Unit Descriptor
This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to source and use current and emerging information on the hospitality industry. This includes industry structure, technology, laws and ethical issues specifically relevant to the hospitality industry. Hospitality personnel integrate this essential knowledge on a daily basis to work effectively in the industry.

Application of the Unit
This unit applies to all hospitality sectors and many people working at different levels. Managers will use more formal research to attain specialised and comprehensive knowledge which supports product planning, marketing and strategic management activities. This is covered within other individual units. This unit is not about having in-depth knowledge but focuses on the ability to source and interpret information.

Licensing/Regulatory Information
No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.
Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

This unit contains employability skills.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- source current hospitality industry information and use this in day-to-day activities to maximise effective performance
- demonstrate knowledge of the hospitality industry, including main roles, functions and interrelationships of different sectors
- integrate knowledge of the basic aspects of key laws and ethical issues specifically relevant to the hospitality industry.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure use of:

- computers, printers, communication technology and information programs used to source industry information
- information on codes of conduct, membership and benefits distributed by:
  - industry associations
  - accreditation operators
  - unions
- plain English documents issued by government regulators that describe laws specifically relevant to the hospitality industry:
  - food safety
  - responsible service of alcohol
  - responsible conduct of gaming
  - local community protection.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- exercises and project activities that allow assessment of the individual’s ability to:
  - obtain current and accurate hospitality industry information
  - research information to meet differing operational needs
• group projects that allow individuals to collectively source information on differing aspects of the hospitality industry and present it in a portfolio
• direct observation of the individual delivering an oral presentation on the sourced information
• problem-solving exercises so the individual can identify new knowledge required to complete operational activities and source information to resolve the deficiency
• written and oral questioning to assess knowledge of:
  • different sectors of the hospitality industry and their interrelationships
  • laws relevant to the hospitality industry
  • industry codes of conduct
• review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the individual.

Guidance information for assessment

The assessor should design integrated assessment activities to holistically assess this unit with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role, for example:

• SITTTSL201 Operate an online information system
• SITXCOM101 Source and present information.
