Significant changes to elements and performance criteria. New evidence requirements for assessment, including volume and environment requirements. Prerequisite units removed.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be evidence that the candidate has:

- provided antenatal care for at least five clients by:
 - undertaking comprehensive health checks specific to antenatal care for each client
 - documenting a general, social and obstetric health history
 - recognising and acting upon situations requiring immediate or urgent action
 - providing treatment, medicine and other health care services appropriate to antenatal health in a safe and effective manner and within guidelines
 - providing information, guidance and support to clients and their families with antenatal health issues
 - monitoring the outcomes of antenatal health care services and made any required revisions to services, care plans or information provided

- holistically evaluating impact and outcome of treatment on client's physical, mental and emotional condition and behaviour
- making timely and appropriate referrals, providing accurate and relevant details to clients and referral agencies
- provided supervision for at least one other staff member providing antenatal health care

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role.

This includes knowledge of:

- organisation policies and procedures relating to client confidentiality
- role of the Aboriginal Health Worker in counselling and health education
- anatomy/physiology, pharmacology, pathology and basic microbiology relevant to pregnancy
- microbiology relevant to antenatal health and prevention of infection or cross infection
- nutritional needs of pregnant women
- health conditions, obstetric problems and associated issues related to pregnancy
- strategies to:
 - improve antenatal health in the community
 - address clients presenting with antenatal problems
 - coordinate provision of optimum level of maternal health service delivery
- relevant assessment methods and use of associated equipment and testing procedures
- relevant treatments, medicines and associated care services available
- risks and contraindications associated with relevant treatments and medication.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated working:

- in a health service or centre
- individually or as a member of a multidisciplinary primary health care team
- with Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities.

In addition, simulations and scenarios must be used where the full range of contexts and situations cannot be provided in the workplace or may occur only rarely. These are situations relating to emergency or unplanned procedures where assessment in these circumstances would be unsafe or is impractical.

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Assessment must be undertaken by a workplace assessor who has expertise in this unit of competency and who is:

an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health Worker or:

- accompanied by an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander person who is a recognised member of the community with experience in primary health care.
