documentation requirements for the administration of medication, including:
  - purpose
  - potential impacts of errors and reasons for error medication charts, their role and procedures for use
Assessment Conditions

Skills must have been demonstrated in the workplace unless state or territory legislation prevents this occurring with the addition of simulations and scenarios where the full range of contexts and situations have not been provided in the workplace. The following aspects of the performance evidence must have been demonstrated using simulation prior to demonstration in the workplace with members of the general public:

- consistently adhered to procedures and regulatory requirements for assisting with medication, including:
  - checked the care plan and confirming details
  - checked medication, including expiry dates and dosage instructions
  - confirmed client identity
  - calculated correct dosage
  - conducted pre and post administration client checks
  - cleaned equipment and disposed and stored medications according to organisation procedures
  - completed accurate documentation

The following conditions must be met for this unit:

- use of suitable facilities, equipment and resources, including:
  - placebo medication, administration equipment, charts and documentation
  - individualised plan
  - workplace policies and procedures

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to administer medications to people and monitor them, as per the delegation from a relevant health professional, in accordance with legislation and the employing organisation’s medication and delegation policies and practice.

This unit applies to community services and health workers with the relevant authority in their state or territory to administer medication and monitor them as per the delegation from a relevant health professional.

Ongoing requirements to demonstrate competency in drug calculations may apply, and users should refer to relevant state/territory regulatory requirements.

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element

1. Identify environmental and time management issues that may impact on or contraindicate administration of medication

2. Report potential risks related to medication administration to delegating health professional

3. Confirm client identity and if any allergies exist

4. Identify drugs and poisons schedules and classifications as determined by law

5. Pro-actively identify any limitations in own capability in relation to undertaking delegated medication administration function and report to delegating health professional

2. Prepare for medication administration

2.1 Confirm delegating health professionals authority to proceed with delegation of medication administration according to organisation policies, guidelines and protocols and jurisdictional legislative and regulatory requirements

2.2 Clarify own role and limitations in providing assistance with medication administration with delegating health professional

2.3 Check that all equipment, including dose administration aids, are complete, ready for use, up to date and tamper free before proceeding

2.4 Follow infection control procedures

2.5 Confirm medication administration route and procedure

2.6 Confirm purpose and function of prescribed medications from care plans and delegating health professional

2.7 Accurately calculate medication dosages according to authorised documented request

2.8 Prepare medications according to delegated role and in line with legal and environmental guidelines

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be evidence that the candidate has:

- safely administered medication to at least 10 different people, including:
  - applied the rights of medication
  - consulted and confirmed actions with an authorised practitioner at all relevant times
  - determined medication requirements
  - understood and responded appropriately to orders and instructions for medication
- calculated medications with 100% accuracy and used the rights of medication and standard precautions to administer medication, using each of the following routes or methods:
  - oral
  - sublingual/buccal
  - dry powder inhalers
  - metered dose/spacer inhalers
  - nebulisers
  - topical medications
  - suppositories
  - sub-cutaneous injection using pre-loaded syringes or pens
• documented the administration of medication according to legislative requirements and organisation procedures and policies

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

• legislation, regulations, codes of practice, professional standards and workplace policies, including:
  • commonwealth and state/territory legislation concerning administration of medication, including the Drugs and Poisons Act
  • Disability Services Acts (commonwealth and state/territory)
  • Aged Care Act
  • duty of care
  • work health and safety
  • standard and additional precautions

• principles, practices and regulatory framework underpinning delegation and supervision, accountability and responsibility

• roles and responsibilities of those involved in assisting with medications and limitations of own role

• scheduled medications and interpretation of scheduling:
  • schedule 2
  • schedule 3
  • schedule 4
  • schedule 8

• forms of medication, and how they are handled, administered and stored, including:
  • capsules
  • drops
  • inhalants
  • liquid
  • lotion and cream
  • ointments
  • patches
  • powder
  • tablets
  • wafers
  • pessary
  • suppository

• basic pharmacology of medications, including:
- pharmacodynamics (biochemical and physiological effects of commonly used pharmacology on the body)
- pharmacokinetics (the action of commonly used pharmacology in the body over a period of time, including the processes of absorption) pharmacotherapeutics (therapeutic uses and effects of pharmacology used for common medical conditions)
- toxicology (adverse effects of chemicals on the organs of the body)
- key aspects of medication groups and categories and their general effect on body systems and major disorders, including:
  - central nervous system
  - musculo-skeletal system
  - peripheral nervous system
  - endocrine system
  - cardiovascular system
  - respiratory system
  - gastrointestinal system
  - renal/urinary system
  - reproductive systems
  - immune system
  - integumentary system
  - eye, ear and special senses
  - micro-organisms
  - neoplastic disease
- major factors that affect the action of drugs, including:
  - age
  - disease
  - processes
  - nutrition
  - hydration
- cross infection and prevention strategies including:
  - correct hand washing techniques
  - glove usage
  - awareness of how infection is spread
- procedures and legal requirements for different medication administration routes and consequences of incorrect use:
  - aural
  - insulin by sub-cutaneous injection using pre-loaded syringes or pens
  - intranasal
  - ocular
  - oral
  - rectal
  - topical (including transdermal)
• vaginal
• substance incompatibilities and contra-indications, including those related to:
  • warfarin and aspirin
  • medication and diet
  • medication and sunlight
  • infection
  • alcohol
• basic understanding of:
  • anaphylactic reactions
  • side effects
  • precautions
• characteristics of at least twenty commonly used medications in the area of work, including prescribed and over the counter medications:
  • purpose
  • expected effects and potential reactions, including anaphylactic reactions
  • contraindications for use
  • consequences of incorrect use
  • storage requirements
  • disposal requirements
• documentation requirements for medication administration:
  • purpose
  • potential impacts of errors and reasons for error
  • medication charts, their role and procedures for use

Assessment Conditions
Skills must have been demonstrated in the workplace with the addition of simulations and scenarios where the full range of contexts and situations has not been provided in the workplace. The following aspects of the performance evidence must have been demonstrated using simulation prior to demonstration in the workplace or with members of the general public and where state/territory legislation prevents this practice in the workplace:
• calculated medications with 100% accuracy and used the rights of medication and standard precautions to administer medication

The following conditions must be met for this unit:
• use of suitable facilities, equipment and resources, including:
  • placebo medication, administration equipment, charts and documentation
  • individualised plans
  • workplace policies and procedures
Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

In addition, assessors must be a registered nurse or registered enrolled nurse or registered Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health practitioner.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to interpret and use basic information about nutritional principles and healthy diet. It does not include the provision of therapeutic nutritional or dietary advice to individual clients or the recommendation of ‘practitioner only’ nutritional products.

This unit applies to individuals working with clients within the limits of the Australian dietary guidelines. They make referrals to other health professionals or accredited practising dietitians when those limits are exceeded.

The skills in this unit must be applied in accordance with Commonwealth and State/Territory legislation, Australia/New Zealand standards and industry codes of practice.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be evidence that the candidate has:

- used critical thinking skills to review and distil information about nutrition and diet
- used information about nutrition and diet within the scope of own job role in the provision of services to at least 3 different people

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- legal and ethical requirements in relation to the provision of nutritional and diet information to clients:
  - roles, responsibilities and limitations of different people
  - conflicts of interest and ethical considerations
- source of information about nutrition and diet and ways to assess their credibility
- established evidence-based sources of information about nutrition and diet

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to identify variations and recognise oral health issues through a visual check, observation of patient behaviour and habits, signs and symptoms and physical condition of patients. This enables the candidate to respond appropriately to the clinical findings to initiate follow up oral health care.

This unit applies to workers in a range of health and community services environments where their work role requires them to recognise and respond to oral health issues.

The skills in this unit must be applied in accordance with Commonwealth and State/Territory legislation, Australian/New Zealand standards for maintaining infection control, and industry codes of practice.

- accessibility to services, including availability of private and public oral health services, including eligibility for services
- role of oral health professionals
- factors that impact on oral health, including:
  - abuse (neglect of oral health needs)
  - access to dental and health services
  - alcohol, licit and illicit drugs and substances, over the counter and herbal treatments
  - correct infant feeding practices
  - damage from habitual grinding of teeth
  - diet and nutrition, including fluids and excessive intake of sugar
  - fluoride
  - general health and wellbeing
  - immunosuppressant conditions, HIV, chemotherapy and radiation
  - injury to mouth, such as from a seizure
  - medical history
  - oral piercings
  - patient oral health information
  - presence of plaque and calculus
  - psychological issues, such as fear of being seen without dentures or persisting with ill-fitting dentures for satisfaction of others
  - salivary function
  - smoking
  - social and cultural determinants of health
  - susceptible tooth surfaces
  - transmission of bacteria particularly from family/carer to child
  - teeth misalignment causing trauma to teeth
  - trauma to mouth as a result of an accident
- healthy eating recommendations as identified in the National health and medical research council’s (NHMRC) Australian dietary guidelines

Assessment Conditions

Skills and knowledge must be demonstrated in the workplace with the addition of simulations and scenarios where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely.

The following aspect of the performance evidence must have been demonstrated using 10 simulation scenarios prior to demonstration in the workplace or with members of the general public:
• performing a visual oral health check

The following conditions must be met for this unit

• use of suitable equipment and resources, including:
  • appropriate personal protective equipment (PPE)
  • Dental board of Australia – dental guidelines on infection control on which the candidate bases the planning process
• modelling of industry operating conditions, including access to people for the simulated scenarios

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to provide practical information and instruction to patients and groups to promote and support good oral health care practices. The skills and knowledge will enable the candidate to provide health promotion and practical demonstration and instruction of oral hygiene practices and techniques.

This unit applies to workers in a range of health and community services environments whose work roles provide them with an opportunity to promote and support good oral health care.

The skills in this unit must be applied in accordance with Commonwealth and State/Territory legislation, Australian/New Zealand standards for maintaining infection control, and industry codes of practice.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be demonstrated evidence that the candidate has:

- communicated effectively to 5 patients to provide information that addresses their oral health care needs, including:
  - impact of oral health on general health and wellbeing
  - causes and prevention of dental plaque, dental caries, dental erosion and periodontal disease, dental trauma
  - diet and nutrition
  - denture care on patients with dentures
  - evaluating how well target audience has understood the oral health and self-care practice information provided
  - reflecting on and improving own level and application of skills and knowledge to motivate target audience and achieve key oral health outcomes

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:
• basic anatomy and physiology underpinning oral health, including what is considered healthy and unhealthy
• patient behaviour and habits which contribute to oral health issues
• causes and prevention of tooth decay, gum disease and tooth wear including erosion, abrasion and attrition
• good oral health refers to a person’s mouth that has:
  • breath without offensive odour
  • inflammation and lesion-free soft tissue
  • intact and stable teeth without cavities
  • moist lips without chapping
  • no build-up of food, calculus or plaque
  • no oral pain
  • pink, moist, uncoated tongue
  • watery plentiful saliva
  • well-fitting dentures
• accessibility to services, including availability of private and public oral health services and eligibility for services
• effective self-care practices for oral health including cause, control and prevention of dental plaque
• factors that impact on oral health, including:
  • abuse (neglect of oral health needs)
  • access to dental and health services
  • alcohol, licit and illicit drugs and substances, over the counter and herbal treatments
  • bacteria in dental plaque
  • correct infant feeding practices
  • damage from habitual grinding of teeth
  • diet and nutrition, including fluids and excessive intake of sugar
  • fluoride
  • general health and wellbeing
  • immunosuppressant conditions, HIV, chemotherapy and radiation

  • social and cultural determinants of health
  • susceptible tooth surfaces
• transmission of bacteria particularly from family/carer to child
• teeth misalignment causing trauma to teeth
• trauma to the mouth as a result of an accident
• healthy eating and drinking recommendations as identified in National health and medical research council’s (NHMRC) Australian dietary guidelines

Assessment Conditions

Skills must have been demonstrated in the workplace or in a simulated environment that reflects workplace conditions. Where simulation is used, it must reflect real working conditions by modelling industry operating conditions and contingencies, as well as, using suitable facilities, equipment and resources.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

1. Identify patient’s oral hygiene requirements to ensure good oral health

1.1 Liaise with supervisor to confirm individualised care plan supports requirements to address patient’s oral hygiene needs using a person-centred approach

1.2 Work effectively with patients from a diverse range of backgrounds to meet individual preferences in relation to provision of support or assistance with oral hygiene

1.3 Discuss and confirm the patient’s level of participation in meeting their own oral hygiene preferences and provide information to the patient and/or carer as required

1.4 Confirm oral hygiene requirements are within scope of own knowledge, skills and work role and seek appropriate assistance where patient requirements are outside scope

1.5 Take into account and address impacts that provision of oral hygiene may have on the patient and address any situations of risk associated with the provision of support and confirm actions with supervisor

1.6 Update knowledge to identify appropriate oral hygiene products, processes and aids for providing assistance and promoting independence in line with the patient’s individualised care support plan

2. Assist and support patients in an appropriate manner

2.1 Provide oral hygiene support or assistance in an appropriate environment

2.2 Use effective communication, appropriate body language and a caring attitude to facilitate patient understanding of, and comfort with, oral hygiene processes taking place

2.3 Clarify and address difficulties in providing support, including patient behavioural responses with patient and supervisor within organisation protocols

2.4 Adapt techniques or arrangements in case of patient refusal or inability to comply as recommended in the individualised care support plan

2.5 Recognise signs that indicate an oral health problem, including distress or behaviours of concern, especially in patients unable to articulate their symptoms or concerns

2.6 Develop trust, rapport and respect with the patient and work in an appropriate environment to maintain dignity at an optimal time.

2.7 Ensure patient is in a position which provides visual access to the mouth seeking their assistance to open their own mouth to minimise contact with the mouth and use appropriate infection control procedures

2.8 Provide support for patient’s head or chin to enhance visual access without creating discomfort for the patient

3. Assist and support patients in

3.1 Prepare oral hygiene products and aids for use with their identified oral hygiene needs: teeth and soft tissue or dentures in an appropriate, safe and patient preferred manner.

3.2 Inform patient and/or carer of oral hygiene processes to take place and incorporate toothbrush care.

3.3 Provide and record individualised care support or assistance with oral hygiene tasks with consideration of identified patient preferences or risks.

3.4 Where appropriate encourage patient to wear, insert and remove own dentures in line with care plan and support and assist patients with care of dentures.

3.5 Update knowledge of techniques to improve oral hygiene practices and modified oral hygiene methods and aids.

4. Recognise and report changes in patient oral hygiene requirements:

4.1 Regularly review and document oral hygiene techniques being used to ensure oral health is maintained according to the oral health care plan.

4.2 Identify variations in oral hygiene support requirements and report to supervisor any concerns to arise during patient contact.

4.3 Consult with patient and supervisor to identify required changes to procedures and oral health products and aids.

4.4 Maintain and file documentation using relevant technology.

  • mouth props for patients who clench or bite or who have difficulty opening mouth (specific training required)
  • mouth spray
  • mouth swabs
  • saliva substitute
  • suction swabs
  • tongue scraper and/or brush

Assessment Conditions

Skills and knowledge must be demonstrated in the workplace with the addition of simulations and scenarios where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely.

The following aspect of the performance evidence for the provision of oral hygiene must have been demonstrated using 10 simulations scenarios covering a range of different people and complexities prior to demonstration in the workplace or with members of the general public:

• performed effective oral hygiene practices
The following conditions must be met for this unit:

- use of suitable equipment and resources, including:
  - age related oral health care resources
  - appropriate personal protective equipment (PPE)
  - Dental board of Australia – dental guidelines on infection control, on which the planning process is based
  - oral hygiene placebo products and aids for teeth and soft tissue
  - oral hygiene products and aids for dentures or oral hygiene self-care aids
  - modelling of industry operating conditions, including access to people for the simulated scenarios

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to prepare for and conduct authorised oral health screening tests within scope of work role to identify the need for referral to an oral health practitioner or for additional education or instruction in oral health care.

This unit applies to workers in a range of health and community service environments where authorised basic oral health screening is carried out.

The skills in this unit must be applied in accordance with Commonwealth and State/Territory legislation, Australian/New Zealand standards for maintaining infection control, and industry codes of practice.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be demonstrated evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks at least once:

- communicated effectively with 5 patients to establish a relationship of trust to provide oral health information, including gaining patient’s understanding of how the oral health screening tools are used
- used relevant endorsed oral health screening tool/s and techniques on 5 different patients, including:
  - interpreting and reporting results
  - documentation of findings
  - referral of patients as required

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- how to use the relevant endorsed oral health screening tool/s and techniques including:
  - preparation of screening tools
  - communication strategies to aid in screening instrument questioning
  - evaluation of tool effectiveness
Assessment Requirements for HLTOHC005 Use basic oral health screening tools

- follow-up on unsuccessful screening
- oral health screening instruments and ways to respond to the results, including:
  - referral pathways and processes
  - screening tools, procedures and associated rationale for use
  - workplace policies, procedures and programs for screening
- relevant state/territory and national government policy, programs and reporting processes for oral health

Assessment Conditions

Skills must have been demonstrated in the workplace or in a simulated environment that reflects workplace conditions. Where simulation is used, it must reflect real working conditions by modelling industry operating conditions and contingencies, as well as, using suitable facilities, equipment and resources.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required by practitioners working specifically in rural, remote and isolated areas and/or facilities that have knowledge and experience in oral health care, to apply fluoride varnish in line with prescribed treatment as outlined in an individualised oral health care plan and in accordance with relevant jurisdictional, legislative and regulatory requirements.

The unit applies to registered Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander health practitioners, registered nurses and registered enrolled nurses in primary health care settings in rural, remote and isolated areas where the work roles may require the application of fluoride varnish.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be evidence that the candidate has:

- applied fluoride varnish safely and effectively to 5 people in line with product guidelines, jurisdictional legislation and regulation relating to fluoride schedule, supply, authorisation and disposal, including:
  - prepared self and the client using personal protective equipment against risks associated with the use of fluoride varnish
  - identified and responded to risks associated with applying fluoride varnish
  - evaluated own capabilities in the application of fluoride varnish skills

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- fluoride varnish refers to:
  - a highly concentrated form of fluoride which is applied to tooth's surface as a type of topical fluoride therapy. may be applied to enamel, dentine or cementum of tooth and can be used to help prevent decay, remineralise tooth surface and treat dentine hypersensitivity
  - not permanent varnish but due to adherent nature will stay in contact with tooth surface for several hours
• accessibility to services, including availability of private and public oral health services and eligibility for services
• awareness of relevant jurisdictional legislation and regulation relating to fluoride, including schedule, supply, authorisation and disposal
• application of fluoride varnish in the correct manner refers to:
  • keeping client mouth open
  • maintaining moisture control
  • retracting lip and cheek, wiping and applying a thin layer of varnish to the teeth as prescribed in the oral health care plan
  • ensuring varnish is applied without contact with other tissues
  • never dispensing product in excess to that stated in the oral health care plan
• how to reflect on own level of knowledge to achieve desirable outcomes and maintain own capabilities
• awareness of risks associated with fluoride varnish
• basic anatomy and physiology underpinning oral health and hygiene
• causes and prevention of common dental diseases especially dental caries
• common equipment utilised in the application of fluoride
• effective self-care practices for oral health, including cause, control and prevention of dental plaque
• emergency procedures that may be required during the application of fluoride varnish
• factors that impact on oral health, including:
  • abuse (neglect of oral health needs)
  • access to dental and health services
  • alcohol, licit and illicit drugs and substances over the counter and herbal treatments
  • bacteria in dental plaque
  • correct infant feeding practices
  • damage from habitual grinding of teeth
  • diet and nutrition, including fluids and excessive intake of sugar
  • fluoride
  • general health and wellbeing
  • immunosuppressant conditions, HIV, chemotherapy and radiation
  • injury to mouth, such as from a seizure
  • medical history
  • oral piercings
  • patient oral health information
  • presence of plaque and calculus
  • psychological issues, such as fear of being seen without dentures or persisting with ill-fitting dentures for satisfaction of others
  • salivary function
  • smoking
  • social and cultural determinants of health
• susceptible tooth surfaces
• transmission of bacteria particularly from family/carer to child
• teeth misalignment causing trauma to teeth
• trauma to the mouth as a result of an accident
• work health and safety (WHS) issues and procedures, including those related to manual handling of fluoride varnish and personal safety and security risks associated with provision of fluoride varnish application
• own work role and responsibilities in the application of fluoride varnish
• principles and practices of confidentiality, privacy and consent of fluoride treatment
• evaluation criteria for monitoring effectiveness of fluoride varnish application program
• role of significant others in supporting patient’s oral health care needs
• safe application of fluoride varnish
• safe storage of products
• relationship between oral health and general health

Assessment Conditions

Skills and knowledge must be demonstrated in the workplace with the addition of simulations and scenarios where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely.

The following aspect of the performance evidence must have been demonstrated using simulation prior to demonstration in the workplace or with members of the general public

• apply fluoride varnish safely and effectively

Note: Where state/territory legislation prevents practice in the workplace, simulated assessment environments may only be used in place of workplace assessment.

The following conditions must be met for this unit

• use of suitable equipment and resources, including:
  • appropriate personal protective equipment (PPE)
  • oral hygiene self-care aids and technique
  • placebo fluoride varnish
  • specialised equipment utilised in the application of fluoride varnish
  • modelling of industry operating conditions, including access to people for the simulated scenarios

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

1. Contribute to workplace procedures for identifying hazards and controlling risks

   1.1 Identify existing and potential hazards and record them according to workplace procedures

   1.2 Contribute to the development of strategies for implementing risk controls in line with workplace procedures and policies

   1.3 Implement risk controls in line with the hierarchy of risk control and workplace and legislative requirements

   1.4 Identify and report issues with risk controls, including residual risk, in line with workplace and legislative requirements

2. Implement policies and procedures into work team processes

   2.1 Regularly provide information about WHS policies and procedures to the work team

   2.2 Provide information about identified hazards and the outcomes of risk assessment and risk controls to the work team

   2.3 Monitor housekeeping practices to ensure that WHS policies and procedures are followed

   2.4 Maintain WHS incident records in the work area according to workplace procedures and legislative requirements

3. Support consultation, cooperation and communication

   3.1 Support workplace consultative procedures by encouraging work team participation in consultative activities

   3.2 Report health and safety issues in line with workplace procedures and legislative requirements

   3.3 Encourage and assist work team members to contribute to WHS
Foundation Skills

The Foundation Skills describe those required skills (language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills) that are essential to performance.

- Written communication – in order to complete a workplace risk assessment and complete a workplace incident report in line with regulatory guidelines and organisational policies
- Oral communication – in order to accurately present information to a small group of at least two participants

The remaining foundation skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be demonstrated evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks at least once in line with state/territory WHS regulations, relevant codes of practice and workplace procedures:

- conducted a workplace risk assessment and recorded the results, including:
  - identification of hazards and potential hazards
  - risk assessment
  - strategies for minimising risk, and
  - analysis of residual risk
- provided WHS information to at least two workers, including:
  - explanation of WHS policies and procedures
  - demonstration of safe housekeeping practices
  - correct use of personal protective equipment (PPE)
• consistently monitored safety procedures in the day-to-day work activities required by the job role
• completed a workplace incident report
• followed workplace procedures for a simulated emergency situation

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

• State/territory legislation and how it impacts on workplace regulations, codes of practice and industry standards, including:
  • state/territory WHS authorities
  • rights and responsibilities of persons conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs), officers and workers, including duty of care
  • legislative requirements for record-keeping and reporting
  • regulatory requirements relevant to the particular industry/type of work site
  • hazardous manual tasks
  • infection control
• Hazards common to the work environment and how they cause harm
• Principles of hazards and risk assessment, including:
  • hazard identification procedures
  • risk assessment process
  • residual risk
  • risk controls
  • hierarchy of control
• Workplace emergency procedures
• Workplace policies and procedures for WHS.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in the workplace.

In addition, simulations and scenarios must be used where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely. These are situations relating to emergency or unplanned procedures where assessment in these circumstances would be unsafe or is impractical.

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.
Assessment must ensure use of:

- current workplace policies and procedures for WHS.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role. There must be evidence that the candidate has:

- developed, implemented and reviewed 1 personal stress management plan that includes identified sources, triggers and responses to stress
- used strategies from personal stress management plan to manage 2 stressful situations in the workplace involving colleagues and/or clients

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- sources of stress and how they manifest in health and/or community services work environment including:
  - complex client behaviour (emotional, aggressive, cognitive deficit, non-compliance)
  - grief and loss experienced by workers
  - exposure to stressful working conditions and stressful incidents
- work planning and prioritisation techniques e.g. time management strategies
- legal rights relating to the Fair Work Act
- services available for referral, both within the organisation and in the community e.g. informal/formal debriefing sessions and/or workplace counselling
• self-care techniques including:
  • impact of exercise, diet and nutrition on physical health
  • work/life balance strategies
  • complementary and alternative health options

Assessment Conditions
Skills must have been demonstrated in the workplace or in a simulated environment that reflects workplace conditions. Where simulation is used, it must reflect real working conditions by modelling industry operating conditions and contingencies, as well as, using suitable facilities, equipment and resources.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify different types of social media tools and applications, and the issues associated with their use
- access the internet, set up a social networking presence and upload and link a wide variety of files
- use and evaluate social media tools and applications.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- list basic technical terminology in relation to social networking, social media applications, and tools
- outline basic methods of uploading images, text files, portable document format (PDF) files, audio files, video files, and link the associated files
- state the features, and functions, of social media applications
- list import and export software functions
- explain how to link documents
- explain the process of tagging, in order to facilitate collaborative folksonomy
- list social media applications and procedures, for connecting to social networking sites
- identify and describe, input and output devices
- describe, and use, really simple syndication (RSS) feeds to connect a social network.
Assessment Conditions

Gather evidence to demonstrate consistent performance in conditions that are safe and replicate the workplace. Noise levels, production flow, interruptions and time variances must be typical of those experienced in the website technologies field of work, and include access to:

- a personal computer (PC) and printer
- the internet
- social-media tools and applications
- online instructional documents.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

LGADMIN423A Release 2: Layout adjusted.
LGADMIN423A Release 1: Primary release.

Unit Descriptor
This unit covers developing, conducting and evaluating induction and orientation programs for new employees. The unit is suitable for those within the human resources area but could also be suitable for team leaders and managers.

Application of the Unit
This unit supports the attainment of skills and knowledge required for competent workplace performance in councils of all sizes. Knowledge of the legislation and regulations within which councils must operate is essential. The unique nature of councils, as a tier of government directed by elected members and reflecting the needs of local communities, must be appropriately reflected.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

| 1. Develop induction processes | 1.1 Existing induction processes and procedures are identified and evaluated based on current and future needs of the organisation.
1.2 Consultation is undertaken with business units and other key stakeholders in developing processes and procedures.
1.3 Relevant information and organisational requirements are utilised in preparing induction documentation.
1.4 Content and methodology for induction processes are developed and documented.
1.5 Forms, procedures and induction processes are trialled and measured against objectives.
1.6 Processes and procedures are integrated with other key human resources function areas. |
| 2. Manage induction of staff | 2.1 Training and assistance are provided where required to all persons engaged in inducting staff.
2.2 Induction is undertaken in accordance with the induction plan.
2.3 Implementation of the induction is monitored against the induction plan.
2.4 Induction activities are coordinated in accordance with the induction plan.
2.5 Participant progress and the extent to which the induction process is meeting its objectives are monitored through feedback from participants and other relevant persons. |
| 3. Evaluate induction processes | 3.1 A reliable and valid evaluation methodology is developed and implemented.
3.2 Information from a variety of sources is collected and analysed in order to determine the effectiveness and efficiency of the induction process.

3.4 Recommendations on modifications or enhancements are formulated for future revision of induction processes. |
Required Skills and Knowledge

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit

Required Skills

- effective consultation with stakeholders
- internal marketing and promotion
- project management and evaluation skills
- negotiation skills
- using a variety of words and language structures to explain complex ideas to different audiences
- interpreting and explaining complex formal documents and assisting others to apply them in the workplace
- written advice and reports requiring reasoning and precision of expression
- discussion using exchange of complex oral information
- cross-cultural, gender and disability competency

Required Knowledge

- legislation from all levels of government that affects business operation, especially in regard to occupational health and safety, environmental and sustainability issues, equal opportunity, industrial relations and anti-discrimination
- relevant terms and conditions of employment
- induction methods
- employee contracts
- industrial relations systems
- understanding of the concept of diversity
- equal employment opportunity
- terms and conditions of employment
- human resource policies and practices
- familiarity with models of good practice in induction
- range of evaluation methodology

Evidence Guide

Overview of assessment requirements

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit will be able to perform the outcomes described in the Elements to the required performance level detailed in the Performance Criteria. The knowledge and skill requirements described in the Range Statement must also be demonstrated. For example, knowledge of the legislative framework and safe work practices that underpin the performance of the unit are also required to be demonstrated.
Critical aspects of evidence to be considered

The demonstrated ability to:

- develop induction processes and procedures that meet the organisation's objectives and are integrated with other key human resource functions
- establish effective induction processes that facilitate the provision of information matched to organisational needs

Context of assessment

Competency is demonstrated by performance of all stated criteria, with particular attention to the critical aspects and the knowledge and skills elaborated in the Evidence Guide, and within the scope of the Range Statement.

Assessment must take account of the endorsed Assessment Guidelines in the Local Government Training Package.

Assessment of performance requirements in this unit should be undertaken in an actual workplace or simulated environment.

Assessment should reinforce the integration of the key competencies for the particular AQF level. Refer to the key competency levels at the end of this unit.

Relationship to other units (prerequisite or corequisite units)

To enable holistic assessment this unit may be assessed with other units that form part of the job role.

Method of assessment

The following assessment methods are suggested:

- observation of the learner performing a range of workplace tasks over sufficient time to demonstrate handling of a range of contingencies
- written and/or oral questioning to assess knowledge and understanding
- completion of workplace documentation
- third-party reports from experienced practitioners
- completion of self-paced learning materials including personal reflection and feedback from trainer, coach or supervisor

Evidence required for demonstration of consistent performance

Evidence should be collected over a set period of time that is sufficient to include dealings with an appropriate range and variety of formal and informal situations, involving different types of problems and clients.

Resource implications

The learner and trainer should have access to appropriate documentation and resources normally used in the workplace.
Range Statement

The Range Statement relates to the Unit of Competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the Performance Criteria is detailed below.

Other key stakeholders may include:
- all those individuals and groups, inside and outside the organisation, with some interest in the organisation's behaviour, actions, products and services, including users of the human resource service, employees at all levels in the organisation and union or association representatives
- management

Information from a variety of sources may include:
- basic statistical analysis
- interviews with stakeholders
- surveys
- focus group interviews
- research on existing programs
- solicited and unsolicited feedback
- organisational reviews
- workplace management data
- entry and exit interviews

Unit Descriptor

This unit of competency describes the outcomes required to demonstrate ethical conduct required of those in public service. It includes applying ethical standards and dealing with ethical problems.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Application of the Unit

This unit supports the attainment of skills and knowledge required for applying ethical conduct and accountability required in those working in government employment.

In practice, ethical conduct is demonstrated in the context of other generalist or specialist work activities such as building and maintaining networks, delivering client services, using financial resources, procuring goods or services, etc.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required skills:

Look for evidence that confirms skills in:

- applying objective and impartial evaluation of conflicting requirements
- using ethical decision making
- preparing written advice and reports requiring accuracy of expression
- accessing legislation and codes of ethics electronically or in hard copy
- tailoring communication to suit different audiences
- responding to diversity, including gender and disability
- applying occupational health and safety procedures relating to ethical work practices

Required knowledge:

Look for evidence that confirms knowledge and understanding of:

- the nature of ethics and ethical values
- fundamental ethical principles such as justice, respect for persons, procedural fairness, confidentiality, responsible care
- values of public sector office
- natural justice/procedural fairness
- equal employment opportunity, equity and diversity principles
- where to access ethical decision making/problem solving models, organisational codes and procedures
- procedures for declaring conflicts of interest
- protocols for reporting fraud, corruption and maladministration
- occupational health and safety procedures relating to ethical work practices

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Units to be assessed together

- Pre-requisite units that must be achieved prior to this unit: Nil
- Co-requisite units that must be assessed with this unit: Nil
- Co-assessed units that may be assessed with this unit to increase the efficiency and realism of the assessment process include, but are not limited to:
- PSPGOV303B Build and maintain internal networks
- PSPGOV305B Access and use resources and financial systems
- PSPGOV307B Organise workplace information
- PSPGOV308B Work effectively with diversity
- PSPGOV309A Address client needs

- PSPOHS301A Contribute to workplace safety
- PSPPROC302A Undertake basic procurement

This unit should be co-assessed with other units to supply the context for ethical behaviour

Overview of evidence requirements
In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:

- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of Employability Skills as they relate to this unit
- ethical conduct in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time) where contexts may be generalist or specialist work activities such as building and maintaining networks, delivering client services, using financial resources, procuring goods or services etc

Resources required to carry out assessment
These resources include:

- ethics-related legislation and guidelines
- codes of conduct and codes of ethics
- public sector standards, procedures and protocols
- ethical decision making/problem solving models
- manager/mentor/network who role models ethical conduct

Where and how to assess evidence
Valid assessment of this unit requires:

- a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered when working ethically in a public sector environment, including coping with ambiguity, difficulties, irregularities and breakdowns in routine
- ethical conduct in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time) where contexts may be generalist or specialist work activities such as building and maintaining networks, delivering client services, using financial resources, procuring goods or services etc
Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, such as literacy, and the needs of particular groups, such as:

- people with disabilities
- people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- women
- young people
- older people
- people in rural and remote locations

Assessment methods suitable for valid and reliable assessment of this competency may include, but are not limited to, a combination of 2 or more of:

- case studies
- portfolios
- questioning
- scenarios
- simulation or role plays
- authenticated evidence from the workplace and/or training courses

For consistency of assessment

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the Performance Criteria, is detailed below. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs if the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers understanding the reasons for change and initiating specific changes related to the work unit. It includes suggesting options and opportunities for change, encouraging commitment to workplace change, monitoring and evaluating change and dealing with ambiguity in the change process.

In practice, providing input to change may overlap with other generalist or specialist public sector work activities such as acting ethically, complying with legislation, applying government processes, gathering and analysing information, using resources, etc.

This is one of 6 units of competency in the Working in Government and Management Competency Fields that deal with change. Related units are:

- PSPGOV205B Participate in workplace change
- PSPGOV306B Implement change
- PSPGOV514A Facilitate change
- PSPMNGT604B Manage change
- PSPMNGT703A Lead and influence change

| 1. Suggest options and opportunities for change | 1.1 The need for change in work practice within the work unit is identified, suggestions sought and options devised.
1.2 Options and opportunities for change are suggested to improve efficiency and effectiveness of the workgroup and the work environment.
1.3 The broader workplace context, including future trends, is taken into account in suggestions for change.
1.4 Risk factors affecting change are analysed to identify possible constraints. |
| 2. Encourage commitment to workplace change | 2.1 Positive encouragement is provided to implement workplace change.
2.2 The needs and viewpoints of individuals are identified and considered when implementing change.
2.3 Communication strategies are developed and support is provided to colleagues on adjusting to change.
2.4 Issues requiring further action are identified and dealt with in accordance with legislation, policy and procedures. |
| 3. Monitor and evaluate change | 3.1 Implementation of change is monitored and feedback on individual and group work practices is prompt and constructive.
3.2 Suggestions for improvements made by workgroup members |

are positively received and acted on where appropriate.

3.3 Work activities are evaluated based on feedback from workgroup members and other stakeholders.

3.4 Evidence and information is collected on the impact of change, is accurate, relevant and reported according to organisational requirements.

3.5 Recommendations for improving methods or techniques to manage change are negotiated in accordance with organisational policy and procedures.

3.6 Learning from the implementation of change are identified, shared with others and transferred to other change initiatives.

4. Deal with ambiguities in the change process

4.1 The need to operate within constraints beyond one’s own control is recognised and accepted.

4.2 Areas of ambiguity in proposed change are identified.

4.3 Options for dealing with ambiguity and criteria for assessing those options are developed and communicated to the workgroup.

4.4 Best option is selected, work is undertaken and ambiguity handled in accordance with option determined.

4.5 The impact of change and identified related issues are communicated to management as required.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Skill requirements

Look for evidence that confirms skills in:
- communicating with a diverse range of individuals at different levels in the organisation
- applying problem solving strategies in the context of managing ambiguity and change
- working in teams
- applying monitoring and observation methods
- giving and receiving feedback, including 'managing upwards'
- responding to diversity, including gender and disability

Knowledge requirements

Look for evidence that confirms knowledge and understanding of:
- legislation, policy and procedures relating to public sector workplaces
- a range of change management models and their application to the work environment
- organisational structure and culture
- the nature of change and its effects in the workplace, including occupational health and safety issues such as workplace stress
- group dynamics
- emotional intelligence
- equal employment opportunity, equity and diversity principles

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the establishment and development of a professional mentoring relationship. It includes establishing the need for mentoring, developing a mentoring plan/framework, facilitating the mentoring relationship, monitoring the mentoring relationship, terminating the mentoring arrangement, and evaluating the effectiveness of mentoring.

In practice, the provision of workplace mentoring may overlap with other generalist or specialist public sector work activities such as acting ethically, complying with legislation, applying government processes, gathering and analysing information, etc.

This unit is one of 4 units of competency in the Working in Government Competency Field that deal with coaching/mentoring. Related units are:

- PSPGOV311A Work with a coach or mentor
- PSPGOV415A Provide workplace coaching
- PSPGOV506A Support workplace coaching and mentoring

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication

Overview of evidence requirements

In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:

- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of Employability Skills as they relate to this unit
- provision of workplace mentoring in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time)

Resources required to carry out assessment

These resources include:

- legislation, policy, procedures and protocols relating to the provision of workplace mentoring, including organisation-specific documents where possible
- current workplace mentoring methodologies and strategies
- case studies and workplace scenarios to capture the range of mentoring situations likely to be encountered in the public sector

Where and how to assess evidence

Valid assessment of this unit requires:

- a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered when providing workplace mentoring, including coping with difficulties, irregularities and breakdowns in routine
- provision of workplace mentoring in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time)

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, such as literacy, and the needs of particular groups, such as:

- people with disabilities
- people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- women
- young people
- older people
- people in rural and remote locations.

Assessment methods suitable for valid and reliable assessment of this competency may include, but are not limited to, a combination of 2 or more of:

- case studies
- portfolios
- projects
- questioning
- scenarios
- simulation or role plays
- authenticated evidence from the workplace and/or training courses

Mentoring:

- has a long-term focus on personal growth and learning
- includes a wide range of learning oriented to:
  - exchange of wisdom
  - support
  - guidance in personal or career growth
- is a relationship, not just a procedure or activity
- is one person professionally assisting the professional development of another
- is a developmental effort to build skills and knowledge for advancement based on merit, rather than alliances/politically-based partnerships to advance careers based on politics rather than aptitude
- is provided by a mentor who:
  - facilitates the growth of the person being mentored
  - provides information, guidance and constructive comments
  - evaluates the plans of the person being mentored, decisions, goals and objectives
  - supports, encourages and, where necessary, highlights

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the provision of on-the-job coaching to colleagues. This unit has no parity with National Workplace Trainer standards, but reflects the situation in many workplaces where formal and informal on-the-job coaching is extremely common. It includes preparation for coaching, and provision of and follow-up of coaching.

In practice, the provision of workplace coaching may overlap with other generalist or specialist public sector work activities such as acting ethically, complying with legislation, applying government processes, gathering and analysing information, using resources, promoting diversity, conducting awareness sessions, etc.

This unit is one of 4 units of competency in the Working in Government Competency Field that deal with coaching/mentoring. Related units are:

| 1. Prepare for coaching | 1.1 The need for coaching is confirmed based on a range of factors.
1.2 Specific coaching needs are identified through discussion with/about the colleague to be coached.
1.3 Self-assessment of own competencies and coaching style is undertaken and compatibility with colleague's needs and learning style confirmed.
1.4 Approval for coaching arrangement is obtained in accordance with organisational policy and procedures.
1.5 Coaching agreement is negotiated with the colleague in accordance with organisational policy and procedures. |
| 2. Provide coaching | 2.1 The principles and application of coaching are explained and agreed.
2.2 Specific competencies/processes to be coached are explained and demonstrated.
2.3 Any required underpinning knowledge and skills are communicated in a manner suited to the person's specific needs.
2.4 The person being coached understanding is checked using a range of communication techniques.
2.5 The opportunity to practise and ask questions is provided in accordance with organisational constraints. |
ELEMENTPERFORMANCE CRITERIA

2.6 Feedback is provided in a constructive and supportive manner, and goals are reviewed with the person being coached and adjusted as necessary.

3. Follow up coaching

3.1 Progress with new competencies is monitored in the workplace and supportive assistance is provided as required.

3.2 Progress is reported in accordance with organisational requirements.

3.3 Performance problems or difficulties with the coaching are identified and rectified or referred for follow-up in accordance with organisational policy and procedures.

3.4 Confidentiality regarding coaching arrangements is maintained in accordance with legislation, policy and standards.

3.5 The perceptions of those outside the coaching arrangement are managed according to organisational requirements.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Skill requirements

Look for evidence that confirms skills in:

- applying legislation, regulations and policies relating to the provision of workplace coaching
- providing supportive on-the-job coaching with constructive and supportive feedback
- planning coaching content, reviewing and adjusting goals
- seeking out and reviewing information related to work activities in which coaching is to occur
- giving instructions to others being coached
- seeking and providing feedback on coaching session
- systematically self-assessing coaching sessions/results and modifying techniques as a result
- questioning about aspects of skills learnt
- dealing with situations where there is a communication breakdown due to language, cultural or other barriers
- responding to diversity, including gender and disability
- applying procedures relating to occupational health and safety and environment in the context of workplace coaching
Knowledge requirements

Look for evidence that confirms knowledge and understanding of:

- legislation, regulations, policies, procedures and guidelines relating to provision of workplace coaching
- current competency in the area being coached
- basic principles and theory of coaching (explanation, demonstration, review, trainee explanation, trainee demonstration, feedback)
- equal employment opportunity, equity and diversity principles
- public sector legislation such as occupational health and safety and environment in the context of workplace coaching

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the application of a knowledge of government processes. It includes applying information relating to Machinery of Government, and applying knowledge of organisational functions and protocols Legislation/regulations applying across the public sector, such as equal employment opportunity, equity and diversity etc, are not addressed here, as these are covered in PSPLEGN401A Encourage compliance with legislation in the public sector.

In practice, knowledge of government processes is applied in the context of other generalist and specialist work activities such as delivering and monitoring services to clients, using resources, conducting interviews, giving evidence, awarding contracts etc.

This is one of 3 units of competency in the Working in Government Competency Field that deal with government processes. Related units are:

- PSPGOV515A Develop and use political nous
- PSPGOV601B Apply government systems

This unit replaces PSPGOV401A Apply knowledge of government processes. The units are not equivalent as this unit has additional knowledge requirements, and 2 additional performance criteria for dealing with ambiguity in the public sector; further, an element relating to legislation has been deleted because of overlap with PSPLEGN401A Encourage compliance with legislation in the public sector.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Overview of evidence requirements
In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:
- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of government processes in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time) in generalist or specialist work activities such as delivering and monitoring services to clients, using resources, conducting interviews, giving evidence, administering contracts, etc

Resources required to carry out assessment
These resources include:
- legislation, policy, procedures and protocols relating to the public sector
- organisational structures
- Machinery of Government information
- case studies and workplace scenarios to capture the range of situations likely to be encountered when applying government processes

Where and how to assess evidence

Valid assessment of this unit requires:
- a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered when applying government processes, including coping with difficulties, irregularities and breakdowns in routine
- applying government processes in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time) in contexts relating to generalist or specialist work activities such delivering and monitoring services to clients, using resources, conducting interviews, giving evidence, administering contracts, etc.

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, such as literacy, and the needs of particular groups, such as:
- people with disabilities
- people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- women
- young people
- older people
- people in rural and remote locations.

Assessment methods suitable for valid and reliable assessment of this competency may include, but are not limited to, a combination of 2 or more of:
- case studies
- portfolios
- projects
- questioning
- scenarios
- simulation or role plays
- authenticated evidence from the workplace and/or training courses

For consistency of assessment

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments.

Range Statement

The Range Statement provides information about the context in which the unit of competency is carried out. The variables cater for differences between States and Territories and the Commonwealth, and between organisations and workplaces. They allow for different work requirements, work practices and knowledge. The Range Statement also provides a focus for assessment. It relates to the unit as a whole. Text in bold italics in the Performance Criteria is explained here.

Coaching:
• has a focus on the acquisition of job skills and knowledge and is generally short-term
• is a defined relationship to enhance performance
• is results oriented
• is performance or goal directed
• emphasises action or improved performance in a specific area
• requires good interpersonal relations
• is identified on personal learning and development plans
• is provided by a coach who:
  • provides learning opportunities
  • monitors performance
  • provides constructive feedback
Mentoring:

- generally has a longer-term focus on personal growth and learning
- includes a wide range of learning oriented to:
  - exchange of wisdom
  - support
  - guidance in personal or professional growth.
- is a relationship, not just a procedure or activity
- is one person professionally assisting the professional development of another
- is a developmental effort to build skills and knowledge for advancement based on merit, rather than alliances/politically-based partnerships to advance careers based on politics rather than aptitude

- is provided by a mentor who:
  - facilitates the growth of the person being mentored and professional development
  - provides information, guidance and constructive comments
  - evaluates the plans of the person being mentored, decisions, goals and objectives
  - supports, encourages and, where necessary, highlights shortfalls in agreed performance
  - maintains confidentiality in the relationship
  - does NOT take over problems and try to solve them
  - does NOT give advice, criticisms or solutions, but supports the person being mentored to make their own decisions
  - is not the direct manager of the person being mentored

Other human resource strategies may include:

- performance management
- learning and development
- succession planning
- career management

Benefits may include:

- for the organisation:
  - increased productivity
  - new competencies available
  - more committed, involved and responsible personnel at all levels
- personal and trusting developmental relationships
- knowledge sharing
- safeguarding investment in high potential people
- culture change

for the person being coached or mentored:

- empowerment
- opportunity to acquire competencies and professional experience
- insights into the organisational culture, attitudes, protocols and expected behaviours
- increased potential for career mobility and promotion
- a supportive environment in which successes and failures can be evaluated
- internal and external networking opportunities
- development of professional abilities and self-confidence
- recognition and job satisfaction
- mutual respect for the coach/mentor:

- renewed enthusiasm for the role (if an experienced employee)
- challenging discussions with people who may have fresh perspectives
- satisfaction from contributing to another’s development
- opportunities to reflect upon and articulate the role of coach/mentor
- improved ability to share experiences and knowledge
- opportunities to test new ideas
- being of service to others
- increased self-esteem

Ground rules may include:

- relationship is voluntary, although the requirement to participate in coaching may not be
- mentoring partners should not be in the same chain of command
- supervisors of both partners must approve, if in-house rather than out-sourced arrangement
- guidance and counsel from a coach/mentor does not supersede that of the supervisor in work-related matters
- training for coaching and mentoring partners
- a formal agreement
- active involvement of both partners in the process
- commitment from the organisation and both parties to the Stakeholders may include:

- all those individuals and groups both inside and outside the organisation that have some direct interest in the organisation's behaviour, actions, products and services such as:
  - employees at all levels of the organisation
  - other public sector organisations
  - private sector organisations/businesses
  - non-government organisations
  - union and association representatives
  - boards of management
  - government
  - Ministers

Matching participants may include consideration of:

- age
- cultural background
- educational level
- ethnicity
- expertise
- family responsibilities
- gender
- goals
- interests
- interpersonal approach
- language
- learning/thinking styles
- life experience
- marital status
- personality
- physical ability
- religious belief
- sexual orientation
- socio-economic background
- work experience
- working style
- coach/mentor with particular attributes depending on the purpose and objectives of the arrangement
Mentoring opportunities may include:
- secondments
- relieving opportunities
- work shadowing
- project assignments
- intra- and inter-departmental release
- networks
- outsourced (paid) - business coach/mentor when none is available internally

Networks may include:
- professional organisations
- informal common interest groups
- public sector management consultants

Legislation, policy and procedures may include:
- State/Territory and Commonwealth legislation and regulations such as:
  - public sector management acts
  - privacy legislation
  - equal employment opportunity, anti-discrimination and harassment legislation
  - occupational health and safety legislation
  - ethics and accountability standards
  - public sector standards
  - organisational policy, procedures and protocols

Techniques and practices for resolving differences may include:
- finding a mutually beneficial solution
- inviting discussion
- providing explanations

- scenarios and case studies to capture the range of situations likely to be encountered when complying with public sector legislation

Where and how to assess evidence

Valid assessment of this unit requires:

- a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered when complying with legislation in the public sector, including coping with difficulties, irregularities and apparently conflicting legislative requirements
- compliance with legislation in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time).

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, such as literacy, and the needs of particular groups, such as:

- people with disabilities
- people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- women
- young people
- older people
- people in rural and remote locations.

Assessment methods suitable for valid and reliable assessment of this competency may include, but are not limited to, a combination of 2 or more of:

- case studies
- portfolios
- questioning
• scenarios
• simulation or role plays
• authenticated evidence from the workplace and/or training courses

For consistency of assessment
Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments

Range Statement
The Range Statement provides information about the context in which the unit of competency is carried out. The variables cater for differences between States and Territories and the Commonwealth, and between organisations and workplaces. They allow for different work requirements, work practices and knowledge. The Range Statement also provides a focus for assessment. It relates to the unit as a whole. Unit Descriptor

This unit covers productive diversity management to maximise workforce effectiveness. It includes contributing to, promoting and monitoring a diversity strategy; facilitating the development of a workforce that promotes and values diversity; and facilitating communication with a diverse workforce.

In practice, managing diversity occurs in the context of other generalist or specialist work activities such as managing compliance, managing people and performance, managing recruitment and selection, managing employee relations, managing client service etc.

This unit is one of a series of 6 competencies relating to diversity in the public sector, located in the Competency fields of Working in Government and Management. Related units of competency are:
- PSPGOV201B Work in a public sector environment
- PSPGOV308B Work effectively with diversity
- PSPGOV408A Value diversity
- PSPGOV505A Promote diversity
- PSPMNGT702A Influence and shape diversity management

This unit replaces and is equivalent to PSPMNGT605A Manage diversity.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Skill requirements

Look for evidence that confirms skills in:

- monitoring and reporting on the progress of diversity strategies
- using communication involving exchanges of complex oral information
- communicating with people from diverse backgrounds (including gender and disability)
- managing diverse teams
- applying intercultural management
- using a variety of words and language structures to explain complex ideas to diverse audiences
- interpreting and explaining complex, formal documents and assisting others to apply them in the workplace
- preparing written advice and reports requiring reasoning and precision of expression
- using plain English in written documents

Knowledge requirements

Look for evidence that confirms knowledge and understanding of:

- the concept of diversity and its integration within and across all human resource and management functions and areas
- cultural diversity, including issues of racism, discrimination, harassment and victimisation
- the organisation's policies and strategic goals relating to diversity and the implications of these for current and future human resource management
- the relationship between management of diversity and organisational effectiveness
- equal employment opportunity, access and equity principles
- productive diversity principles including flexibility, multiplicity, devolution, negotiation and pluralism
- institutional racism and resulting indirect discrimination
- jurisdictional legislation, instructions, directions and standards that underpin or impact on workplace diversity
• public sector policies, practices and procedures related to diversity

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide specifies the evidence required to demonstrate achievement in the unit of competency as a whole. It must be read in conjunction with the Unit descriptor, Performance Criteria, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Public Sector Training Package.

Units to be assessed together

- Pre-requisite units that must be achieved prior to this unit: Nil
- Co-requisite units that must be assessed with this unit: Nil
- Co-assessed units that may be assessed with this unit to increase the efficiency and realism of the assessment process include, but are not limited to:
  - PSPETHC601B Maintain and enhance confidence in public service

Overview of evidence requirements

In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:

- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of the Employability Skills as they relate to this unit (see Employability Summaries in Qualifications Framework)
- diversity management in a range of (2 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time)

Resources required to carry out assessment

These resources include:

- information on diversity management in the context of public sector management and human resource management
- legislation, policy, procedures and guidelines relating to/impacting on diversity
- case studies and workplace scenarios to capture the range of situations likely to be encountered when managing diversity

Where and how to assess evidence

Valid assessment of this unit requires:

- a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered in the workplace, including coping with difficulties, irregularities and breakdowns in routine
- management of diversity in a range of (2 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time)
- a variety of management contexts (2 or more) such as managing compliance, managing people and performance, managing recruitment and selection, managing employee relations, managing client service etc

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, such as literacy, and the needs of particular groups, such as:

- people with disabilities
- people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- women
- young people
- older people
- people in rural and remote locations

Assessment methods suitable for valid and reliable assessment of this competency may include, but are not limited to, a combination of 2 or more of:

- case studies
- portfolios
- projects
- questioning
- scenarios
- simulation or role plays
- authenticated evidence from the workplace and/or training courses

For consistency of assessment

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments
Range Statement

The Range Statement provides information about the context in which the unit of competency is carried out. The variables cater for differences between States and Territories and the Commonwealth, and between organisations and workplaces. They allow for different work requirements, work practices and knowledge. The Range Statement also provides a focus for assessment. It relates to the unit as a whole. Text in bold italics in the Performance Criteria is explained here.

A diversity strategy is:

- an expression of what a business unit or organisation intends to do to utilise diversity as a productive resource in order to maximise effectiveness and efficiency

Diversity issues may include:

- equal employment opportunity issues such as:
  - direct and indirect discrimination - discriminatory systems and practices
  - harassment
  - racism
  - under-representation of equity groups in the public sector
  - employment of equity groups concentrated at lower levels in the public sector
  - women making up more than half of the public sector workforce but disproportionately represented at lower salary levels
  - barrier (or glass ceiling) that prevents equity group members progressing to higher salary levels
  - disproportionate representation of equity group members in non-permanent, casual or contract positions
  - inappropriate supervisory treatment of equity group members
  - sidelining staff from diverse backgrounds to 'diversity roles' rather than the opportunity to pursue what interests them, or where they add most value
  - workplace systems or practices that don't allow a balance between work and family responsibilities
  - inequitable access to acting opportunities, workplace training and development
  - culturally inappropriate workplaces
  - making reasonable adjustment to work processes
  - enabling access to buildings to people with a disability
  - quality of service delivery to clients from diverse backgrounds
  - people from recognised diversity groups not choosing to be identified through usual statistical collection methods
- questioning/disregarding the dominant paradigm of the organisation
- inappropriate treatment of those who don't fit the dominant paradigm of the organisation
- risks associated with diversity not managed
- different values:
  - uncertainty avoidance
  - collectivist/individualist
  - power/distance
  - masculine/feminine
- resolving communication issues
- developing cultural competence
- negotiating commonalities
- resolving conflict
- negotiating difference

Public sector legislation and policies (relating to diversity) may include:

- Commonwealth legislation addressing diversity issues, for example:
  - Racial Discrimination Act 1975
  - Sex Discrimination Act 1984
  - Disability Discrimination Act 1992
  - Workplace Relations Act 1996
  - Privacy Act 1988
- State/Territory legislation addressing diversity issues, such as Victoria's Racial and Religious Tolerance Act
- public service/public sector management acts
- workplace diversity guidelines
- national and international codes of practice and standards
- the organisation's plans, strategies and policies relating to diversity
- policies relating to language services
- government policy mandating equal employment opportunity and/or workplace diversity requirements, such as:
  - Managing diversity in the Western Australian public sector, August 1995
  - Valuing cultural diversity, State of Victoria, 2002
- public sector ethics/values/codes of conduct
- public sector management standards (subordinate law)
- Commissioner's directions/instructions
Benefits and opportunities of diversity in the workplace may include:

- community guidelines, policy and practices (such as those within Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities)
- improved client service (internal and external)
- improved access to government services and programs
- improved relationship with the community
- wider sources of recruitment
- greater responsiveness to change
- cultural enrichment
- a workplace reflective of local demographics
- promotion of creativity
- retention of staff
- community public relations
- facilitation of attainment of organisation goals
- improved service delivery
- promoting equity and fairness
- creation of a harmonious and supportive work environment
- increased skills and experience added to the workplace
- balanced workforce in terms of age, gender, race and culture

Business unit may include:

- a program
- sub-program
- cost centre
- area
- division
- branch
- production unit or section located within the organisation

Stakeholders may include:

- all those individuals and groups both inside and outside the organisation that have some direct interest in the organisation’s behaviour, actions, products and services, including
  - employees at all levels of the organisation
  - other government and non-government organisations
  - union and association representatives
  - boards of management
  - government
  - Ministers
  - community
  - clients

Organisational policies and procedures may include:

- recruitment and selection
- learning and development
relate to:

- performance management
- promotion and retention of staff
- employment conditions
- organisational mission and values
- performance assessment

Methods of promoting diversity plans may include:

- written documentation
- manuals
- policy and procedure statements
- guides
- information brochures and pamphlets
- oral advice and guidance
- one-on-one meetings
- small group meetings
- telephone contact and/or electronic mail
- training programs
- online resources

Diverse workforce refers to:

- a workforce comprising employees with differences in:
  - age
  - culture
  - disability
  - educational background
  - ethnicity
  - expertise
  - family responsibilities
  - gender
  - interests
  - interpersonal approach
  - language
  - learning styles

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the work activities required to carry out complex project activities or multiple projects simultaneously. Typically this work is undertaken by project officers who are required to work on projects for multiple clients, or all aspects of larger projects. They are sometimes responsible for all the project deliverables, and at other times they work in teams on aspects of a number of projects. Contract management requirements are not included, as this aspect is addressed by units of competency within the Competency field of Procurement and Contract Management.

The unit includes reviewing and confirming requirements of each project/activity, organising and undertaking project activities, managing the progress of multiple projects/activities and finalising projects/activities.

In practice, conducting complex project activities overlaps with other generalist and specialist work activities such as acting ethically, coordinating resource allocation and usage, developing client services, undertaking research and analysis.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

| | 1.2 Key stakeholders, their potential interests, sensitivities, dependencies, roles and responsibilities are identified.
| | 1.3 Community capacity is assessed to identify gaps.
| | 1.4 Gaps are addressed by cultivating strategic relationships; building alliances with, and between, key individuals and groups; and developing community leaders.
| | 1.5 Networks, organisations and individuals are routinely provided with opportunities to examine issues and concerns.
| | 1.6 Opportunities are sought for involvement in community forums and decision making.
| | 1.7 A variety of communication and consultation methods is used to provide the community with information in ways that suit their language, literacy and cultural needs.

2. Facilitate the community recovery committee’s development of a strategic approach  | 2.1 Support is provided to establish effective governance structures.
| | 2.2 Support is provided with the identification, assessment and prioritising of community needs and goals.
| | 2.3 Guidance is provided about relevant recovery strategies that will address the community’s multiple concerns, needs and aspirations.
| | 2.4 Support is provided to gather and consider community feedback.
| | 2.5 Support is provided to negotiate and select appropriate recovery strategies that promote community goals, plans and activities.
| | 2.6 Support is provided to identify and develop strategies and links for community action.
| | 2.7 Support is provided to regularly review the committee’s strategic approach.

3. Facilitate the community’s  | 3.1 Support is provided with identifying and mobilising existing resources.
3.2 Strategies are suggested for accessing additional resources when required.
3.3 Resources are acquired using own networks, where appropriate.
3.4 Support is provided with developing agreed implementation plans.
3.5 Support is provided to enable community based recovery activities.
3.6 Self management strategies are employed to ensure own well-being.
3.7 Effectiveness of recovery strategies and activities, adequacy of resources and expenditure is monitored against plans.
3.8 Variations to implementation plans are suggested to accommodate changed circumstances or to achieve more effective outcomes.
3.9 Ownership is promoted by keeping stakeholders fully informed about overall recovery progress, specific activities and any variations in recovery strategies or their implementation.
3.10 Aspects of the recovery process, decisions taken and outcomes relevant to own role are documented accurately in accordance with accountability and audit requirements.

4. Facilitate sustainability of the community’s recovery

4.1 Effectiveness of recovery strategies is evaluated and recommendations are made for the conduct of ongoing activities.
4.2 An agreed departure plan is developed with sufficient lead time.
4.3 Ongoing community capacity is secured by ensuring recovery plans are current, resources are adequate and structures are self sufficient.
4.4 Long term sustainability of the community is promoted.
4.5 Arrangements for transition to mainstream services and sources of indirect support are clearly communicated to all stakeholders.
4.6 All audit and reporting requirements are completed.

Evidence Guide

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Assessment must confirm the ability to:

- communicate effectively with community members with diverse needs, perspectives and cultural backgrounds
- work with community members to develop effective recovery strategies
• provide accurate information and advice as necessary
• provide links to external networks, expertise and resources as necessary
• empower the community to achieve sustainable recovery.

Consistency in performance
Competency should be demonstrated in a range of contexts such as:
• throughout the life of a recovery operation
• during components of a number of operations.

Context of assessment
Competency should be assessed supporting community members to develop, implement and evaluate recovery strategies and activities in the workplace or in a simulated workplace environment.

Specific resources for assessment
Access is required to the opportunity to support community members during the recovery process in an actual or simulated emergency situation.

Guidance information for assessment
This unit contains many transferable skills, such as communication, consultation, research and analysis skills that can be applied in the emergency recovery context. Assessors should use formative assessment strategies in a simulated environment to contextualise underpinning knowledge.

Summative assessment may not be possible in a real-world environment and assessors should confirm that simulated environments are sufficiently complex to be realistic.

Range Statement
Recovery plans and arrangements may include:
• arrangements specified in legislation or regulation
• organisational or jurisdictional emergency recovery policies or procedures, including media protocols
• existing recovery plans, agreements or memoranda of understanding • local planning regulations, development controls and environmental plans

- industry awards and agreements that relate to personal job role and terms and conditions of employment
- employer and employee responsibilities under an Australian apprenticeship contract of training where applicable
- relevant legislation and statutory requirements, such as:
  - equal employment opportunity (EEO) legislation
  - work health and safety (WHS)
  - privacy
  - anti-discrimination legislation
  - workplace relations
- workplace policies, plans and procedures, including:
  - dealing with grievances
Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- identifies, locates and articulates the organisation’s requirements, including goals and values
- demonstrates work practices that reflect the relationship between own role and organisational requirements
- demonstrates knowledge of workplace procedures for upholding employee and employer rights and responsibilities
- applies workplace dress, hygiene and personal presentation requirements.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure access to:

- a real or simulated retail work environment
- relevant documentation, such as:
  - workplace goals and values
  - workplace policies and procedures relating to:
    - WHS
    - customer service
    - personal dress, hygiene and presentation
    - rights and responsibilities of employees
    - awards and agreements.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:
• direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate
• analysis of responses to case studies and scenarios
• observation of demonstrated techniques
• evaluation of time-management strategies applied to work duties
• written or oral questions appropriate to the language and literacy level of the learner to test knowledge that may include workplace policies and procedures.

Guidance information for assessment

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, salon and job role, for example:

• SIRXCOM101 Communicate in the workplace to support team and customer outcomes.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Organisation’s requirements may include:

• access and equity principles and practice
• anti-discrimination and related policy
• business and performance plans
• ethical standards
• goals, objectives, plans, systems and processes
• legal and organisation policies, guidelines and requirements
• modes of communication
• interaction with other team members
• interaction with management
• WHS policies, procedures and programs
• quality and continuous improvement processes and standards.

Appropriate people may include:

• colleagues
• supervisors
• managers
• senior operators.

Employee rights and responsibilities may include:
- confidentiality and privacy of the business, client and colleague information
- knowing the terms and conditions of own employment
- obeying lawful orders
- protection from discrimination and sexual harassment
- punctuality
- right to union representation
- safety and care with respect to WHS.

Employer rights and responsibilities may include:
- responsibility of providing a safe environment free from discrimination and sexual harassment according to relevant state or territory and commonwealth anti-discrimination legislation
- right to counsel or dismiss employees if they:
  - are negligent, careless or cause an accident
  - commit a criminal offence
  - commit acts of disloyalty, such as revealing confidential information.

Organisational culture may include:
- chain of command
- mission statement
- organisational structure, including own position and role within the structure
- organisational goals, values and behaviours
- workplace policies, procedures and quality assurance manuals relating to:
  - contact with customers
  - interaction with other team members
  - interaction with supervision and management
  - job descriptions and responsibilities.

Behaviour that contributes to a safe and sustainable work environment may include:
- discussing and negotiating problems and tasks with other team members
- identifying and reporting risks or hazards
- listening to the ideas and opinions of others in the team
- sharing knowledge and skills
- solving problems as a team
- using equipment according to guidelines
- implementing environmental protection procedures, such as:
  - waste minimisation
  - recycling
  - reuse
  - energy efficiency, e.g. electricity saving devices and practices
  - waste disposal
Daily work routine may include:
- interacting with customers
- interacting with supervisors and other staff members
- handling the telephone
- organising and maintaining work areas
- maintaining merchandise and displays
- observing scheduled breaks
- assisting other team members
- working within required timelines.

Tasks may be:
- routine
- rostered
- non-routine.

Work and personal priorities may include:
- work and life balance and other commitments, including:
  - school
  - homework
  - home and family
  - cultural practices
  - parties and friends
  - other jobs.

needs and expectations.

1.3 Make assessments of participant capacity in consultation with relevant support personnel and within scope of own responsibility.

1.4 Identify potential barriers to participation.

1.5 Advise participants of factors preventing participation in a program.

2. Plan recreation programs.

2.1 Determine program activities and strategies appropriate to the context, participant needs and capabilities.

2.2 Assess likely demands of the program on participants in consultation with appropriate support personnel.

2.3 Identify and organise required human, physical and financial resources and support.

2.4 Recognise risks to participant safety and act to eliminate or minimise risks.

2.5 Identify and incorporate injury prevention strategies and support requirements.

2.6 Develop and document program plans that incorporate key information.

2.7 Seek agreement on program plan from relevant staff, participants and organisations as required.

3. Prepare for recreation programs.

3.1 Inspect and confirm set-up of location and equipment; report issues to person responsible.

3.2 Provide clear and accurate instructions and information using communication techniques suited to participants.

3.3 Confirm understanding and encourage participants to seek clarification as required.

3.4 Issue required equipment and aids and provide assistance with fitting where necessary.

3.5 Modify equipment for use by different participant groups.

3.6 Identify emerging risks to participant safety and take action to minimise these.

4. Conduct recreation programs.

4.1 Encourage participants to warm-up and cool-down through demonstration and instruction of safe and appropriate exercises.

4.2 Monitor technique, use of equipment and aids and provide feedback and assistance to participants.

4.3 Select and use communication techniques that encourage and support participants.

4.4 Modify program, as required according to participant needs.

4.5 Use techniques that motivate participants to maintain an appropriate participation rate.
5. Conclude recreation programs.
5.1 Conclude program at a pace appropriate to participants, their level of involvement and duration of the program.
5.2 Inform participants of follow-up programs, sources of information and further recreational opportunities.
5.3 Collect and check issued equipment for damage and wear and report problems to appropriate staff.

6. Evaluate recreation programs.
6.1 Request and respond to feedback from participants and identify further needs.
6.2 Evaluate program components and record outcomes.
6.3 Identify and document potential areas for improvement in future programs.
6.4 Review own performance and identify potential improvements.

Assessment Requirements for SISCCRO001 Plan and conduct recreation programs for older persons

Modification History

Not applicable.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- plan, conduct and evaluate at least three different programs for older people, including both frail and moderately active participants
- conduct programs that individually or cumulatively incorporate at least three of the following activity types:
  - stretching and mobility
  - strengthening or conditioning
  - posture
  - balance
  - chair-based work
  - floor work
- use the following communication skills:
  - clear verbal communication
  - modelling and demonstration
  - motivational techniques.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- legislative and regulatory requirements that support and facilitate safe conduct of recreation programs for older participants:
  - work health and safety/occupational health and safety
  - privacy and confidentiality
  - duty of care
  - equal opportunity and anti-discrimination
  - sexual harassment
- organisational policies and procedures for planning and conducting an recreation programs for older participants:
  - appropriate use of equipment and venues
  - work health and safety/occupational health and safety
- risk minimisation
- privacy
- duty of care
- extent and limitations of responsibilities
- time constraints and scheduling requirements
- budget allocation
- use of modified equipment
- use of aids

- screening processes of older persons for entry into programs or activities:
  - interviews with participants and carers
  - medical history
  - physical ability tests

- general contraindications for participation

- factors affecting participation in programs for older persons

- potential types of participant needs and their impact on program planning:
  - physical
  - emotional
  - motivational

- program planning techniques and information to be included in plans

- psychological stages and impact of ageing on participation in recreation activities and the variations in older people's abilities

- risk analysis processes for assessing the potential impact of a planned recreation program on participant safety:
  - level of challenge and difficulty
  - behaviour of other participants
  - equipment failure

- activity specific knowledge to match activities with client needs and capabilities:
  - suitable exercises for older persons:
    - stretching and mobility exercises
    - strengthening or conditioning
    - confidence building
    - posture
    - balance
    - chair based
    - floor work
  - variations in status of participants:
    - impact of medication
    - chronological age
    - physiological age
    - medical conditions
- factors affecting group dynamics, conflict resolution and communication strategies:
  - verbal
  - modelling or demonstration
  - hand or arm signals
  - braille
- modified equipment and aids for older participants and equipment testing and checking techniques
- evaluation processes.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in:

- a workplace or simulated environment.

Assessment must ensure use of:

- equipment and resources required for the delivery of the program:
  - modified equipment and aids
- industry or organisational documentation such as program plans, forms relating to equipment checks and equipment damage
- legislation and organisational policies and procedures in relation to the conduct of programs for older persons
- older participants to undertake recreation programs; these can be:
  - participants in a community setting, or
  - individuals who participate in project activities, role plays or simulated activities, set up for the purpose of assessment, within a training organisation.

Assessment activities that allow the individual to:

- plan and conduct programs of a duration that reflects current industry practice.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations’ requirements for assessors.

with the evidence guide.

| 1. Plan and prepare for adventure activity | 1.1. Identify individual and or group learning outcomes to inform the planning and design of activities. |
|                                           | 1.2. Establish a program and sequence of activities according to participant's needs, learning outcomes, relevant legislation and organisational policies and procedures. |
|                                           | 1.3. Select an adventure environment according to participant's needs, learning outcomes, relevant legislation and organisational policies and procedures. |
|                                           | 1.4. Determine factors affecting a participant's perception of risk and plan activities with a balance between real and perceived risk. |
|                                           | 1.5. Select and access equipment and resources according to contextual issues and organisational policies and procedures. |
|                                           | 1.6. Confirm all staff conducting the activities are suitably qualified. |

| 2. Plan for progression and transfer of learning. | 2.1. Select a model of adventure or experiential learning and apply phases within the model to program to meet learning outcomes. |
|                                                 | 2.2. Inform participants of any potential transfer of learning to different environments and contexts. |
|                                                 | 2.3. Incorporate measures for monitoring individual and group holistic development in planned adventure activities. |
|                                                 | 2.4. Establish contingency plans for adventure activities according to organisational policies and procedures. |

| 3. Manage learning activities in an outdoor environment. | 3.1. Implement minimal impact practices and display a respect and understanding of the outdoor environment. |
|                                                         | 3.2. Monitor the physical and emotional safety of individuals and the group. |
|                                                         | 3.3. Implement facilitation approaches that allow individuals to share in the responsibility of their learning and safety. |
|                                                         | 3.4. Identify potential situations of physical and emotional danger and take action to manage these dangers. |
|                                                         | 3.5. Re-evaluate participant's needs throughout activities and make adjustments as required. |
ELEMENT

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

3.6. Reinforce the value of individual differences in terms of their contribution within the group to stimulate collaborative work between participants.

4. Evaluate adventure-based learning activities.

4.1. Facilitate individuals and group to identify their future learning needs.

4.2. Use a suitable facilitation activity to achieve the development of personal and group action plans.

4.3. Evaluate and review outcomes for all participants against individual participant goals for the program and activity.

4.4. Obtain feedback from assistant facilitators on program and activity delivery.

4.5. Develop strategies for improvement in personal skills and programming according to participant feedback, peer review and evaluation reports.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- planning and organising skills to:
  - identify individual and group learning needs, goals and outcomes
  - establish a program and sequence of activities
  - locate suitable adventure-based learning environment
  - source equipment and resources
  - select suitable facilitation approaches and activities

- problem-solving skills to:
  - anticipate potential problems and consequences and establish contingency plans
  - sequence components within adventure activities
  - identify and manage possible physical and emotional dangers
  - respond to situational demands and make changes to activities where required

- communication and interpersonal skills to:
  - interact with and facilitate different groups in a variety of situations and circumstances
  - brief groups on safety issues, activity requirements and behaviour
  - provide active listening, questioning and feedback throughout activity

- self management skills to assess feedback and review and reflect on activity and personal performance.
Required knowledge

- legislation and organisational policies and procedures to enable safe conduct of all activities
- basic adventure-based learning cycle to enable appropriate sequencing of activities and debriefing
- facilitation approaches and activities applicable to a range of needs, ages and learning abilities to enhance learning outcomes
- theories on the transfer of learning and ways of transferring learning in different contexts to meet individual and group needs
- physical and psychological needs of participants to plan suitable adventure-based activities
- factors affecting participant's perception of risk to plan activities with a balance between real and perceived risk
- models and stages of group formation to enable effective and constructive group support
- factors impacting on group dynamics to enable response to group behaviour
- motivation techniques and strategies to keep participants engaged and challenged
- forms of reflective learning and facilitation to improve on various aspects of adventure-based learning activities and programming
- adventure environments, equipment and resources required to facilitate adventure-based learning activities.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- plans and designs a sequence of adventure activities according to individual and group learning outcomes, needs and goals
- interacts effectively with group members from diverse backgrounds and facilitates adventure-based learning activities which evidence positive group dynamics
- monitors individual and group progression throughout activities and implements contingency plans where required
- evaluates and reflects on own performance as a facilitator to identify strengths, weaknesses and areas that need improvement.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure facilitation of adventure-based learning activities on multiple occasions to enable demonstration of competency and consistency of performance.

Assessment must also ensure access to:

- diverse groups of participants to take part in adventure-based learning activities
- an environment suitable for the conduct of adventure-based activities, this may include outdoor or indoor activities
- equipment and resources required for adventure-based learning activities.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- observation of planning processes, such as determining learning outcomes and assessing participant’s needs
- observation of safe facilitation of adventure-based learning programs for a variety of individuals and groups
- oral and or written questioning to assess knowledge of facilitation approaches and activities
- third-party reports from a supervisor and or leader detailing performance.

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

- adventure activity specific units of competency.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Learning outcomes may include:

- recreational
- educational
- developmental
- therapeutic
- vocational.

Relevant legislation may include:
- occupational health and safety
- permits or permission for access
- environmental regulations
- marine regulations.

Organisational policies and procedures may include:
- occupational health and safety
- time and budget constraints
- support personnel
- use, maintenance and storage of equipment and resources
- risk management
- communication protocols
- minimal impact environmental codes
- code of ethics.

Contextual issues may include:
- weather conditions; including times
- season
- transport
- location
- trip distance and duration
- group objectives
- group size.

Model of adventure or experiential learning may include:
- linear
- cyclical
- spiral
- nested loop.

Phases within the model may include:
- diagnosis
- design
- delivery
- debriefing
- detachment.

Holistic development may include:
- physical
- emotional
- social
- intellectual
- spiritual.

Contingency plans may include:
- change in weather and conditions
- equipment failure
- unavailability of equipment or suitable site.

Facilitation approaches may include:
- funnelling
include:

- cognitive hierarchy
- challenge by choice
- working agreements.

Individual differences may include:

- gender
- language
- age
- life experiences and background
- mental or physical ability
- culture and values.

Action plans may include:

- short term
- long term.

Elements describe the essential outcomes

1. Identify participant needs and expectations.
   1.1 Clarify participant preferences, needs and expectations.
   1.2 Conduct assessments to determine condition of participants, in consultation with relevant support personnel, as required.
   1.3 Assess likely session demands on participants.
   1.4 Advise participants of any reasons why they should not participate in the session.
   1.5 Recommend participants seek external assistance as required.
   1.6 Identify group cohesion strategies as required.

2. Plan the session.
   2.1 Identify and access relevant information required to plan a session.
   2.2 Identify staff, equipment and resources appropriate for the session.
   2.3 Design and document a session plan within available resources.
   2.4 Identify external factors which may disrupt or influence session delivery, value and outcome.
   2.5 Confirm session plan meets requirements for acceptable levels of supervision.
   2.6 Seek agreement for session plan from staff, participants and organisations as required.

3. Prepare for the session.
   3.1 Identify and organise appropriate venue to meet session requirements.
   3.2 Select and confirm availability of appropriate equipment.
   3.3 Confirm availability of resources with appropriate staff, support personnel, organisations and participants.
   3.4 Organise and brief support personnel according.
   3.5 Check equipment for damage or deterioration and report to responsible person, as required.
   3.6 Issue or set up equipment as required, and provide assistance with fitting where necessary.
   3.7 Modify or condition equipment for use by different participant groups.

4. Conduct the session.
   4.1 Communicate instructions and relevant information to participants in a suitable manner.
   4.2 Explain and demonstrate techniques, activities and safe use of equipment.
   4.3 Provide positive feedback and motivational strategies to enhance participation and performance.
4.4 Observe and assess participant progress against objectives and modify session as required.

4.5 Monitor participation and safety and implement appropriate strategies.

4.6 Demonstrate warm-up and cool-down techniques and assist participants.

4.7 Check condition of equipment, complete minor repair and report as required.

4.8 Leave venue in a condition suitable for future use.

5. Evaluate the session.

5.1 Seek and acknowledge feedback from participants and other staff.

5.2 Evaluate session components and identify potential areas of improvement.

5.3 Review own performance and identify potential improvements.

5.4 Document and update records of session and evaluation.

Foundation Skills

Foundation skills essential to performance in this unit, but not explicit in the performance criteria are listed here, along with a brief context statement.

SKILLS DESCRIPTION

Reading skills to:
- interpret manufacturer instructions related to equipment set up, dismantling, maintenance and repair.

Problem-solving skills to:
- determine maintenance requirements of damaged equipment
- resolve conflict through negotiation.

    - structure and content of the activity or session
    - participant progress.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- basic aspects of legislation related to planning, conducting and evaluating sport, fitness or recreation sessions:
  - work health and safety/occupational health and safety requirements
  - equal opportunity and anti-discrimination
• privacy and confidentiality
• working with children requirements

• organisational policies and procedures related to planning, conducting and evaluating sessions:
  • safety procedures
  • risk analysis processes
  • communication protocols
  • roles and responsibilities of different people, and types of tasks undertaken
  • reporting channels
  • reporting and record keeping
  • frequency and scope of equipment checks

• components of sport, fitness or recreation sessions:
  • objectives
  • equipment
  • time
  • location
  • content
  • order
  • phases: warm-up, conditioning, cool-down

• participant needs:
  • competition or performance targets
  • assist with self-improvement
  • fitness targets
  • lifestyle adjustments
  • social opportunities

• tests and assessments appropriate to preparing for sport, fitness or recreation sessions:
  • interviews
  • past performances
  • medical history
  • physical ability tests

• likely demands of participants and sessions:
  • physical
  • emotional • psychological
  • group
  • individuals within groups
  • disability requirements

• resource requirements for sessions:
  • physical
  • human • financial
• transport and related logistical
• external factors that may affect session outcomes:
  • weather
  • time of day
  • environmental variables
  • condition of site or location
  • participant abilities
• conflict resolution strategies to enable group cohesion and interaction
• equipment specifications, testing and checking techniques to ensure the selection and safe use of appropriate equipment
• evaluation processes to enable improvements to be made to the program.

Assessment Conditions
Skills must be demonstrated in:
• a sport, fitness or recreation environment with access to required equipment for participants. This can be a workplace or simulated environment.

Assessment must ensure use of:
• up-to-date equipment currently used in the sport, fitness or recreation industries, to ensure:
  • safety, e.g. helmets, head gear, gloves
  • the participant can participate in activities to suit their goals, e.g. racquets, bats, balls
• workplace documents currently used in the sport, fitness or recreation industries:
  • session plans
  • session and equipment checklists
  • participant feedback or evaluation forms
• organisational policies and procedures related to:
  • preparing, conducting and evaluating activity sessions
• activity support personnel and participants in a sport, fitness or recreation activity; support personnel and participants can be:
  • staff and participants in an industry workplace who are assisted by the individual during the assessment process or • individuals who participate in role plays or simulated activities, set up for the purpose of assessment, in a simulated industry environment operated within a training organisation.

Assessment activities that allow the individual to:
• plan and conduct a range of non-instructional sessions for a range of participants over an industry realistic period of time.
Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations’ requirements for assessors.

  • family
  • religious • community perceptions
  • impact of disability on participation
  • communication difficulties
  • transport
  • time and resource constraints
  • confidence
  • support services available
• community inclusion principles to enable effective participation of people with a disability
• strategies that support people with disabilities to exercise their rights and independence
• types of requirements likely to be associated with different developmental and acquired disabilities:
  • acquired brain injury
  • autism spectrum disorder
  • cognitive disability
  • developmental delay
  • intellectual disability
  • neurological impairment
  • physical disability
  • sensory disability, including hearing, vision impairment
  • speech/language disability
• resources required for the effective participation of people with a disability
• recreation opportunities and activities that may be appropriate for people with different types of disability • modified equipment and activities appropriate to people with a disability.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in:
• a sport, fitness or recreation environment. This can be a workplace or simulated environment.

Assessment must ensure use of:
• people with differing disability needs and expectations who require appropriate support, services, and facilities
• documented organisational policies and procedures concerning inclusion processes
- technology for the storage and processing of client information
- sources of information about recreational services and options for people with a disability.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- identify and assess at least five of the following emergency situations and coordinate the appropriate response:
  - fire
  - hazardous release
  - bomb threat
  - medical
  - accidents
  - panic and other emotional responses
  - equipment failure
  - lost party member
  - changing environmental conditions
  - activity specific
- two of the above situations must include an assessment that identifies possible escalation and an appropriate response actioned for each.
- confirm and supervise the selection and safe use of emergency equipment for each situation.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- legislation to enable application of legal requirements according to own work role and level of responsibility:
  - duty of care
  - work health and safety/occupational health and safety
  - environment protection
  - hazardous substances
  - public health and safety
- organisational emergency policies and procedures related to coordinating emergency responses:
• communication lines
• debrief procedures
• duty of care
• emergency procedures
• environment protection
• exit and assembly points
• hazardous substances and dangerous goods
• industry codes of practice
• reporting incidents
• work health and safety/occupational health and safety
• appropriate responses to emergency situations, as specified in the Performance Evidence
• location and safe use of rescue and emergency equipment and resources:
  • hoses
  • ladders
  • rescue equipment
  • monitors
  • foam equipment and extinguishers
  • blankets
  • spill kits
  • personal protective clothing and equipment
  • salvage gear
  • first aid and evacuation equipment
• the potential for emergency escalation:

  • threat to adjoining areas
  • dangers of explosion
  • loss of communications
  • involvement of additional persons
  • deterioration in environmental conditions
• rescue techniques
• emergency response agencies within the activity area and direct communication channels to enable information about an emergency to be communicated quickly and directly
• factors that impact on emergency situations to enable appropriate contingency planning
• behaviour and characteristics of typical emergencies to enable the development of an action plan to quickly and effectively bring the situation under control.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in:
• a sport, fitness or recreation environment where the individual is exposed to simulated emergencies requiring response. This can be a workplace or simulated environment.
Assessment must ensure access to:

- current industry procedures for reporting and managing emergency situations
- legislation relevant to emergencies:
  - work health and safety/occupational health and safety
  - duty of care
  - environment protection
  - hazardous substances and dangerous goods
  - public health and safety
  - industry codes of practice
- equipment and resources to ensure adequate response to emergencies relevant to work role and workplace
- a variety of clients and/or participants requiring an emergency response, clients and participants can be:
  - clients and participants in a sport, fitness or recreation industry workplace who are assisted by the individual during the assessment process or
  - individuals who participate in role plays or simulated activities, set up for the purpose of assessment, in a simulated industry environment operated within a training organisation.

Assessment activities that allow the individual to:

- coordinate participant movement during emergency situations
- respond to a range of emergencies in a sport, fitness or recreation environment, within the required, but realistic, timeframe.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations’ requirements for assessors.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- interpersonal skills to:
  - consult and interact with target groups in the community to elicit information required to determine needs for the service
  - source, interpret and confirm information to inform service planning
  - liaise with appropriate personnel to make suggestions and plan the service
  - seek feedback from service users and staff
  - build relationships with stakeholders
- problem-solving skills to:
  - plan a service according to target group needs
  - assess risk factors
  - modify the service as required
  - assess service outcomes against initial objectives to suggest potential improvements
- planning and organising skills to:
  - source and allocate resources for the service
  - develop and implement a work plan for the service within appropriate timelines
- language and literacy skills to:
  - complete research into user needs
  - produce and document service plans
  - complete documentation in relation to recommendations for improvement
- numeracy skills to develop budgets for service provision and analyse profitability
- self-management skills to review and reflect on own work performance in planning and implementing the service according to participant expectations.

Required knowledge

- legislation to enable:
- safe and equitable delivery of the service to target groups
- safe use of equipment and materials
- organisational policies and procedures to enable safe, satisfactory and beneficial outcomes for all participants
- principles of inclusive practices
- reasons for individual participation in sport, fitness and recreation services to ensure this information is included in planning for service
- risk-analysis processes to evaluate the risk and possible impact of planned sport and recreation services
- activity-specific knowledge of planned sport, fitness and recreation services to ensure services match participants’ needs
- cost-benefit analysis techniques
- marketing strategies suitable for target groups
- insurance arrangements to suit the service.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- plan and provide services within budgetary constraints that reflect the needs of a range of participants in accordance with organisational policies and procedures
- monitor the provision of services and apply effective contingency-management techniques to deal with a range of new or changing situations that may arise, and make adjustments in response to these changing situations
- evaluate and document the outcomes of the service
- make recommendations on services and reflect on own work performance to identify ways in which service outcomes and benefits to participants can be improved.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- planning, implementation and evaluation of multiple sport, fitness or recreation services to allow the individual to demonstrate competency and consistency of performance.

Assessment must also ensure access to:

- an environment or facility appropriate to the planning and provision of sport, fitness or recreation services
- target groups with specific needs
- appropriate persons to provide approvals
- resources for the service
- organisational documentation relevant to service provision.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- observation of planning and implementing a sport fitness or recreation service
- observation of interacting with a range of target groups to establish service needs
- observation of dealing with contingencies, such as changing circumstances in service provision
- oral and or written questioning to assess knowledge of principles of community development practices
- portfolio containing evidence of work plans for sport, fitness and recreation services and reports on outcomes
- third-party reports from a supervisor detailing appropriate work performed by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

- SISXCCS404A Address client needs.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the individual, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Target groups may include:

- culturally and linguistically diverse
- age-specific
- disability-specific
- gender-specific.

Services may include:

- major events
- competitions
- educational initiatives
- promotional activities or campaigns
- group or individual programs.

Needs may include:

- cultural
- linguistic
- disability specific.

Organisation policies and procedures may include:
- organisational objectives
- work health and safety
- reporting and accountability
- resource allocation
- emergency procedures.

Relevant legislation may include:
- Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) or Work Health and Safety (WHS)
- equal employment opportunity (EEO)
- privacy
- child protection
- state and territory statutory requirements
- local laws and by-laws
- ordinances and policy.

Work plans may include:
- objectives
- timeframes
- stakeholder requirements
- funding sources and criteria
- administration procedures
- promotion strategies
- risk factors, including:
  - ground and facility risks
  - equipment risks.

Resources may include:
- staff
- equipment
- venues
- industry associations and peak bodies
- external partners
- volunteers
- documentation.

Budget may include:
- setting fees
- income from other sources
- allocating funds.

New or changing circumstances may include:
- participant numbers
- weather
- facility booking falling through
- equipment failure
- emergencies.

Feedback may include:
- qualitative
- quantitative
• evaluation forms and surveys
• financial information.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency. Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

1. Select ingredients.
   1.1 Confirm food production requirements from food preparation list and standard recipes.
   1.2 Calculate ingredient amounts according to requirements.
   1.3 Identify and select ingredients from stores according to recipe, quality, freshness and stock rotation requirements.

2. Select, prepare and use equipment.
   2.1 Select equipment of correct type and size.
   2.2 Safely assemble and ensure cleanliness of equipment before use.
   2.3 Use equipment safely and hygienically according to manufacturer instructions.

3. Assemble and prepare ingredients.
   3.1 Weigh and measure ingredients and create portions according to recipe.
   3.2 Prepare, cut and portion ingredients according to recipe and cooking style.
   3.3 Minimise waste and store reusable by-products.

4. Cook dishes.
   4.1 Use cookery methods for dishes following standard recipes.
   4.2 Complete cooking process in a logical and safe manner.
   4.3 Identify problems with the cooking process and take corrective action.
   4.4 Work cooperatively with colleagues to ensure timely preparation of dishes.
   4.5 Present dishes according to recipe.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.
Required skills

- initiative and enterprise skills to minimise wastage
- literacy skills to read menus, recipes and task sheets
- numeracy skills to:
  - calculate the number of portions
  - weigh and measure ingredients
  - determine cooking times and temperatures
- planning and organising skills to work in a logical and planned way
- problem-solving skills to respond to problems in the cooking process
- self-management skills to:
  - work safely in the kitchen
  - deal with pressure of work and kitchen conditions
- technology skills to use food preparation and cooking equipment.

Required knowledge

- characteristics of different food types, their use in different dishes and the effects of different cookery methods on those foods, including:
  - dairy products
  - dry goods
  - fruit
  - general food items:
    - batters
    - coatings
    - condiments and flavourings
    - garnishes
    - oils
    - sauces
  - meat
  - poultry
  - seafood
  - vegetables
- the meaning and role of mise en place in the process of preparing, cooking and presenting food
- culinary terms and principles and practices of different cookery methods including:
  - baking
  - blanching
  - boiling
  - braising
  - deep-frying
  - grilling
• poaching
• roasting
• shallow frying:
  • pan-frying
  • sauté
  • stir-frying
• steaming
• stewing
• microwaving
• contents of stock date codes and rotation labels
• equipment used for cookery methods:
  • essential features and functions
  • safe operational practices.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

• follow standard recipes for dishes that together use all of the following ingredients:
  • dairy products
  • dry goods
  • fruit
  • general food items
  • meat
  • poultry
  • seafood
  • vegetables
• complete mise en place activities for different dishes
• use a range of cookery methods to prepare dishes including:
  • baking
  • blanching
  • boiling
  • braising
- deep-frying
- grilling
- poaching
- roasting
- shallow frying:
  - pan-frying
  - sauté
  - stir-frying
- steaming
- stewing
- microwaving
- produce food for multiple customers within commercial time constraints
- integrate knowledge of:
  - major food types, culinary terminology and equipment as they relate to the required methods of cookery
  - features, functions and safe use of food preparation equipment
  - food safety practices for handling and storing different food types.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- an operational commercial kitchen with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines, including items for all defined cookery methods; this can be a:
  - real industry workplace
  - simulated industry environment such as a training kitchen servicing customers
- food preparation lists and standard recipes
- a variety of commercial ingredients
- industry-realistic ratios of kitchen staff to customers.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual cooking dishes
- evaluation of the taste and visual appeal of dishes prepared by the individual
- use of projects that allow assessment of the individual’s ability to produce a variety of dishes for different occasions

- use of visual and taste recognition exercises so the individual can identify ingredient and product characteristics
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of culinary terms, quality indicators for dishes, equipment and cookery methods
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITHCCC204 Produce vegetable, fruit, egg and farinaceous dishes
- SITHCCC207 Use cookery skills effectively.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Food production requirements may include:

- deadlines
- portion control
- quantities to be produced
- special customer requests
- special dietary requirements.

Equipment may include:

- bains marie
- blenders
- cooking ranges:
  - electric
  - gas
  - induction
- crockery
- cutlery
- food processors and mixers
- knives and knife sharpening equipment
- fryers
- grills and griddles
- microwaves
- ovens
- pans
- salamanders
- scales
- slicers
- steamers
- thermometers
- utensils.

Dishes may include:
- appetisers
- breakfast items
- café-style items
- dishes of limited complexity:
  - containing a small number of ingredients
  - requiring a single cookery method
- fast food
- partially-prepared items
- pasta dishes.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to prepare dishes for people who have special dietary needs for health, lifestyle and cultural reasons. It requires the ability to confirm the dietary requirements of customers, use special recipes, select special ingredients and produce food to satisfy special requirements.

This unit does not include menu planning for special diets which is found in the unit SITHKOP402 Develop menus for special dietary requirements.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to all hospitality and catering organisations which prepare and serve food. This includes hotels, restaurants, educational institutions, health establishments, defence forces, cafeterias, kiosks, cafes, residential caterers, in-flight and other transport caterers, event and function caterers.

It applies to cooks and patissiers who usually work under the guidance of more senior chefs.

2.7 Present nutritionally balanced food in an appetising and attractive manner.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
  - discuss and confirm dietary requirements with customers
  - discuss special food preparation requirements with kitchen team members
- literacy skills to:
  - read and comprehend special dietary recipes and packaging labels
  - write notes on recipe requirements and calculations
- numeracy skills to weigh and measure ingredients
- planning and organising skills to efficiently sequence the stages of food preparation and production
- problem-solving skills to:
  - consider and respond to special customer needs and requests
  - adjust standard menu items to meet special customer requests
- self-management skills to manage own speed, timing and productivity
- technology skills to use food preparation and cooking equipment.

Required knowledge

- culinary terms and trade names for:
  - substitute ingredients used to produce dishes with special dietary recipes
  - ingredients suitable for meeting basic nutritional needs
  - ingredients that cause common allergic reactions
  - food additives and preservatives
- main types and culinary characteristics of special diets that are part of contemporary Australian society:

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:
- follow special recipes to prepare and produce a variety of dishes to meet multiple and diverse requests of customers with special dietary requirements
- modify a range of recipes and menu items to meet different dietary requests by excluding or substituting ingredients while maintaining equivalent nutritional value
• demonstrate knowledge of:
  • key health and legal consequences of failing to address special requirements
  • main types and culinary characteristics of special and cultural diets that are part of contemporary Australian society
  • produce special dishes for multiple customers within commercial time constraints.

Context of and specific resources for assessment
Assessment must ensure use of:
• an operational commercial kitchen with the fixtures, large and small equipment and workplace documentation defined in the Assessment Guidelines; this can be a:
  • real industry workplace
  • simulated industry environment such as a training kitchen servicing customers
  • industry-realistic ratios of kitchen staff to customers
  • recipes for special dietary requirements
  • Dietary Guidelines for Australians, including those for older Australians, children and adolescents
  • a variety of commercial ingredients for special dietary and cultural dishes.

Method of assessment
A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:
• direct observation of the individual preparing for and producing a range of dishes for customers with special dietary requirements
• evaluation of the taste and visual appeal of dishes produced by the individual
• use of problem-solving exercises so the individual can identify and evaluate the dietary needs of different types of customer and provide responses
• projects that allow assessment of the individual’s ability to produce, within designated deadlines, a variety of special dishes that meet the cultural food requirements of a designated customer group attending a cultural event or function
• written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  • meaning food allergies and intolerance and common allergic and food intolerance reactions
  • health and legal consequences of non-compliance with special requests • characteristics of special and cultural diets
Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITHPAT306 Produce desserts
- SITXFSA201 Participate in safe food handling practices
- TLIE1005A Carry out basic workplace calculations

Replaces and is equivalent to SITHFAB009A Provide responsible service of alcohol.

Unit Descriptor
This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to responsibly sell or serve alcohol.

Application of the Unit
Responsible practices must be undertaken wherever alcohol is served or sold, including where alcohol samples are served during on-site product tastings. This unit, therefore, applies to any workplace where alcohol is served or sold, including all types of hospitality venues, retail liquor outlets and wineries, breweries and distilleries.

This unit applies to all levels of sales personnel involved in the sale, service and promotional service of alcohol in licensed premises. Those selling or serving alcohol may include food and beverage attendants; retail liquor sales persons; winery, brewery and distillery cellar door staff and supplier sales representatives. It also applies to security staff who monitor customer behaviour and to the licensee who is ultimately responsible for RSA management.

Licensing/Regulatory Information
The unit incorporates the knowledge requirements, under state and territory liquor licensing law, for employees engaged in the sale or service of alcohol.

Certification requirements differ across states and territories. In most cases all people involved in the sale, service and promotional service of alcohol in licensed premises must be certified in this unit. This can include the licensee and security staff.
This unit covers the Responsible Service of Alcohol (RSA) skill and knowledge requirements common to all States and Territories. Some legislative requirements and knowledge will differ across borders. In some cases after completion of this unit, state and territory liquor authorities require candidates to complete a bridging course to address these specific differences.

Those developing training to support this unit must consult the relevant state or territory liquor licensing authority to determine any accreditation arrangements for courses, trainers and assessors.

Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency. Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

1. Sell or serve alcohol responsibly.

   1.1 Sell or serve alcohol according to provisions of relevant state or territory legislation, licensing requirements and responsible service of alcohol principles.

   1.2 Provide accurate information to customers on alcoholic beverages according to organisation or house policy and government legislation, including types, strengths, standard drinks and the alcoholic percentages of a range of frequently sold alcoholic beverages.

   1.3 Assist customers with information on the range of non alcoholic beverages available for purchase.

   1.4 Identify issues related to the sale and service of alcohol to different types of customers, especially those at risk, and incorporate them into sales or service.
2. Assist customers to drink within appropriate limits.

| 2.1 Prepare and serve standard drinks or samples according to industry requirements. |
| 2.2 Encourage customers courteously and diplomatically to drink within appropriate limits. |
| 2.3 Recognise erratic drinking patterns as an early sign of possible intoxication and take appropriate action. |
| 2.4 Monitor emotional and physical state of customers for signs of intoxication and ill effects of illicit or other drug usage. |
| 2.5 Where appropriate, offer food and non alcoholic beverages. |
| 2.6 Politely decline requests for alcohol to be dispensed in a manner that is irresponsible, or which encourages the rapid or excessive consumption of alcohol, and advise customers of the reasons for the refusal. |

3. Assess alcohol affected customers and identify customers to whom sale or service must be refused.

| 3.1 Assess intoxication levels of customers using a number of methods, including observing changes in behaviour, observing emotional and physical state, and monitoring noise levels and drink purchases. |
| 3.2 When assessing intoxication, take into account factors that may affect individual responses to alcohol. |
| 3.3 Identify customers to whom sale or service must be refused according to state and territory legislation, including minors, those purchasing on behalf of minors, intoxicated persons, and persons affected by the consumption of illicit and other drugs. |
| 3.4 Where appropriate, request and obtain acceptable proof of age prior to sale or service. |

4. Refuse to provide alcohol.

| 4.1 Refuse service in a polite manner and state reasons for the refusal. |
| 4.2 Speak to intoxicated customers in a suitable and consistent manner, minimising confrontation and arguments and point out signage. |
| 4.3 Provide appropriate assistance to customers when refusing service. |
| 4.4 Where appropriate, give customers a verbal warning and ask them to leave the premises according to organisation or house requirements, the specific situation and provisions of state or territory legislation and regulations. |
| 4.5 Use appropriate communication and conflict resolution skills to handle difficult situations. |
| 4.6 Refer difficult situations beyond the scope of individual responsibility to the appropriate person. |
| 4.7 Promptly identify situations that pose a threat to the safety... | or security of colleagues, customers or property, and seek assistance from appropriate colleagues according to organisational policy.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication to:
  - provide complex information on responsible service of alcohol laws in a way that is readily understood by customers
  - speak firmly and clearly with intoxicated customers
  - deal with customers sensitively, courteously and discreetly using non-confrontational language

- critical thinking skills to assess intoxication levels of customers

- initiative and enterprise skills to offer food and non-alcoholic beverages to assist customers

- learning skills to continuously update knowledge of changing responsible service of alcohol laws and regulations

- literacy skills to:
  - read and interpret documents such as identification (ID) cards, proof of age cards, driver’s licences, statutory signage, warning signs and wording within advertising or promotional material, in-house policies and procedures and any general plain English regulatory and advisory information issued by local, or state and territory liquor licensing authorities

- numeracy skills to measure and calculate standard drinks or samples and calculate blood alcohol levels to determine alcohol consumption

- problem-solving skills to:
  - identify customers to whom sale or service must be refused
  - identify intoxicated persons and refuse service
  - identify situations that pose a safety threat and seek assistance from appropriate colleagues

- teamwork skills to share customer information with team members to ensure proper responsible service of alcohol practices within the organisation.

Required knowledge

- public interest reasons for implementation of responsible service of alcohol practices, including:
  - government and community concern with alcohol misuse and abuse
  - crime, violence and anti-social behaviour associated with alcohol abuse
  - impact of excessive drinking on:
- local neighbourhood and community
- premises and staff
- customers
- particular types of customers who may be at heightened risk such as young people, pregnant women and minors
- government agencies such as the local police, health facilities and road authority
- key agencies and how to source relevant information on laws, regulations and codes of practice or conduct
- current promotional and strategic community education campaigns developed and conducted by agencies and industry groups
- effects of alcohol on:
  - emotional state
  - health
  - physical alertness
- factors that affect individual responses to alcohol, including:
  - gender
  - weight
  - general health
  - rate of consumption
  - food intake
  - other substances taken
- time for effects of alcohol to be registered
- standard drinks and acceptable measures of alcohol
- indicators of intoxication, including ways of assessing intoxication of customers
- ways of assessing customers affected by the consumption of illicit and other drugs
- principles of harm minimisation and strategies to minimise the harm associated with liquor abuse:
  - strategies laid down in legislation and codes of conduct developed by government agencies or industry groups
  - organisational policies that are designed to reduce the harm associated with liquor abuse
- the key provisions of liquor laws and regulations at a depth relevant to the scope of job responsibility within licensed premises, including the following list that expresses general statements about requirements of liquor legislation and information that must be customised for each State or Territory:
  - legislative definition of intoxication; intoxicated person and unduly intoxicated
  - role of individual staff members and supervisors or managers in providing responsible service of alcohol, including seller or server duty of care and liability
  - requirement to adopt and use statutory signage on the premises for the entire range of circumstances applicable to the organisation
  - requirements for mandatory content of any warning signs and wording within advertising or promotional material of any form, such as print advertising or internet sales

- requirements for the remote sale and delivery of alcohol sales generated via the telephone, fax, email or mail

- personal and business implications of breaching any laws, regulations, government or industry-driven codes of practice or conduct
- offences and penalties relating to offences
- legal restrictions on alcohol use customised to state or territory legislation, including intoxication provisions of liquor licensing laws
- legal drink and drive limits.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- responsibly sell or serve alcohol on multiple occasions to customers
- satisfy the legal requirements for responsible sale or service of alcohol for the local state or territory law
- follow organisational policies and procedures for the responsible service of alcohol
- demonstrate knowledge of:
  - reasons for and benefits of responsible service of alcohol
  - principles of responsible service of alcohol and harm minimisation

- the key provisions of liquor laws and regulations at a depth relevant to the scope of job responsibility within licensed premises
- the ramifications of non-compliance with the law and industry codes for the organisation, licensee and individual staff members.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- a real or simulated workplace
- a range of industry equipment to demonstrate standard drink measures or samples
- relevant and current publications, signage, information and plain English fact sheets distributed by government regulators and industry bodies.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess the practical skills and knowledge required to sell or serve alcohol responsibly.

The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- role-plays or case studies simulating customers, intoxicated patrons and alcohol that allow assessment of the individual’s ability to:
  - interact with customers and explain organisational legal requirements to sell or serve alcohol responsibly
  - explain in-house policies for the service of alcohol
  - refuse service to people to whom alcohol cannot be served
  - speak to intoxicated customers to minimise confrontation
- case studies and problem-solving activities to assess the individual’s ability to respond to:
  - situations where customers are engaging in erratic drinking patterns
  - signage deficiencies
  - situations that pose a safety threat
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of legislation and all other knowledge components of this unit
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for

The assessor should design integrated assessment
assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

- SITHFAB202 Operate a bar
- SITHFAB302 Conduct a product tasting for alcoholic beverages
- SITHFAB303 Prepare and serve cocktails
- SITHFAB304 Provide advice on beers, spirits and liqueurs
- SITHFAB305 Provide advice on Australian wines
- SITHFAB306 Provide advice on imported wines
- SITHFAB307 Provide table service of food and beverage.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Accurate information may be provided to customers:

- by use of fact sheets and advertising material that comply with legislative requirements
- by use of mandatory signage
- verbally.

Issues may include:

- demeanour and mood
- familiarity with specific customers
- perceived effects of illicit and other drug usage
- perceived health status
- physical stature
- social context.

Those at risk may include:

- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders
- minors
- people affected by the consumption of illicit and other drugs
- people from non-English speaking backgrounds
- women
- young customers.
Standard drinks should be measured using:

- appropriate nip measures
- appropriately sized sample glasses
- electronic dispensing and measuring devices.

Samples may include tastings of any item for sale in a:

- brewery
- distillery
- hospitality venue
- retail liquor outlet
- winery.

Erratic drinking patterns may include:

- mixing a wide range of drink types
- drinking quickly and asking for more immediately
- ordering more than one drink for self-consumption
- mixing alcohol consumption with consumption of prescription or illicit drugs
- consistently returning to the tasting site to request more samples
- ordering multiple samples
- ordering large samples
- ordering ‘triple shots’ or extra large drinks.

Requests for drinks to be dispensed in a manner that is irresponsibly, or which encourages the rapid or excessive consumption of liquor include:

- jugs of spirits and mixers
- large samples
- laybacks
- multiple samples for self-consumption
- rocket fuel
- shooters
- test tubes
- yard glasses.

Changes in behaviour may involve the customer becoming:

- aggressive
- disorderly
- quarrelsome
- violent.

Factors include:

- food intake
- gender
- general health
- other substances taken, especially illicit and other drugs
- rate of consumption
- weight.
Proof of age includes:
- current drivers licence
- passport
- photo card
- proof of age card.

Intoxicated denotes:
- those to whom service may be refused due to excessive consumption of alcohol
- ‘unduly intoxicated’ may also be used in some state or territory legislation.

Signage may include:
- signs produced in-house that comply with wording required by legislation
- standard promotional signs issued by the relevant state or territory licensing authority
- warning notices within any form of advertising.

Appropriate assistance may include:
- assisting the customer to connect with their designated driver
- offering alternatives to alcohol, including food
- offering to sell or serve non-alcoholic drinks
- organising transport for customers wishing to leave
- providing information on taxis.

Communication and conflict resolution skills may include:
- using open and non-aggressive body language
- using a number of strategies to diffuse a situation, such as taking the person away from an audience or blaming the refusal on the ‘law’
- monitoring the reactions of other customers
- picking early warning signs and intervening before the person is intoxicated
- not using physical touch or body language
- remaining calm and using tactful language.

Replaces and is equivalent to SITXFSA003A Transport and store food in a safe and hygienic manner.
Prerequisite removed. Title simplified. Minor adjustments to expression of content to streamline and improve unit. Wording adjusted to better reflect regulatory requirements.

Unit Descriptor
This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to transport food from a food preparation area to another location. It also deals with holding or storage on arrival.

Application of the Unit
This unit applies to catering operations where food is transported from the preparation area to another location and stored on arrival. This could include restaurants, educational institutions, aged care facilities, hospitals, defence forces, cafeterias, kiosks, cafes, residential catering, in-flight and other transport catering, events catering and private catering. It applies to food handlers who directly handle food when transporting and storing food. People at many levels use this skill in the workplace including cooks, chefs, caterers and catering assistants.
The person transporting the food may or may not be driving the vehicle.

Licensing/Regulatory Information
Food handlers involved in transporting and storing food must comply with the requirements contained within the Australia New Zealand Food Standards (ANZFS) Code (the Code). Business may be required to implement a food safety program and food handlers would need to comply with the transportation provisions.
Pre-Requisites
Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information
This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

1. Transport food safely and hygienically.
   1.1 Select suitable food transportation vehicles according to legislative requirements.
   1.2 Package, load, restrain and unload food appropriately.
   1.3 Use hygienic food safety practices for food transportation
   1.4 Use safe manual handling techniques when moving and storing food.
   1.5 Maintain records of food transportation as required.

2. Store food safely and hygienically.
   2.1 Select food storage conditions for specific food types.
   2.2 Maintain environmental conditions for specific food types to ensure freshness, quality and appearance.
   2.3 Ensure storage and holding methods optimise nutritional quality and comply with relevant stock control principles.
   2.4 Use hygienic food safety practices and observe work health and safety procedures and practices.
   2.5 Keep storage areas free from contaminants and pests.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

• literacy skills to:
  • read work instructions and food labels
• complete records of food transportation
• numeracy skills to calculate quantities during the packing and unpacking process
• problem-solving skills to deal with routine food handling, storage and transportation problems.

Required knowledge
• basic aspects of national, state or territory food safety laws, standards and codes, including:
  • actions that must be adhered to by organisations
  • employee responsibility to participate in hygienic practices
  • reasons for food safety programs, when they are required for transportation activities and what they must contain
  • role of local government regulators
  • ramifications of failure to observe food safety law and organisational policies and procedures
  • meaning of contaminant, contamination and potentially hazardous foods as defined by the Code
• advantages and disadvantages of different forms of transport for particular food items, quantities and circumstances
• safe storage principles and practices for different food types, including storage options
• characteristics of different food items and conditions required to maintain optimum freshness, palatability and safety, including:
  • dairy
  • dried goods
  • eggs
  • frozen food
  • fruit and vegetables
  • meat and fish
• for the specific industry sector and organisation:
  • sources and effects of microbiological contamination of food in transit
  • methods of transportation and storage to ensure the safety of food
  • temperature controls and temperature danger zones, for storage of main food types used in the business
  • the contents of food safety transportation procedures included in organisational food safety program
• safe manual handling techniques, in particular loading and unloading, lifting and dealing with heated surfaces.

Evidence Guide
The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Evidence of the ability to:

- transport and store food items according to food safety requirements and regulations
- demonstrate knowledge of specific requirements for different food types, including:
  - dairy
  - dried goods
  - eggs
  - frozen food
  - fruit and vegetables
  - meat and fish.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- vehicles suitable for the transportation of food
- food ingredients and ready to eat food items to be transported
- industry-current equipment for the transportation and storage of food
- current plain English regulatory documents distributed by the national, state, territory or local government food safety authority
- the Code
- current commercial food safety programs, policies and procedures used for the management of food safety.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct observation of the individual transporting and storing food items
- inspection of food transported and stored by the individual
- use of case studies to assess knowledge of requirements for different food types
- written or oral questioning to assess knowledge of food safety requirements
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for

The assessor should design integrated assessment

Evidence Guide
The Evidence Guide identifies the critical aspects, knowledge and skills to be demonstrated to confirm competence for this unit. This is an integral part of the assessment of competence and should be read in conjunction with the Range Statements

Critical aspects of evidence to be considered
Assessment must confirm the ability integrated demonstration of all elements of competency and their performance criteria, in particular the ability to evaluate whether conditions are suitable to commence the session communicate effectively with infants, toddlers and parents
SRCCRO008B Interact positively with infants, toddlers and parents in a recreation environment

- Observe participants and recognise when and how intervention should take place to improve relationships
- Select toys and equipment appropriate to foster social interaction between infants, toddlers and parents in the recreation environment
- Conduct activities and games to develop relationships
- Ensure adherence to safety and hygiene policies and procedures
- Conduct activities and/or games in accordance with the accepted best practice principles of recreation activity

Interdependent assessment of units

For the purpose of integrated assessment, this unit may be assessed in conjunction with the following unit(s)

SRCAQU013B Collect and analyse information on the philosophy and structure of the Australian aquatic industry

Required knowledge and skills

Required knowledge

Infant’s and toddler’s stages of development
Temperament and personality characteristics
Parenting styles
Toys, activities and games to encourage interaction
Relevant equipment and safety requirements, including occupational health and safety and legislative requirements
Hazards to infants and toddlers in a recreation environment
Required skills

Skills used to conduct developmentally appropriate activities and games, eg, movement, voice, etc

Ability to provide explanations and instructions

Communication skills to exchange information with infants, toddlers and parents in the recreation environment

Risk minimisation skills to maintain a safe and hygienic environment

Resource implications

Physical resources - assessment of this competency requires access to a real or simulated work environment appropriate documentation and resources normally used in the workplace a recreation environment other equipment
suitable participants
rules, policies and regulations of relevant peak bodies and/or employer organizations

Human resources - assessment of this competency will require human resources consistent with those outlined in the Assessment Guidelines. That is, assessors (or persons within the assessment team) must be competent in this unit be current in their knowledge and understanding of the industry through provision of evidence of professional activity in the relevant area have attained the mandatory competency requirements for assessors under the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) as specified in Standard 7.3 of the Standards for Registered Training Organisations

Consistency in performance

Competence in this unit must be assessed over a period of time in order to ensure consistency of performance over the Range Statements and contexts applicable to the work environment.

Context for assessment

This unit of competency must be assessed in the context of community recreation in Australia. For valid and reliable assessment the community recreation activity should closely replicate the work environment. The environment should be safe, with the hazards, circumstances and equipment likely to be encountered in a real workplace.

This unit of competence should be assessed through the observation of processes and procedures, oral and/or written questioning on required knowledge and skills and consideration of required attitudes.

Where performance is not directly observed and/or is required to be demonstrated over a "period of time" and/or in a "number of locations", any evidence should be authenticated by colleagues, supervisors, clients or other appropriate persons.

TAEDEL301A Provide work skill instruction

Modification History
Not applicable.

Unit Descriptor

| Unit descriptor | This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to conduct individual and group instruction and demonstrate work skills, using existing learning resources in a safe and comfortable learning environment. The unit covers the skills and knowledge required to determine the success of both the training provided and one’s own personal training performance. It emphasises the training as being driven by the work process and context. |

Application of the Unit

| Application of the unit | This unit supports a wide range of applications across any workplace setting and so can be used by any organisation. Its use is not restricted to training organisations. |

- pace learning
- reflection skills in order to:
  - identify areas for improvement
  - maintain personal skill development
- literacy skills to:
  - complete and maintain documentation
  - read and follow learning programs and plans
  - read and analyse learner information
- technology skills to operate audio-visual and technical equipment
- interpersonal skills to:
  - engage, motivate and connect with learners
  - provide constructive feedback
  - maintain appropriate relationships
  - establish trust
  - use appropriate body language
  - maintain humour
  - demonstrate tolerance
  - manage a group
  - recognise and be sensitive to individual difference and diversity
- observation skills to:
  - monitor learner acquisition of new skills, knowledge and competency requirements
  - assess learner communication and skills in interacting with others
  - identify learner concerns
  - recognise learner readiness to take on new skills and tasks

Required knowledge

- learner characteristics and needs
- content and requirements of the relevant learning program and/or delivery plan
- sources and availability of relevant learning resources and learning materials
- content of learning resources and learning materials
- training techniques that enhance learning and when to use them
- introductory knowledge of learning principles and learning styles
- key OHS issues in the learning environment, including:
  - roles and responsibilities of key personnel
  - responsibilities of learners
  - relevant policies and procedures, including hazard identification, risk assessment, reporting requirements, safe use of equipment and emergency
REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Assessment must address the scope of this unit and reflect all components of the unit. A range of appropriate assessment methods and evidence-gathering techniques must be used to determine competency. A judgement of competency should only be made when the assessor is confident that the required outcomes of the unit have been achieved and that consistent performance has been demonstrated.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:
- carry out a minimum of three training sessions, involving demonstrating and instructing particular work skills for different groups; with each session addressing:
  - different learning objectives
  - a range of techniques and effective communication skills appropriate to the audience.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Method of assessment

Guidance information for assessment

For further information about assessment of this and other TAE units, refer to relevant implementation guidance published on the IBSA website (www.ibsa.org.au).

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

| Learner characteristics may include: | • language, literacy and numeracy levels
• learning styles
• past learning and work experiences
• specific needs
• workplace culture. |
| Safe learning environment may include: | • exit requirements
• personal protective equipment
• safe access
• safe use of equipment. |
| Instruction and demonstration objectives may include: | • competencies to be achieved • generic and technical skills, which may be:
  • provided by the organisation
  • developed by a colleague
  • individual or group objectives
  • learning outcomes. |
| Learning resources may include: | • any material used to support learning, such as:
  • learner and user guides
  • trainer and facilitator guides
  • example training programs
  • specific case studies
  • professional development materials
  • assessment materials
  • a variety of formats
  • those produced locally
  • those acquired from other sources. |
| Learning materials may include: | • handouts for learners
• materials sourced from the workplace, e.g. workplace documentation, operating procedures, and specifications. |
| Details may include: | • location and time
• outcomes of instruction or demonstration
• reason for instruction or demonstration
• who will be attending instruction session. |
RANGE STATEMENT

| OHS procedures may include: | • emergency procedures
|                               | • hazards and their means of control
|                               | • incident reporting
|                               | • use of personal protective equipment
|                               | • safe work practices

|                               | • site-specific safety rules. |

| Delivery techniques may include: | • coaching
|                             | • demonstration
|                             | • explanation
|                             | • group or pair work
|                             | • providing opportunities to practise skills and solve problems
|                             | • questions and answers. |

| Coaching may include: | • learning arrangements requiring immediate interaction and feedback |                          | • on-the-job instruction and 'buddy' systems
|                          | • relationships targeting enhanced performance
|                          | • short-term learning arrangements
|                          | • working on a one-to-one basis. |

| Measures may include: | • informal review or discussion
|                          | • learner survey
|                          | • on-the-job observation

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- presentation skills to ensure delivery is engaging and relevant, including:
  - synthesising information and ideas
  - preparing equipment, such as data projectors and computer presentation applications
  - speaking with appropriate tone and pitch
  - using language appropriate to audience
  - encouraging and dealing appropriately with questions
- group facilitation skills to ensure that:
  - every individual has an opportunity for participation and input
  - group cohesion is maintained
  - behaviour that puts others at risk is observed, interpreted and addressed
  - discussion and group interaction are enhanced

- sound knowledge of learning principles
- sound knowledge of learner styles
- industry area and subject matter of the delivery
- learner group profile, including characteristics and needs of individual learners in the group
- content and requirements of the learning program and/or delivery plan
- different delivery methods and techniques appropriate to face-to-face group delivery
- techniques for the recognition and resolution of inappropriate behaviours
- behaviours in learners that may indicate learner difficulties
- organisational record-management systems and reporting requirements
- evaluation and revision techniques
- specific resources, equipment and support services available for learners with special needs
- relevant policy, legal requirements, codes of practice and national standards, including commonwealth and state or territory legislation that may affect training and assessment in the vocational education and training sector
- OHS relating to the facilitation of group-based learning, including:
  - assessment and risk control measures
  - reporting requirements for hazards
  - safe use and maintenance of relevant equipment
  - emergency procedures
  - sources of OHS information
  - role of key workplace persons

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- oral communication and language skills to:
  - motivate the learner
  - transfer skills and knowledge
- interpersonal skills to maintain appropriate relationships
- observation skills to monitor individual progress
- literacy skills to:
  - read and interpret organisational documents, legal documents and contracts
  - complete and maintain documentation
- organisational skills to provide guidance and feedback to individuals
- communication skills, including:
  - using effective verbal and non-verbal language
  - using critical listening and questioning techniques
  - giving constructive and supportive feedback
  - assisting learners to paraphrase advice or instructions back to the trainer/facilitator
  - providing clear and concrete options and advice
  - using appropriate industry/profession terminology and language
  - ensuring language, literacy and numeracy used is appropriate to learners

Required knowledge

- systems, processes and practices within the organisation where work-based learning is taking place
- operational demands of the work and impact of changes on work roles
- organisational work culture, including industrial relations environment
- systems for identifying skill needs
- introductory knowledge of different learning styles and how to encourage learning in each, for example:
  - visual learners
  - audio learners
  - kinaesthetic learners
  - theoretical learners
- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards that may affect training and assessment in the vocational education and training sector
- OHS relating to the work role, including:
  - hazards relating to the industry and specific workplace
  - reporting requirements for hazards and incidents
REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- specific procedures for work tasks
- safe use and maintenance of relevant equipment
- emergency procedures
- sources of OHS information

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:
- prepare and facilitate work-based learning
- provide evidence of a minimum of two examples of developing work-based learning pathways, that include:
  - identifying needs for learning
  - analysing work practices, work environment and work activities
  - organising and allocating work in a way that reflects learning needs and provides effective learning opportunities through work processes
- provide a minimum of two examples of a learning facilitation relationship being conducted:
  - with different individuals
  - demonstrating communication skills and flexibility
  - demonstrating one or more of the processes or techniques identified.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

OHS implications may include:
- OHS obligations
- workplace OHS policies and procedures
- ensuring work practices, routines and proposed changes do not pose a risk to learners and others.

Contractual requirements may include:
- training plans under apprenticeships/traineeships
- requirements of government-funded training programs, such as Workplace English Language and Literacy (WELL).

Work-based learning pathway may include:
- identifying specific goals for work-based learning
- identifying job tasks or activities to be included in learning process
- appropriate sequencing of job tasks/activities to reflect learner incremental development
- direct guidance and modelling from experienced co-workers and experts
- opportunities for practice.

Individualised learning plan may include:
- information about individual's learning style, learner characteristics, and the context for learning
- clear boundaries and expectations of the learning/facilitation relationship
- documented equity or additional support needs for the learner
RANGE STATEMENT

- performance benchmarks to be achieved
- activities and processes which together will achieve the benchmarks.

Ethical behaviour includes:

- trust
- integrity
- privacy and confidentiality of the session
- following organisational policies
- knowing own limitations
- having a range of other intervention referrals ready when needed
- honesty
- fairness to others.

Impact may be:

- successful achievement, rate of achievement, or lack of achievement of identified goals
- achievement of other outcomes as a result of the relationship
- development of new goals
- new or increased motivation to learn
- greater capacity to learn
- increase in learner's self-confidence.

Self-evaluation and reflection may include:

- asking critical questions about:
  - own ability
  - what worked or didn't work
  - how the relationship building process could be improved
- reviewing records and journals on sessions and critically evaluating own performance
- reviewing feedback from learner and identifying critical aspects and areas for improvement.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Assessment must address the scope of this unit and reflect all components of the unit. A range of appropriate assessment methods and evidence-gathering techniques must be used to determine competency. A judgement of competency should only be made when the assessor is confident that the required outcomes of the unit have been achieved and that consistent performance has been demonstrated.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:
- prepare a mentoring plan between the mentor and learner that reflects the scope and substance expected within a plan prepared for a learner undertaking a contracted apprenticeship or traineeship
- facilitate at least three mentoring sessions
- provide information on sessions, including comments and notes from both mentor and learner.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and interpersonal skills to:
  - apply active and reflective listening
  - adapt language to meet learner requirements
  - apply effective questioning techniques
  - maintain appropriate relationships
  - use appropriate body language
  - interpret resistance, reluctance, uncertainty, enthusiasm and confusion
  - monitor group and individual interactions
  - manage conflict/behavioural difficulties
  - monitor learner readiness for assessment/new areas of learning
- literacy skills to:
  - select, read and interpret Training Package/accredited course information
  - read and interpret information from a range of sources to identify and respond to learner needs, goals, skills and learning styles
- skills in delivery for a range of learning methods
- evaluation skills to:
  - identify gaps in skills or knowledge
  - systematically evaluate own or others' practice to improve performance or understanding
- problem solving skills to:
  - adjust strategies and address learning barriers
  - reliably evaluate alternative solutions.

Required knowledge

- the main branches of learning theory incorporating behavioural learning theory; cognitive learning theory; experiential learning theory; information processing theory and current research on learning as it relates to teaching in an adult environment
- different delivery modes and facilitation techniques and their appropriateness for different learners and learning situations
- code of practice and/or ethics relevant to the vocational education and training sector
- ways in which Training Packages, accredited curricula and learning resources can be contextualised to meet the needs of individual learners without compromising standards.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and interpersonal skills to collaborate with others in using training products
- planning skills to develop a structure for a particular application of training packages and accredited courses
- cognitive skills to analyse, interpret and apply the various components of selected training packages and accredited courses
- research skills to analyse and interpret training package and accredited course content to meet client needs

Required knowledge

- Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) guidelines, including characteristics of AQF qualification levels
- functions and responsibilities of training package developers and course accreditation agencies, and their roles as key vocational education and training (VET) organisations
- dimensions of competency
- format and structure of accredited courses
- format and structure of competency standards
- function of training packages and accredited curriculum as benchmarks in a competency-based VET training and assessment system
- methodology relating to analysing and using competency standards for a range of applications and purposes to meet the needs of a diverse range of VET clients
- language and terminology used in training packages and accredited courses
- parts of training packages that can be contextualised and parts that cannot
- structure of training packages and the role and purpose of each endorsed component
REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- sources of training package information

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Assessment must address the scope of this unit and reflect all components of the unit. A range of appropriate assessment methods and evidence-gathering techniques must be used to determine competency. A judgement of competency should only be made when the assessor is confident that the required outcomes of the unit have been achieved and that consistent performance has been demonstrated.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- analyse a training package and or accredited course to examine its component parts, identify relevant units of competency or modules, and contextualise those to meet a specific client need
- demonstrate a minimum of two examples of analysing training specifications, including at least one training package; the other may be another training package or an accredited course that meets a specific client need.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Assessment must ensure access to:

- training products, such as training packages and accredited course documentation.

Method of assessment

Guidance information for assessment

For further information about assessment of this and other TAE units, refer to relevant implementation guidance published on the IBSA website (www.ibsa.org.au).
Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

| Client may include: | • individual learners
|                   | • candidates for assessment
|                   | • organisations or enterprises with specific training needs. |

| Training and assessment organisation may include: | • registered training organisation (RTO)
|                                                 | • organisation working in a partnership arrangement with an RTO to provide recognised training and assessment services
|                                                 | • organisation that provides non-recognised training and assessment services. |

| Quality assurance policies may include: | • Australian Quality Training Framework requirements as they apply to RTOs
|                                        | • organisational internal quality policies and procedures. |

| Contextualising units: | • means linking the requirements of the competency standard to the work environment of a particular client or client group
|                       | • may include:
|                       | • identifying specific types of tools and equipment relevant to the competency
|                       | • identifying specific organisational policies, procedures, processes and forms relevant to the competency
|                       | • linking organisation-specific terminology to the competency
|                       | • identifying specific people relevant to the competency. |

Elements and Performance Criteria

| 1. Research the learning resource requirements | 1.1 Clarify with the client the brief, focus and type of learning resource
| 1.2 Research the target audience, their learning needs and the learning environment for the resource
| 1.3 Gather, collate and analyse relevant existing information
| 1.4 Identify any ethical and legal considerations and act on them
| 1.5 Write a development work plan
| 2. Design the learning resource and plan the content | 2.1 Generate a range of design options using a variety of techniques
| 2.2 Develop and confirm with the client an outline or prototype for the learning resource
| 2.3 Analyse content specifications of the learning product and map out proposed content
| 3. Develop the learning resource content | 3.1 Develop content and content specifications in accordance with the agreed design
| 3.2 Establish mechanisms for reviewing work in progress
| 3.3 Ensure any text is clear, concise, grammatically correct and appropriate for the intended audience
| 3.4 Ensure any visuals are relevant, instructive and appropriate for the intended audience
| 4. Review learning resource prior to implementation | 4.1 Check resource content to ensure the accuracy and relevance of information against specifications
| 4.2 Check text, format and visual design for clarity and focus
| 4.3 Conduct an external review using appropriate review methods and incorporate feedback
| 4.4 Review final draft against the brief and other relevant criteria to ensure it meets all requirements prior to delivery to the client
| 5. Evaluate the design and development process | 5.1 Review the design and development process against appropriate evaluation criteria
| 5.2 Reflect on the development process and methods and identify areas for improvement
| 5.3 Document identified improvements for future projects |
Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical skills to:
  - identify critical learning points
  - structure and weight the contents appropriately
  - determine appropriateness of feedback
- communication and interpersonal skills to:
  - establish and confirm requirements
  - collaborate with a range of people
  - seek feedback from others
- literacy and writing skills, including:
  - writing for different audiences
  - writing to the appropriate level
  - using an appropriate style
- planning skills to:
  - develop and schedule work plans
  - monitor and manage outcomes
- problem solving skills to:
  - analyse, identify and develop strategies to meet identified challenges
  - identify difficulties of those participating in provision
  - select and use a variety of problem-solving strategies
- review and analysis skills to:
  - identify areas for improvement
  - recognise personal limitations
- research skills to find content and relevant information.

Required knowledge

- principles, theories and contemporary practices of instructional design,
- the main branches of learning theory incorporating behavioural learning theory; cognitive learning theory; experiential learning theory; information processing theory and current research on learning as it relates to teaching in an adult environment
- language, literacy and numeracy (LLN) issues, such as:
  - requirements of target audience
  - using the Australian Core Skills Framework (ASCF) as a framework to aid instructional design
- legal, organisational and ethical responsibilities associated with the assessment system, including:
  - maintaining client privacy and confidentiality
- providing accurate information
- duty of care under common law
- compliance with AQTF requirements
- copyright and privacy laws, including the use of electronic technology.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
  - evaluate information management systems, policies and procedures of an organisation
  - select relevant evaluation information and documentation
  - access and interpret the organisation's standards and values
  - analyse records/notes of the evaluation process
- communication skills to:
  - explain the evaluation process
  - give clear and precise instructions and advice
  - discuss the evaluation process with other relevant people
  - seek information relevant to the evaluation
  - discuss the evaluation outcome with the stakeholders
- language and literacy skills to:
  - interpret training program requirements (including, where appropriate AQTF requirements)
  - develop resources to support the evaluation process
  - communicate with key stakeholders
  - produce and maintain documentation
- planning and organising skills to:
  - plan projects
  - plan and sequence work programs
  - coordinate the work of self and others
  - research and evaluation skills to investigate training and workforce data, and determine and implement appropriate improvement.

Required knowledge

- Commonwealth and state/territory legislation, codes of practice and standards, for example:
  - Training Packages and accredited courses, and what comprises quality training and assessment services
  - how training and/or assessment organisations operate
• terminology relating to quality evaluation processes
• evaluation models/methods, including the Kirkpatrick Model
• records management systems of the organisation
• other relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards, including Commonwealth and state/territory legislation, for example:
  • plagiarism
  • copyright and privacy laws
  • security of information and confidentiality requirements
  • duty of care, as it relates to coordinating personnel and learning
  • the industrial relations system, industry/workplace relations and industrial awards/enterprise agreements
  • anti-discrimination legislation, including equal opportunity, racial vilification and disability discrimination
  • vocational education and training systems
  • OHS relating to planning and conducting an evaluation.

• trainers and assessors
• training designers
• HR managers. |
| Technique(s) for gathering data/information may include: | • surveys
• group discussion sessions
• researching of organisational performance data. |
- conducting interviews with course graduates, their supervisors and managers, trainers/ facilitators and assessors
- examining the organisations documents and systems, such as:
  - policies and procedures
  - learning and assessment strategies
  - training/assessment records
  - course evaluation questionnaires
  - resources for delivery and assessment including assessment tools.

Evaluation instruments may include:
- surveys
- feedback forms
- work performance specifications
- questionnaires
- diaries
- logs
- discussion group questions.

Alternatives to the training program may include:
- job redesign
- change in supervision arrangements or work support
- individual mentoring
- communication and information campaign, e.g. posters, brochures
- job aids, e.g. manuals
- standard operating procedures (SOPs).

Areas of possible improvement may include:
- analysis of skills requirements and training needs
- design of training and assessment strategies
- training materials development
- training delivery methods and resources
- assessment methods and tools
- employer and trainee liaison and management.

TLIC1051A Operate commercial vehicle

Modification History
Not Applicable

Unit Descriptor
This unit involves the skills and knowledge required to operate commercial vehicles safely. It includes the monitoring of traffic and associated equipment and, management of vehicle condition, and performance and effective management of hazardous situations. Licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements are applicable to this unit. Provisional car licence must be held prior to commencement of this unit of competency.

Application of the Unit
Driving must be carried out in compliance with the licence requirements and regulations of the relevant state/territory roads and traffic authority.

Driving is performed with limited or minimum supervision, and with limited accountability and responsibility for self and others in achieving the prescribed outcomes.

Driving involves the application of routine vehicle driving principles and procedures to maintain the safety and operation of a commercial vehicle across a variety of job roles.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS

This describes the essential knowledge and skills and their level required for this unit.

Required knowledge:

- Relevant road rules, regulations, permit and licence requirements of the relevant state/territory road traffic authority
- Relevant OH&S and environmental/emissions procedures and regulations
- Vehicle controls, instruments and indicators and their use
- Vehicle handling procedures
- Workplace driving and operational instructions
- Driving hazards and related defensive driving techniques
- Procedures to be followed in the event of a driving emergency
- Engine power management and safe driving strategies
- Efficient driving techniques
- Pre-operational checks carried out on vehicle and related action
- Differences between transmission types
- Map reading and road navigation techniques
- Factors which may cause traffic delays and diversions, and related action that can be taken by a driver
- Principles of stress management when driving a vehicle
- Causes and effects of fatigue on drivers
- Factors which increase fatigue-related accidents
- Fatigue management strategies including on-road techniques
- Lifestyles which promote the effective long-term management of fatigue

Required skills:
Required skills:

- Communicate effectively with others when driving a commercial vehicle
- Read and interpret instructions, procedures, information and signs relevant to the driving of a commercial vehicle
- Interpret and follow operational instructions and prioritise work
- Complete documentation related to the driving of a commercial vehicle
- Operate electronic communication equipment to required protocol
- Work collaboratively with others when driving a commercial vehicle
- Adapt appropriately to cultural differences in the workplace, including modes of behaviour and interactions with others
- Promptly report and/or rectify any identified problems, faults or malfunctions that may arise when driving a commercial vehicle in accordance with regulatory requirements and workplace procedures
- Implement contingency plans for unexpected events that may occur when driving a commercial vehicle
- Apply precautions and required action to minimise, control or eliminate hazards that may exist during the driving of a commercial vehicle
- Monitor and anticipate traffic hazards and take appropriate action
- Modify activities depending on differing operational contingencies, risk situations and environments
- Apply fatigue management knowledge and techniques
- Work systematically with required attention to detail without injury to self or others, or damage to goods or equipment
- Operate and adapt to differences in equipment in accordance with standard operating procedures
- Monitor performance of vehicle and take appropriate action where required
- Check and replenish fluids and carry out lubrication processes in the course of work activities

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required knowledge and skills, the range statement and the assessment guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit: The evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit must be relevant to and satisfy all of the requirements of the elements and performance criteria of this unit and include demonstration of:
EVIDENCE GUIDE

unit
- applying the underpinning knowledge and skills
- demonstrating operation of a commercial vehicle and its associated equipment
- demonstrating a theory and practical understanding of driving principles
- demonstrating an understanding of possible associated equipment for commercial vehicles
- applying relevant legislation and workplace procedures

Context of and specific resources for assessment
- Performance is demonstrated consistently over a period of time and in a suitable range of contexts
- Resources for assessment include:
  - a range of relevant exercises, case studies and/or other simulated practical and knowledge assessment, and/or
  - access to an appropriate range of relevant operational situations in the workplace
  - In both real and simulated environments, access is required to:
    - relevant and appropriate materials and equipment, and
    - applicable documentation including workplace procedures, regulations, codes of practice and operation manuals

Method of assessment
- As a minimum, assessment of knowledge must be conducted through appropriate assessments using written/practical/oral assessments
- Practical assessment must occur:
  - through appropriately simulated activities at the training organisation, and/or
  - in an appropriate range of situations in the workplace
- A simulator/online assessment is not suitable for the final assessment of this unit of competency

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance.
RANGE STATEMENT

Commercial vehicle may include:
- commercial vehicles equal to or less than 4.5 tonnes GVM and seating up to 12 adults, including the driver, and all types of transmission that is used or intended to be used to carry goods of all types for hire or reward. Hired or leased vehicles and vehicles owned by a business to carry its own goods are included

Driving may be carried out in typical road transport situations, including:
- by day or night
- in typical weather conditions
- on the open road
- on a private road
- while at a depot, base or warehouse
- while at a client's workplace or work site

Vehicle handling procedures may include:
- starting a vehicle
- eco driving
- steering and manoeuvring a vehicle
- accelerating and braking
- positioning and stopping a vehicle
- reversing a vehicle
- operating vehicle controls, instruments and indicators
- managing engine performance

Pre-operational checks may include:
- visual check of vehicle
- checking and topping up of fluid levels
- checks of tyre pressures
- checks of operation of vehicle lights and indicators
- checks of brakes
- load and load restraints
- check operation of associated equipment

Minor routine repairs may include:
- replacement of blown globes in vehicle lights
