- characteristics of crowded places that make them attractive to an attack:
 - crowded place is symbolic
 - crowded place attracts a large number of people at any one time
 - people gather at the crowded place on a predictable basis
 - density of people is high
 - crowded place has significant social importance to nation, state or territory
 - interruption to functioning of crowded place would have significant economic impact to nation, state or territory
 - offenders could enter, attack and leave crowded place without detection
 - offenders can easily access information about the crowded place when planning an attack
- crowd behaviour, dynamics and movement patterns that can threaten security in a crowded place
- crowded place plans, policies and procedures including those covering emergency and evacuation

- crowded place layout, including entrances, exits, first-aid points, thoroughfares and potential hazards
- legislative and regulatory requirements for advising on operational requirements to maintain crowded place security in the jurisdiction of operation
- licensing requirements in the security industry
- operational security measures that provide protective security for crowded places against:
 - active armed offenders
 - improvised explosive devices
 - chemical weapons
 - hostile vehicles
- purpose of Australia's Strategy for Protecting Crowded Places from Terrorism and understanding of:
 - concept of layered security and how it is applied to protect crowded places
 - definition of crowded places
 - definition of hostile vehicles and methods of attack
 - general features of improvised explosive devices and recommended incident response
 - key security issues for crowded places
 - objectives, characteristics and identification of active armed offenders
 - signs of chemical weapons attack and recommend response
 - those with a role in protecting the security of crowded places including roles and responsibilities of owners and operators and private security providers
- security vulnerabilities of crowded places and risk mitigation strategies for each
- types and purpose of resources that may be deployed as part of a layered security approach when protecting crowded places:
 - access control systems and equipment
 - manpower
 - physical barriers
 - surveillance equipment
- ways that social and cultural differences may be expressed.

Assessment Conditions

Assessors must meet the requirements for assessors contained in the Standards for Registered Training Organisations.

All individuals engaged by a licensed RTO for security licensing purposes must hold both a security trainers licence (where such a licence exists within the relevant jurisdiction) and the licence for performing the security activities for which the individual is providing training or assessment. Regulators may impose other assessor conditions to meet jurisdictional assessment requirements.

Assessment must be conducted in the workplace or in a simulated workplace environment. Candidates must have access to:

- legislation and regulations that apply to providing advice on operational requirements to maintain crowded place security in the jurisdiction of operation
- plans, policies and procedures, information technologies and resources required to achieve the performance evidence
- Australia's Strategy for Protecting Crowded Places from Terrorism
- Active Armed Offender Guidelines for Crowded Places
- Improvised Explosive Device Guidelines for Crowded Places
- Chemical Weapon Guidelines for Crowded Places
- Hostile Vehicle Guidelines for Crowded Places.
