The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

Integrated demonstration of all elements of competency and their performance criteria; and

Technology is used effectively for the benefit of the organisation and the community

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

This unit of competency should be assessed through the performance of Board duties, but in the event that there is no opportunity to observe such a performance a simulated environment can be used but such simulation must replicate Board conditions in terms of: performing the task; managing a number of different tasks; coping with irregularities and breakdowns in routine; dealing with the responsibilities and expectations of the Board, including working with others; and transferring competency to other situations

Knowledge and performance to be assessed over time to confirm consistency in performance

Method of assessment

The following assessment method is appropriate for this unit:

Performance of Board duties, or through an accurate simulation of Board duties

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Obtain information relevant to business issues	1.1. Review staff and customer feedback and business performance data 1.2. Identify, define and analyse business problems and issues 1.3. Identify information required to reach a decision on problems/issues 1.4. Source and gather reliable information 1.5. Test information for reliability and validity, and reject where contradictory or ambiguous 1.6. Utilise formal and informal networks to access corporate knowledge/memory not held in formal systems and review appropriately
2. Analyse information and knowledge	2.1. Ensure objectives for analyses are clear, relevant and consistent with the decisions required 2.2. Identify patterns and emerging trends correctly and interpret as to cause and effect 2.3. Utilise statistical analyses and interpretation where appropriate 2.4. Undertake sensitivity analysis on any proposed options 2.5. Ensure documentation reflects a logical approach to the evaluation of the evidence and conclusions drawn 2.6. Adjust management information systems/decision support systems to meet information processing objectives
3. Take decisions on business issues identified	3.1. Ensure sufficient valid and reliable information/evidence is available to support a decision 3.2. Utilise risk management plans to determine acceptable courses of action 3.3. Utilise appropriate quantitative methods to assist decision making 3.4. Consult specialists and other relevant groups and individuals 3.5. Ensure decisions taken are within the delegation/accountability of the group/individual responsible 3.6. Make decisions in accordance with organisational guidelines and procedures

	3.7.Ensure decisions taken are consistent with organisational objectives, values and standards 3.8.Ensure decisions are taken in a timely manner
4. Disseminate information to the organisation	4.1.Ensure advice/information needs are documented and are specific to location, format and time line requirements 4.2.Document information and update databases regularly 4.3.Design and test systems to meet information requirements of decision makers 4.4.Ensure information is up-to-date, accurate, relevant and sufficient for the recipient 4.5.Develop communication plans and disseminate information 4.6.Adhere to confidentiality/privacy policies in the transmission/release of information/advice 4.7.Review and update communication plans regularly 4.8.Utilise technology which provides optimum efficiency and quality 4.9.Maintain corporate knowledge and ensure security

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical skills to identify improvement opportunities in relation to the services/products delivered internally or concepts/ideas in area of expertise
- communication and consultation skills to ensure all relevant groups and individuals are advised of what is occurring and are provided with an opportunity for input
- quantitative and qualitative research skills to locate and review relevant data and information
- technology skills to consider various software and hardware options for storing and accessing data and information.

Required knowledge

- new technologies and their suitability to knowledge and information management
- risk management.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies individuals who play a pro active role in demonstrating, encouraging or supporting innovation in a team environment. The individual may be a team participant or a team leader. The team may 'make itself' or be constructed by others. It may have core members and members who participate at certain times or for particular purposes. It may be permanent or temporary, or come together at different times to work on specific projects. The team could consist of a team of contractors/freelancers, permanent staff, clients and service providers, or any combination of these groups. It may operate within an organisation or across several organisations - or simply across a group of individuals. The key focus of the unit is on what makes for an innovative team, what keeps it working well, how the structure of work can make a difference and what skills and knowledge are needed to maximise opportunities for innovation. Where a greater focus on team leadership is required this unit should be combined with units such as BSBLED401A Develop teams and individuals.

1. Create opportunities to maximise innovation within the team	1.1. Evaluate and reflect on what the team needs and wants to achieve 1.2. Check out information about current or potential team members' work in the context of developing a more innovative team 1.3. Bring people into the team or make suggestions for team members based on what needs to be achieved and the potential for cross-fertilising ideas 1.4. Acknowledge, respect and discuss the different ways that different people may contribute to building or enhancing the team
2. Organise and agree effective ways of working	2.1. Jointly establish ground rules for how the team will operate 2.2. Agree and communicate responsibilities in ways that encourage and reinforce team-based innovation 2.3. Agree and share tasks and activities to ensure the best use of skills and abilities within the team 2.4. Plan and schedule activities to allow time for thinking, challenging and collaboration 2.5. Establish personal reward and stimulation as an integral part of the team's way of working
3. Support and guide colleagues	3.1. Model behaviour that supports innovation 3.2. Seek external stimuli and ideas to feed into team activities 3.3. Pro-actively share information, knowledge and experiences with other team members 3.4. Challenge and test ideas within the team in a positive and collaborative way 3.5. Pro-actively discuss and explore ideas with other team members on an ongoing basis
4. Reflect on how the team is working	4.1. De-brief and reflect on activities and on opportunities for improvement and innovation 4.2. Gather and use feedback from within and outside the team to generate discussion and debate 4.3. Discuss the challenges of being innovative in a constructive and open way 4.4. Take ideas for improvement, build them into future activities and communicate key issues to relevant colleagues 4.5. Identify, promote and celebrate successes and

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to work collaboratively as part of a team, to provide guidance and support to others, and to participate in open and constructive discussions
- creative thinking skills to generate, explore, test and challenge ideas
- learning skills to stretch boundaries of own knowledge and skills
- literacy skills to analyse a wide range of information from varied sources
- planning and organisational skills to participate in the effective allocation of work in a team context
- problem-solving skills to work constructively to overcome issues and challenges of both a practical and conceptual nature and to make ideas become realities
- self-management skills to take a pro-active team role and to reflect on own performance in modelling and encouraging behaviour that supports innovation.

Required knowledge

- barriers to innovation that can occur within a team and broader barriers that sometimes hinder innovation
- broad concepts of innovation including what innovation is, different types of innovation and the benefits of innovation
- characteristics of teams that are more likely to be innovative and characteristics of broader environments that support and encourage innovation
- different roles that people may play within a team, how this impacts on the way a team works and what it might achieve
- group dynamics in a team.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication, consultation and negotiation skills to model and lead open and collaborative relationships
- planning and organisational skills to develop, implement and sustain practical strategies for innovation
- problem-solving skills to assess challenges and risks at a strategic level and to develop appropriate responses
- research and analytical skills to work with structurally intricate and conceptually complex innovation texts and broader industry contexts; and to develop materials which deal with complex ideas and concepts
- self-management and learning skills to evaluate and enhance personal effectiveness, and to promote a culture of ongoing learning and development
- team and leadership skills to generate, promote and sustain innovation in an organisational or community setting
- technology skills to use computers for document production and research of innovative practices and theories

Required knowledge

- current and past theories and thinking about innovation and creativity
- leadership styles including the way that different approaches impact on innovation in organisations, and specific approaches that foster innovation
- legislative framework that affects business operations in a given context, including particular legislation with a direct impact on innovation, for example concerning copyright, trademarks, intellectual property, occupational health and safety (OHS)
- management techniques and tools for the encouragement of creative thinking and for turning good ideas and creative thinking into innovation
- organisational and industry context for innovation including overarching mission, objectives and strategies
- relationship between theory and thinking on innovation and creativity, and applied practice
- risk assessment and management strategies in the context of innovation
- social, political, economic and technological developments that determine the broad context for innovation in the relevant workplace context
- theories, processes and practice of organisational transformation and the management of the stages of change
- typical strategic challenges and barriers to innovation within organisations and ways of overcoming these challenges and barriers

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Maintain performance of hardware and software	1.1. Monitor and evaluate system effectiveness to ensure it meets organisational and system requirements 1.2. Use operating system, drive and disk structure, reports and files to identify performance problems 1.3. Maintain disk drives and peripherals according to manufacturers' and organisational requirements 1.4. Replace consumables in accordance with manufacturers' and organisational requirements
2. Provide basic system administration	2.1. Carry out system back-up procedure at regular intervals according to organisational and system requirements 2.2. Install and operate software applications in accordance with developers' and organisational requirements 2.3. Maintain and update security access procedures in line with organisational requirements 2.4. Ensure that licence for use of software is used, checked and recorded in accordance with organisational requirements 2.5. Regularly maintain and update virus programs in accordance with organisational requirements
3. Identify future technology requirements	3.1. Maintain knowledge of current and new technology by regularly accessing sources of information 3.2. Identify and develop improved technology systems using feedback from clients and colleagues 3.3. Assess existing technology against newly available technology to determine future needs and priorities 3.4. Identify and select new technologies to achieve and maintain continuous organisational development 3.5. Obtain management and budget approval for new selected technologies

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to explain the operation and troubleshooting of technology in the work environment
- literacy skills to interpret and evaluate the purposes and objectives of various uses of technology; to display logical organisation of written information
- problem-solving skills to address routine and non-routine faults with hardware and software
- research and analytical skills to analyse and identify organisation's future technology requirements.

Required knowledge

- costs and benefits of technology maintenance strategies
- general features and capabilities of current industry accepted hardware and software products
- importance of back-up and security procedures; maintenance and diagnostic procedures; licensing, installation and purchasing procedures
- key provisions of relevant legislation from all forms of government that may affect aspects of business operations, such as:
 - anti-discrimination legislation
 - ethical principles
 - codes of practice
 - privacy laws

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Create a simple database	1.1.Design a simple database, with at least two tables, using a database application, basic design principles, software functions and simple formulae 1.2.Develop a table with fields and attributes according to database usage, as well as data considerations and user requirements 1.3.Create a primary key for each table 1.4.Modify table layout and field attributes as required 1.5.Create a relationship between the two tables 1.6. Check and amend data entered, in accordance with organisational and task requirements
2. Create reports and queries	2.1.Determine information output, database tables to be used and report layout to meet task requirements 2.2.Determine data groupings, search and sort criteria to meet task requirements 2.3.Run reports and queries to check that results and formulae provide the required data 2.4.Modify reports to include or exclude additional requirements
3. Use database	3.1.Ensure data input meets designated time lines and organisational requirements for speed and accuracy 3.2.Use manuals, user documentation and online help to overcome problems with database design and production 3.3.Preview, adjust and print database reports or forms in accordance with organisational and task requirements 3.4.Name and store databases , in accordance with organisational requirements, and exit application without data loss or damage 3.5.Prepare and distribute reports to appropriate person in a suitable format

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- numeracy skills to create simple queries and to use simple formulae
- planning and organising skills to develop effective databases
- problem-solving skills to address inconsistencies in data and issues in database, and to query structures.

Required knowledge

- key provisions of relevant legislation from all forms of government, standards and codes that may affect aspects of business operations, such as:
 - anti-discrimination legislation
 - ethical principles
 - codes of practice
 - privacy laws
 - occupational health and safety
- organisational requirements relating to data entry, storage and presentation.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:
creating at least two electronic presentations

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:
access to an actual workplace or simulated environment access to office equipment and resources access to examples of electronic presentations and style guides.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate review of presentation materials demonstration of techniques oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of word processing software functions.

Guidance information for assessment

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

Ergonomic requirements may include:

- avoiding radiation from computer screens
- chair height, seat and back adjustment
- document holder
- footrest
- keyboard and mouse position
- lighting
- noise minimisation
- posture
- screen position
- workstation height and layout

Mode of presentation may include:

- available for browsing by individuals
- display on one computer, control from another
- online, internet, intranet
- conference presentation
- self-running presentation
- speaker

Presentation requirements may include:

- 35 mm slides
- annotation pen
- computer equipment and peripherals for on-screen presentation
- data show
- digital pointer
- handouts
- internet access
- laptop computer
- network access
- outlines

overhead projector overhead transparencies paper printouts of presentation or slide show slide projector speaker notes
video projector/s

Work organisation strategies may include: exercise breaks mix of repetitive and other activities rest periods

Energy and resource conservation techniques may include: double-sided paper use recycling used and shredded paper re-using paper for rough drafts (observing confidentiality requirements) using power-save options for equipment

Organisational and task requirements may include: company colour scheme company logo
corporate image
music
organisation name, time, date, occasion etc. in header/footer organisational video clip

Distractions may include: heavy colour insufficient colour separation (background to text) irrelevant animation multiple transitions overly busy background overuse of sound too many words or pictures per slide too small fonts

Software functions may include: backgrounds colour schemes

creating templates handout master
importing outlines from other applications importing images and graphics

Identify organisational and task requirements in relation to data entry, storage, output, reporting and presentation requirements 1.4. Apply work organisation strategies and energy and resource conservation techniques to plan work activities
2. Develop a linked spreadsheet solution	2.1. Utilise spreadsheet design software functions and formulae to meet identified requirements 2.2. Link spreadsheets in accordance with software procedures 2.3. Format cells and use data attributes assigned with relative and/or absolute cell references, in accordance with the task specifications 2.4. Test formulae to confirm output meets task requirements
3. Automate and standardise spreadsheet operation	3.1. Evaluate tasks to identify those where automation would increase efficiency 3.2. Create, use and edit macros to fulfil the requirements of the task and automate spreadsheet operation 3.3. Develop, edit and use templates to ensure consistency of design and layout for forms and reports, in accordance with organisational requirements
4. Use spreadsheets	4.1. Enter, check and amend data in accordance with organisational and task requirements 4.2. Import and export data between compatible spreadsheets and adjust host documents, in accordance with software and system procedures 4.3. Use manuals, user documentation and online help to overcome problems with spreadsheet design and production 4.4. Preview, adjust and print spreadsheet in accordance with organisational and task requirements 4.5. Name and store spreadsheet in accordance with organisational requirements and exit the application

	without data loss or damage
5. Represent numerical data in graphic form	5.1. Determine style of graph to meet specified requirements and manipulate spreadsheet data if necessary to suit graph requirements 5.2. Create graphs with labels and titles from numerical data contained in a spreadsheet file 5.3. Save, view and print graph within designated time lines

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- literacy skills to interpret and evaluate the purposes and uses of various features of spreadsheets and to use a variety of strategies for planning and reviewing own work
- proofreading and editing skills to check for accuracy and consistency of information by consulting additional resources
- numeracy skills to collate and present data, graphs and related references.

Required knowledge

- advanced functions of spreadsheet software applications
- impact of formatting and design on the presentation and readability of data
- key provisions of relevant legislation from all forms of government, standards and codes that may affect aspects of business operations, such as:
 - anti-discrimination legislation
 - ethical principles
 - codes of practice
 - privacy laws
 - occupational health and safety
- organisational policies and procedures.

1. Prepare to produce desktop published documents	1.1. Use safe work practices including addressing ergonomic requirements and using work organisation strategies 1.2. Use energy and resource conservation techniques 1.3. Identify document purpose , audience, presentation and final output requirements, and clarify with relevant personnel as required 1.4. Identify organisational and task requirements for desktop published documents to ensure consistency of style and image
2. Design desktop published documents	2.1. Design document to enhance readability and appearance, according to organisational and task requirements 2.2. Determine document type and assess production and design requirements 2.3. Set up and use master pages, templates and styles to ensure consistency of design and layout 2.4. Set up colour palettes according to organisational and task requirements
3. Create desktop published documents	3.1. Prepare, format and enter required text 3.2. Import text from other applications and resolve any formatting issues 3.3. Scan or import graphics from other applications and resolve any formatting issues 3.4. Use complex software functions to arrange text and graphics on page, according to organisational and task requirements
4. Finalise desktop published documents	4.1. Ensure pages and combined graphics and text are composed correctly, to suit organisational and task requirements 4.2. Check that numerical sequencing and laydown of document is correct, to meet binding and finishing requirements 4.3. Incorporate bleed allowance in margins and borders
5. Produce desktop published documents	5.1. Review text for possible errors and omissions, and resolve any issues 5.2. Produce completed document in line with required final output 5.3. Name and store text documents , in accordance with organisational requirements and exit the application

	without information loss/damage 5.4. Prepare text documents within designated time lines and organisational requirements for speed and accuracy 5.5. Use manuals, user documentation and online help to overcome problems with document design and production

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to clarify requirements of documents
- culturally appropriate communication skills to relate to people from diverse backgrounds and people with diverse abilities
- editing and proofreading skills to check own work for accuracy against original
- keyboarding skills to enter text and numerical data
- literacy skills to read and understand organisation's procedures and to use models or exemplars to produce a range of documents
- problem-solving skills to edit documents and to resolve issues of consistency of design.

Required knowledge

- formatting styles and their effect on formatting, readability and appearance of documents
- organisational requirements for ergonomics, work periods and breaks, and energy and resource conservation techniques
- purposes, uses and functions of desktop publishing software
- organisational style guide.

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Identify learning needs	1.1. Identify personal learning needs and skill gaps through self assessment 1.2. Self-assess learning factors related to e learning and identify any support required to optimise e learning outcomes 1.3. Identify and prioritise required outcomes from e learning in accordance with individual, team and organisational requirements
2. Identify e-learning opportunities	2.1. In consultation with management, assess the range of suitable e-learning opportunities in accordance with identified learning outcomes, available technology, time and budgetary requirements 2.2. Examine e learning content, materials and on-line methodology to determine their quality, applicability and acceptability to individual and organisational requirements 2.3. Determine blended training solutions in accordance with organisational requirements where e learning opportunities alone are insufficient to meet personal learning needs
3. Develop an e-learning plan	3.1. Negotiate the inclusion of agreed e learning opportunities and timeframes in learning plans in accordance with individual and organisational needs 3.2. Negotiate and include time required to access e learning opportunities in learning plans 3.3. Prepare, and obtain management agreement for, learning plans and required resources 3.4. Negotiate with management for the recognition of competencies developed through e learning
4. Undertake e-learning	4.1. Agree re-negotiated workload and deadlines with management to provide for the allocation of e learning time in accordance with agreed e learning plan and budgetary requirements 4.2. Undertake e learning in accordance with e learning plan and manage contingencies when unforeseen circumstances arise 4.3. Manage the integration of work and learning in accordance with the e learning plan and organisational requirements
5. Review e-learning	5.1. Evaluate the e learning experience in terms of its

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical skills to analyse workplace information and data, and to make observations of workplace tasks and interactions with people, their activities, equipment, environment and systems
- communication skills to conduct formal and informal meetings and to communicate with personnel at all levels
- consultation and negotiation skills to develop and implement plans and campaigns effectively
- financial skills to manage budgetary resources
- information technology skills to effectively manage and analyse data
- interpersonal skills to establish rapport; to build relationships with clients, team members and stakeholders; to establish relevant networks
- leadership skills to gain trust and confidence of colleagues and clients
- numeracy skills to analysis data to determine success
- presentation skills to develop and present reports or presentations which deal with complex ideas and concepts, and to articulate ideas and information effectively
- problem-solving skills to create innovative solutions to issues that arise
- project management skills to design and implement campaigns within project management guidelines.

Required knowledge

- business objectives and requirements
- campaign design and evaluation principles
- competitor activity and products/services
- customer contact technology and databases
- legislation, regulatory and organisational requirements
- operational budget and business planning
- organisational communication methods.

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Access sources of information and data to identify hazards	1.1. Access external sources of information and data to assist in identifying hazards 1.2. Review workplace sources of information and data to access and assist in identification of hazards 1.3. Seek input from stakeholders, key personnel and OHS specialists 1.4. Conduct formal and informal research to ensure currency of information with workplace issues
2. Analyse the work environment to identify hazards	2.1. Define, document and communicate occasions when action for hazard identification is required 2.2. Source tools to assist in analysing potential hazards 2.3. Examine task demands and task environment for impact on the person to identify situations with a potential for injury or ill health 2.4. Examine workforce structure, organisation of work and work relationships to identify situations with a potential for injury or ill health 2.5. Examine work environment for agents with a potential for injury or ill health 2.6. Seek input from stakeholders to clarify and confirm issues
3. Assess risk associated with hazards	3.1. Identify factors contributing to risk 3.2. Identify current risk controls for each hazard 3.3. Evaluate adequacy of current controls (if any), taking account of relevant standards and knowledge 3.4. Identify discrepancies between current controls and required quality of control 3.5. Prioritise hazards requiring further control action 3.6. Document method and outcomes of risk assessment
4. Control risk associated with hazards	4.1. Develop a range of control options in consultation with stakeholders, taking account of the outcomes of the risk assessment and the hierarchy of control 4.2. Identify potential factors impacting on the effectiveness of controls 4.3. Seek advice from OHS specialists and key personnel if required 4.4. Identify and seek appropriate authority and relevant resources to initiate and maintain controls 4.5. Identify and document actions required to achieve

	change 4.6. Analyse extent of change and reduction in risk, as a result of controls
5. Maintain hazard identification and risk control processes	5.1. Establish and maintain a risk register relevant to the workplace 5.2. Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical skills to:
 - identify areas for OHS risk improvement
 - analyse relevant workplace information and data
 - contribute to the assessment of the resources needed to systematically manage OHS and, where appropriate, access resources
- attention to detail when making observations and recording outcomes
- research skills to access relevant OHS information and data
- numeracy skills to carry out simple arithmetical calculations (e.g. % change), and to produce graphs of workplace information and data to identify trends and recognise limitations
- communication skills to:
 - conduct effective formal and informal meetings and to communicate effectively with personnel at all levels of the organisation, OHS specialists and, as required, emergency services personnel
 - prepare reports for a range of target groups including OHS committee, OHS representatives, managers and supervisors
 - use language and literacy skills appropriate to the workgroup and the task
- consultation and negotiation skills to develop plans and to implement and monitor designated actions
- project management skills to achieve change in OHS matters
- organisational skills to manage own tasks within a timeframe
- information technology skills to access and enter internal and external information and data on OHS and to use a range of communication media

Required knowledge

- organisational behaviour and culture as it impacts on OHS and on change
- basic physiology relevant to understanding mode of action of physical, biological and chemical agents on the body and how they produce harm
- basic principles of incident causation and injury processes
- characteristics, mode of action and units of measurement of major hazard types
- concept of common law duty of care
- difference between hazard and risk
- ethics related to professional practice
- how the characteristics and composition of the workforce impact on risk and the systematic approach to managing OHS, for example:
 - communication skills

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- cultural background/workplace diversity
- gender
- labour market changes
- language, literacy and numeracy
- structure and organisation of workforce e.g. part-time, casual and contract workers, shift rosters, geographical location
- workers with specific needs
- internal and external sources of OHS information and data
- language, literacy and cultural profile of the workgroup
- legislative requirements for OHS information and data, and consultation
- limitations of generic hazard and risk checklists, and risk ranking processes
- methods of providing evidence of compliance with OHS legislation
- nature of workplace processes (including work flow, planning and control) and hazards relevant to the particular workplace
- organisational culture as it impacts on the workgroup
- organisational OHS policies and procedures
- other function areas that impact on the management of OHS
- principles and practices of systematic approaches to managing OHS
- professional liability in relation to providing advice
- requirements under hazard specific OHS legislation and codes of practice
- risk as a measure of uncertainty and the factors that affect risk
- roles and responsibilities under OHS legislation of employees, including supervisors and contractors
- standard industry controls for a range of hazards
- state/territory and commonwealth OHS legislation (acts, regulations, codes of practice, associated standards and guidance material) including prescriptive and performance approaches and links to other relevant legislation such as industrial relations, equal employment opportunity, workers compensation, rehabilitation
- structure and forms of legislation including regulations, codes of practice, associated standards and guidance material
- types of hazard identification tools, including job safety analysis (JSA)

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- literacy skills sufficient to interpret potentially complex project plans and documentation
- planning and organisational skills to monitor and respond to compliance issues and to measure progress against agreed objectives
- teamwork and communication skills to liaise with other members of the project team on a range of project scope management issues and challenges.

Required knowledge

- elements which make up a project scope management plan
- methods for measuring work outcomes and progress against plans
- factors likely to impact on project scope
- methods for segmenting and documenting the work of a project.

Range StatementRANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Work breakdown structure is:

- a planning tool or process which divides and sub-divides the work of a project into smaller, more manageable work packages

Others may include:

- project manager
- project specialists or other personnel
- relevant project authority
- team members

Practices, plans guidelines and procedures may include:

- industrial relations agreements and guidelines
- organisation project management procedures
- professional operating standards
- project human resources management plan
- skills framework nominating skill levels required for specific types of project activities
- staffing plan/job description

Human resource development opportunities may include:

- action learning sets
- coaching and mentoring
- performance feedback
- team building and group activities
- training

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- literacy skills sufficient to interpret and analyse complex project plans and documentation
- planning and organising skills to monitor scope and to respond to potential and actual changes
- problem-solving and analytical skills to address project scope management issues and challenges
- negotiation skills to address changes to scope with a range of stakeholders.

Required knowledge

- role and responsibilities of the project manager in relation to project planning
- project life cycle and the significance of scope management
- problem areas likely to be encountered in scope management
- project management tools used for managing scope.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE
The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the following is essential: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> demonstration of scope management for multiple complex projects knowledge of scope management plans, tools, issues and likely challenges.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> access to workplace documentation used to document and manage project scope consideration of feedback from project stakeholders regarding the management of project scope.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skill and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of strategies for managing project scope and their application to different situations analysis of responses in addressing case studies and scenarios which present project scope management issues and problems observation of demonstrated techniques in negotiating changes to scope review of scope management plan assessment of documentation about scope management issues and recommended improvements.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> other units from the Diploma of Project Management.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Project authorisation may:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • already have been decided before involvement of the project manager • be in the form of a scope statement which briefly explains why the project has been formed, what it hopes to achieve and how success will be measured • be required at a number of critical review points during the project
Appropriate authority may include:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • client, owner, sponsor, senior executive or other individual or group vested with the authority to make decisions regarding the project
Project deliverables may include:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • all products and services defined within the project scope
Relevant stakeholders may include:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • team members • clients • sponsors • internal and external parties • decision makers
Scope management may include:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • determining that a scope change has occurred or is about to occur • identifying and reporting scope creep, that is, incremental increases to scope that were not part of the original project requirements • identifying factors which influence changes to scope • implementing agreed scope changes • monitoring and reporting the effect of scope changes on other areas and on achievement of project objectives • refining scope progressively throughout the project life cycle • seeking authorisation for changes to project scope

Change control procedures may include:

- formal agreements, for example contracts, sub-contracts, memoranda of understanding
- major elements of the project liable to change, for example design, engineering, finance
- project documentation, including plans, schedules, statements, directives, guidelines and instructions

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Determine project schedule	1.1. Determine the duration, effort, sequence and dependencies of tasks from the scope definition as the basis for the project schedule 1.2. Obtain input and approval for the project schedule from stakeholders 1.3. Select and use methods, techniques and tools , within delegated authority, to determine preferred schedule, time management plan/s , resource allocation and financial requirements 1.4. Obtain agreement to the schedule from relevant project authority and communicate this agreement to stakeholders to provide the basis for measurement of progress
2. Implement project schedule	2.1. Implement mechanisms to measure, record and report progress of activities in relation to the agreed schedule and plans 2.2. Conduct ongoing analysis of options to identify variances and to forecast the impact of changes to the schedule 2.3. Review progress throughout the project life cycle and implement agreed schedule changes to ensure consistency with changing scope, objectives and constraints related to time and resource availability 2.4. Develop responses to perceived, potential or actual schedule changes, ensure agreement by a higher project authority, and implement to maintain project objectives
3. Assess time management outcomes	3.1. Review project outcomes from available records and information to determine the effectiveness of time management activities 3.2. Identify and document time management issues and recommended improvements, and pass on to relevant project authority for application in future projects

EVIDENCE GUIDE

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- This unit can be assessed in the community or in a simulation which related closely to the experience of the workplace and the community
- Consistency in performance should consider specific program and community requirements

Access and equity considerations:

- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
- All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment
- In recognition of particular issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, workers should be aware of cultural, historical and current issues impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities

Context of and specific resources for assessment:

- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
- Resources required for assessment include access to an appropriate workplace or an environment that effectively simulates workplace and community conditions

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Method of assessment:

- In cases where the learner does not have the opportunity to cover all relevant aspects in the work environment, the remainder should be assessed through realistic simulations, projects, previous relevant experience or oral questioning on 'What if?' scenarios
- Assessment of this unit of competence will usually include observation of processes and procedures, oral and/or written questioning on Essential knowledge and skills and consideration of required attitudes
- Where performance is not directly observed and/or is required to be demonstrated over a 'period of time' and/or in a 'number of locations', any evidence should be authenticated by colleagues, supervisors, clients or other appropriate persons

RANGE STATEMENT

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Community may be:

- Individuals and groups defined by organisation programs and services
- Other agencies providing services to the designated individuals and groups
- People with specified needs and interests

 - 4.4 Work with group to reflect on group practice and processes

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Essential knowledge:

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include knowledge of:

- Community development theory, principles and practices
- The community profile
- Funding sources and their policies and strategies for encouraging community input and participation
- Relevant local, state and federal strategies/legislation
- Community processes and protocols
- Conflict management
- Media engagement
- Meeting procedures
- Governance issues
- Representation, lobbying and advocacy
- Power and conflict management
- Leadership in community
- Networking
- Data collection and analysis
- Depending on the work role or services provided, specific knowledge of particular groups or issues may be required, including:
 - alcohol and other drugs (AOD)
 - cultural and linguistic diversity
 - risk of self-harm
 - women
 - men
 - community education
 - Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
 - mental health

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- LGBTI
- young people
- families and children

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

- Demonstrate capacity to identify individual concerns and translate them into public issues by facilitating individual awareness of issues which may be common to the group and to assist establishment of access to group processes
- Develop and maintain public processes to address common issues
- Work with key people or stakeholders in the community

In addition, the candidate must be able to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include the ability to:

- Motivate, enthuse and activate
- Demonstrate application of skills in:
 - research, including data collection/analysis and recording, and effective use of relevant information technology in line with occupational health and safety (OHS) guidelines
 - project/program evaluation
 - budgeting
 - negotiation, liaison, networking
 - group facilitation
 - applying OHS requirements in the work role

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- This unit will be assessed in the workplace or in a simulated workplace under the normal range of workplace conditions

Access and equity considerations:

- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
- All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment
- In recognition of particular issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, workers should be aware of cultural, historical and current issues impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities

Context of and specific resources for assessment:

- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
- Resources required for assessment include access to appropriate structures, people or organisations for assessment purposes

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Method of assessment:

- In cases where the learner does not have the opportunity to cover all relevant aspects in the work environment, the remainder should be assessed through realistic simulations, projects, previous relevant experience or oral questioning on 'What if?' scenarios
- Assessment of this unit of competence will usually include observation of processes and procedures, oral and/or written questioning on Essential knowledge and skills and consideration of required attitudes
- Where performance is not directly observed and/or is required to be demonstrated over a 'period of time' and/or in a 'number of locations', any evidence should be authenticated by colleagues, supervisors, clients or other appropriate persons

RANGE STATEMENT

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Referrals may be:

- Both inside and outside the organisation
- To other workers, service providers or organisations

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- Competency must be demonstrated in a real work environment
- Competence in this unit must be assessed over a period of time in order to ensure consistency of performance over contexts applicable to the work environment
- Consistency in performance should consider the work environment, worker's role and responsibilities in the workplace

Access and equity considerations:

- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
- All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Context of and specific resources for assessment:

- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
- Resources required for assessment include access to:
 - appropriate workplace where assessment can be conducted or
 - simulation of realistic workplace setting for assessment
 - equipment and resources normally used in the workplace
 - time (e.g. to establish good relationships)

Method of assessment may include:

- Observations
- Questioning
- Evidence gathered from the workplace environment and presented as a portfolio
- Demonstration over a period of time to ensure consistency of performance
- Assessment of a partnership proposal written for a specific partner
- In cases where the learner does not have the opportunity to cover all relevant aspects in the work environment, the remainder should be assessed through realistic simulations, projects, previous relevant experience or oral questioning on 'What if?' scenarios
- Assessment of this unit of competence will usually include observation of processes and procedures, oral and/or written questioning on Essential knowledge and skills and consideration of required attitudes
- Where performance is not directly observed and/or is required to be demonstrated over a 'period of time' and/or in a 'number of locations', any evidence should be authenticated by colleagues, supervisors, clients or other appropriate persons

Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Types of partnerships:

- Partnerships may be between organisations across sectors and may be based on philanthropy, or a combination of resources to achieve common goals in developing community capacity

Partnership opportunities:

- Partnership opportunities are developed by the partners to meet both their needs and the various needs of the communities that they are part of

Framework refers to:

- The framework describes the structure policy and processes of the partnership to best meet stakeholder needs

Measures for success refers to:

- The quantifiable and qualitative goals that the partnership has developed to indicate that its purposes are being achieved

Opportunities for learning refers to:

- Practices of reflection throughout the workings of the partnership to seek opportunities for improvement

RANGE STATEMENT

Agreed measurement systems refers to:

- The process of measuring the identified success criteria that are being provided for students with impairments to learn, participate and progress towards planned outcomes in relation to his/her same age peers

Rather than focusing on the students' disabilities, this process focuses on the adjustments that need to be made at school to facilitate the student's presence, participation, access and achievement of education outcomes

Respond to situations of risk in the context of the education support role may include:

Identifying risks and appropriate strategies to deal with risks as part of the education team

Providing information on risks or potential risks

Risk minimisation

Implementing strategies for preventing abuse of students with disabilities

Appropriate personnel include:

Principals

Head of department

Colleagues

Visiting health workers and /or therapists administrators

Inappropriate behaviour may include:

Behaviour that places self or others at risk

Behaviour that interferes with learning that the student could reasonably be expected to control

Behaviour that endangers the health or well being of others

Required Skills and Knowledge

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Essential knowledge:

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively perform task skills; task management skills; contingency management skills and job/role environment skills as outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit

These include knowledge of:

Basic knowledge and understanding of wide range of additional needs and their implications for students' learning

Individual education programs

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

Provide support in relation to at least two main areas of additional needs

Undertake proactive approach to assisting students

In addition, the candidate must be able to demonstrate relevant task skills; task management skills; contingency management skills and job/role environment skills

These include the ability to:

Demonstrate application of skills in:

communication

problem solving

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills

Assessment should be on the job and/or related to actual workplace evidence

Simulated situations and hypothetical questioning may be used as a supplement to such assessment if this is necessary to enable the trainee/teacher aide to demonstrate all aspects of the competency

In order to establish consistency of performance, evidence should be collected over a period of time, across a range of events

Access and equity considerations:

All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work

All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment

In recognition of particular issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, workers should be aware of cultural, historical and current issues impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people

Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities

Context of and specific resources for assessment:

This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged

Resources required for assessment of this unit include access to:

appropriate documentation and resources normally used in the workplace

Method of assessment may include:

Observation of work performance

Written tasks

Interview and questioning

Authenticated portfolio/log book

Supporting statement of supervisor/s

Authenticated evidence of relevant work experience and/or formal/informal learning

Range Statement

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Additional needs may be due to:	Learning difficulties Physical difficulties Intellectual disabilities Sensory disabilities Language impairment Psycho-emotional disorders Non-English speaking background Giftedness Psychiatric disorders Other medical conditions Cultural background Family issues Education background Socio-cultural disadvantage
Others involved may include:	Class teacher Support teacher Speech pathologist Social worker Teacher aide medical personnel Guidance officer Physiotherapist Occupational therapist Carer
Relevant procedures, guidelines and protocols may include:	Confidentiality, right to privacy

Individual education programs may include:

Literacy Numeracy
Gross and fine motor skills
Life skills
Key work signing
Communication and speech
Individual and class social skills

Classroom strategies and programs may include:

Peer tutoring
Multi-level teaching
Cross curricular teaching
'Buddy' support systems

collaboration

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills

This unit must be assessed on the job under the normal workplace conditions for a range of age groups, a range of conditions, over a number of assessment situations

Access and equity considerations:

All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work

All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment

In recognition of particular issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, workers should be aware of cultural, historical and current issues impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people

Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities

Context of and specific resources for assessment:

This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged

Resources required for assessment of this unit include access to a range of opportunities defined in the Range Statement, including:

a childcare workplace

children's services, resources and equipment
the local environment

Method of assessment:

In cases where the learner does not have the opportunity to cover all relevant aspects in the work environment, the remainder should be assessed through realistic simulations, projects, previous relevant experience or oral questioning on 'What if?' scenarios

Assessment of this unit of competence will usually include observation of processes and procedures, oral and/or written questioning on Essential knowledge and skills and consideration of required attitudes

Where performance is not directly observed and/or is required to be demonstrated over a 'period of time' and/or in a 'number of locations', any evidence should be authenticated by colleagues, supervisors, clients or other appropriate persons

Range StatementRANGE STATEMENT

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Accessibility to children may include:

Proximity to child
Making eye contact
Working at child's level

Communicate positively with children will vary according to the age of the child - for babies and infants

Some examples are:

Worker responds to non-verbal cues and decides whether a response is required

Initiation or reflection of babbling and cooing

Responds to crying in ways that meets the babies/infants need

For toddlers

Responds to verbal and non-verbal communication of the toddler

Spend sufficient time to respond to child's comments

For 3 to 5 year olds

Conversations during routines and experiences

For 6 to 12 year olds

Interactions are more reciprocal

Communication focuses on events that are important

Interactions are often informal in nature

Apply limits to behaviour will vary according to the age of the child:

Some examples are:

Saying no

Remove child from problem/trouble

Distract to another activity

For toddlers:

Patently respond, provide a consistent message

For 3 to 5 year olds:

Communicate the guidelines of the service clearly

For 6 to 12 year olds

Will involve discussions with children e.g. About the reason the guideline is required

Service policies on response to behaviour may include:

Accurate documentation of incident

Report incidents to colleagues and more senior workers

Limits and guidelines may cover:

Out of bounds areas

Expectations about behaviour with other children/adults

Procedures for health and safety

Key words of meaning may include:

Phrases and jargon the child uses

Namings used by the family

Language specific to an area of the child's interests e.g. Basketball

Non-verbal communication may include:

Working at child's level

Proximity to child

Eye contact/no eye contact

Hugs and touch, as appropriate

Appropriateness of non-verbal communication may include:	Culturally appropriate Age appropriate Style of communication e.g. Formal - informal
Worker's communication of care and respect in their interactions may be through:	Tone of voice Style of interaction
Styles of interaction may include:	Noisy or quiet Rougher or gentler Verbal or physical
Style of interaction will vary according to:	Child's age Developmental stage Child's needs Child's abilities Child's personality
Positive behaviour may be promoted by:	Verbal comments and attention Physical contact e.g. hug Providing physical and psychological space Opportunities that suit the child's preferences Opportunities to redirect energy are created Acknowledgment and encouragement
Limits and guidelines may cover:	Out of bounds areas Expectations about behaviour with other children/adults Procedures for health and safety

Methods to promote positive behaviour will vary according to the age of the child

Some examples are:

For babies, infants and toddlers:

Smiles

Attention

Distraction

For 3 to 5 year olds:

Choice of favourite activity

Praise, encouragement

Anticipating trouble and redirecting or distracting child

For 6 to 12 year olds:

Non-verbal communication appropriate to age and peer group

Talking about feelings

Modelling

For some developmentally delayed children these may be used in addition:

Tangible rewards

Charts

Positive and realistic expectations of children's behaviour will be demonstrated differently according to the age of the child

Some examples are:

For babies and infants:

Smiling

Clapping verbal and non-verbal approval

For toddlers:

Modelling

Repetition of guidance's for appropriate behaviour e.g. 'we walk inside'

Talking about appropriate behaviour

For 3 to 5 year olds:

Reasons for guidelines are explained

Or 6 to 12 years old:

Children will be involved in the establishing of guidelines

Guidelines are communicated to:

- Children, especially those new to the service
- Parents
- Potential users of the service
- Relief or other staff

The application of guidelines and limits will vary according to the age of the child:

For babies and infants:

Saying 'no' is reserved for situations where safety is a concern

Remove child from problem/trouble

Distract to another activity

For toddlers:

Patently respond, provide a consistent message

Acknowledge feelings

Provide appropriate activities to release feelings

Reason for limit is explained in simple terms to child

For 3 to 5 year olds:

Provide a consistent message

Acknowledge feelings

Provide appropriate activities to release feelings

For 6 to 12 year olds:

Children are involved in the establishment of guidelines

Written guidelines can be given to children

Periodically reviewing guidelines

Needs of the child which may influence the worker's response to a serious incident of behaviour may be due to:

Family crisis

Family stress and problems

Major changes in the child's profile

Other circumstances which may influence the workers response include:	Location of incident Risk to child or others Other potential or actual consequences
Serious incidents may be reported according to the service's guidelines to:	Parent/s of the child Parent/s of other children affected Co workers Management/supervisor
Service policy and procedures on response to serious incidents or behaviour may include:	Accurate documentation Report incidents to colleagues and more senior workers
Consult children may relate to all their interests including:	Food Discipline policies Activities Programming Behaviour Parents Staff
Communication that may be used to consult and collaborate with children include:	Verbal and written and non-verbal In a group or individual discussions On regular basis and spontaneous Surveys/ evaluations Requests, chatting Discussions, meetings Suggestion boxes Anecdotal Listening to informal conversations

Encourage children to consider new ideas and interests may include:

- Encouraging children to consult with each other
- New and stimulating material is presented to children
- Children's ideas are shared with others in a group situation

Resources that are limited may include:

- Physical environment
- Equipment
- Time available
- Staff numbers
- Budget
- Space

Safety factors and legal requirements may include:

- Staff ratios
- Behavioural or medical problems
- Duty of care responsibilities
- 'Sunsafe' policy
- Staff ratio for excursions
- High risk activities
- Weather
- Location of activity

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Essential knowledge:

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include knowledge and understanding of:

- Understanding of own work role and responsibilities
- Processes and strategies to support people with personal care needs
- Basics of body hygiene and grooming
- Basics of oral hygiene
- Knowledge to interpret a personal care support plan, including terminology, basic understanding/knowledge of human body systems, goals, objectives, actions
- Personal safety and security risks associated with provision of personal care support
- Strategies to minimise personal safety and security risks associated with provision of personal care support
- Role of carers
- Common equipment and aids utilised in provision of personal care support
- Principles and practices of confidentiality and privacy
- Principles and practices in undertaking technical skills associated with supporting/assisting people to meet personal care needs
- Significance of service setting including specific contexts of supporting personal care needs in a residential care setting and in a client's private home
- Occupational health and safety issues and procedures, (including those related to manual handling and infection control)

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

- Follow organisation policies and protocols
- Liaise and report appropriately to supervisor and/or health professionals
- Make informed observations and report appropriately

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- Adhere to own work role and responsibilities
- Obtain relevant information from a personal care support plan
- Provide physical and psychosocial support to the person when assisting with personal care needs
- Provide personal care support within the individual personal care context
- Respond to a client's personal preferences wherever appropriate
- Provide general hygiene and grooming including physical ability to:
 - perform personal care tasks
 - provide oral hygiene
 - perform client lifting and use moving methods
 - use aids and equipment
- Support a person's direction and participation in provision of personal care support
- Use processes, aids and equipment appropriately in provision of personal care support
- Communicate effectively with people requiring personal care support
- Identify variations to personal care support requirements
- Identify and respond to risks associated with providing personal care support
- Demonstrate safe and effective use of workplace technology in line with occupational health and safety (OHS) guidelines

Essential skills (contd):

In addition, the candidate must be able to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include the ability to:

- Apply reading and writing skills required to fulfil work role in a safe manner and as specified by the organisation/service:
 - this requires a level of skill that enables the worker to follow work-related instructions and directions and the ability to seek clarification and comments from supervisors, clients and colleagues
 - industry work roles will require workers to possess a literacy level that will enable them to interpret international safety signs, read client's service delivery plans, make notations in clients records and complete workplace forms and records
- Apply oral communication skills required to fulfil work role in a safe manner and as specified by the organisation:
 - this requires a level of skill that enables the worker to follow work-related instructions and directions and the ability to seek clarification and comments from supervisors, clients and colleagues
 - industry work roles will require workers to possess oral communication skills that will enable them to ask questions, clarify understanding, recognise and interpret non-verbal cues, provide information and express encouragement

- Apply numeracy skills required to fulfil work role in a safe manner and as specified by the organisation:
 - industry work roles will require workers to be able to perform basic mathematical functions, such as addition and subtraction up to three digit numbers and multiplication and division of single and double-digit numbers
- Apply basic problem solving skills to resolve problems of limited difficulty within organisation protocols
- Work effectively with clients, colleagues and supervisors

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- It is recommended that assessment or information for assessment will be conducted or gathered over a period of time and cover the normal range of workplace situations and settings
- This unit must be assessed in a work context and under the normal range of workplace conditions
- Where, for reasons of safety, space, or access to equipment and resources, some assessment takes place away from the workplace, the assessment environment should represent workplace conditions as closely as possible

EVIDENCE GUIDE

- Access and equity considerations:*
- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
 - All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment

- Context of and specific resources for assessment:*
- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
 - Resources required for assessment include access to:
 - appropriate workplace where assessment can take place
 - relevant organisation policy, protocols and procedures
 - OHS industry guides
 - health care checklists, health management plans, personal healthcare diaries
 - equipment and resources normally used in the workplace

- Method of assessment may include:*
- Observation in the workplace
 - Written assignments/projects
 - Case study and scenario analysis
 - Questioning
 - Role play simulation

RANGE STATEMENT

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Personal support context may include:

- People living in a residential care environment
- People living in the community
- Students in schools
- Involvement of carer

Individualised care support plan may include:

- A stand alone personal care plan
- Personal care aspects embedded in a wider individualised plan

RANGE STATEMENT

Personal support requirements may include:

- Assisting with personal hygiene
 - assisting with eating and drinking and use feeding techniques
 - assisting with oral hygiene and health care
 - assisting with toileting and use of continence aids
 - bed bathing
 - dressing and grooming including assisting with pressure stocking
 - shaving
 - showering
 - elimination
- Hydration and nutrition including dysphagia
- Maintenance of skin integrity and pressure area prevention
- Mobility and transfer including in and out of vehicles and falls recovery techniques
- Monitoring medication as appropriate to work role
- Nail care
- Pain, rest and sleep
- Respiration
- Technical care activities according to the personal care support plan and organisation policies, protocols and procedures

Simple technical skills may include:

- Simple dressing
- Catheter care (not including insertion or removal of tubes)
- Application of prostheses
- Application of anti-thrombotic stockings
- Assistance with breathing tubes (under direct supervision of a health professional)
- Simple eye care

Potential impact may include:

- Embarrassment
- Fear
- Disempowerment
- Humiliation
- Discomfort

RANGE STATEMENT

Equipment, processes and aids may include:

- Wheelchairs and other transport devices
- Mobility aids
- Lifting and transferring aids
- Beds
- Breathing devices
- Scales
- Continence aids
- Personal audio-visual aids
- Modified feeding aids

Situations of risk or potential risk, may include:

- Evidence of self-neglect
- Behaviours of concern

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Essential knowledge:

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include knowledge and understanding of:

- Principles and practices which focus on the individual person
- The social model of disability
- The impact of social devaluation on an individual's quality of life
- Competency and image enhancement as a means of addressing devaluation
- Organisation policies and procedures relating to behaviour management (including restrictions on the use of aversive procedures), occupational safety and health, critical incidents, accident and incident reporting, dignity of risk and duty of care
- Basic knowledge of the causes of, influences on and functions of behaviour
- Evidence-based behavioural intervention
- Strengths-based support
- Principles of effective communication

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

- Demonstrate knowledge and application of organisation policies and procedures relating to behaviour management, occupational safety and health, critical incidents, accident and incident reporting, dignity of risk and duty of care
- Identify strategies to remove or avoid the situations leading to aggression or violence, disinhibition, or other inappropriate behaviour
- Identify strategies to promote appropriate behaviour and engage client in activities (addresses lack of motivation or initiation, withdrawal, non compliance)
- Observe a person's behaviour in an objective, non-judgemental manner
- Collect behavioural information and data relevant to a response plan
- Observe circumstances that have an adverse impact on people

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

In addition, the candidate must be able to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include the ability to:

- Demonstrate application of knowledge and skills in:
 - crisis management (basic)
 - reporting procedures for incidents and accidents
 - referral procedures for specialist services
 - use of basic self protective strategies (e.g. passive self defence)
 - strategies that avoid behaviour escalation (basic)

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- Assessment should be conducted on more than one occasion to cover a variety of circumstances to establish consistency
- A diversity of assessment tasks is essential for holistic assessment

EVIDENCE GUIDE

- Access and equity considerations:*
- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
 - All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment
 - In recognition of particular issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, workers should be aware of cultural, historical and current issues impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
 - Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities
- Context of and specific resources for assessment:*
- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
 - Resource requirements include access to all relevant resources commonly provided in the service setting, including:
 - relevant organisation policy and procedure manuals, legislation and standards
 - organisation mission statement, strategic and business plan
 - other documentation relevant to the work context such as:
 - . individual routines
 - . staff routines
 - . neuropsychological reports
 - . behaviour support plans
 - . data collection techniques
 - . specific communication tools
 - . skills development plans
 - . accident and incident forms
 - . referral forms
 - . lifestyle review package

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Method of assessment:

- Observation of work performance
- Written tasks
- Interview and questioning
- Authenticated portfolio/log book
- Supporting statement of supervisor/s
- Authenticated evidence of relevant work experience and/or formal/informal learning

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Client may be:

- Individual or groups

Routines may include:

- Written plans that describe an individual's daily activities and strategies for engaging them in their daily activities.

Staff routines may include:

- Written plans that guide the activities of the staff for the individual/s they are providing support to
- They include skills development activities and behaviour support plans

Safe and predictable environment includes:

- Consistent application of routines and procedures

RANGE STATEMENT

Organisation policies and procedures may include:

- Behaviour management guidelines, occupational safety and health policies and procedures, emergency procedures

Behaviour likely to put the person and/or others at risk of harm may include those that:

- Have the potential for physical harm or destruction (e.g. hurting self or others, damaging property)
- Last for an excessively long time (e.g. either in a single incident or in multiple incidents over time, continued screaming, persistent scratching causing skin irritation)
- Isolate the person, it stops them from engaging in valued roles (with friends, family, community access, work) e.g. disinhibition, perseveration
- Interferes with the person's learning and developing new skills
- Reduces their quality of life (e.g. lack of motivation, depression)
- Are disruptive or are outside the rules of community living (e.g. yelling or singing loudly in a supported residential service, going into other people's rooms, making constant demands or repeatedly asking questions)
- Limits or delays access to the use of ordinary community facilities (e.g. inability to attend day centre due to poor personal hygiene)
- That make others feel uncomfortable or distresses the person themselves (e.g. sexually inappropriate behaviour such as groping breasts or masturbating in public)

RANGE STATEMENT

Strategies to assist in managing behaviour may include:

- Lifestyle enhancement
- Skills development
- Structure and routine
- Teaching functional communication
- Reinforcement schedules
- Increasing engagement
- Teaching relaxation
- Active listening and observation
- Using effective communication
- Compensatory strategies (memory aids such as whiteboard, diary)
- Proximity management
- Interrupt and redirect
- Instructional education/facilitation
- Stimulus change (changing environment)
- Antecedent management
- Consequences (highlight potential difficulties in applying consequences in an attempt to change behaviour for people with ABI who have memory impairment and executive system dysfunction)
- Time out strategies
- Emergency containment strategies
- Behaviour support plans
- Time out strategies
- Team work and consistency
- Positive solution focused approaches
- Seeking expert assistance

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Essential knowledge:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate knowledge of:

- Legislation interpretation including case law precedents
- Social justice principles (access, equity, participation and fairness)
- Organisations to which appropriate referrals can be made
- Other legislation that may impact on the situation

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role, such as knowledge of:

- Legal system of common law and statute law
- Legal structure involving tribunals, local court, district court, supreme court etc

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

- Read and interpret legislation and legal documents
- Demonstrate understanding of and adherence to own work role and responsibilities

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- Recognise own limitations and professional boundaries and the need for assistance
- Follow organisation policies, protocols and procedures

In addition, the candidate must be able to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include the ability to:

- Apply appropriate high level literacy skills
- Work collaboratively with colleagues, community services professionals and other services

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- This unit will be most appropriately assessed in the workplace or in a simulated workplace and under the normal range of workplace conditions
- It is recommended that assessment or information for assessment will be conducted or gathered over a period of time and cover the normal range of workplace situations and settings

EVIDENCE GUIDE

- Access and equity considerations:*
- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
 - All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment

- Context of and specific resources for assessment:*
- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
 - Resources required for assessment of this unit include access to:
 - an appropriate workplace where assessment can be conducted
 - relevant organisation policy, protocols and procedures
 - resources normally used in the workplace

- Method of assessment may include:*
- Observation in the workplace
 - Written assignments/projects
 - Presentation of portfolio of examples of work
 - Case study and scenario analysis
 - Questioning
 - Role play simulation

- Related units:*
- It is recommended (but not required) that this unit be assessed in conjunction with related unit:

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Essential knowledge:

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include:

- Understanding of the application of the relevant legislation to the mediation process
- Awareness of the impact of culture on the progress of the mediation
- Understanding of the Privacy Act and Freedom of Information

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

- Use appropriate interpersonal skills and knowledge of the Agency system to guide the mediation process, in particular to:
 - establish and maintain agreed procedures that meet the agency guidelines and the needs of the parties
 - demonstrate fairness and lack of bias at all times
 - apply the agency systems
 - apply accurate understanding of own work roles and responsibilities in relation to service delivery

In addition, the candidate must be able to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include the ability to:

- Assess individual cases to determine limitations of the mediation processes
- Recognise when a mediation process is not being effective
- Deal with non-compliance with the relevant legislation rules and regulation procedural requirements

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- Ensure fairness within procedure

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- Evidence of competency in this unit will need to be assessed over a period of time in order to gather evidence of consistent performance
- This will include contexts applicable to the work environment, such as actual or simulated workplace situations involving a combination of direct, indirect and supplementary forms of evidence
- Evidence will be determined by selection from the Range Statement, justified in terms of work requirements, work roles and responsibilities and occupational specialisations

EVIDENCE GUIDE

- Access and equity considerations:*

- Context of and specific resources for assessment:*
- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
 - Where assessment is conducted within the workplace there are no resource implications above those normally available in the workplace
 - Where assessment is conducted in a simulated or non-workplace environment then access to the necessary equipment and research resources should be provided
- Access to simulated exercises, case studies related to mediation service delivery issues is also required if non-workplace assessment paths are utilised

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Method of assessment:

- Demonstration of competency within the working environment in preparing for the mediation process
- Where there is not an opportunity to cover all relevant aspects in the work environment, the remainder should be assessed through realistic simulations, projects, previous relevant experience or oral questioning on 'what if?' Scenarios
- Observation of processes and procedures, oral and/or written questions on Essential knowledge and skills and consideration of required attitudes
- Where performance is not directly observed and/or is required to be demonstrated over a period of time and/or in a number of locations, any evidence should be authenticated by colleagues, supervisors, clients or other appropriate persons
- Review of any documentation produced by the candidate related to the preparation for mediation

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- Evidence of competency in this unit will need to be assessed over a period of time in order to gather evidence of consistent performance
- This will include contexts applicable to the work environment, such as actual or simulated workplace situations involving a combination of direct, indirect and supplementary forms of evidence
- Evidence will be determined by selection from the Range Statement, justified in terms of work requirements, work roles and responsibilities and occupational specialisations

EVIDENCE GUIDE

- Access and equity considerations:*
- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
 - All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment
 - In recognition of particular issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, workers should be aware of cultural, historical and current issues impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
 - Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities
- Context of and specific resources for assessment:*
- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
 - Where assessment is conducted within the workplace there are no resource implications above those normally available in the workplace
 - Where assessment is conducted in a simulated or non-workplace environment then access to the necessary equipment and research resources should be provided
- Access to simulated exercises, case studies related to mediation service delivery issues is also required if non-workplace assessment paths are utilised

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Method of assessment:

- Demonstration of competency within the working environment in preparing for the mediation process
- Where there is not an opportunity to cover all relevant aspects in the work environment, the remainder should be assessed through realistic simulations, projects, previous relevant experience or oral questioning on 'what if?' Scenarios
- Observation of processes and procedures, oral and/or written questions on Essential knowledge and skills and consideration of required attitudes
- Where performance is not directly observed and/or is required to be demonstrated over a period of time and/or in a number of locations, any evidence should be authenticated by colleagues, supervisors, clients or other appropriate persons
- Review of any documentation produced by the candidate related to the preparation for mediation

- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
- All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment
- In recognition of particular issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, workers should be aware of cultural, historical and current issues impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities

Context of and specific resources for assessment:

- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Method of assessment:

- Assessment methods must be chosen to ensure that mentoring skills can be practically demonstrated
- Methods must include assessment of knowledge as well as practical skills and may include, for example:
 - evaluation of reports detailing mentoring activities undertaken by the candidate (taking account of confidentiality issues)
 - interview with the mentoree to evaluate the mentor's skills
 - oral or written questions to assess knowledge of the key concepts of mentoring
 - review of portfolio's of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Mentoree may work within the same or different organisations as the mentor and:

- The mentoring process may apply to any area of organisation or professional endeavour
- Expectation and goals for mentoring may include:
 - acquisition of specific skills
 - progress with overall development
 - individual professional and personal development

RANGE STATEMENT

Changes in the mentoring relationship may include:

- Inability of one party to continue participation
- Identification of a need for assistance from others with different skills
- Achievement of goals and decision to conclude the relationship
- Changes in the dynamic of the relationship

Required Skills and Knowledge

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Essential knowledge:

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively perform task skills; task management skills; contingency management skills and job/role environment skills as outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit

These include knowledge of:

Diversity of family types and cultures

Interpreter services, and communication through interpreters

Organisation standards, policies and procedures

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

Develop a relationship with family which enables the needs of the child to be communicated or met

In addition, the candidate must be able to demonstrate relevant task skills; task management skills; contingency management skills and job/role environment skills

These include the ability to:

Apply basic communications skills such as active listening and questioning

Demonstrate a genuine interest in the children, and their families

Apply interpersonal skills

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills

This unit could be assessed either on the job or off the job through an appropriate workplace simulation for a range of age groups and a range of conditions over a number of assessment situations

Access and equity considerations:

All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work

All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment

In recognition of particular issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, workers should be aware of cultural, historical and current issues impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people

Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities

Context of and specific resources for assessment:

This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged

Resources required for assessment of this unit include access to a range of opportunities defined in the Range Statement, including:

a childcare workplace

children's services, resources and equipment
the local environment

Method of assessment:

In cases where the learner does not have the opportunity to cover all relevant aspects in the work environment, the remainder should be assessed through realistic simulations, projects, previous relevant experience or oral questioning on 'What if?' scenarios

Assessment of this unit of competence will usually include observation of processes and procedures, oral and/or written questioning on Essential knowledge and skills and consideration of required attitudes

Where performance is not directly observed and/or is required to be demonstrated over a 'period of time' and/or in a 'number of locations', any evidence should be authenticated by colleagues, supervisors, clients or other appropriate persons

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Overview of assessment

This unit of competency could be assessed through practical demonstration of preparing for and conducting an auction or clearing sale of goods, chattels and equipment. Targeted written (including alternative formats where necessary) or verbal questioning to assess the candidate's underpinning knowledge would provide additional supporting evidence of competence.

The demonstration and questioning would include collecting evidence of the candidate's knowledge and application of ethical standards and relevant federal, and state or territory legislation and regulations. This assessment may be carried out in a simulated or workplace environment.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of:

- arranging publication of auction results and post-auction information in line with agency practice and legislative requirements
- compiling accurate sales data for use in follow-up procedures
- compiling records of attendance or interest in auction to expand agency contact lists of potential clients
- conducting clearing sale or auction of goods, chattels and equipment in line with agency practice and legislative requirements
- finalising auction sale, including the completion of sales documentation and implementation of follow-up procedures if goods, chattels or equipment are sold or passed in
- knowledge of auction or clearing sale marketing procedures, auction day procedures and auction process associated with the sale of rural goods, chattels and equipment

- knowledge of ethical standards, legislative and regulatory requirements and agency practices associated with the preparation for and conduct of an auction or clearing sale of goods, chattels and equipment
- planning and implementing a marketing plan for an auction or clearing sale of goods, chattels and equipment in line with agency practice and legislative requirements
- planning and implementing auction day procedures in line with agency practice and legislative requirements
- preparing auction documentation consistent with seller instructions, agency practice and legislative requirements
- taking instructions on reserve price from seller in line with agency practice and legislative requirements
- using effective communication and presentation techniques in conducting an auction or clearing sale of goods, chattels and equipment.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Resource implications for assessment include:

- access to a registered provider of assessment services
- access to suitable simulated or real opportunities and resources to demonstrate competence
- assessment instruments that may include personal planner and assessment record book.

Where applicable, physical resources should include equipment modified for people with disabilities.

Access must be provided to appropriate learning and/or assessment support when required.

Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate, and appropriate to the language and literacy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.

Validity and sufficiency of evidence require that:

- competency will need to be demonstrated over a period of time reflecting the scope of the role and the practical requirements of the workplace
- where the assessment is part of a structured learning experience the evidence collected must relate to a number of performances assessed at different points in time and separated by further learning and practice with a decision of competence only taken at the point when the assessor has complete confidence in the person's competence
- all assessment that is part of a structured learning experience must include a combination of direct, indirect and supplementary evidence

- where assessment is for the purpose of recognition (RCC/RPL), the evidence provided will need to be current and show that it represents competency demonstrated over a period of time
- assessment can be through simulated project-based activity and must include evidence relating to each of the elements in this unit.

In all cases where practical assessment is used it will be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge. Questioning will be undertaken in such a manner as is appropriate to the language and literacy levels of the candidate and any cultural issues that may affect responses to the questions, and will reflect the requirements of the competency and the work being performed.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of:

- responding to a security risk in a manner that is appropriate for the situation, compliant with applicable legislation and regulations, and within scope of own competence and authority
- identifying risk factors which might impact on the safety and security of persons, property and premises and taking appropriate response actions to maintain safety of self and others
- using effective communication processes and equipment to convey clear and accurate information in a form which is preferred and understood by the receiver

- participating in review and debrief processes to evaluate effectiveness of response and related personal stress, and identifying areas for improvement to future practices and stress reduction.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Context of assessment includes:

- a setting in the workplace or environment that simulates the conditions of performance described in the elements, performance criteria and range statement.

Resource implications for assessment include:

- access to a registered provider of assessment services
- access to a suitable venue and equipment
- access to plain English version of relevant statutes and procedures
- assessment instruments including personal planner and assessment record book
- work schedules, organisational policies and duty statements.

Reasonable adjustments must be made to assessment processes where required for people with disabilities. This could include access to modified equipment and other physical resources, and the provision of appropriate assessment support.

Method of assessment

This unit of competency could be assessed using the following methods of assessment:

- observation of processes and procedures
- questioning of underpinning knowledge and skills.

Guidance information for assessment

Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate and suitable to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the competency being assessed. In all cases where practical assessment is used, it should be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge.

Oral questioning or written assessment may be used to assess underpinning knowledge. In assessment situations where the candidate is offered a choice between oral questioning and written assessment, questions are to be identical.

Supplementary evidence may be obtained from relevant authenticated correspondence from existing supervisors, team leaders or specialist training staff.

Range Statement

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor This unit of competency specifies the outcomes required to determine an appropriate response to a security risk situation. It requires the ability to analyse the nature and degree of risk and determine response options according to changing circumstances.

This unit may form part of the licensing requirements for persons engaged in guarding operations in those states and territories where these are regulated activities.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit This unit of competency has application in those work roles involving guarding in a security environment. Competency requires legal and operational knowledge applicable to relevant sectors of the security industry. The knowledge and skills described in this unit are to be applied within relevant legislative and organisational guidelines.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency. Performance criteria describe the required performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and/or the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

1 Identify security risk situation.	1.1 Applicable provisions of legislative and organisational requirements relevant to security risk operations identified and complied with. 1.2 Information on security risk situation is received and verified for reliability and authenticity. 1.3 Environmental factors relevant to security risk situation are identified and monitored for changes in characteristics that may impact on security response. 1.4 Additional information required to assess degree of risk is sourced as required. 1.5 Communication channels and processes are used to maintain an accurate and up to date exchange of information with relevant persons.
2 Assess security risk situation.	2.1 Assessment of security risk situation is conducted in accordance with organisational procedures. 2.2 Security risk situation is assessed for degree of risk to persons, property and premises. 2.3 Appropriate risk control measures to ensure the safety and security of persons, property and premises are determined. 2.4 Suitable equipment and resource requirements appropriate to security risk situation are determined. 2.5 Specialist advice is sought as required in accordance with organisational procedures.
3 Determine response options.	3.1 Options for response to security risk situation are evaluated and determined. 3.2 Response is within the scope of own responsibility, competence and authority. 3.3 Response maximises the safety and security of persons, property and premises. 3.4 Response involves the appropriate selection and efficient use of equipment and resources. 3.5 Relevant documentation is completed and securely maintained with due regard to confidentiality in accordance with organisational procedures.

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Required skills

- assess information and determine response appropriate to security risk situation
- communicate effectively with people from different social, cultural and ethnic backgrounds and of varying physical and mental abilities
- communicate using appropriate channels and clear and concise language
- conduct risk assessment of security risk situation
- determine suitable security and personal protection equipment
- facilitate commonsense solutions within operating parameters
- identify and comply with applicable legal and procedural requirements including licensing requirements
- identify and comply with security incident response procedures
- identify support and assistance requirements
- operate security and communications equipment.

Required knowledge

- approved communication terminology and codes and signals
- emergency and evacuation procedures and instructions
- instructions and procedures for responding to security risk situations
- observation and monitoring techniques
- operational functions and procedures for the use of communications, security and personal protection equipment
- phonetic alphabet
- principles of effective communication including interpersonal techniques
- procedures and requirements for documenting security incidents
- range of available resources and equipment
- range of potential security incidents and appropriate responses
- reporting processes
- risk assessment processes
- structure and responsibilities of the emergency services agencies.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of:

- determining response options which are most effective for the security risk
- determining response options within specified legal and strategic limits
- identifying current and potential risk factors and their impact on the security risk situation
- interpreting and complying with legal and procedural requirements including licensing requirements
- reviewing and adjusting response strategies to meet changing circumstances
- using appropriate communication modes and terminology to receive and convey information.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Context of assessment includes:

- a setting in the workplace or environment that simulates the conditions of performance described in the elements, performance criteria and range statement.

Resource implications for assessment include:

- access to a registered provider of assessment services
- access to a suitable venue and equipment
- access to plain English version of relevant statutes and procedures
- assessment instruments including personal planner and assessment record book
- work schedules, organisational policies and duty statements.

Reasonable adjustments must be made to assessment processes where required for people with disabilities. This could include access to modified equipment and other physical resources, and the provision of appropriate assessment support.

Method of assessment

This unit of competency could be assessed using the following methods of assessment:

- observation of processes and procedures
- questioning of underpinning knowledge and skills.

Guidance information for assessment

Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate and suitable to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the competency being assessed. In all cases where practical assessment is used, it should be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge.

Oral questioning or written assessment may be used to assess underpinning knowledge. In assessment situations where the candidate is offered a choice between oral questioning and written assessment, questions are to be identical.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. 2 Maintain security of information.

- 2.1 Maintain up-to-date and accurate records in a form accessible to authorised personnel.
- 2.2 Relay relevant information to authorised personnel on the movement and circumstances of offenders.
- 2.3 Respond to requests for information promptly and according to agreed procedures, ensuring information is accurate, relevant and complete.
- 2.4 Manage security files according to agreed procedures and effective work practices.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required skills:

- complying with security procedures
- using equipment for the purpose and in the manner intended and authorised
- operating and checking routine activities and equipment for security factors
- identifying faults in security procedures and problems in equipment and practices
- giving advice to others about security
- responding to incidents and emergencies
- using information systems.

Required knowledge:

- all aspects of organisation's policies, objectives, principles, philosophy, strategic plans and procedures relevant to security
- Environmental or sustainability legislation, regulations and codes of practice applicable to industry
- requirements for incident records and reports
- requirements for emergency evacuation
- use of equipment and safety procedures
- faults and potential problems and the requirements for reporting them
- risks and emergencies and the requirements for identifying and responding to them
- strategies for reducing and managing risk factors
- duty of care responsibilities and requirements.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Overview of assessment

Evidence for assessment must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:

- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of employability skills as they relate to this unit
- the application of security procedures followed in a range of contexts (two or more) over time.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Valid assessment of this unit requires:

- access to a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of security conditions likely to be encountered by an individual working alone and as part of a team
- access to a range of communication equipment relevant to the workplace
- access to emergency resources
- copies of legislation, policies, procedures and guidelines relating to security in the organisation
- access to appropriate learning and assessment support when required.

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Method of assessment

The following assessment methods are suggested:

- observation of performance in routine workplace activities within a range of agreed responsibilities and in various work locations
- written and/or oral questioning to assess knowledge and understanding
- completion of workplace documents and reports produced as part of routine work activities
- third-party reports from experienced practitioners
- simulations conducted in training programs
- completion of performance feedback from supervisors and colleagues.

Guidance information for assessment

This unit should be assessed in conjunction with all other units with components of safety and security.

The unit contains knowledge that may be assessed off the job, for example in a structured learning process, and performance outcomes that should be assessed ideally in the workplace in routine activities and in conjunction with other units with specific functional focus.

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, and any identified special needs of the candidate, including language and literacy implications and cultural factors that may affect responses to the questions.

In all cases where practical assessment is used it will be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge.

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the performance criteria is detailed below. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Security and emergency procedures must include:

- all aspects of organisation's policies and procedures relevant to security relating to own work role
- security guidelines
- supervision, management and accountability for movements and activities of staff, offenders and members of the public
- use and maintenance of general security equipment relevant to work roles and responsibilities
- relevant legislation and statutory requirements governing work role in the justice system.

Security risks include any emergency identified by an organisational risk analysis, which may include:

- bomb
- building invasion/armed invasion
- civil disorder
- death - accidental, natural, homicide or suicide
- deliberate self-harm
- escapes
- failure of utilities
- fire
- flood
- hazardous substances incidents
- hostage situations
- medical emergencies
- preservation of crime scene
- physical violence or assault
- severe weather or storm damage
- threats or intimidation
- unauthorised entry.

RANGE STATEMENT

Appropriate equipment and terminology for emergency warnings may include:

- duress alarms
- audible or visual alarms
- audible or vibrating pagers
- communications technology, including radios
- coded or uncoded public address announcements
- screen or monitor alerts.

Routine review of security procedures and responses may include:

- briefings
- debriefings
- critical incident stress debriefing
- emergency exercises or simulations
- table or desktop exercises
- local emergency procedure training sessions.

Up-to-date and accurate records may be written, electronic or paper-based and may include:

- computer databases
- daily logs
- occurrences or movement logs
- journal records
- incident reports
- standard organisational forms
- maintenance schedules.

ELEMENT PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

ELEMENT

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

1 Respond to incidents.

- 1.1 Identify the possible causes of incidents and assess them for relevance to the security and safety of offenders and the environment.
- 1.2 Respond to incidents confidently and appropriately, according to agreed procedures.
- 1.3 Request assistance clearly and promptly.
- 1.4 Use security equipment and technology according to instructions and procedures.

2 Contain incidents.

- 2.1 Monitor situation for potential causes of conflict and harmful behaviour.
- 2.2 Use communication and negotiation strategies that prevent escalation of incidents.
- 2.3 Provide clear, accurate and comprehensive information to assist decision making.
- 2.4 Select response and action designed to minimise risk and preserve the safety and security of all involved.
- 2.5 Apply necessary level of force that complies with organisational policy to establish control and maintain security.
- 2.6 Provide accurate and clear reports promptly.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required skills:

- assessing risks to safety and security and selecting approved and effective responses
- using effective communication techniques to deal with aggressive and uncooperative people
- applying strategies to prevent escalation of incidents
- using security, restraint and first aid equipment
- using surveillance and observation techniques
- recording and documenting reports on incidents.

Required knowledge:

- organisation's policies and procedures relevant to responding to incidents, use of force, use of restraints, control and surveillance
- organisation's delegations, accountability and reporting processes related to critical incidents
- responsibilities of first responding officer
- principles of effective communication and use of communication techniques under pressure
- negotiation strategies
- first aid techniques
- principles of cooperative teamwork
- duty of care responsibilities and humane treatment.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Overview of assessment

Assessment of this unit can be applied using a combination of training outcomes and performance in the workplace or in a suitable simulation that draws upon the context or range of applications appropriate to the workplace and the defined work role and responsibilities.

Because of the unpredictable factors included in this unit, assessment in the workplace may depend on indirect or supplementary evidence, particularly the use of simulations or practice drills.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:

- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of employability skills as they relate to this unit
- ability to contain incidents that jeopardise safety and security in a range of (two or more) contexts or occasions, over time.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

This unit contains knowledge which may be assessed off the job, for example, in a structured learning process, and performance outcomes which should be assessed ideally in the workplace in routine activities and in conjunction with other units with specific functional focus.

Valid assessment of this unit requires:

- a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered when containing incidents, including coping with difficulties, irregularities and breakdowns in routine
- copies of legislation, policies, procedures and guidelines relating to incident management and containment
- access to appropriate learning and assessment support when required.

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Method of assessment

Evidence must include observation and information generated in the workplace as well as observation of performance in routine work functions or, where this is not possible, in a simulated exercise to confirm the transferability of the competencies.

The following assessment methods are suggested:

- observation of performance in routine workplace activities within a range of agreed responsibilities and in various work locations
- written and/or oral questioning to assess knowledge and understanding
- completion of workplace documents and reports produced as part of routine work activities
- third-party reports from experienced practitioners
- completion of performance feedback from supervisors and colleagues
- scenarios
- simulations or role plays.

Guidance information for assessment

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, and any identified special needs of the candidate, including language and literacy implications and cultural factors that may affect responses to the questions.

In all cases where practical assessment is used it will be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge.

RANGE STATEMENT

Respond to incidents may include:

- separation or isolation
- searches
- counselling
- specialists or experts
- intervention or mediation
- special watch
- cultural support specialists
- referrals
- negotiation
- specialist response teams.

Communication and negotiation strategies may include:

- using calm, confident and assertive language
- controlling tone of voice
- controlling body language
- using strategic questioning and listening
- distracting and changing focus.

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

1 Search environment and property.

- 1.1 Define the search operation and task information and communicate this to relevant people.
- 1.2 Use communication strategies to promote cooperation and effective search outcomes.
- 1.3 Establish the security of the environment and property according to search procedures and safety considerations.
- 1.4 Identify and use correct search equipment according to organisational procedures.
- 1.5 Conduct search according to standard operating procedures to ensure thorough and systematic process is used.
- 1.6 Seize and record unauthorised items and secure these according to procedures.
- 1.7 Return authorised items in the condition found.
- 1.8 Complete reports promptly, accurately and in the required format.

2 Search people.

- 2.1 Monitor offenders and their contacts to detect unauthorised concealment.
- 2.2 Inform relevant people of the purpose and procedures to be used in searches clearly and accurately.
- 2.3 Ensure searching of people complies with organisational policies and procedures and principles of humane care.
- 2.4 Secure unauthorised items according to procedures and concern for the safety and welfare of all involved.
- 2.5 Provide clear, accurate and comprehensive information to relevant people.

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required skills:

- using safe, thorough and systematic search techniques
- using search equipment for the purpose and in the manner intended and authorised
- identifying all prohibited objects and substances
- identifying all possible concealment areas
- using ethical and humane interactions with all people involved in searches
- using information that is accurate, clear and readily understood
- handling and protecting evidence
- recording and reporting outcomes of search procedures.

Required knowledge:

- organisation's policies, procedures and legal requirements relating to conducting searches of environment, property and people
- organisation's policies, procedures and legal requirements relating to identification and confiscation of unauthorised and illegal objects and substances
- effective search techniques
- occupational health and safety policies relevant to hazards associated with searches
- communication principles relevant to promoting cooperation and understanding, cultural impact and dealing with conflict
- evidence protection, chain of evidence and secure handling
- code of conduct
- principles of duty of care and humane treatment.

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Overview of assessment

Assessment of this unit can be applied using a combination of training outcomes and performance in the workplace, with the principal evidence developed through performance in routine work functions in the workplace.

Evidence needs to be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and/or apply the principles in a different situation or change of environment. Where this unit specifies performance in areas with unpredictable and risk implications, assessment in simulations should be used as well as retrospective documentation and observation of performance working with high risk offenders and in a range of different environments where searches occur.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:

- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of employability skills as they relate to this unit
- ability to conduct searches in a range of (two or more) contexts or occasions, over time.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Valid assessment of this unit requires:

- a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered when conducting searches, including coping with difficulties, irregularities and breakdowns in routine
- copies of legislation, policies, procedures and guidelines relating to conducting searches
- access to appropriate learning and assessment support when required.

It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the performance criteria is detailed below. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Search operation and task information should include:

- confirmation of the powers to search under legislation, policy and procedures
- purpose of the search
- area to be searched
- specified objectives
- types of search, including:
 - cell search
 - vehicle search
 - mail search
 - baggage search
 - area search
 - environment search
 - search of individuals
 - routine or special search of property
 - search of equipment, machinery and appliances.

Environment and property should include relevant selections from:

- accommodation
- special locations, such as kitchens, recreational areas, education centres and work areas
- personal possessions
- external locations
- deliveries
- grounds
- equipment, machinery and appliances
- inside and outside the correctional facility.

Search equipment may include:

- gloves
- personal protective clothing and equipment
- probes
- mirrors
- cameras and video cameras
- x-ray
- restraint equipment
- detector dogs
- authorised evidence containers
- sample containers.

RANGE STATEMENT

Thorough and systematic process means the search includes:

- systematic approach, for example starting at one point and searching in a clockwise or anti-clockwise direction
- consideration of all methods of concealment
- consideration of contents in light of information or grounds for the search
- consideration of the potential for items to be used for escape or intelligence.

Searching of people should include:

- offenders
- visitors
- public
- colleagues
- support staff
- high risk offenders
- offenders from different cultural backgrounds
- in locations outside the correctional facility.

Organisational policies and procedures should include references to:

- authorisation to search
- prohibited, restricted and unauthorised material
- requirements for strip searches, including gender restrictions, location, etc.
- handling, security and storage of unauthorised property
- incident recording and reporting
- requirements for searching visitors
- occupational health and safety policies
- code of conduct
- principles of duty of care and humane care.

Modification History

Unit Descriptor

This unit of competency describes the outcomes required to use communication techniques to manage a conflict situation. It requires the ability to assess conflict situations, accurately receive and relay information, adapt interpersonal styles and techniques to varying social and cultural environments and evaluate responses.

This unit replaces and is equivalent to CSCSAS019A Manage threatening behaviour.

It requires the ability to assess conflict situations, accurately receive and relay information, adapt interpersonal styles and techniques to varying social and cultural environments and evaluate responses.

This unit replaces and is equivalent to CSCSAS019A Manage threatening behaviour.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to all people working in detention centres, correctional centres or prisons, community corrections offices, justice administration offices and on work sites where detainees, prisoners or offenders are under statutory supervision. Variables will determine different applications of the standards depending on the nature and complexity of security requirements, security ratings and defined work role and responsibilities.

The language used in this unit implies an institutional setting. Adaptation of the language will be necessary to reflect the practices of non-institutional settings and work sites. Customisation should occur through the introduction of specific organisation security equipment, functions and procedures.

1 Assess conflict.	1.1 Anticipate possible conflict situations and select appropriate response to prevent escalation.
	1.2 Evaluate responses to conflict against legal requirements and organisational procedures .
	1.3 Identify situations requiring assistance and support, and request promptly.
2 Negotiate resolution.	2.1 Use strategies to resolve conflict that comply with organisational policies and procedures.
	2.2 Use negotiation techniques that maintain positive interaction and divert and minimise aggressive behaviour.
	2.3 Use communication techniques that are effective in ensuring mutual understanding.
	2.4 Ensure negotiation styles take into account social and cultural differences.

- 2.5 Confirm mutual agreement to strategies and required outcomes with all relevant people.
- 3 Evaluate responses.
 - 3.1 Evaluate and review effectiveness of response according to legal and organisational requirements.
 - 3.2 Provide accurate and constructive observations of incidents when reviewing and debriefing the situation.
 - 3.3 Provide and maintain records and reports according to organisational requirements.
 - 3.4 Recognise effects of stress and manage these, using recognised stress management techniques.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required skills:

interpreting and estimating level of conflict and degree of risk
using effective communication techniques to deal with aggressive and uncooperative people using effective communication and negotiation skills, especially under pressure, to calm, distract or change focus applying strategies to prevent escalation of incidents
using surveillance and observation techniques recording and documenting reports on incidents providing warnings and clear directions and instructions using communication systems to request assistance if needed using appropriate reasonable force options to minimise threat to self and others.

Required knowledge:

organisation's policies and procedures, and legal requirements related to use of force, use of restraint, use of specific defensive equipment and techniques, misuse of force, and duty of care under criminal and civil law organisation's delegations, accountability and reporting processes related to critical incidents principles of effective communication and use of communication techniques under pressure negotiation strategies
duty of care responsibilities and humane treatment tactical response within specified legal and strategic limits response options that are most effective for the degree and nature of risk principles of communication to reduce the level of threat or conflict principles of communication to give clear, accurate and concise information risk factors and their impact on incidents or situations conflict management strategies and techniques stress management strategies and techniques.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Assessment of this unit can be applied using a combination of training outcomes and performance in the workplace, with the principal evidence developed through performance in routine work functions in the workplace. Where this unit specified performance in areas with unpredictable and high risk implications, assessment in simulations should be used as well as retrospective documentation and observation of performance working with high risk offenders.

Evidence needs to be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and/or apply the principles in a different situation or change of environment.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:

- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of employability skills as they relate to this unit
- ability to manage threatening behaviour in a range of (two or more) contexts or occasions, over time.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Valid assessment of this unit requires:

a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered when managing threatening behaviour, including coping with difficulties, irregularities and breakdowns in routine

copies of legislation, policies, procedures and guidelines relating to use of force and management of threatening behaviour access to appropriate learning and assessment support when required.

Method of assessment

Evidence must include observation and information generated in the workplace as well as observation of performance in routine work functions or, where this is not possible, in a simulated exercise to confirm the transferability of the competencies.

The following assessment methods are suggested:

observation of performance in routine workplace activities within a range of agreed responsibilities and in various work locations

written and/or oral questioning to assess knowledge and understanding

completion of workplace documents and reports produced as part of routine work activities

third-party reports from experienced practitioners

completion of performance feedback from supervisors and colleagues

scenarios

simulations or role plays.

Guidance information for assessment

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, and any identified special needs of the candidate, including language and literacy implications and cultural factors that may affect responses to the questions.

In all cases where practical assessment is used it will be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge.

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the performance criteria is detailed below. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Conflict situations may include:

persons with criminal intent

persons under the influence of intoxicating substances refusals to follow directions and guidance conflicts between offenders or members of the public ejection of persons

situations affecting the security of self, others or property persons suffering from emotional distress or mental illness bystander behaviour

accidents resulting in injury

riots and demonstrations destruction of property

hostile gatherings of large numbers of people.

Legal requirements and organisational procedures may include:

use of force guidelines

duty of care, code of conduct and code of ethics use of restraint and defensive weapons rules for searching control of intoxicated persons policies and procedures relating to own role, responsibility and delegation business and performance plans, including organisational goals and objectives access and equity policy, principles and practice records and information systems and processes communication channels and reporting procedures emergency and evacuation procedures.

Negotiation techniques may include:

- using calm, confident and assertive language
- controlling tone of voice and body language
- using strategic questioning and listening to gather information and direct the focus of people involved
- demonstrating flexibility and willingness to negotiate
- using language and concepts appropriate to the people involved
- distracting and changing focus

Required Skills and Knowledge

Required Skills and knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- basic research skills to:
 - identify appropriate sources
 - use questioning and active listening skills to elicit information
 - take notes
 - sort and process information
- technology skills to source information on an automated system
- literacy skills to convey information clearly, concisely and coherently.

Required knowledge

- types of information resources available on a range of topics relevant to the job role or required outcome
- techniques and procedures for accessing different information sources, including the use of current technology
- relevant protocols or organisational policies and procedures in relation to the presentation or recording of different types of information.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- ability to locate, evaluate and use relevant information in response to an identified need
- ability to present information in a logical, well-organised and appropriate manner
- active development of own information literacy skills
- industry-realistic time lines and conditions for completion of tasks.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- use of current information, data and information systems
- access to information sources, including relevant technology.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate
- project to research work-related topic and to deliver information sourced in a brief presentation
- review of a simple report prepared by the candidate in response to a specified information need.

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended.

Customer contact may be:

- in person
- by phone
- in writing
- electronically

Readily accessed sources would generally include:

- organisation's collection or remote sources of information that are routinely accessed in the organisation, through standard search processes for which there are well established and clear cut procedures, e.g. searching for known items
- catalogues
- online and other databases
- remote sources

Reference tools and equipment may include:

- automated catalogues
- manual catalogues

RANGE STATEMENT

- Constraints regarding access to information* may include:
- cost
 - organisational policy
 - restrictions on access to required information
 - availability of other assistance
 - competing demands
 - ethical considerations

- Within this unit the nature of customer information would be quite simple in nature and may include:
- current or topical information for a customer group e.g. school assignments
 - frequently requested information
 - simple ready reference queries
 - community information

- Appropriate format* for information may depend on factors such as:
- the preferred format
 - age e.g. pre-schoolers, adolescents
 - educational background or general knowledge
 - cultural and language background
 - language, literacy and numeracy needs
 - disabilities both physical and intellectual

- copyright, moral rights and intellectual property issues and legislation that impact on cataloguing.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- demonstrated accuracy in the creation and amendment of catalogue records
- sound knowledge of bibliographic and catalogue record components
- knowledge and understanding of cataloguing conventions
- practical demonstration of skills using current industry systems to undertake cataloguing activities
- completion of activities within realistic workplace time constraints.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- access to relevant policies and procedures manuals
- access to current industry cataloguing tools and systems.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate
- review of records created by the candidate in relation to accuracy
- review of catalogues for which the candidate is responsible for maintaining
- oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of cataloguing procedures and systems.

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

In this unit, cataloguing will be in accordance with established procedures. It may include:

- basic descriptive cataloguing
- record flagged as being from a source known to be normally complete and reliable
- apparently complete existing records found in the national database from a source which may be less complete or reliable but acceptable to the library

Material to be catalogued may include:

- books
- journals
- audio-visual items
- CD-ROMs
- music
- maps
- toys
- games
- material in English or languages other than English
- computer files and software
- electronic documents and journals
- network resources
- microforms

Access conditions may include:

- not for loan
- shelved in specific areas of the organisation
- housed on- or off-site
- restrictions on loan periods

RANGE STATEMENT

Catalogue maintenance may include:

- relocating items
- re-cataloguing items, e.g. from manual to computerised format
- updating of files
- correcting holdings information

Systems and standards may include:

- USMARC/Metadata
- AACR (latest edition and amendments)
- SCIS Subject Headings
- Dewey Decimal Classification
- Library of Congress Subject Headings
- local protocols
- ISBD

Item maintenance may include:

- checking disks for viruses on a regular basis
- checking special material to ensure all components are correct, e.g. pictorial materials, slides

Relevant colleagues may be:

- more experienced staff
- supervisor
- other experts and accountability.

- Aspects of competency, including the attainment of relevant knowledge and skills, may be assessed in a relevant workplace, a closely simulated work environment, or other appropriate means that clearly meet industry competency requirements.

Resources required for assessment:

- Assessment of this unit of competence requires access to suitable resources to demonstrate competence.
- Assessment instruments, including personal planner and assessment record book.
- Access to registered provider of assessment services.

KEY COMPETENCY LEVELS

The seven key competencies represent generic skills considered for effective work participation. The numbering against each of the key competencies indicates the performance level required in this unit.

Performance Level 1 - at this level, the candidate is required to undertake tasks effectively.

Performance Level 2 - at this level, the candidate is required to manage tasks. Performance

Level 3 - at this level, the candidate is required to use concepts for evaluating and reshaping tasks.

Key Competency	Level	Example of Application
Communicating ideas and information	2	Communication of ideas and information will be applied when presenting returns and lodgements for approval to the relevant authorising authority.
Collecting analysing and organising information	2	Adequate accounting records and information are collected to support the taxation system. The information is analysed against taxation specification to determine lodgement processes.
Planning and organising activities	2	Accounting data is planned and organised according to taxation documentation requirements.
Working with others and in teams	2	Teamwork will be required when presenting draft returns and lodgements for authorisation.
Using mathematical ideas and techniques	2	Mathematical ideas and solutions will be applied when processing accounting data according to taxation requirements.
Solving problems	2	The process of identifying and complying with taxation lodgement requirements will involve the application of problem solving skills.
Using technology	2	Technology will be applied through the utilisation of computers, organisational accounting systems, spreadsheet applications and telecommunication devices.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Assessment of performance requirements in the unit should be undertaken in an industry context. The Evidence Guide identifies the critical aspects, knowledge and skills to be demonstrated to confirm competency for the unit. Competency is demonstrated by performance of all stated criteria including the Range Statement applicable to the workplace.

Overview of assessment requirements

To achieve competency in this unit, a person must be able to demonstrate:

knowledge of corporate governance requirements knowledge of organisational financial delegations and accountabilities ability to review corporate governance requirements ability to implement operating procedures

ability to monitor policy

knowledge of relevant financial legislation

knowledge of organisational policies and procedures

Evidence required for demonstration of consistent performance:

Competence in this unit must be assessed over a period of time in order to ensure consistency of performance over the Range Statement and contexts applicable to the work environment.

Delivery/assessment relationship to other units:

This unit may be assessed on its own or it may be assessed with other units that cover related skills and knowledge.

Evidence is most relevant when provided through an integrated activity, which combines the elements of competency for the unit, or a cluster of units of competency.

Assessment requirements

Method of assessment:

For valid and reliable assessment of this unit, evidence should be gathered through a range of methods to indicate consistent performance.

Assessment of this unit of competence will usually include observation of processes and procedures, oral and/or written questioning on underpinning knowledge and skills and other methods as required.

Context of assessment:

Assessment of performance requirements in this unit should be undertaken within the financial services industry context and should cover aspects of personal/financial responsibility and accountability.

Aspects of competency, including the attainment of relevant knowledge and skills, may be assessed in a relevant workplace, a closely simulated work environment, or other appropriate means that clearly meet industry competency requirements.

Resources required for assessment:

Assessment of this unit of competence requires access to suitable resources to demonstrate competence.

Assessment instruments, including personal planner and assessment record book.

Access to registered provider of assessment services.

Range Statement

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that will affect performance.

The following variables may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts. Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Assessment of performance requirements in the unit should be undertaken in an industry context. The Evidence Guide identifies the critical aspects, knowledge and skills to be demonstrated to confirm competency for the unit. Competency is demonstrated by performance of all stated criteria including the Range Statement applicable to the workplace.

Overview of assessment requirements

To achieve competency in this unit, a person must be able to demonstrate:

- knowledge of standard accounting techniques
- knowledge of organisational policies and procedures
- ability to assess tax liabilities
- ability to optimise tax position
- ability to establish processes and plans
- ability to evaluate tax policies
- ability to review tax compliance

Critical aspects of evidence

Evidence required for demonstration of consistent performance:

Competence in this unit must be assessed over a period of time in order to ensure consistency of performance over the Range Statement and contexts applicable to the work environment.

Delivery/assessment relationship to other units:

Prerequisite units:
FNSACCT502B Prepare income tax returns.

Assessment requirements

Method of assessment:

For valid and reliable assessment of this unit, evidence should be gathered through a range of methods to indicate consistent performance.

Assessment of this unit of competence will usually include observation of processes and procedures, oral and/or written questioning on underpinning knowledge and skills and other methods as required.

Context of assessment:

Assessment of performance requirements in this unit should be undertaken within the financial services industry context and should cover aspects of personal/financial responsibility and accountability.

Aspects of competency, including the attainment of relevant knowledge and skills, may be assessed in a relevant workplace, a closely simulated work environment, or other appropriate means that clearly meet industry competency requirements.

Resources required for assessment:

Assessment of this unit of competence requires access to suitable resources to demonstrate competence.

Assessment instruments, including personal planner and assessment record book.

Access to registered provider of assessment services.

Range Statement

The following variables may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts. If bold italicised text is shown in Performance Criteria, details of the text are provided in the Range Statement.
