Preliminary Information

Important Note to Users

Training Packages are not static documents; they are amended periodically to reflect the latest industry practices and are version controlled. It is essential that the latest version is always used.

Check the version number before commencing training or assessment

This Training Package is Version 3 - check whether this is the latest version by going to the National Training Information Service (www.ntis.gov.au) and locating information about the Training Package. Alternatively, contact Innovation and Business Industry Skills Council at <http://www.ibsa.org.au> to confirm the latest version number.

Explanation of version number conventions

The primary release Training Package is Version 1. When changes are made to a Training Package, sometimes the version number is changed and sometimes it is not, depending on the extent of the change. When a Training Package is reviewed it is considered to be a new Training Package for the purposes of version control, and is Version 1. Do not confuse the version number with the Training Packages national code (which remains the same during its period of endorsement).

History

The continual advances in information and communication technologies (ICT) are changing the way people share, use, develop and process information and technology and the way they lead their lives.

The Australian Government's National Broadband Initiative is now well underway and aims to place Australia at the forefront of ICT development. The potential impact of this initiative is clear.

The IBSA 2011 Environment Scan found that ICT has delivered the major share of Australia's productivity growth over the last decade, with the Australian manufacturing sector gaining 85% productivity growth through its use of ICT.

The Australian Federal Government committed $2.4 billion to the digital education revolution (DER), with the aim of contributing to the sustainable and meaningful change to teaching and learning in Australian schools that will prepare students for further education, training and to live and work in a digital world. The Government made a commitment to provide the necessary infrastructure for all secondary schools in Australia to reach a computer to student ratio of 1:1 by the end of 2011.

One of the four strands of change identified for national change in association with the DER was teacher capability – to ensure teachers have the skills and tools to design and deliver programs that meet students’ needs, and harness the benefits and resources of the digital revolution. This of course can be extrapolated to the wider community and other sectors of education including VET and higher education.

The basic premise is: that it is felt that there is a need and opportunity for the development of a higher level qualification to empower educators in all sectors of education in the effective use of ICT as an enabler in education delivery.

While of particular interest to educators, it is felt that it would have relevance across a wide range of industry sectors.

Possible job titles and roles relevant to this qualification could include:

- teacher
- principal
- educational manager
- school-based technician, including TAFE and tertiary sector
- learning and development consultant
- RTO manager or head of department
- organisational learning and leadership manager
- training manager
- workforce capability development leader
- workforce planner
- educational professional working within an RTO
- manager providing research or information related to career development.

It should be noted that the Productivity Commission Research Report April 2011 Vocational Education and Training Workforce (pages 237 and 238) raised concerns about the capability of the VET workforce in the use of ICT in VET delivery. The link to this report is:

Mapping to Previous Training Package

Changes to the Training Package in TAE10 version 3.0

The inclusion of TAE80312 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Digital Education provides the requirements for individuals who apply substantial specialised skills and knowledge in the field of education and capability development, using ICT. The qualification is designed to enhance, but not replace, a teaching or training qualification.

The inclusion of unit of competency TAEASS801A Analyse, implement and evaluate e-assessment is designed to help with the e-learning framework by specifically addressing the area of e-assessment.

Changes to the qualifications

The only new qualification to be included in this version 3 of the TAE10 Training Package is TAE80312 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Digital Education.

The five new units TAEASS801A Analyse, implement and evaluate e-assessment, TAEDEL801A Evaluate, implement and use ICT-based educational platforms, TAEDEL802A Use e-learning with social media, TAELED801A Design pedagogy for e-learning, and TAELED802A Investigate the application of ICT content knowledge were developed to up-skill both educational practitioners and administrators in the integration of ICT into current methodology.

Overview

What is a Training Package?

A Training Package is an integrated set of nationally endorsed competency standards, assessment guidelines and Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) qualifications for a specific industry, industry sector or enterprise.

Each Training Package:

- provides a consistent and reliable set of components for training, recognising and assessing peoples skills, and may also have optional support materials
- enables nationally recognised qualifications to be awarded through direct assessment of workplace competencies
- encourages the development and delivery of flexible training which suits individual and industry requirements
- encourages learning and assessment in a work-related environment which leads to verifiable workplace outcomes.

How do Training Packages fit within the National Skills Framework?

The National Skills Framework applies nationally, is endorsed by the Ministerial Council for Vocational and Technical Education, and comprises the Australian Quality Training Framework 2007 (AQTF 2007), and Training Packages endorsed by the National Quality Council (NQC).

How are Training Packages developed?

Training Packages are developed by Industry Skills Councils or enterprises to meet the identified training needs of specific industries or industry sectors. To gain national endorsement of Training Packages, developers must provide evidence of extensive research, consultation and support within the industry area or enterprise.

How do Training Packages encourage flexibility?

Training Packages describe the skills and knowledge needed to perform effectively in the workplace without prescribing how people should be trained.

Training Packages acknowledge that people can achieve vocational competency in many ways by emphasising what the learner can do, not how or where they learned to do it. For example, some experienced workers might be able to demonstrate competency against the units of competency, and even gain a qualification, without completing a formal training program.

With Training Packages, assessment and training may be conducted at the workplace, off-the-job, at a training organisation, during regular work, or through work experience, work placement, work simulation or any combination of these.

Who can deliver and assess using Training Packages?

Training and assessment using Training Packages must be conducted by a Registered Training Organisation (RTO) that has the qualifications or specific units of competency on its scope of registration, or that works in partnership with another RTO, as specified in the AQTF 2007.

Training Package Components

Training Packages are made up of mandatory components endorsed by the NQC, and optional support materials.

Training Package Endorsed Components

The nationally endorsed components include the Competency Standards, Assessment Guidelines and Qualifications Framework. These form the basis of training and assessment in the Training Package and, as such, they must be used.

Competency Standards

Each unit of competency identifies a discrete workplace requirement and includes the knowledge and skills that underpin competency as well as language, literacy and numeracy; and occupational health and safety requirements. The units of competency must be adhered to in training and assessment to ensure consistency of outcomes.

Assessment Guidelines

The Assessment Guidelines provide an industry framework to ensure all assessments meet industry needs and nationally agreed standards as expressed in the Training Package and the AQTF 2007. The Assessment Guidelines must be followed to ensure the integrity of assessment leading to nationally recognised qualifications.

Qualifications Framework

Each Training Package provides details of those units of competency that must be achieved to award AQF qualifications. The rules around which units of competency can be combined to make up a valid AQF qualification in the Training Package are referred to as the "packaging rules". The packaging rules must be followed to ensure the integrity of nationally recognised qualifications issued.

Training Package Support Materials

The endorsed components of Training Packages are complemented and supported by optional support materials that provide for choice in the design of training and assessment to meet the needs of industry and learners.

Training Package support materials can relate to single or multiple units of competency, an industry sector, a qualification or the whole Training Package. They tend to fall into one or more of the categories illustrated below.

Training Package support materials are produced by a range of stakeholders such as RTOs, individual trainers and assessors, private and commercial developers and Government agencies.

Where such materials have been quality assured through a process of "noting" by the NQC, they display the following official logo. Noted support materials are listed on the National Training Information Service (NTIS), together with a detailed description and information on the type of product and its availability < www.ntis.gov.au >

It is not compulsory to submit support materials for noting; any resources that meet the requirements of the Training Package can be used.

Training Package, Qualification and Unit of Competency Codes

There are agreed conventions for the national codes used for Training Packages and their components. Always use the correct codes, exactly as they appear in the Training Package, and with the code always before the title.

Training Package Codes

Each Training Package has a unique five-character national code assigned when the Training Package is endorsed, for example TAE10. The first three characters are letters identifying the Training Package industry coverage and the last two characters are numbers identifying the year of endorsement.

Qualification Codes

Within each Training Package, each qualification has a unique eight-character code, for example TAE40110. Qualification codes are developed as follows:

- the first three letters identify the Training Package;
- the first number identifies the qualification level (noting that, in the qualification titles themselves, arabic numbers are not used);
- the next two numbers identify the position in the sequence of the qualification at that level; and
- the last two numbers identify the year in which the qualification was endorsed. (Where qualifications are added after the initial Training Package endorsement, the last two numbers may differ from other Training Package qualifications as they identify the year in which those particular qualifications were endorsed.)

Unit of Competency Codes

Within each Training Package, each unit of competency has a unique code. Unit of competency codes are assigned when the Training Package is endorsed, or when new units of competency are added to an existing endorsed Training Package. Unit codes are developed as follows:

- a typical code is made up of 12 characters, normally a mixture of uppercase letters and numbers, as in TAEASS301A;
- the first three characters signify the Training Package - TAE10 - in the above example and up to eight characters, relating to an industry sector, function or skill area, follow;
- the last character is always a letter and identifies the unit of competency version. An "A" at the end of the code indicates that this is the original unit of competency. "B", or another incremented version identifier means that minor changes have been made. Typically this would mean that wording has changed in the range statement or evidence guide, providing clearer intent; and

- where changes are made that alter the outcome, a new code is assigned and the title is changed.

Training Package, Qualification and Unit of Competency Titles

There are agreed conventions for titling Training Packages and their components. Always use the correct titles, exactly as they appear in the Training Package, and with the code always placed before the title.

Training Package Titles

The title of each endorsed Training Package is unique and relates the Training Packages broad industry coverage.

Qualification Titles

The title of each endorsed Training Package qualification is unique. Qualification titles use the following sequence:

- first, the qualification is identified as either Certificate I, Certificate II, Certificate III, Certificate IV, Diploma, Advanced Diploma, Vocational Graduate Certificate, or Vocational Graduate Diploma;
- this is followed by the words "in" for Certificates I to IV, and "of" for Diploma, Advanced Diploma, Vocational Graduate Certificate and Vocational Graduate Diploma;
- then, the industry descriptor, for example Telecommunications; and
- then, if applicable, the occupational or functional stream in brackets, for example (Computer Systems).

For example:

- TAE40110 Certificate IV in Training and Assessment

Unit of Competency Titles

Each unit of competency title is unique. Unit of competency titles describe the competency outcome concisely, and are written in sentence case.

For example:

- TAEASS301A Contribute to assessment

Historical and general information

TAE10 Training and Education Training Package represents part of the continuing cycle of quality improvement in Training Packages. In its current structure, the Training Package represents a step-change approach to the scope and focus of the Training Package, reflecting the place of training and assessment in the wider education landscape and in the context of career pathways that recognise a professional management structure, as well as the increasing importance of the export market to VET as a business.

The developed TAE10 Training and Education Training Package

The Industry Skills Council (ISC) Innovation and Business Skills Australia (IBSA) developed the TAE10 Training and Education Training Package. The broad intention of the ISC is to meet the competency development needs of individuals and organisations providing education, training and assessment services within the VET sector. This encompasses those working in the VET sector as well as teachers in the schools sector and lecturers in higher education who have a need or requirement to deliver VET-related programs.

The VET sector is responsible for developing the competence of individuals in areas of work required by industry, enterprises and organisations as well as providing general education for the community. It includes VET undertaken in industries, enterprises, government agencies, and community and school settings. The sector encompasses both recognised training leading to a qualification or Statement of Attainment under the AQF; and non-recognised training, such as in-house, or product-based training.

TAE10 Training and Education Training Package reflects the views of the wider community, and responds to the escalating needs of the economy for a highly skilled workforce, as well as recognising that VET has, and has had for some considerable time, a wider remit than training. Additionally, many teachers in the schools sector particularly and higher education, are increasingly accessing the skills required in the VET sector. A broader conceptual basis reflecting the training and education continuum is seen as increasingly important in bridging the interface between these differing elements of the wider education environment.

Key features of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package

In developing TAE10 Training and Education Training Package a number of key elements have been achieved:

- consolidation of various elements of VET career pathways
- introduction of graduate programs in language, literacy and numeracy
- implementation of an updated Certificate IV in Training and Assessment
- implementation of a Diploma of Vocational Training and Education
- implementation of a Diploma of Training Design and Development.

Consolidation of various elements of VET career pathways

Careers in VET have long included pathways into supervision and management that have been accommodated by a variety of qualifications and accredited courses. With the development of BSB07 Business Services Training Package, specific qualifications were provided that reflect the identified skills of supervisors and managers in the VET sector. While in the past these qualifications have resided in BSB07, for the purposes of coherence, the decision was made to relocate them to TAE10. These qualifications are:

- BSB70108 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Management (Learning) - now TAE70210
- BSB80108 Vocational Graduate Diploma of Management (Learning) - now TAE80210.

In addition, the export market has become an increasingly important aspect of VET provision in Australia, representing a significant component of institutional activity for many organisations. The provision of a high quality program for developing the skills of individuals operating in this area was also identified as a requirement within the context of BSB07. Once again, for the purposes of coherence, a decision was made that these qualifications would more appropriately reside in TAE10. These are:

- BSB50907 Diploma of International Education Services - now TAE50310
- BSB70207 Vocational Graduate Certificate in International Education Services - now TAE70310.

Introduction of vocational graduate programs in language, literacy and numeracy

The importance of language, literacy and numeracy as a focus area for development has been well understood in the VET sector for some time. This has typically been addressed through a specific unit of competency attached to qualifications, and in some jurisdictions through accredited courses.

As this area becomes increasingly recognised as important across the education and training environment, the need for a more comprehensive response has emerged. As a consequence, two new vocational graduate qualifications have been developed and are included in this Training Package:

- TAE70110 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Practice
- TAE80110 Vocational Graduate Diploma of Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Leadership.

Implementation of an updated Certificate IV in Training and Assessment

TAA40104 Certificate IV Training and Assessment was very well received throughout the VET sector as a benchmark qualification for those delivering education and training both in the VET sector and in the wider education community where VET-related programs are delivered. The qualification has been in operation for some five years, and given the importance of the qualification for the sector, a review was necessary and timely. Colleagues from around the country have contributed to a robust critique of the existing qualification, which has resulted in an updated qualification, TAE40110, reflecting the broad requirements of the constituency.

Introduction of Diploma in Vocational Education and Training

IBSA published a consultation paper in June 2010 canvassing views on an appropriate professional development pathway for VET practitioners. Specifically this paper challenged stakeholders to examine the existing Diploma of Training and Assessment for suitability and adequacy. As a consequence of the response to this paper, the National Project Reference Group resolved to consult on a qualification that was specifically focused on a development pathway for the experienced VET practitioner. Their view was that the greatest need is in the area of promoting quality and performance in training and assessment approaches in the VET system.

The reference group characterised someone with a diploma as an individual who:

- should be an experienced competent practitioner (rather than necessarily an expert practitioner)
- should be beyond the novice practitioner who holds a Certificate IV, and may be sought by others for advice about their particular strengths, be they in:
 - learning design
 - assessment approaches
 - facilitation techniques
 - validation approaches.

Consultation on the basis of these premises and around a proposed group of units designed to respond to these defined needs attracted wide support. The single most important aspect of the material consulted on was the unique approach to addressing the widely requested ‘practicum’ within the Diploma. This ‘practicum’ is realised through the embedding of specific critical aspects of evidence within three core units of competence*, designed to underpin a coherent, flexible approach to the demonstration of competent practice in the work place over time.

Introduction of a Diploma of Training Design and Development

Consultation on the focus and content of the proposed Diploma of Vocational Education and Training identified a further client group for aspects of the qualification where the performance aspects are not required. These practitioners typically work in a specialist design and development environment and are not called upon to practice in the classroom or an assessment environment. This qualification is not considered as an alternate to the Diploma of Vocational Education and Training and will categorically not provide a suitable development pathway for those wishing to develop advanced skills in VET practice.

 TAEASS501A Provide advanced assessment practice; TAEDDEL502A Provide advanced facilitation practice; TAEPPD501A Maintain and enhance professional practice*

Introduction of vocational graduate program in digital education

The importance of digital education as a focus area for development has also been well understood in the VET sector for some time. As the need to up-skill practitioners in this area is recognised, the need for a targeted response has emerged. As a consequence, the following vocational graduate qualification has been developed and included in this Training Package:

- TAE80312 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Digital Education.

Introduction to the TAE10 Training and Education

The wider education sector in Australia includes pre-school, school, VET and higher education. The VET sector includes both state-owned TAFE institutes and privately owned RTOs, excluding the Northern Territory which does not have a TAFE component. VET teachers and lecturers generally must hold an Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) qualification that includes assessment and delivery competencies in the Certificate IV in Training and Assessment.

While a significant proportion of VET-acquired skills covered by this Training Package are used in the VET component of education, they are also used in other areas, such as higher education and schools. In addition, there is also a significant number of workplace assessors and qualified trainers spread throughout industry.

With the introduction of qualifications focused on language, literacy and numeracy, it is expected that greater scope exists for provision to increasingly serve the needs of those in the schools sector to develop specific sets of skills that bridge the school and VET environments.

The migration of qualifications from BSB07 Business Services Training Package associated with learning management and international education services establishes the basis for career pathways in education and training. These twin pathways reflect the growing business professionalism in the wider VET environment and in particular the importance of the export market to the sector as a whole.

The challenges for education that workforce demands pose come at a time when the importance of the education sector to Australia's future prosperity is extremely high. Higher-level skills are increasingly required by industry; and VET plays an important role in providing opportunities to people who otherwise would not be engaged in education and training. The skill, capability and capacity of the VET sector to deliver high quality provision and to adapt to changing needs in the economy will increase as the competitive demand in the economy grows.

The IBSA Environmental Scan (2009) identified the following growth in job roles for the sector that have specific relevance for this Training Package:

- training and development professional
- workplace assessor
- training centre manager
- vocational education teacher
- career counsellor
- curriculum advisory teacher e-learning
- education adviser and reviewer
- teacher of English as a second language
- trade trainer.

Qualifications Framework

The Australian Qualifications Framework

What is the Australian Qualifications Framework?

A brief overview of the Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) follows. For a full explanation of the AQF, see the AQF Implementation Handbook.
http://www.aqf.edu.au/Portals/0/Documents/Handbook/AQF_Handbook_07.pdf

The AQF provides a comprehensive, nationally consistent framework for all qualifications in post-compulsory education and training in Australia. In the vocational education and training (VET) sector it assists national consistency for all trainees, learners, employers and providers by enabling national recognition of qualifications and Statements of Attainment.

Training Package qualifications in the VET sector must comply with the titles and guidelines of the AQF. Endorsed Training Packages provide a unique title for each AQF qualification which must always be reproduced accurately.

Qualifications

Training Packages can incorporate the following eight AQF qualifications.

- Certificate I in ...
- Certificate II in ...
- Certificate III in ...
- Certificate IV in ...
- Diploma of ...
- Advanced Diploma of ...
- Vocational Graduate Certificate of ...
- Vocational Graduate Diploma of ...

On completion of the requirements defined in the Training Package, a Registered Training Organisation (RTO) may issue a nationally recognised AQF qualification. Issuance of AQF qualifications must comply with the advice provided in the AQF Implementation Handbook and the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration.

Statement of Attainment

A Statement of Attainment is issued by a Registered Training Organisation when an individual has completed one or more units of competency from nationally recognised qualification(s)/courses(s). Issuance of Statements of Attainment must comply with the advice provided in the current AQF Implementation Handbook and the AQTF 2010 Essential Standards for Initial and Continuing Registration.

Under the AQTF 2010, RTOs must recognise the achievement of competencies as recorded on a qualification or Statement of Attainment issued by other RTOs. Given this, recognised competencies can progressively build towards a full AQF qualification.

AQF Guidelines and Learning Outcomes

The AQF Implementation Handbook provides a comprehensive guideline for each AQF qualification. A summary of the learning outcome characteristics and their distinguishing features for each VET related AQF qualification is provided below.

Certificate I

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity of knowledge and skills would prepare a person to perform a defined range of activities most of which may be routine and predictable.

Applications may include a variety of employment related skills including preparatory access and participation skills, broad-based induction skills and/or specific workplace skills. They may also include participation in a team or work group.

Distinguishing Features of Learning Outcomes

Do the competencies enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate knowledge by recall in a narrow range of areas;
- demonstrate basic practical skills, such as the use of relevant tools;
- perform a sequence of routine tasks given clear direction
- receive and pass on messages/information.

Certificate II

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity of knowledge and skills would prepare a person to perform in a range of varied activities or knowledge application where there is a clearly defined range of contexts in which the choice of actions required is usually clear and there is limited complexity in the range of operations to be applied.

Performance of a prescribed range of functions involving known routines and procedures and some accountability for the quality of outcomes.

Applications may include some complex or non-routine activities involving individual responsibility or autonomy and/or collaboration with others as part of a group or team.

Distinguishing Features of Learning Outcomes

Do the competencies enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate basic operational knowledge in a moderate range of areas;
- apply a defined range of skills;
- apply known solutions to a limited range of predictable problems;
- perform a range of tasks where choice between a limited range of options is required;

- assess and record information from varied sources;
- take limited responsibility for own outputs in work and learning.

Certificate III

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity of knowledge and competencies would cover selecting, adapting and transferring skills and knowledge to new environments and providing technical advice and some leadership in resolution of specified problems. This would be applied across a range of roles in a variety of contexts with some complexity in the extent and choice of options available.

Performance of a defined range of skilled operations, usually within a range of broader related activities involving known routines, methods and procedures, where some discretion and judgement is required in the selection of equipment, services or contingency measures and within known time constraints.

Applications may involve some responsibility for others. Participation in teams including group or team co-ordination may be involved.

Distinguishing Features of Learning Outcomes

Do the competencies enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate some relevant theoretical knowledge
- apply a range of well-developed skills
- apply known solutions to a variety of predictable problems
- perform processes that require a range of well-developed skills where some discretion and judgement is required
- interpret available information, using discretion and judgement
- take responsibility for own outputs in work and learning
- take limited responsibility for the output of others.

Certificate IV

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity of knowledge and competencies would cover a broad range of varied activities or application in a wider variety of contexts most of which are complex and non-routine. Leadership and guidance are involved when organising activities of self and others as well as contributing to technical solutions of a non-routine or contingency nature.

Performance of a broad range of skilled applications including the requirement to evaluate and analyse current practices, develop new criteria and procedures for performing current practices and provision of some leadership and guidance to others in the application and planning of the skills. Applications involve responsibility for, and limited organisation of, others.

Distinguishing Features of Learning Outcomes

Do the competencies enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate understanding of a broad knowledge base incorporating some theoretical concepts
- apply solutions to a defined range of unpredictable problems
- identify and apply skill and knowledge areas to a wide variety of contexts, with depth in some areas
- identify, analyse and evaluate information from a variety of sources
- take responsibility for own outputs in relation to specified quality standards
- take limited responsibility for the quantity and quality of the output of others.

Diploma

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity covering planning and initiation of alternative approaches to skills or knowledge applications across a broad range of technical and/or management requirements, evaluation and co-ordination.

The self directed application of knowledge and skills, with substantial depth in some areas where judgment is required in planning and selecting appropriate equipment, services and techniques for self and others.

Applications involve participation in development of strategic initiatives as well as personal responsibility and autonomy in performing complex technical operations or organising others. It may include participation in teams including teams concerned with planning and evaluation functions. Group or team co-ordination may be involved.

The degree of emphasis on breadth as against depth of knowledge and skills may vary between qualifications granted at this level.

Do the competencies or learning outcomes enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate understanding of a broad knowledge base incorporating theoretical concepts, with substantial depth in some areas
- analyse and plan approaches to technical problems or management requirements
- transfer and apply theoretical concepts and/or technical or creative skills to a range of situations
- evaluate information, using it to forecast for planning or research purposes
- take responsibility for own outputs in relation to broad quantity and quality parameters
- take some responsibility for the achievement of group outcomes.

Advanced Diploma

Characteristics of Learning Outcomes

Breadth, depth and complexity involving analysis, design, planning, execution and evaluation across a range of technical and/or management functions including development of new criteria or applications or knowledge or procedures.

The application of a significant range of fundamental principles and complex techniques across a wide and often unpredictable variety of contexts in relation to either varied or highly specific functions. Contribution to the development of a broad plan, budget or strategy is involved and accountability and responsibility for self and others in achieving the outcomes is involved.

Applications involve significant judgement in planning, design, technical or leadership/guidance functions related to products, services, operations or procedures.

The degree of emphasis on breadth as against depth of knowledge and skills may vary between qualifications granted at this level.

Do the competencies or learning outcomes enable an individual with this qualification to:

- demonstrate understanding of specialised knowledge with depth in some areas
- analyse, diagnose, design and execute judgements across a broad range of technical or management functions
- generate ideas through the analysis of information and concepts at an abstract level
- demonstrate a command of wide-ranging, highly specialised technical, creative or conceptual skills
- demonstrate accountability for personal outputs within broad parameters
- demonstrate accountability for personal and group outcomes within broad parameters.

Vocational Graduate Certificate

Characteristics of competencies or learning outcomes

- The self-directed development and achievement of broad and specialised areas of knowledge and skills, building on prior knowledge and skills.
- Substantial breadth and complexity involving the initiation, analysis, design, planning, execution and evaluation of technical and management functions in highly varied and highly specialised contexts.
- Applications involve making significant, high-level, independent judgements in major broad or planning, design, operational, technical and management functions in highly varied and specialised contexts. They may include responsibility and broad-ranging accountability for the structure, management and output of the work or functions of others.
- The degree of emphasis on breadth, as opposed to depth, of knowledge and skills may vary between qualifications granted at this level.

Distinguishing features of learning outcomes

- Demonstrate the self-directed development and achievement of broad and specialised areas of knowledge and skills, building on prior knowledge and skills.
- Initiate, analyse, design, plan, execute and evaluate major broad or technical and management functions in highly varied and highly specialised contexts.
- Generate and evaluate ideas through the analysis of information and concepts at an abstract level.
- Demonstrate a command of wide-ranging, highly specialised technical, creative or conceptual skills in complex contexts.
- Demonstrate responsibility and broad-ranging accountability for the structure, management and output of the work or functions of others.

Vocational Graduate Diploma

Characteristics of competencies or learning outcomes

- The self-directed development and achievement of broad and specialised areas of knowledge and skills, building on prior knowledge and skills.
- Substantial breadth, depth and complexity involving the initiation, analysis, design, planning, execution and evaluation of major functions, both broad and highly specialised, in highly varied and highly specialised contexts.
- Further specialisation within a systematic and coherent body of knowledge.
- Applications involve making high-level, fully independent, complex judgements in broad planning, design, operational, technical and management functions in highly varied and highly specialised contexts. They may include full responsibility and accountability for all aspects of work and functions of others, including planning, budgeting and strategy development.
- The degree of emphasis on breadth, as opposed to depth, of knowledge and skills may vary between qualifications granted at this level.

Distinguishing features of learning outcomes

- Demonstrate the self-directed development and achievement of broad and highly specialised areas of knowledge and skills, building on prior knowledge and skills.
- Initiate, analyse, design, plan, execute and evaluate major functions, both broad and within highly varied and highly specialised contexts.
- Generate and evaluate complex ideas through the analysis of information and concepts at an abstract level.
- Demonstrate an expert command of wide-ranging, highly specialised, technical, creative or conceptual skills in complex and highly specialised or varied contexts.
- Demonstrate full responsibility and accountability for personal outputs.
- Demonstrate full responsibility and accountability for all aspects of the work or functions of others, including planning, budgeting and strategy.

Qualification Pathways

TAE10 does not mandate particular pathways for the qualifications provided. Entry points and progression rely heavily on the background, experience and qualifications currently held by the learner. Choices in the individual qualification routes associated with language, literacy and numeracy, management or international education services will depend on the preferences and needs of the learner.

The following pathway charts are provided to show the types of pathways into and from qualifications that are possible with this Training Package. For more information about qualifications and pathways contact Innovation and Business Skills Australia.

Skill Sets

Definition

Skill sets are defined as single units of competency, or combinations of units of competency from an endorsed Training Package, which link to a licence or regulatory requirement, or defined industry need.

Wording on Statements of Attainment

Skill sets are a way of publicly identifying logical groupings of units of competency which meet an identified need or industry outcome. Skill sets are not qualifications.

Where skill sets are identified in a Training Package, the Statement of Attainment can set out the competencies a person has achieved in a way that is consistent and clear for employers and others. This is done by including the wording "these competencies meet [insert skill set title or identified industry area] need" on the Statement of Attainment. This wording applies only to skill sets that are formally identified as such in the endorsed Training Package. See the 2007 edition of the AQF Implementation Handbook for advice on wording on Statements of Attainmentthe updated version is expected to be available on the AQFAB website www.aqf.edu.au during September 2007 and in print in October 2007.

Employability Skills

Employability Skills replacing Key Competency information from 2006

In May 2005, the approach to incorporate Employability Skills within Training Package qualifications and units of competency was endorsed. As a result, from 2006 Employability Skills will progressively replace Key Competency information in Training Packages.

Background to Employability Skills

Employability Skills are also sometimes referred to as generic skills, capabilities or Key Competencies. The Employability Skills discussed here build on the Mayer Committee's Key Competencies, which were developed in 1992 and attempted to describe generic competencies for effective participation in work.

The Business Council of Australia (BCA) and the Australian Chamber of Commerce and Industry (ACCI), produced the Employability Skills for the Future report in 2002 in consultation with other peak employer bodies and with funding provided by the Department of Education, Science and Training (DEST) and the Australian National Training Authority (ANTA). Officially released by Dr Nelson (Minister for Education, Science and Training) on 23 May 2002, copies of the report are available from the DEST website at: http://www.dest.gov.au/archive/ty/publications/employability_skills/index.htm.

The report indicated that business and industry now require a broader range of skills than the Mayer Key Competencies Framework and featured an Employability Skills Framework identifying eight Employability Skills*:

- communication
- teamwork
- problem solving
- initiative and enterprise
- planning and organising
- self-management
- learning
- technology.

The report demonstrated how Employability Skills can be further described for particular occupational and industry contexts by sets of facets. The facets listed in the report are the aspects of the Employability Skills that the sample of employers surveyed identified as being important work skills. These facets were seen by employers as being dependent both in their nature and priority on an enterprise's business activity.

*Personal attributes that contribute to employability were also identified in the report but are not part of the Employability Skills Framework.

Employability Skills Framework

The following table contains the Employability Skills facets identified in the report.

Employability Skills for the Future

Skill	Facets
	Aspects of the skill that employers identify as important. The nature and application of these facets will vary depending on industry and job type.

Communication that contributes to productive and harmonious relations across employees and customers	• listening and understanding • speaking clearly and directly • writing to the needs of the audience • negotiating responsively • reading independently • empathising • using numeracy effectively • understanding the needs of internal and external customers • persuading effectively • establishing and using networks • being assertive • sharing information • speaking and writing in languages other than English
Teamwork that contributes to productive working relationships and outcomes	• working across different ages irrespective of gender, race, religion or political persuasion • working as an individual and as a member of a team • knowing how to define a role as part of the team • applying teamwork to a range of situations e.g. futures planning and crisis problem solving • identifying the strengths of team members • coaching and mentoring skills, including giving feedback
Problem solving that contributes to productive outcomes	• developing creative, innovative and practical solutions • showing independence and initiative in identifying and solving problems • solving problems in teams • applying a range of strategies to problem solving • using mathematics, including budgeting and financial management to solve problems • applying problem-solving strategies across a range of areas • testing assumptions, taking into account the context of data and circumstances • resolving customer concerns in relation to complex project issues

Initiative and enterprise that contribute to innovative outcomes	• adapting to new situations • developing a strategic, creative and long-term vision • being creative • identifying opportunities not obvious to others • translating ideas into action • generating a range of options • initiating innovative solutions
Planning and organising that contribute to long and short-term strategic planning	• managing time and priorities - setting time lines, coordinating tasks for self and with others • being resourceful • taking initiative and making decisions • adapting resource allocations to cope with contingencies • establishing clear project goals and deliverables • allocating people and other resources to tasks • planning the use of resources, including time management • participating in continuous improvement and planning processes • developing a vision and a proactive plan to accompany it • predicting - weighing up risk, evaluating alternatives and applying evaluation criteria • collecting, analysing and organising information • understanding basic business systems and their relationships
Self-management that contributes to employee satisfaction and growth	• having a personal vision and goals • evaluating and monitoring own performance • having knowledge and confidence in own ideas and visions • articulating own ideas and visions • taking responsibility
Learning that contributes to ongoing improvement and expansion in employee and company operations and outcomes	• managing own learning • contributing to the learning community at the workplace • using a range of mediums to learn -

	- mentoring, peer support and networking, IT and courses • applying learning to technical issues (e.g. learning about products) and people issues (e.g. interpersonal and cultural aspects of work) • having enthusiasm for ongoing learning • being willing to learn in any setting - on and off the job • being open to new ideas and techniques • being prepared to invest time and effort in learning new skills • acknowledging the need to learn in order to accommodate change
Technology that contributes to the effective carrying out of tasks	• having a range of basic IT skills • applying IT as a management tool • using IT to organise data • being willing to learn new IT skills • having the OHS knowledge to apply technology • having the appropriate physical capacity

Employability Skills Summary

An Employability Skills Summary exists for each qualification. Summaries provide a lens through which to view Employability Skills at the qualification level and capture the key aspects or facets of the Employability Skills that are important to the job roles covered by the qualification. Summaries are designed to assist trainers and assessors to identify and include important industry application of Employability Skills in learning and assessment strategies.

The following is important information for trainers and assessors about Employability Skills Summaries:

- Employability Skills Summaries provide examples of how each skill is applicable to the job roles covered by the qualification.
- Employability Skills Summaries contain general information about industry context which is further explained as measurable outcomes of performance in the units of competency in each qualification.
- The detail in each Employability Skills Summary will vary depending on the range of job roles covered by the qualification in question.
- Employability Skills Summaries are not exhaustive lists of qualification requirements or checklists of performance (which are separate assessment tools that should be designed by trainers and assessors after analysis at the unit level).

- Employability Skills Summaries contain information that may also assist in building learners' understanding of industry and workplace expectations.

Industry requirements for employability skills

IBSA has used the Generic Employability Skills Framework for IBSA Training Packages to further identify facets of employability skills that describe industry occupations for each IBSA training package qualification.

These facets were used to create an Employability Skills Summary for each qualification as an example of how facets would apply to one specific job role covered by the qualification. The content making up the Employability Skills Summary for each qualification was developed directly from the units of competency to ensure that the language and essence of the job role were appropriately reflected.

From the Employability Skills Summary, trainers and assessors can work out how facets of employability skills would apply to other job roles relevant to the particular qualification they are using.

Employability Skills Summary tables follow the packaging rules for the individual qualifications in TAE10.

Examples from this Training Package of employability skills embedded in unit components

Unit component	Example of embedded employability skill
Unit title	Plan, organise and deliver group-based learning (planning and organising, communication)
Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to plan, organise and deliver training for individuals within a group. (self-management, planning and organising)
Element	Prepare session plans. (self-management, planning and organising)
Performance criteria	Manage inappropriate behaviour to ensure learning can take place. (problem solving)
Range statement	Session plans may include plan of delivery methods and learning activities to be used within the session. (technology)

Required skills and knowledge	Group facilitation skills to ensure that: • every individual has an opportunity for participation and input • group cohesion is maintained • behaviour that puts others at risk is observed, interpreted and addressed • discussion and group interaction are enhanced (teamwork) Oral communication and language skills to motivate learners to transfer skills and knowledge. (communication)
Evidence guide	Candidates must demonstrate that they can prepare and deliver group-based learning. (teamwork) The candidate must demonstrate this through evidence of the preparation of at least two sessions. (planning and organising)

Whole of industry qualification information

One of the four strands of change identified for national change in association with the digital education revolution was teacher capability – to ensure teachers have the skills and tools to design and deliver programs that meet students’ needs and harness the benefits and resources of the digital revolution. This of course can be extrapolated to the wider community and other sectors of education, including vet and higher education.

The development of this Vocational Graduate Certificate in Digital Education higher-level qualification will empower educators in all sectors of education in the effective use of ICT as an enabler in education delivery.

Assessment Guidelines

Introduction

These Assessment Guidelines provide the endorsed framework for assessment of units of competency in this Training Package. They are designed to ensure that assessment is consistent with the AQTF 2007. Assessments against the units of competency in this Training Package must be carried out in accordance with these Assessment Guidelines.

Assessment System Overview

This section provides an overview of the requirements for assessment when using this Training Package, including a summary of the AQTF 2007 requirements; licensing/registration requirements; and assessment pathways.

Benchmarks for Assessment

Assessment within the National Skills Framework is the process of collecting evidence and making judgments about whether competency has been achieved to confirm whether an individual can perform to the standards expected in the workplace, as expressed in the relevant endorsed unit of competency.

In the areas of work covered by this Training Package, the endorsed units of competency are the benchmarks for assessment. As such, they provide the basis for nationally recognised Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by Registered Training Organisations (RTOs).

Australian Quality Training Framework Assessment Requirements

Assessment leading to nationally recognised AQF qualifications and Statements of Attainment in the vocational education and training sector must meet the requirements of the AQTF as expressed in the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration.

The AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration can be downloaded from <www.training.com.au/aqtf2007>. The following points summarise assessment requirements.

Registration of Training Organisations

Assessment must be conducted by, or on behalf of, an RTO formally registered by a State or Territory Registering/Course Accrediting Body in accordance with the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration. The RTO must have the specific units of competency and/or AQF qualifications on its scope of registration.

Quality Training and Assessment

Each RTO must provide quality training and assessment across all its operations. See the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration, Standard 1.

Assessor Competency Requirements

Each person involved in training, assessment or client service must be competent for the functions they perform. See the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration, Standard 1, for assessor (and trainer) competency requirements.

Assessment Requirements

The RTOs assessments, including RPL, must meet the requirements of the relevant endorsed Training Package. See the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration, Standard 1.

Assessment Strategies

Each RTO must have strategies for training and assessment that meet the requirements of the relevant Training Package or accredited course and are developed in consultation with industry stakeholders. See the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration, Standard 1.

National Recognition

Each RTO must recognise the AQF qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by any other RTO. See the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration, Condition of Registration 7: Recognition of qualifications issued by other RTOs.

Access and Equity and Client Outcomes

Each RTO must adhere to the principles of access and equity and maximise outcomes for its clients. See the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration, Standard 2.

Monitoring Assessments

Training and/or assessment provided on behalf of the RTO must be monitored to ensure that it is in accordance with all aspects of the Essential Standards for Registration. See the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration, Standard 3.

Recording Assessment Outcomes

Each RTO must manage records to ensure their accuracy and integrity. See the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration, Standard 3.

Issuing AQF Qualifications and Statements of Attainment

Each RTO must issue AQF qualifications and Statements of Attainment that meet the requirements of the current AQF Implementation Handbook and the endorsed Training Packages within the scope of its registration. An AQF qualification is issued once the full requirements for a qualification, as specified in the nationally endorsed Training Package are met. A Statement of Attainment is issued when an individual has completed one or more units of competency from nationally recognised qualification(s)/courses(s). See the AQTF 2007 and the 2007 edition of the AQF Implementation Handbook-available on the AQFAB website < www.aqf.edu.au >.

Licensing/registration requirements

This section provides information on licensing/registration requirements for TAE10 Training and Education Training Package, with the following important disclaimer:

The developers of this Training Package, and DEEWR, consider that no licensing or registration requirements apply to registered training organisations (RTOs), assessors or candidates with respect to this Training Package. Contact the relevant State or Territory Department(s) to check if there are any licensing or registration requirements with which you must comply.

For further information on this topic contact www.ibsa.org.au.

Requirements for assessors

This section outlines the requirements that assessors, and as a consequence RTOs, must take into account when delivering and assessing TAE10 Training and Education Training Package. In particular, these requirements apply specifically to TAE40110 Certificate IV in Training and Assessment.

The areas dealt with are:

- reasonable adjustment and inclusive practice
- TAE assessors - requirements and responsibilities

- the link between vocational competence and TAE10 Training and Education Training Package competence.

Reasonable adjustment and inclusive practice

Providing reasonable adjustment for learners is based on legislative and regulatory requirements, as well as on the purpose of the organisation providing vocational education and training (VET). The term 'reasonable adjustment' in legislation relates only to people with a disability. However, all learners will benefit from inclusive practice that tailors practice to individual learner requirements.

Inclusive practice covers areas such as:

- taking into account a candidate's language, literacy and numeracy requirements
- flexible assessment sessions to allow for such things as fatigue or administering medication
- equity checks, and revision where necessary of proposed assessment methods and tools
- considering a candidate's age and gender
- considering cultural beliefs, traditional practices and religious observances
- reasonable adjustment, where required.

Reasonable adjustment, when considered in the context of the legislative responsibilities of trainers and assessors, is generally associated with:

- personal support services, such as providing a reader, Auslan interpreter or scribe
- assistive technology or special equipment
- the format of assessment materials, for example, electronic or oral assessment, Braille
- adjustment of the physical environment.

For a more detailed examination of trainer and assessor responsibilities in relation to reasonable adjustment, reference should be made to the accompanying Transition Guide for TAE10 Training and Education Training Package.

TAE assessors - requirements and responsibilities

This section outlines the requirements and responsibilities of TAE assessors, in particular those delivering and assessing TAE40110 Certificate IV in Training and Assessment, including:

- specified competency requirements to assess
- responsibilities in making assessment judgements
- the need to maintain currency in assessment practice

- adherence to the assessors' code of practice.

Competency requirements of TAE assessors

The vocational competence of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package is education, training and assessment. Accordingly, persons who deliver recognised training in TAE10 units of competency and qualifications, through or on behalf of an RTO, must be able to demonstrate their vocational competence in education, training and assessment. The benchmarks for demonstration of this vocational competence are the relevant competency standards of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package or equivalent competence.

The following vocational competence requirements apply to persons providing assessment services for TAE10 Training and Education Training Package, including assessments relating to TAE10 qualifications and individual TAE10 units of competency.

- Persons who conduct assessments against the units of competency leading to the award of TAE40110 Certificate IV in Training and Assessment must have successfully completed TAE40110 Certificate IV in Training and Assessment or have equivalent competence.
- Persons who conduct assessments of candidates against individual units of competency from TAE10 Training and Education Training Package must hold formal recognition of competence in each unit in which they wish to conduct assessment or be able to demonstrate equivalent competence.

Responsibilities of TAE assessors

TAE assessors have significant responsibilities. Their judgement certifies that TAE candidates have demonstrated TAE10 Training and Education Training Package competency standards to the standard required in the workplace. Once qualified in this, candidates can use this recognition to work in a variety of training and/or assessment contexts and industries, including delivery and assessment of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package.

In making the judgement of competence against TAE10 units of competency, TAE assessors must evaluate the evidence and assess the risks. Constraints and pressures are widespread - time, cost, the demand for a quick outcome - but compromise and diminution of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package unit requirements are not viable options.

Faithful adherence to the content and intent of the Training Package in the assessment process is critical to ensuring the VET system is staffed by competent trainers, assessors and practitioners.

Maintaining currency

An important aspect of maintaining competence in training and assessment is the currency of competence. TAE10 assessors have a responsibility to maintain currency in all areas of their own vocational competence in training and/or assessment practice. This includes continuing currency in assessing against TAE10 Training and Education Training Package competency standards. This means that TAE assessors should be able to provide evidence of their ongoing TAE training and/or assessment practice.

Currency also includes maintaining professional knowledge about the VET sector, particularly developments relating to the VET operating environment and changes in training and assessment policies and practices.

Good practice in maintaining currency

All persons conducting assessments against the competency standards in TAE10 Training and Education Training Package should:

- demonstrate current skills and knowledge in assessment practice, which could be met by a combination of evidence, including:
- relevant work history
- attendance at professional development activities focusing on best practice in assessment and/or workplace training
- colleague/peer support and participation in trainer/assessor and/or professional networks
- participation in networks and communities of practice
- participation in moderation and validation activities
- knowledge of current practices in assessment and workplace training
- recent assessment and workplace training activities
- knowledge of language, literacy and numeracy issues in the context of assessment and workplace training and

- have current knowledge of the industry and workplace of the TAE learners/candidates, which would include:
 - familiarity with the industry/enterprise competency standards to be used by the learner/candidate as the basis of assessment and/or training
 - an understanding, where applicable of the training and/or assessment system in which the learner/candidate operates
 - knowledge of the requisite assessor qualifications for the industry or enterprise.

Code of practice for assessors

The code of practice detailed below is included in these Assessment Guidelines to support professionally responsible and ethical assessment practice and to guide TAE10 assessors in the responsibilities of their work.

This code is loosely based on an international code developed by the US-based National Council for Measurement in Education.

The code reinforces the performance outcomes of assessment units in TAE10 Training and Education Training Package.

- The differing needs and requirements of the candidates, the local enterprises and/or industry are identified and handled with sensitivity.
- Potential forms of conflict of interest in the assessment process and/or outcomes are identified, and appropriate referrals are made, if necessary.
- All forms of harassment are avoided throughout the assessment process and in the review and reporting of assessment outcomes.
- The rights of candidates are protected during and after the assessment process.
- Candidates are made aware of their rights and processes of appeal.
- Personal or interpersonal factors that are irrelevant to the assessment of competence must not influence the assessment outcomes.
- Evidence is verified against the rules of evidence.
- Assessment decisions are based on available evidence that can be produced and verified by another assessor.
- Assessments are conducted within the boundaries of the assessment system policies and procedures.
- Formal agreement is obtained from candidates and the assessor that the assessment was carried out in accordance with agreed procedures.
- Assessment systems and tools are consistent with equal opportunity legislation.
- Candidates are informed of all assessment reporting processes prior to the assessment.
- Candidates are informed of all known potential consequences of assessment decisions, prior to the assessment.
- Confidentiality is maintained regarding assessment decisions/outcomes and records of individual assessment outcomes which identify personal details and are only released with the written permission of the candidate/s.
- Assessment outcomes are used consistently with the purposes explained to candidates.
- Self-assessments are periodically conducted to ensure current competence against TAE10 Training and Education Training Package competency standards.
- Professional development opportunities are identified and sought.
- Opportunities for networking amongst assessors are created and maintained.
- Opportunities are created for technical assistance in planning, conducting and reviewing assessment practice and participating in validation.

The link between vocational competence and TAE10 Training and Education Training Package competence

A central focus of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package, particularly TAE40110 Certificate IV in Training and Assessment, is the connection with the candidate's area of vocational competence.

TAE10 candidates generally undertake this Training Package because they possess vocational competence in a specific industry, subject or technical area and they need to develop or extend competence in training and assessment to teach, train or facilitate the learning of other individuals in their area of vocational expertise. In some instances the TAE10 candidate may be acquiring vocational competence concurrently with their TAE10 Training and Education Training Package competencies.

The development and assessment of candidates' competence in TAE10 Training and Education Training Package units, particularly in the learning design, delivery and assessment fields, should be focused around their vocational competence. This will provide a relevant and meaningful reference point for assessment.

Potential TAE10 candidates should be made aware of the importance of vocational competence and advised of the AQTF requirements for vocational competence if they intend to use their TAE10 Training and Education Training Package qualifications to deliver training in an RTO.

Requirements for candidates

English language, literacy and other skill requirements

It is part of an RTO's responsibility to provide appropriate information to candidates to ensure that candidates understand the requirements of the units of competency prior to assessment. TAE assessors carrying out this responsibility must ensure TAE candidates or potential candidates are advised effectively of the underlying skill requirements of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package units.

In particular, advice about the underlying level of English language, literacy and numeracy skills required to meet the outcomes of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package units must be made clear prior to commencement of the learning and/or assessment process, and candidates who may have difficulty meeting these requirements must be provided with advice and options, such as appropriate language, literacy and numeracy skills training.

Candidates must also be advised that competence will include assessment of the specified language and literacy performance criteria and required skills of individual TAE10 Training and Education Training Package units. This includes effective language, communications and interpersonal skills and the ability to write a range of documentation.

For example, TAE10 candidates are expected to read and interpret training packages, develop and document learning programs and assessment tools, present information, facilitate in a number of contexts using a range of skills, and prepare various records and documents.

Technology applications are also required as part of the competency specifications of some units. Further, complex cognitive skills in planning, research, interpretation, analysis and synthesis form part of the skills requirements of many units.

In a learning and assessment pathway, some of these skills can be developed through the learning process. However, this will depend on the approach adopted in the learning strategy and learning program content and the level of resourcing available.

In some situations, implementation may be based on an assumption that learners/candidates possess these skills. In these circumstances, and in an assessment-only pathway, TAE candidates must be made aware of the specific skills that underpin the outcomes and performance requirements of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package units, to ensure they are capable of demonstrating competence. Where essential skills need to be acquired, options for meeting these skill gaps must be provided.

Requirements for RTOs

The units in TAE10 Training and Education Training Package are designed to be assessed in the workplace. Workplace application is desirable to ensure that competence has been attained, to the standard required by this industry sector.

Ideally, all TAE10 candidates should be working in or have access to an operating training and assessment environment, such as an RTO; a training division in an enterprise, government or community organisation; or training services applied in a voluntary agency.

For candidates in a learning and assessment pathway, a work environment provides opportunities for applying skills and knowledge, and for undertaking relevant work activities that address the performance requirements of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package units.

It is recognised that TAE10 candidates in a learning and assessment pathway will not always have access to an effective workplace environment. In these circumstances assessors need to consider options within their own workplaces to support practice opportunities, such as whether their own RTO can provide opportunities for workplace application.

For candidates in an assessment-only pathway, a work environment in training and/or assessment is essential in providing the basis for the collection of evidence that meets the rules of evidence.

Advice on using simulation

While a workplace environment is highly desirable for both practice and assessment, it is recognised that where an appropriate workplace environment is not available, simulation may be required as an assessment environment for some units or aspects of competence. Some examples would be where occupational health and safety considerations make workplace application inadvisable, or the TAE candidate does not have and cannot gain access to a workplace where all the assessment requirements of a unit can be met.

Simulation is not, and should not be considered as, an assessment 'short cut' as the rules of evidence still apply.

Where simulation is used, the TAE10 assessor must ensure that the assessment replicates the workplace activities and range of contexts addressed by the unit. It is critical that the designer of the simulation has a thorough knowledge of the unit content and is experienced in the current circumstances of the work outcomes that the unit defines, to ensure validity and authenticity.

In deciding whether a simulation has been adequately designed, the following questions should be asked. Are there opportunities to:

- demonstrate the dimensions of competency?
- address and demonstrate the range of skills identified within the units, including technical and generic skills?
- effectively transfer required knowledge to practical applications?
- incorporate the requirements for collaboration with colleagues?
- meet the specific assessment requirements of the units?
- reflect the complexity of work requirements, such as time pressures, competing and multiple work pressures, prioritisation, and deadlines?
- demonstrate inclusive practices and capacity to meet the needs of diverse groups and specific individuals?
- find, discuss and test solutions to problems?
- explore health and safety issues?

- demonstrate the range and level of language, literacy and numeracy within the units?

AQTF requirements for assessment

Compliance with TAE10 Training and Education Training Package, as required by the AQTF, will be rigorously enforced by state regulatory authorities.

The AQTF Standards can be downloaded from the Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations (DEEWR) website at www.deewr.gov.au or can be obtained in hard copy from DEEWR.

Pathways

The competencies in this Training Package may be attained in a number of ways including through:

- formal or informal education and training
- experiences in the workplace
- general life experience, and/or
- any combination of the above.

Assessment under this Training Package leading to an AQF qualification or Statement of Attainment may follow a learning and assessment pathway, an assessment-only or recognition pathway, or a combination of the two as illustrated in the following diagram.

Each of these assessment pathways leads to full recognition of competencies held - the critical issue is that the candidate is competent, not how the competency was acquired.

Assessment, by any pathway, must comply with the assessment requirements set out in the Assessment Guidelines of the Training Package and the AQTF 2007.

Learning and Assessment Pathways

Usually, learning and assessment are integrated, with assessment evidence being collected and feedback provided to the candidate at anytime throughout the learning and assessment process.

Learning and assessment pathways may include structured programs in a variety of contexts using a range of strategies to meet different learner needs. Structured learning and assessment programs could be: group-based, work-based, project-based, self-paced, action learning-based; conducted by distance or e-learning; and/or involve practice and experience in the workplace.

Learning and assessment pathways to suit Australian Apprenticeships have a mix of formal structured training and structured workplace experience with formative assessment activities through which candidates can acquire and demonstrate skills and knowledge from the relevant units of competency.

Assessment-Only or Recognition of Prior Learning Pathway

Competencies already held by individuals can be formally assessed against the units of competency in this Training Package, and should be recognised regardless of how, when or where they were achieved.

In an assessment-only or Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) pathway, the candidate provides current, quality evidence of their competency against the relevant unit of competency. This process may be directed by the candidate and verified by the assessor, such as in the compilation of portfolios; or directed by the assessor, such as through observation of workplace performance and skills application, and oral and/or written assessment. Where the outcomes of this process indicate that the candidate is competent, structured training is not required. The RPL requirements of the AQTF 2007 must be met (Standard 1).

As with all assessment, the assessor must be confident that the evidence indicates that the candidate is currently competent against the endorsed unit of competency. This evidence may take a variety of forms and might include certification, references from past employers, testimonials from clients, and work samples. The onus is on candidates to provide sufficient evidence to satisfy assessors that they currently hold the relevant competencies. In judging evidence, the assessor must ensure that the evidence of prior learning is:

- authentic (the candidate's own work)
- valid (directly related to the current version of the relevant endorsed unit of competency)
- reliable (shows that the candidate consistently meets the endorsed unit of competency)
- current (reflects the candidate's current capacity to perform the aspect of the work covered by the endorsed unit of competency), and
- sufficient (covers the full range of elements in the relevant unit of competency and addresses the four dimensions of competency, namely task skills, task management skills, contingency management skills, and job/role environment skills).

The assessment only or recognition of prior learning pathway is likely to be most appropriate in the following scenarios:

- candidates enrolling in qualifications who want recognition for prior learning or current competencies
- existing workers
- individuals with overseas qualifications
- recent migrants with established work histories
- people returning to the workplace, and
- people with disabilities or injuries requiring a change in career.

Combination of Pathways

Where candidates for assessment have gained competencies through work and life experience and gaps in their competence are identified, or where they require training in new areas, a combination of pathways may be appropriate.

In such situations, the candidate may undertake an initial assessment to determine their current competency. Once current competency is identified, a structured learning and assessment program ensures that the candidate acquires the required additional competencies identified as gaps.

Assessor Requirements

This section identifies the mandatory competencies for assessors, and clarifies how others may contribute to the assessment process where one person alone does not hold all the required competencies.

Assessor Competencies

The AQTF 2007 specifies mandatory competency requirements for assessors. For information, Standard 1, Element 1.4 from the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration follows:

1.4		Training and assessment is delivered by trainers and assessors who:
	a)	have the necessary training and assessment competencies as determined by the National Quality Council or its successors
	b)	have the relevant vocational competencies at least to the level being delivered or assessed
	c)	continue developing their vocational and training and assessment competencies to support continuous improvements in the delivery of the RTO's services.

Designing Assessment Tools

This section provides an overview on the use and development of assessment tools.

Use of Assessment Tools

Assessment tools provide a means of collecting the evidence that assessors use in making judgments about whether candidates have achieved competency.

There is no set format or process for the design, production or development of assessment tools. Assessors may use prepared assessment tools, such as those specifically developed to support this Training Package, or they may develop their own.

Using Prepared Assessment Tools

If using prepared assessment tools, assessors should ensure these are benchmarked, or mapped, against the current version of the relevant unit of competency. This can be done by checking that the materials are listed on the National Training Information Service < www.ntis.gov.au >. Materials on the list have been noted by the National Quality Council as meeting their quality criteria for Training Package support materials.

Developing Assessment Tools

When developing assessment tools, assessors must ensure that they:

- are benchmarked against the relevant unit or units of competency
- are reviewed as part of the continuous improvement of assessment strategies as required under Standard 1 of the AQTF 2007
- meet the assessment requirements expressed in Standard 1 of the AQTF 2007.

A key reference for assessors developing assessment tools is TAA04 Training and Assessment Training Package and the unit of competency TAAASS403A Develop assessment tools. There is no set format or process for the design, production or development of assessment materials.

Conducting Assessment

This section details the mandatory assessment requirements and provides information on equity in assessment including reasonable adjustment.

• Assessment Requirements

Assessments must meet the criteria set out in the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration.

For information, the mandatory assessment requirements from Standard 1 from the AQTF 2007 Essential Standards for Registration are as follows:

1.5	Assessment, including Recognition of Prior Learning:
a)	meets the requirements of the relevant Training Package or accredited course,
b)	is conducted in accordance with the principles of assessment and the rules of evidence, and
c)	meets workplace and, where relevant, regulatory requirements.

Assessment of Employability Skills

Employability Skills are integral to workplace competency. As such they must be considered in the design, customisation, delivery and assessment of vocational education and training programs in an integrated and holistic way, as represented diagrammatically below.

Employability Skills are embedded and explicit within each unit of competency. Training providers must use Employability Skills information in order to design valid and reliable training and assessment strategies. This analysis could include:

- reviewing units of competency to locate relevant Employability Skills and determine how they are applied within the unit
- analysing the Employability Skills Summary for the qualification in which the unit or units are packaged to help clarify relevant industry and workplace contexts and the application of Employability Skills at that qualification outcome
- designing training and assessment to address Employability Skills requirements.

For more information on Employability Skills in Innovation and Business Industry Skills Council Training Packages go to the Innovation and Business Industry Skills Council website at <http://www.ibsa.org.au>.

Access and Equity

An individual's access to the assessment process should not be adversely affected by restrictions placed on the location or context of assessment beyond the requirements specified in this Training Package: training and assessment must be bias-free.

Under the rules for their development, Training Packages must reflect and cater for the increasing diversity of Australia's VET clients and Australia's current and future workforce. The flexibilities offered by Training Packages should enhance opportunities and potential outcomes for all people so that we can all benefit from a wider national skills base and a shared contribution to Australia's economic development and social and cultural life.

Reasonable adjustments

It is important that education providers take meaningful, transparent and reasonable steps to consult, consider and implement reasonable adjustments for students with disability.

Under the Disability Standards for Education 2005, education providers must make reasonable adjustments for people with disability to the maximum extent that those adjustments do not cause that provider unjustifiable hardship. While "reasonable adjustment" and "unjustifiable hardship" are different concepts and involve different considerations, they both seek to strike a balance between the interests of education providers and the interests of students with and without disability.

An adjustment is any measure or action that a student requires because of their disability, and which has the effect of assisting the student to access and participate in education and training on the same basis as students without a disability. An adjustment is reasonable if it achieves this purpose while taking into account factors such as the nature of the student's disability, the views of the student, the potential effect of the adjustment on the student and others who might be affected, and the costs and benefits of making the adjustment.

An education provider is also entitled to maintain the academic integrity of a course or program and to consider the requirements or components that are inherent or essential to its nature when assessing whether an adjustment is reasonable. There may be more than one adjustment that is reasonable in a given set of circumstances; education providers are required to make adjustments that are reasonable and that do not cause them unjustifiable hardship.

See Part 4, Chapter 2 of the Training Package Development Handbook (DEST, September 2007) for more information on reasonable adjustment, including examples of adjustments.

Competency Standards

What is competency?

The broad concept of industry competency concerns the ability to perform particular tasks and duties to the standard of performance expected in the workplace. Competency requires the application of specified skills, knowledge and attitudes relevant to effective participation in an industry, industry sector or enterprise.

Competency covers all aspects of workplace performance and involves performing individual tasks; managing a range of different tasks; responding to contingencies or breakdowns; and, dealing with the responsibilities of the workplace, including working with others. Workplace competency requires the ability to apply relevant skills, knowledge and attitudes consistently over time and in the required workplace situations and environments. In line with this concept of competency Training Packages focus on what is expected of a competent individual in the workplace as an outcome of learning, rather than focussing on the learning process itself.

Competency standards in Training Packages are determined by industry to meet identified industry skill needs. Competency standards are made up of a number of units of competency each of which describes a key function or role in a particular job function or occupation. Each unit of competency within a Training Package is linked to one or more AQF qualifications.

Contextualisation of Units of Competency by RTOs

Registered Training Organisation (RTOs) may contextualise units of competency to reflect local outcomes required. Contextualisation could involve additions or amendments to the unit of competency to suit particular delivery methods, learner profiles, specific enterprise equipment requirements, or to otherwise meet local needs. However, the integrity of the overall intended outcome of the unit of competency must be maintained.

Any contextualisation of units of competency in this endorsed Training Package must be within the bounds of the following advice. In contextualising units of competency, RTOs:

- must not remove or add to the number and content of elements and performance criteria
- may add specific industry terminology to performance criteria where this does not distort or narrow the competency outcomes
- may make amendments and additions to the range statement as long as such changes do not diminish the breadth of application of the competency and reduce its portability, and/or
- may add detail to the evidence guide in areas such as the critical aspects of evidence or resources and infrastructure required where these expand the breadth of the competency but do not limit its use.

Components of Units of Competency

The components of units of competency are summarised below, in the order in which they appear in each unit of competency.

Unit Title

The unit title is a succinct statement of the outcome of the unit of competency. Each unit of competency title is unique, both within and across Training Packages.

Unit Descriptor

The unit descriptor broadly communicates the content of the unit of competency and the skill area it addresses. Where units of competency have been contextualised from units of competency from other endorsed Training Packages, summary information is provided. There may also be a brief second paragraph that describes its relationship with other units of competency, and any licensing requirements.

Employability Skills statement

A standard Employability Skills statement appears in each unit of competency. This statement directs trainers and assessors to consider the information contained in the Employability Skills Summary in which the unit of competency is packaged.

Prerequisite Units (optional)

If there are any units of competency that must be completed before the unit, these will be listed.

Application of the Unit

This sub-section fleshes out the unit of competency's scope, purpose and operation in different contexts, for example, by showing how it applies in the workplace.

Competency Field (Optional)

The competency field either reflects the way the units of competency are categorised in the Training Package or denotes the industry sector, specialisation or function. It is an optional component of the unit of competency.

Sector (optional)

The industry sector is a further categorisation of the competency field and identifies the next classification, for example an elective or supervision field.

Elements of Competency

The elements of competency are the basic building blocks of the unit of competency. They describe in terms of outcomes the significant functions and tasks that make up the competency.

Performance Criteria

The performance criteria specify the required performance in relevant tasks, roles, skills and in the applied knowledge that enables competent performance. They are usually written in passive voice. Critical terms or phrases may be written in bold italics and then defined in range statement, in the order of their appearance in the performance criteria.

Required Skills and Knowledge

The essential skills and knowledge are either identified separately or combined. Knowledge identifies what a person needs to know to perform the work in an informed and effective manner. Skills describe the application of knowledge to situations where understanding is converted into a workplace outcome.

Range Statement

The range statement provides a context for the unit of competency, describing essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment, depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts. As applicable, the meanings of key terms used in the performance criteria will also be explained in the range statement.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide is critical in assessment as it provides information to the Registered Training Organisation (RTO) and assessor about how the described competency may be demonstrated. The evidence guide does this by providing a range of evidence for the assessor to make determinations, and by providing the assessment context. The evidence guide describes:

- conditions under which competency must be assessed including variables such as the assessment environment or necessary equipment
- relationships with the assessment of any other units of competency
- suitable methodologies for conducting assessment including the potential for workplace simulation
- resource implications, for example access to particular equipment, infrastructure or situations
- how consistency in performance can be assessed over time, various contexts and with a range of evidence, and expectations at the AQF qualification level involved

Employability Skills in units of competency

The detail and application of Employability Skills facets will vary according to the job-role requirements of each industry. In developing Training Packages, industry stakeholders are consulted to identify appropriate facets of Employability Skills which are incorporated into the relevant units of competency and qualifications.

Employability Skills are not a discrete requirement contained in units of competency (as was the case with Key Competencies). Employability Skills are specifically expressed in the context of the work outcomes described in units of competency and will appear in elements, performance criteria, range statements and evidence guides. As a result, users of Training Packages are required to review the entire unit of competency in order to accurately determine Employability Skills requirements.

How Employability Skills relate to the Key Competencies

The eight nationally agreed Employability Skills now replace the seven Key Competencies in Training Packages. Trainers and assessors who have used Training Packages prior to the introduction of Employability Skills may find the following comparison useful.

Employability Skills	Key Competencies
Communication	Communicating ideas and information
Teamwork	Working with others and in teams

Problem solving	Solving problems Using mathematical ideas and techniques
Initiative and enterprise
Planning and organising	Collecting, analysing and organising information Planning and organising activities
Self-management
Learning
Technology	Using technology

When analysing the above table it is important to consider the relationship and natural overlap of Employability Skills. For example, using technology may involve communication skills and combine the understanding of mathematical concepts.

Explicitly embedding Employability Skills in units of competency

This Training Package seeks to ensure that industry-endorsed Employability Skills are explicitly embedded in units of competency. The application of each skill and the level of detail included in each part of the unit will vary according to industry requirements and the nature of the unit of competency.

Employability Skills must be both explicit and embedded within units of competency. This means that Employability Skills will be:

- embedded in units of competency as part of the other performance requirements that make up the competency as a whole
- explicitly described within units of competency to enable Training Packages users to identify accurately the performance requirements of each unit with regards to Employability Skills.

This Training Package also seeks to ensure that Employability Skills are well-defined and written into units of competency so that they are apparent, clear and can be delivered and assessed as an essential component of unit work outcomes.

The following table contains examples of embedded Employability Skills for each component of a unit of competency. Please note that in the examples below the bracketed skills are provided only for clarification and will not be present in units of competency within this Training Package.

Competency standards - industry contextualisation

As indicated elsewhere in this volume of the Training Package, RTOs may contextualise units of competency imported from other training packages to reflect outcomes relevant to training and education for the VET sector. Many units from BSB07 Business Services Training Package have been imported into the learning management qualifications to support those units which address specific aspects of doing business in the VET sector.

Using 'BSBCUS501A Manage quality customer service' as an example, RTOs could add VET specific examples of customers relevant to the VET sector e.g. enterprises. The list of 'resources' could be extended to include education materials, lesson plans, etc.

Units of competency not packaged against a qualification

Generally each unit of competency within a Training Package is packaged to one or more AQF qualifications. In special circumstances units of competency may be endorsed that are not packaged to an AQF qualification. The TAE10 Training and Education Training Package contains one unit in this category – TAESUS501A Analyse and apply sustainability skills to learning programs.

This unit has been developed in response to an identified need associated with the National Green Skills Agreement made by the Council of Australian Governments (COAG) in December 2009. Among other things, commitment was made to ‘up-skill VET instructors and teachers to deliver sustainability skills’.

TAESUS501A describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to identify explicit and embedded sustainability skills within training packages and accredited courses and apply requirements to learning programs associated with the development of competence. It has a clear vocational workplace outcome. The unit was developed as an elective for the Diploma of Training and Assessment as well as the core component of a skill set for sustainable practice. This later component is specifically designed to underpin a professional development program for the VET workforce.

The unit appears in this training package primarily because it is considered imperative that both the skill set and the unit be identified with the newly developed TAE10 Training and Education Training Package. It will also appear in the companion TAA04 Training Package as an elective in the Diploma in Training and Assessment, coded as TAESUS501A. Both these will migrate into this training package once the review of TAA50104 Diploma of Training and Assessment has concluded.

Description

Descriptor

This qualification reflects the roles of individuals delivering training and assessment services in the vocational education and training (VET) sector.

Achievement of this qualification or an equivalent by trainers and assessors is a requirement of the Australian Quality Training Framework Essential Standards for Registration (Standard 1 as outlined in Appendix 2 of the Users' Guide to the Essential Standards for Registration).

This qualification, or the skill sets derived from units of competency within it, is also suitable preparation for those engaged in the delivery of training and assessment of competence in a workplace context, as a component of a structured VET program.

Job roles

Job roles associated with this qualification relate to the delivery of training and assessment of competence within the VET sector. Possible job titles and roles relevant to this qualification include:

- enterprise trainer
- enterprise assessor
- registered training organisation (RTO) trainer
- RTO assessor
- training adviser or training needs analyst
- vocational education teacher.

Description

This qualification reflects the roles of individuals who apply substantial specialised skills and knowledge in the field of adult language, literacy and numeracy practice. In these roles they make significant high level judgements to analyse, plan, deliver and evaluate specialised teaching functions within complex contexts.

This qualification uses the term ‘adult literacy and numeracy’ to mean the skills required to understand and use various forms of print and digital text in day-to-day activities at home, at work and in the community (Literacy Skills for the Knowledge Society, OECD, 2001).

The qualification uses the term ‘language’ to talk about speaking, listening, reading, writing and visual communication skills. In its broadest sense, language involves the words, verbal structures and gestures we use to convey meaning. We are also talking about using words and grammatical structures and other meaning support systems (e.g. gestures when speaking and listening, punctuation and formatting when reading and writing) to make meaning or to understand somebody else’s meaning. (What’s language, literacy and numeracy?, Taking the Lead, 2006)

People attending adult language, literacy and numeracy provision reflect the cultural and linguistic diversity of the Australian population. They may have English as their first, second or third language, and literacy and numeracy skill levels that inhibit their ability to achieve their aspirations. This diversity of learners requires practitioners with skills and knowledge in a wide range of teaching approaches and practices; skills and knowledge that are included in this qualification.

This qualification responds to the need for all practitioners to have a set of strategies to meet learners’ language development needs. This is not language in the strict sense of language acquisition (as defined within the TESOL discipline), but rather the development of relevant and appropriate language repertoires depending on the context.

Adult language, literacy and numeracy delivery contexts include vocational education settings, workplaces, and the community. A range of training organisations (public, not-for-profit, community and private) provides adult language, literacy and numeracy skills development.

This qualification may apply to those in roles with responsibility for adult literacy and numeracy delivery and assessment. Job roles and titles vary across different organisational contexts. Possible job titles and roles relevant to this qualification include:

- practitioner, Workplace English Language and Literacy (WELL) program
- teacher, Language, Literacy and Numeracy Program (LLNP)
- concurrent assistance teacher, training organisation
- adult literacy and numeracy teacher, training organisation
- trainer and assessor, training organisation
- program coordinator, adult community education organisation
- educational manager, training organisation.

TAE70111 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Practice may not meet the requirements for TESOL teaching. It is advisable to check with relevant jurisdictions and in the human resource statements in accredited course documentation.

Pathways Information

Prerequisite requirements

There are no prerequisite requirements for individual units of competency.

Pathways into the qualification

Candidates may enter the qualification through a number of entry points, including with:

- a Bachelor's degree or other higher education qualification, together with relevant vocational practice,

or

- a relevant Diploma or Advanced Diploma,

or

- a relevant Certificate III or Certificate IV, together with significant relevant vocational practice.

It is recommended that candidates undertake TAE40110 Certificate IV in Training and Assessment prior to undertaking TAE70110 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Practice, as this will provide them with knowledge of the vocational education and training (VET) environment, including quality frameworks and qualification frameworks, as well as delivery and assessment requirements.

Pathways from the qualification

After achieving TAE70111 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Practice candidates may undertake TAE80110 Vocational Graduate Diploma of Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Leadership or TAE80210 Vocational Graduate Diploma of Management (Learning) or a higher education qualification.

Articulation to higher education

While there are no formal articulation or credit transfer arrangements, it is anticipated that this qualification would contribute significantly to existing or proposed higher education qualifications in this field. Learners seeking credit into other post-graduate qualifications in higher education will need to apply on an individual basis to organisations delivering those qualifications.

This qualification does not and does not seek to replace the diverse range of post graduate qualifications in adult language, literacy and numeracy available in the university sector.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

There is no direct link between this qualification and licensing, legislative and/or regulatory requirements. However, where required, a unit of competency will specify relevant licensing, legislative and/or regulatory requirements that impact on the unit.

Entry Requirements

There are no specific entry requirements for this qualification, although it is expected that candidates will demonstrate the potential to undertake study at graduate level (see Pathways into the qualification section below).

Employability Skills Summary

The following table contains a summary of the employability skills required by industry for this qualification. The employability skills facets described here are broad industry requirements that may vary depending on qualification packaging options.

Employability skill	Industry/enterprise requirements for this qualification include:
Communication	• completing documentation required to conduct the course, such as reports and evaluations • developing collaborative relationships • facilitating discussions to encourage sharing of strategies and exploration of different solutions to problems • interpreting the needs of learners by analysis of information obtained through assessment • giving clear explanations, presenting concepts clearly and responding to questions effectively

	• reading and interpreting complex texts from a range of sources, analysing theoretical viewpoints and forming judgements • using formal and informal mathematical language, symbolic and diagrammatic representations and conventions of mathematics • using interpersonal and language skills to model and encourage collaborative thinking • using oral communication skills to adjust level of communication to meet requirements of learners • using spoken language to make hypotheses, plan and influence others • writing complex texts that meet audience needs and purpose of text
Teamwork	• applying knowledge of own role within a team of VET colleagues • cultivating collaborative and participative work relationships, identifying and utilising the strengths of other team members • sharing ideas and resources with other teachers of the learner group
Problem-solving	• adapting problem-solving techniques to solve problems in diverse context and situations • analysing information to inform practice • collecting, analysing and interpreting data using a variety of data-collection methods • identifying mathematical information and meaning in activities and texts • identifying specific difficulties of those participating in provision in VET • solving a range of numeracy problems within adult contexts
Initiative and enterprise	• analysing a range of theories and approaches to develop a learning strategy • demonstrating originality and innovative approaches to teaching practice • facilitating learning of literacy and numeracy skills in diverse contexts • seeking and using feedback to improve ideas • seeking appropriate resources and materials
Planning and organising	• collecting, analysing and organising information from learners and others • planning a sequence of learning activities consistent with a conceptual framework • planning and organising learning sessions that provide multiple opportunities for learners to develop a range of skills
Self-management	• complying with requirements, codes of practice and organisational policies and procedures • monitoring and evaluating own performance • participating in continuous improvement processes

Learning	- contributing to the learning of others - learning new skills to accommodate change - maintaining currency and relevance of knowledge - reflecting on and improving own professional practice - seeking expert advice on behalf of others
Technology	- assisting learners to use technology for their own purposes - developing teaching skills in using standard desktop applications - using a wide range of online and computer-based learning technologies - using record-keeping and reporting systems

Descriptor

This qualification reflects the role of individuals who apply highly specialised skills and knowledge in the field of adult language, literacy and numeracy practice. In these roles, they generate and evaluate complex ideas through the analysis of policy, information and concepts at an abstract level; and design and implement appropriate responses through a combination of research, targeted strategies for language, literacy and numeracy programs in different contexts, and the application of teaching practices.

This qualification uses the term 'adult literacy and numeracy' to mean the skills required to understand and use various forms of print and digital text in day-to-day activities at home, at work and in the community (OECD, 2001).

The qualification uses the term 'language' to talk about speaking, listening, reading, writing and visual communication skills. In its broadest sense, language involves the words, verbal structures and gestures we use to convey meaning. We are also talking about using words and grammatical structures and other meaning support systems (e.g. gestures when speaking and listening, punctuation and formatting when reading and writing) to make meaning or to understand somebody else's meaning. (Taking the Lead, 2006)

This qualification responds to the need for all practitioners to have a set of strategies to meet learners' language development needs. This is not language in the strict sense of language acquisition (as defined within the TESOL discipline), but rather the development of relevant and appropriate language repertoires depending on the context.

The diversity of learners attending adult language, literacy and numeracy provision requires effective and innovative educational leaders, program managers and researchers with responsibility for adult language, literacy and numeracy policy development and response, and program design and review. TAE80110 Vocational Graduate Diploma of Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Leadership develops the skills and knowledge required to fulfil this responsibility in these roles.

Adult language, literacy and numeracy delivery contexts include vocational education settings, workplaces, and the community. A range of training organisations (public, not-for-profit, community and private) provides adult language, literacy and numeracy skills development.

This qualification may apply to those in roles with responsibility for adult language, literacy and numeracy policy development and response, as well as program design and review. Job roles and titles vary across different organisational contexts. Possible job titles and roles relevant to this qualification include:

- adult literacy and numeracy teacher or leader, training organisation
- practitioner or coordinator, Workplace English Language and Literacy (WELL) program
- senior educator, teaching and learning, training organisation
- adult literacy and numeracy learning resource developer
- program coordinator, training organisation
- educational consultant
- workforce development leader
- policy advisor on language, literacy and numeracy.

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Determine assessment approach	1.1 Identify candidate and confirm purposes and context of assessment/RPL with relevant people according to legal, organisational and ethical requirements 1.2 Identify and access benchmarks for assessment/RPL and any specific assessment guidelines
2. Prepare the assessment plan	2.1 Determine evidence and types of evidence needed to demonstrate competence, according to the rules of evidence 2.2 Select assessment methods which will support the collection of defined evidence, taking into account the context in which the assessment will take place 2.3 Document all aspects of the assessment plan and confirm with relevant personnel
3. Develop assessment instruments	3.1 Develop simple assessment instruments to meet target group needs 3.2 Analyse available assessment instruments for their suitability for use and modify as required 3.3 Map assessment instruments against unit or course requirements 3.4 Write clear instructions for candidate about the use of the instruments 3.5 Trial draft assessment instruments to validate content and applicability, and record outcomes

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- cognitive interpretation skills to:
 - interpret competency standards and other assessment documentation, including material

- relating to reasonable adjustment
- identify opportunities for integrated competency assessment
- contextualise competency standards to the operating assessment environment, including RPL
- consider access and equity needs of diverse candidates
- technology skills to use appropriate equipment and software to communicate effectively with others
- research and evaluation skills to:
 - obtain competency standards, assessment tools and other relevant assessment resources
 - research candidate characteristics and any reasonable adjustment needs
 - evaluate feedback, and determine and implement improvements to processes
- literacy skills to read and interpret relevant information to design and facilitate assessment and recognition processes
- communication skills to discuss assessment, including RPL processes with clients and other assessors
- interpersonal skills to:
 - demonstrate sensitivity to access and equity considerations and candidate diversity
 - promote and implement equity, fairness, validity, reliability and flexibility in planning an assessment processes.
- Required knowledge
- ethical and legal requirements of an assessor
- competency-based assessment, including:
 - work focused
 - criterion referenced
 - standards based
 - evidence based
- different purposes of assessment and different assessment contexts, including RPL
- how to read and interpret the identified competency standards as the benchmarks for assessment
- how to contextualise competency standards within relevant guidelines
- four principles of assessment and how they guide the assessment process
- purpose and features of evidence, and different types of evidence used in competency-based assessments, including RPL
- rules of evidence and how they guide evidence collection
- different types of assessment methods, including suitability for collecting various types of evidence
- assessment instruments and their purpose; different types of instruments; relevance of different instruments for specific evidence-gathering opportunities.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	• Evidence of the ability to: • plan and organise the assessment process on a minimum of two occasions • collect evidence that demonstrates: • documented assessment plans • having covered a range of assessment events • catering for a number of candidates • different competency standards or accredited curricula • an RPL assessment • contextualisation of competency standards and the selected assessment tools, where required • incorporation of reasonable adjustment strategies • development of simple assessment instruments for use in the process • organisational arrangements.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided. Assessment must ensure access to training products, such as training packages and accredited course documentation.
Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Purposes of assessment/ RPL may include:	• recognising current existing competence of candidates • determining if competence has been achieved following learning • establishing candidate progress towards achievement of competence • determining language, literacy and numeracy needs of candidates • certifying competence through a qualification or Statement of Attainment • licensing or regulatory requirements.
Context of assessment/ RPL may include:	• environment in which the assessment/RPL will be carried out, including real or simulated workplace • opportunities for collecting evidence in a number of situations • relationships between competency standards and: • evidence to support RPL • work activities in the candidate's workplace • learning activities • who carries out the assessment/RPL.
Organisational, legal and ethical requirements may include:	• assessment system policies and procedures • assessment strategy requirements • reporting, recording and retrieval systems for assessment, including RPL • quality assurance systems • business and performance plans • access and equity policies and procedures • collaborative and partnership arrangements • defined resource parameters • mutual recognition arrangements • industrial relations systems and processes, awards, and enterprise agreements • Australian Quality Training Framework • registration scope • human resources policies and procedures • legal requirements, including: • anti-discrimination • equal employment opportunity • job role, responsibilities and conditions • relevant industry codes of practice • confidentiality and privacy requirements • OHS considerations, including: • ensuring OHS requirements are adhered to during the assessment process identifying and reporting OHS hazards and concerns to relevant personnel.

Benchmarks for assessment/RPL may include:	- criterion against which the candidate is assessed or prior learning recognised, which may be: - competency standard/unit of competency - assessment criteria of course curricula - performance specifications of an enterprise or industry - product specifications.
Types of evidence may include:	- direct - indirect - supplementary.
Rules of evidence ensure that evidence collected is:	- valid - sufficient - authentic - current.
Assessment methods are the particular techniques used to gather evidence and may include:	- direct observation, for example: - real work/real time activities at the workplace - work activities in a simulated workplace environment - structured activities, for example: - simulation exercises and role-plays - projects - presentations - activity sheets - questioning, for example: - written questions, e.g. on a computer - interviews - self-assessment - verbal questioning - questionnaires - oral or written examinations (applicable at higher AQF levels) - portfolios of evidence, for example: - collection of work samples compiled by candidate - product with supporting documentation - historical evidence - journal or log book - information about life experience - review of products, for example: - testimonials and reports from employers and supervisors

	- evidence of training - authenticated prior achievements - interview with employer, supervisor, or peer.
Assessment plan may include:	- overall planning document describing: - what is to be assessed - when assessment is to take place - where assessment is to take place - how assessment is to take place.
Simple assessment instruments may include:	- instruments developed by an assessor as part of formative or summative assessment activities, including: - profiles of acceptable performance measures - templates and proformas - specific questions or activities - evidence and observation checklists - checklists for the evaluation of work samples - recognition portfolios - candidate self-assessment materials - instruments developed elsewhere that have been modified by the assessor for use with a particular client group.
Available assessment instruments may include:	- commercially available instruments - those created by others inside the registered training organisation.
Map assessment means:	showing a clear relationship between the evidence and the requirements of the unit.

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Prepare for assessment	1.1 Interpret assessment plan and confirm organisational, legal and ethical requirements for conducting assessment with relevant people 1.2 Access and interpret relevant benchmarks for assessment and nominated assessment tools to confirm the requirements for evidence to be collected 1.3 Arrange identified material and physical resource requirements according to assessment system policies and procedures 1.4 Organise specialist support required for assessment 1.5 Explain, discuss and agree details of the assessment plan with candidate
2. Gather quality evidence	2.1 Use agreed assessment methods and instruments to gather, organise and document evidence in a format suitable for determining competence 2.2 Apply the principles of assessment and rules of evidence in gathering quality evidence 2.3 Determine opportunities for evidence gathering in actual or simulated activities through consultation with the candidate and relevant personnel 2.4 Determine opportunities for integrated assessment activities and document any changes to assessment instruments where required
3. Support the candidate	3.1 Guide candidates in gathering their own evidence to support recognition of prior learning (RPL) 3.2 Use appropriate communication and interpersonal skills to develop a professional relationship with the candidate that reflects sensitivity to individual differences and enables two-way feedback 3.3 Make decisions on reasonable adjustments with the candidate, based on candidate's needs and characteristics 3.4 Access required specialist support in accordance with the assessment plan 3.5 Address any OHS risk to person or equipment immediately
4. Make the assessment decision	4.1 Examine collected evidence and evaluate it to ensure that it reflects the evidence required to demonstrate competence 4.2 Use judgement to infer whether competence has been demonstrated, based on the available evidence 4.3 Make assessment decision in line with agreed assessment procedures and according to agreed assessment plan 4.4 Provide clear and constructive feedback to candidate regarding the assessment decision and develop any follow-up action plan required

5. Record and report the assessment decision	5.1 Record assessment outcomes promptly and accurately 5.2 Complete and process an assessment report according to agreed assessment procedures 5.3 Inform other relevant parties of the assessment decision according to confidentiality conventions
6. Review the assessment process	6.1 Review the assessment process in consultation with relevant people to improve own future practice 6.2 Document and record the review according to relevant assessment system policies and procedures

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - break down competency standards
 - interpret assessment tools and other assessment information, including those used in RPL
 - identify candidate needs
 - make judgements based on assessment of available evidence
- observation skills to:
 - recognise candidate's prior learning
 - determine candidate's performance
 - identify when candidate may need assistance during the assessment processes
- research and evaluation skills to:
 - access required human and material resources for assessment
 - access assessment system policies and procedures
 - access RPL policies and procedures
 - evaluate evidence
 - evaluate assessment process
- cognitive skills to:
 - weigh up the evidence and make a judgement
 - consider and recommend reasonable adjustments
- decision-making skills to:
 - recognise a candidate's prior learning

- make a decision on a candidate's competence
- literacy skills to:
 - read and interpret relevant information to conduct assessment
 - prepare required documentation and records or reports of assessment outcomes in required format
- communication and interpersonal skills to:
 - explain the assessment, including RPL process
 - give clear and precise instructions
 - ask effective questions
 - provide clarification
 - discuss process with other relevant people
 - give appropriate feedback
 - discuss assessment outcome
 - use language appropriate to candidate and assessment environment
 - establish a working relationship with candidate.

Required knowledge

- competency-based assessment, including:
 - vocational education and training as a competency-based system
 - criterion-referenced assessment as distinct from norm-referenced assessment
 - competency standards as the basis of qualifications
 - structure and application of competency standards
 - principles of assessment and how they are applied
 - rules of evidence and how they are applied
 - range of assessment purposes and assessment contexts, including RPL
 - different assessment methods, including suitability for gathering various types of evidence, suitability for content of units, and resource requirements and associated costs
 - reasonable adjustments and when they are applicable
 - types and forms of evidence, including assessment instruments that are relevant to gathering different types of evidence used in competency-based assessment, including RPL
 - potential barriers and processes relating to assessment tools and methods
 - assessment system, including policies and procedures established by the industry, organisation or training authority
- RPL policies and procedures established by the organisation
- cultural sensitivity and equity considerations
- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards, including commonwealth and state or territory legislation that may affect training and assessment in the vocational education and training sector, such as:
 - copyright and privacy laws in terms of electronic technology
 - security of information

- plagiarism
- training packages and competency standards
- licensing requirements
- industry and workplace requirements
- duty of care under common law
- recording information and confidentiality requirements
- anti-discrimination, including equal employment opportunity, racial vilification and disability discrimination
- workplace relations
- industrial awards and enterprise agreements
- OHS responsibilities associated with assessing competence, such as:
 - requirements for reporting hazards and incidents
 - emergency procedures
 - procedures for use of relevant personal protective equipment
 - safe use and maintenance of relevant equipment
 - sources of OHS information.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • assess competence of a number of candidates within the vocational education and training context against different units of competency or accredited curricula, following the relevant assessment plan • assess at least one candidate for RPL • consider reasonable adjustment and the reasons for decisions in at least one assessment • cover an entire unit of competency and show: • the application of different assessment methods and instruments involving a range of assessment activities and events • two-way communication and feedback • how judgement was exercised in making the assessment decision • how and when assessment outcomes were recorded and reported

	- assessment records and reports completed in accordance with assessment system and organisational, legal and ethical requirements - how the assessment process was reviewed.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace whenever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.
Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Assessment plan may include:	- overall planning, describing: - what is to be assessed - when assessment is to take place - where assessment is to take place - how assessment is to take place.
Benchmarks for assessment:	- refer to a criterion against which the candidate is assessed - may be a competency standard/unit of competency, assessment criteria of course curricula, performance specifications, or product specifications.
Assessment tools include:	- the learning or competency unit(s) to be assessed - the target group, context and conditions for the assessment - the tasks to be administered to the candidate - an outline of the evidence to be gathered from the candidate - the evidence criteria used to judge the quality of performance (i.e. the assessment decision-making rules) - the administration, recording and reporting requirements - the evidence of how validity and reliability have been tested and built into the design and use of the tool.

Specialist support may include:	• assistance by third party, such as carer or interpreter • support from specialist educator • provision of developed online assessment activities • support for remote or isolated candidates and assessors • support from subject matter or safety experts • advice from regulatory authorities • assessment teams and panels • support from lead assessors • advice from policy development experts.
Assessment methods include:	• particular techniques used to gather different types of evidence, such as: • direct observation • structured activities • oral or written questioning • portfolios of evidence • review of products • third-party feedback.
Individual differences may include:	• English language, literacy and numeracy barriers • physical impairment or disability • intellectual impairment or disability • medical condition that may impact on assessment, such as arthritis, epilepsy, diabetes and asthma • learning difficulties • mental or psychological disability • religious and spiritual observances • cultural images and perceptions • age • gender.
Feedback may include:	• ensuring assessment/RPL process is understood • ensuring candidate concerns are addressed • enabling questions and answers • confirming outcomes • identifying further evidence to be provided • discussing action plans • confirming gap training needed • providing information regarding available appeal processes • suggesting improvements in evidence gathering and presentation.

Consultation may involve:	• moderation with other assessors, or training and assessment coordinators • discussions with client, team leaders, managers, RPL coordinators, supervisors, coaches and mentors • technical and subject experts • English language, literacy and numeracy experts.

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Prepare for validation	1.1 Discuss and confirm the approach to validation according to defined purposes, context, and relevant assessment system policies and procedures 1.2 Analyse relevant benchmarks for assessment and agree on the evidence needed to demonstrate competence 1.3 Arrange materials for validation activities
2. Contribute to validation process	2.1 Demonstrate active participation in validation sessions and activities using appropriate communication skills 2.2 Participate in validation sessions and activities by applying the principles of assessment and rules of evidence 2.3 Check all documents used in the validation process for accuracy and version control
3. Contribute to validation outcomes	3.1 Collectively discuss validation findings to support improvements in the quality of assessment 3.2 Discuss, agree and record recommendations to improve assessment practice 3.3 Implement changes to own assessment practice, arising from validation

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- planning skills to participate in validation activities within agreed timeframes
- problem-solving skills to identify information that is inconsistent, ambiguous or contradictory
- evaluation skills to:
 - determine evidence requirements from competency standards
 - review assessment process, tools and methods
 - review collected evidence
- communication skills to share information in validation meetings.

Required knowledge

- how to interpret competency standards and other related assessment information to determine the evidence needed to demonstrate competence, including:
 - criterion-referenced assessment as distinct from norm-referenced assessment

- various reasons for carrying out validation and the different approaches to validation that may be appropriate before, during and after assessment
- critical aspects of validation, including validation of assessment processes, methods and products
- relevant OHS legislation, codes of practice, standards and guidelines, impacting on assessment
- legal and ethical requirements of assessors, particularly in relation to validation activities
- principles of assessment
- rules of evidence.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • actively participate in a minimum of two validation sessions or meetings which, in combination, address the critical aspects of validation using different validation approaches and activities • clearly explain purposes of validation and the legal and ethical responsibilities of assessors • collate documentation relating to validation process in a logical manner • demonstrate communication and liaison with relevant people • provide feedback and interpret documentation in validation sessions • record contribution to validation findings.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided. Assessment must ensure access to: • assessment reports and records • other documentation relevant to validation.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Assessment system policies and procedures may include:	• candidate selection • rationale and purpose of competency-based assessment • assessment records, and data and information management • recognition of current competency, recognition of prior learning and credit arrangements • assessment reporting procedures • assessment appeals • candidate grievances and complaints • validation • evaluation and internal audit • costs and resourcing • access and equity, and reasonable adjustment • partnership arrangements • links with human resource or industrial relations system • links with overall quality management system.
Benchmarks for assessment:	• refers to criterion against which the candidate is assessed • may be one or more units of competency or assessment criteria of course curricula.
Materials may include:	• assessment tools • samples of collected evidence • documentation outlining the basis of assessment decisions • reports and records of assessment decisions • samples of benchmarks of appropriate evidence • Assessment Guidelines of the relevant training packages • information from the evidence guide of the relevant units of competency.
Validation activities may include:	• analysing and reviewing: • assessment tools • collected evidence • assessment decisions and records of assessment outcomes

	• other aspects of assessment policies, processes and outcomes • recording evidence of validation processes and outcomes.
Participation may include comparison and evaluation of:	• assessment practices • assessment plans • interpretation of units of competency • assessment methods and instruments • assessment decisions • collected evidence.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Develop and extend assessment expertise	1.1 Access, read and analyse current research on assessment and incorporate into own practice 1.2 Source and access opportunities to extend assessment experience and expertise and incorporate this new knowledge and skill into own assessment practice
2. Practise assessment	2.1 Demonstrate a range of assessment methods in assessment practice in order to meet the requirements of the related unit or units of competency 2.2 Demonstrate the use of a range of assessment tools to meet the context requirements of a range of candidates
3. Lead and influence other assessors	3.1 Influence fellow assessors through modelling high standards of ethical and compliance practices 3.2 Establish professional development needs of the assessor group and implement approaches to build the skills and experience of the group
4. Evaluate and improve assessment approaches	4.1 Systematically monitor the assessment processes and activities of the assessor group 4.2 Propose and implement improvements to assessment approaches 4.3 Participate in and reflect upon assessment moderation process

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - evaluate assessment methods and tools
 - access and interpret organisation's standards and values
 - analyse the effectiveness of the organisation's assessment process
- communication skills to:
 - to influence others
 - promote and implement quality standards
 - guide and support assessors one on one
 - communicate appropriately with people from diverse backgrounds

- conflict resolution skills to:
 - manage difficulties with and between assessors and between assessors, candidate or others
 - address appeals situations and processes
- evaluation skills to:
 - evaluate validation process and determine and implement improvements
 - systematically evaluate own or others' practice to improve performance or understanding
- literacy skills to:
 - read, interpret and evaluate policies and procedures to monitor assessment and recognition processes
 - prepare required documentation and information for those involved in the assessment process
- leadership skills to:
 - influence and motivate others
 - guide and support others
 - manage conflict
 - make informed decisions and recommendations
- problem solving skills to:
 - anticipate future implications for own and others' decisions
 - reliably evaluate alternative solutions
- research skills to:
 - determine sampling methods to be used to access information
 - access and analyse relevant documents
- team and group skills to:
 - build relationships and networks with colleagues
 - encourage, accept and utilise feedback.

Required knowledge

- competency-based assessment, including:
 - vocational education and training as a competency based system
 - competency standards as the basis of qualifications
 - the principles of competency based assessment
 - assessment which is criterion referenced as distinct from norm-referenced assessment
 - reporting of competency based assessment
- how to interpret units of competency and other related assessment information to determine the evidence needed to demonstrate competency, including:
 - the components of competency
 - assessment of Employability Skills, dimensions of competency
 - all components of a national Training Package
- Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) requirements for assessment

- the organisation's assessment system policies and procedures
- different assessment methods, purposes and applications
- appeals mechanisms within the organisation
- different types of assessment tools, what tools work for what types of evidence, what are the characteristics of well constructed assessment tools
- principles of assessment and how they guide assessment, validation, appeals processes
- assessment strategies and assessment plans and their components
- applications of technology to improve or assist in quality assessment
- roles and responsibilities of workplace trainers, facilitators, assessors and others, such as vocational experts, workplace supervisors and support persons in the assessment process
- strategies which ensure the assessment process is transparent and credible
- legal, organisational and ethical responsibilities associated with the assessment system, including:
 - maintaining client privacy and confidentiality
 - providing accurate information
 - duty of care under common law
 - compliance with AQTF requirements
 - copyright and privacy laws, including the use of electronic technology.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the assessment guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • undertake the assessment of at least 20 individual candidates against a total of at least 50 units of competency from training packages or accredited courses • document accurately the outcomes of all of the assessments undertaken • lead assessment among a group or team of assessors, consisting of at least five (5) individuals and demonstrate how that leadership has led to improved processes and outcomes • critically review the assessment processes and approaches taken in these assessments and propose changes to improve both processes and outcomes.

Method of assessment	Critical aspects of evidence for the 3 units: • TAEDEL502A Provide advanced facilitation practice, • TAEASS501A Provide advanced assessment practice, and • TAEPDD501A Maintain and enhance professional practice are intended to be assessed in the context of a 'practicum'. A holistic assessment covering these three units can be accessed on the IBSA website to support such assessment.
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

A range of assessment methods may include:	• observation • portfolios • practical and theoretical tests • product development review • simulations such as: • hypotheticals • problem-based exercises

	• simulated 'real world' scenarios • structured aural/written questioning techniques, such as invitation, exploration, confirmation, investigation and reflection • structured activities such as role-plays, presentations, completion of assessment activity sheets • third party feedback • workplace projects.
Assessment tools include:	• the learning or competency unit(s) to be assessed • the target group, context and conditions for the assessment • the tasks to be administered to the candidate • an outline of the evidence to be gathered from the candidate • the evidence criteria used to judge the quality of performance (i.e. the assessment decision-making rules) • the administration, recording and reporting requirements. • the evidence of how validity and reliability have been tested and built into the design and use of the tool.
Ethical and compliance practices may include:	• access and equity principles and practice • AQTF standards relating to assessment and registration • assessment specifications of training packages • Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) Guidelines • certification procedures and requirements • clauses defining assessment operations in award and enterprise agreements and relevant industrial arrangements • collaborative or partnership arrangements • confidentiality and privacy requirements • defined resource parameters • environmental issues • equal opportunity requirements • ethical standards • industrial relations and anti-discrimination • maintaining and retrieving assessment information • OHS policies, procedures and programs • quality and continuous improvement processes and standards • recording and reporting assessment results

	• state or territory registering body requirements.
Approaches may include:	• attending forums, conferences, workshops • networking through assessor networks, communities of practice and membership of representative organisations • participating in projects • professional and staff development activities.
Assessment processes may include:	• access and equity processes • assessment appeals procedures • assessment records, data and information management • assessment reporting procedures • candidate grievances or complaints procedures • candidate selection • evaluation • internal auditing • links with human resource or industrial relations systems • links with overall quality management system • partnership arrangements • rationale and purpose of competency-based assessment • reasonable adjustment • recognition of current competency, recognition of prior learning, credit arrangements • resourcing • validation processes.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to design and develop assessment tools, including tools used in formative, summative and recognition of prior learning (RPL) assessment.

Application of the Unit

An assessment tool is used to guide the collection of quality evidence in the assessment process. It includes the specific instruments for collecting evidence, as well as information about assessment methods and the procedures to be followed in conducting the assessment.

This unit typically applies to those involved in training and assessment or in the development of learning resources or products, assessors, learning resource or product developers, and training and assessment consultants.

is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Determine focus of the assessment tool	1.1 Identify target group of candidates, purposes of assessment tool, and contexts in which the tool will be used 1.2 Access relevant benchmarks for assessment and interpret them to establish evidence required to demonstrate competence 1.3 Identify, access and interpret organisational, legal and ethical requirements and relevant contextualisation guidelines 1.4 Identify other related documentation to inform assessment tool development
2. Design assessment tool	2.1 Select assessment methods that support the collection of defined evidence, taking into account the context in which the assessment will take place and meeting the principles of assessment 2.2 Enable candidates to show or support their claim for recognition of current competency through selected assessment methods 2.3 Consider different assessment instruments for the selected assessment methods to generate options for collection of evidence 2.4 Consider how the assessment instruments will be administered
3. Develop assessment tool	3.1 Develop specific assessment instruments that address the evidence to be collected 3.2 Define and document clear and specific procedures instructing assessor and candidate on the administration and use of the instruments 3.3 Consider requirements of assessment system policies and procedures and address storage and retrieval needs, and review, evaluation and version control procedures as part of this process
4. Review and trial assessment tool	4.1 Check draft assessment tools against evaluation criteria and amend as required 4.2 Trial assessment tools to validate content and applicability 4.3 Collect and document feedback from relevant people involved in trialling 4.4 Make amendments to final tool based on analysis of feedback

	4.5 Appropriately format and file finalised assessment tool according to assessment system policies and procedures and organisational, legal and ethical requirements

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to review and evaluate assessment tools
- critical thinking skills to translate the interpreted competency standards and other relevant assessment information into meaningful assessment instruments
- design skills to develop different assessment tool designs
- research and evaluation skills to evaluate assessment tools on the basis of trials and feedback.

Required knowledge

- principles of assessment and how they are applied when developing assessment tools
- different types and rules of evidence
- different assessment contexts and relationship to developing assessment tools
- components of competency and dimensions of competency
- contextualisation of competency standards and contextualisation guidelines
- Assessment Guidelines of training packages as relevant to developing assessment tools
- different assessment methods, their purposes and uses
- evaluation methodologies appropriate to the trial and review of assessment tools
- principles of reasonable adjustment
- relevant workplace information, including:
 - organisational policies and procedures
 - workplace tasks and activities
 - standard operating procedures
 - procedures for use of relevant personal protective equipment.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: - develop assessment tools that support different assessment methods and address at least three units of competency packaged at different Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) levels - develop assessment tools that: - include the instruments for collecting evidence, reflecting the principles of assessment and the rules of evidence, and the related instructions to assessor/s and candidates - show how the contextual needs of different environments are addressed - report on the trial and review of the assessment tools, including proposed changes.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided. Assessment must ensure access to: training products, such as training packages and accredited course documentation.
Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Assessment tool includes:	• the learning or competency unit(s) to be assessed • the target group, context and conditions for the assessment • the tasks to be administered to the candidate • an outline of the evidence to be gathered from the candidate • the evidence criteria used to judge the quality of performance (i.e. the assessment decision-making rules) • the administration, recording and reporting requirements • the evidence of how validity and reliability have been tested and built into the design and use of the tool.
Contexts of assessment/RPL may include:	• environment in which the assessment/RPL will be carried out, including real or simulated workplace • opportunities for collecting evidence in a number of situations • relationships between competency standards and evidence to support RPL • who carries out the assessment/RPL • relationships between competency standards and work activities in the candidate's workplace • relationships between competency standards and learning activities.
Benchmarks for assessment:	• refer to criteria against which the candidate is assessed which may be a unit of competency, assessment criteria of course curricula, performance specifications, or product specifications • where the benchmark is one or more units of competency the standards may be contextualised to reflect the immediate operating environment.
Organisational, legal and ethical requirements may include:	• assessment system policies and procedures • industrial relations systems and processes, awards and enterprise agreements • licensing and legal ramifications of assessing competence • reporting, recording and retrieval systems for assessment • requirements of training, assessment and validation, including the AQTF Standards for Registered Training Organisations • human resource policies, procedures and legal requirements, including: • anti-discrimination • equal employment opportunity • job role, responsibilities and conditions • relevant industry codes of practice • confidentiality and privacy requirements of information relating to completed assessments

	• OHS considerations, including: • ensuring assessment methods and tools incorporate appropriate measures to maintain the health, safety and welfare of candidates • ensuring OHS requirements and specified benchmarks are accounted for within evidence requirements and assessment materials • identifying hazards and relevant risk control procedures associated with the assessment environment.
Contextualisation guidelines relate to:	• relevant training package or accredited course contextualisation guidelines.
Related documentation may include:	• requirements set out in the Assessment Guidelines of the relevant training packages • information from the competency standards about: • resources required for assessment • assessment context • appropriate assessment methods • assessment activities identified in accredited modules derived from the relevant competency standards • assessment activities in support materials related to the relevant competency standards • any requirements of OHS, legislation, codes of practice, standards and guidelines • indicators and levels of competence of the Australian Core Skills Framework • organisational requirements for demonstration of work performance • product specifications.
Assessment instrument may be:	• profiles of acceptable performance measures • templates and proformas • specific questions or activities • evidence and observation checklists • checklists for the evaluation of work samples • recognition portfolios • candidate self-assessment materials.

Procedures may include:	• those that guide the application of the instruments, such as: • instructions for the candidates • instructions for administering the assessment tool, including resources needed to conduct assessment and the context for the use of tools • guidance for development or review of decision-making process • guidance on reasonable adjustments • specified variations or restrictions on the tools • rules for verifying assessment decisions • OHS requirements, for example, identified hazards in the assessment environment and appropriate controls and reporting mechanisms • information on access and equity considerations.
Assessment system policies and procedures may include:	• assessment records, and data and information management • recognition of current competency, RPL and credit arrangements • assessor needs, qualifications and maintenance of currency • assessment reporting procedures • assessment appeals • candidate grievances and complaints • validation • evaluation and internal audit • costs and resourcing • access and equity, and reasonable adjustment • partnership arrangements • links with human resource or industrial relations systems • links with overall quality management system.
Evaluation criteria may include:	• effectiveness and relevance to the competency standards • whether assessment tool is appropriate to selected assessment methods • whether assessment tool is appropriate to target group and assessment context • appropriateness of language and literacy for intended audience.

Modification History

Version	Comments

TAEASS503A	Released with TAE10 Training and Education Training Package version 2.0

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to provide leadership in assessment validation processes.

Application of the Unit

This unit typically applies to those who assess.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

Not applicable.

Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Monitor assessment practice	1.1 Work with colleagues to systematically monitor assessment practice 1.2 Actively engage with and support other assessors as they work to improve assessment practice 1.3 Analyse assessment records ensuring legal, organisational and ethical requirements are being met and appropriate advice is provided to improve record keeping
2. Coordinate assessment validation activities	2.1 Initiate validation in line with National Quality Council guidelines and organisational, legal and ethical requirements 2.2 Undertake risk assessment and analysis to determine the purpose, focus and context of validation activities 2.3 Consider and determine approaches to validation 2.4 Determine and confirm participants in validation and organise any materials and resources needed for validation 2.5 Provide guidance to support participants throughout the validation process 2.6 Finalise and process validation documentation in accordance with assessment system, legal and organisational procedures and present to relevant people, within an agreed timeframe 2.7 Identify recommendations from validation processes and forward to the appropriate authority

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

- analysis and interpretation skills to analyse the effectiveness of the organisation's assessment validation process
- communication skills to:
 - influence others
 - promote and implement quality standards
- evaluation skills to evaluate validation process and determine and implement improvements
- leadership skills to:
 - influence and motivate others
 - gain commitment to validation processes and make recommendations to improve processes
- literacy skills to prepare required documentation and information for those involved in the assessment validation process

- problem solving skills to reliably evaluate alternative solutions to validation issues
- research skills to use a range of source documents to access information for validation
- team and group skills to:
 - build relationships and networks with colleagues
 - encourage, accept and utilise feedback.

Required knowledge

- Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) requirements for assessment
- the organisation's assessment system policies and procedures, including validation processes
- different types of assessment tools, what are well-constructed assessment tools and why, what assessment methods and instruments work for what types of evidence
- rules of evidence and why they are important, particularly in a validation context
- assessment strategies and assessment plans and their components
- purpose and focus of carrying out validation, different approaches to assessment validation and the critical aspects of validation
- different activities and tools for validation
- legal, organisational and ethical responsibilities associated with the assessment system.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • provide support to other assessors, including modelling good assessment and validation practice • contribute positively to the work of assessors and others involved in carrying out assessments and validation • take responsibility for initiating, organising and facilitating assessment validation on at least three occasions • use outcomes of validation and appeals to improve assessment practice.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Systematically monitor assessment practice may include:	• how effectively and accurately the designated competency standards are being interpreted by assessors as the benchmarks for assessment • how the principles of assessment are being applied in assessment practice • assessors' application of assessment tools • how the rules of evidence are being applied in gathering evidence • whether assessment is being conducted in accord with the policies and procedures of the organisation's assessment system • whether National Quality Council, organisational, legal and ethical requirements are being met.
Purpose, focus and context of validation activities may include:	• part of organisational quality assurance arrangements • addressing an identified area of risk in assessment practice and quality • demonstrating compliance with the AQTF Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) • providing evidence for external audit • providing evidence for internal audit • improving assessment practices • evaluating the quality of assessment tools • providing professional development for assessors • increasing assessor confidence • determining whether different assessors using the same tools collect the same types and levels of evidence • determining whether different assessors interpret the same evidence similarly determining whether assessment decisions reflect the rules of evidence.

Approaches to validation may include:	- analysing and reviewing assessment tools - analysing and reviewing collected evidence - analysing and reviewing assessment decisions and records of assessment outcomes - examining assessment records - examining assessment systems - discussing the assessment process, issues and difficulties in interpretation - holding interviews with each other or with management, trainers or facilitators, candidates - analysing client feedback - observing assessment conduct - using validation tools - reviewing and interpreting Assessment Guidelines in training packages - examining assessor qualifications - analysing appeals processes - recording evidence of validation processes and outcomes.
Materials and resources may include:	- relevant documented assessment strategy - samples of assessment tools - copies of relevant units of competency, modules, Training Package Assessment Guidelines and course assessment requirements - copies of validation checklists and other tools - copies of organisational policies and procedures on validation - copies of relevant AQTF standards - copies of client or candidate feedback - technology requirements - facilities for conduct of validation.
Validation documentation may include:	- reports of validation process - recommendations from validation process - copies of resources used in validation process.

TAEASS504A Develop and implement recognition strategies

Modification History

Version	Comments

TAEASS504A	Released with TAE10 Training and Education Training Package version 2.0

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to develop and implement a recognition strategy in the context of organisational development. It requires the ability to prepare information and advice on recognition, to identify evidence gathering opportunities and to evaluate a recognition-based assessment process. It also focuses on continuously improving recognition processes within an organisation.

Application of the Unit

This unit typically applies to those who have a role in developing procedures and documentation for recognition-based assessment for an organisation.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Analyse job descriptions and workplace performance measures of an organisation	1.1 Compile information on job descriptions and source data on individuals' work performance 1.2 Review performance appraisal processes and documentation in an organisation and align to units of competency 1.3 Investigate opportunities for evidence gathering in the workplace of an organisation
2. Determine the range of evidence that can contribute to recognition for a unit of competency	2.1 Interpret the work performance, applied skills and knowledge requirements for a unit of competency 2.2 Nominate sources and types of evidence that comply with the rules of evidence and Evidence Guide for a unit of competency
3. Prepare a recognition package for employees of an organisation	3.1 Interpret and explain organisational policies and procedures for recognition 3.2 Contextualise the performance requirements for a unit of competency for employees in an organisation 3.3 Document exemplars and evidence lists to support candidates in their application for recognition 3.4 Provide advice and support to managers to facilitate collection of workplace evidence for recognition
4. Monitor recognition-based assessment for a unit of competency	4.1 Monitor the evidence collection process for a unit of competency 4.2 Monitor decision making in assessment against organisational policies and procedures 4.3 Monitor feedback provided to the candidate
5. Evaluate an organisations recognition-based assessment procedures	5.1 Conduct a review of the advice to candidates and employers 5.2 Review compiled evidence lists in terms of their applicability and the evidence generated 5.3 Gather and analyse client feedback as part of continuous improvement 5.4 Gather feedback from the employing organisation and candidate on the organisations recognition services 5.5 Review recognition processes, inputs and practice against the organisations policies 5.6 Identify changes and enhancements and amend organisations policies, procedures and/or the recognition package

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - unpack competency standards
 - interpret job description and performance appraisal information and map to units of competency
 - identify candidate needs
- communication skills to:
 - explain the recognition process to the candidate
 - give clear and precise instructions and advice
 - discuss the recognition process with other relevant people
 - discuss the assessment outcome with the candidate
- literacy skills to:
 - read and interpret relevant information to conduct recognition-based assessment
 - prepare required documentation and records/reports of recognition outcomes in the required format
- research and evaluation skills to:
 - research workplace sources of evidence
 - access recognition policies and procedures
 - evaluate evidence
 - evaluate the recognition process.

Required knowledge

- recognition-based assessment including:
 - the criteria used in national VET; endorsed or accredited competency standards defining specifications for performance of work and work functions which include skills and knowledge
 - units of competency as the basis of qualifications
 - the principles of recognition and evidence-based assessment
 - the structure and application of competency standards
- how to interpret competency standards and other related assessment information to determine the evidence required to demonstrate competency including:
 - the components of competency

- Training Package Assessment Guidelines
- the organisations assessment system, policies and procedures
- different types of recognition approaches and tools
- the principles of assessment and how they guide assessment, validation and appeals processes
- assessment validation
- roles and responsibilities in the recognition process, including OHS obligations and duty of care
- legal, organisational and ethical responsibilities associated with the assessment system, including:
 - maintaining client privacy and confidentiality
 - providing accurate information
 - duty of care under common law
 - compliance with AQTF requirements
 - copyright and privacy laws, including the use of electronic technology.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	• Evidence of the ability to: • Develop, implement and review two recognition strategies for different unit(s) of competency in an organisational context • Document accurately: • the advice to assessors and candidates, and • the recognition tools and the evaluation instruments for the recognition assessments undertaken • Critically review an organisations recognition-based assessment processes: • evaluate the approaches taken, and • prepare a report detailing proposed changes to improve both the processes and outcomes.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

1. Develop and extend assessment expertise	1.1 Access, read and analyse current research on assessment and incorporate into own practice 1.2 Source and access opportunities to extend assessment experience and expertise and incorporate this new knowledge and skill into own assessment practice
2. Lead assessment activities	2.1 Assessment strategies are developed and confirmed in assessment-only pathways 2.2 Roles, responsibilities and accountabilities of relevant persons in assessment are discussed and confirmed 2.3 AQTF and organisational requirements relating to the competence of assessors are confirmed and documented 2.4 Where required, partnership arrangements are initiated and developed, setting out identified roles, responsibilities and services to be provided 2.5 Strategies for communication and networking are established and maintained with and between assessors 2.6 Leadership skills are used to provide clear direction, advice and support to assessors 2.7 Professional development needs and opportunities for assessors are identified and recommendations made to relevant personnel
3. Monitor assessment practice	3.1 Assessment practice of assessors is systematically monitored in relation to: • how client/candidate needs are being met • how effectively and accurately the designated competency standards are being interpreted by assessors as the benchmarks for assessment • how the principles of assessment are being applied in assessment practice • assessors' application of assessment methods and assessment tools • how the rules of evidence are being applied in gathering evidence • whether assessment is being conducted in accord with the policies and procedures of the organisation's assessment system • whether organisational/legal/ethical requirements are being met

	3.2 Individual facilitation techniques are used to guide and support assessors as they work and to improve assessment practice
4. Coordinate assessment validation activities	4.1 Assessment system policies and procedures relating to validation are accessed and interpreted, and validation is initiated in line with organisational/legal/ethical requirements 4.2 Risk assessment/analysis is undertaken to determine the purpose, focus and context of validation activities 4.3 Approaches to validation are considered and determined 4.4 Participants in validation are determined and/or confirmed, and materials and resources needed for validation activities are organised 4.5 Guidance and leadership is provided to direct and support participants throughout the validation process 4.6 Validation documentation is finalised and processed in accordance with assessment system/legal/organisational procedures and presented to relevant people, within an agreed timeframe 4.7 Recommendations from validation processes are identified and forwarded to the appropriate authority
5. Manage assessment appeals	5.1 Assessment system policies and procedures for assessment appeals are accessed and interpreted 5.2 Documented appeal claims are accessed, read and interpreted 5.3 Relevant parties to the appeal are interviewed and negotiation skills are used to achieve resolution prior to formal appeal, where appropriate 5.4 Appeal panel is constituted and a timetable is set to hear unresolved claims 5.5 Guidance and leadership are provided to panel members and other parties during the appeal process to ensure fairness, equity, verity and relevance 5.6 All documentation relevant to the appeal process is checked for accuracy and completeness 5.7 Panel decision is confirmed and recorded in accordance with organisational policy and procedures and outcomes are communicated to the parties

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - evaluate assessment methods and tools
 - access and interpret organisation's standards and values
 - analyse the effectiveness of the organisation's assessment process
- communication skills to:
 - promote and implement quality standards
 - guide and support assessors one on one
- evaluation skills to:
 - evaluate validation process and determine and implement improvements
 - determine sampling methods to be used to access information
 - systematically evaluate personal or others' practice to improve performance or understanding
- literacy skills to:
 - read, interpret and evaluate policies and procedures to monitor assessment and recognition processes
 - prepare required documentation and information for those involved in the assessment process
- leadership skills to:
 - influence and motivate others
 - guide and support others
 - manage conflict
- problem solving skills to:
 - anticipate future implications for own and others' decisions
 - reliably evaluate alternative solutions
 - make informed decisions and recommendations
- research skills to:
 - determine sampling methods to be used to access information
 - access and analyse relevant documents
- team and group skills to:
 - build relationships and networks with colleagues
 - encourage, accept and utilise feedback.

Required knowledge

- competency based assessment including:
 - vocational education and training as a competency based system
 - the criterion used in national VET; endorsed or accredited competency

- standards defining specifications for performance of work and work functions which include skills and knowledge
- competency standards as the basis of qualifications
- the principles of competency based assessment
- assessment which is criterion referenced as distinct from norm-referenced assessment
- reporting of competency based assessment
- how to interpret competency standards and other related assessment information to determine the evidence needed to demonstrate competency including:
 - the components of competency
 - assessment of Employability Skills, dimensions of competency and OHS requirements
 - Training Package Assessment Guidelines
 - the qualification level of units
- AQTF requirement for assessment
- different assessment methods, purposes and applications
- different types of assessment tools, what tools work for what types of evidence, what are well-constructed assessment tools and why
- principles of assessment and how they guide assessment, validation, appeals processes
- assessment strategies and assessment plans and what are the components
- applications of technology to improve or assist in quality assessment
- roles and responsibilities of workplace trainers, facilitators, assessors and others, such as vocational experts, workplace supervisors and support persons in the assessment process
- strategies which ensure the assessment process is transparent and credible
- legal, organisational and ethical responsibilities associated with the assessment system.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • demonstrate continuing development of own assessment expertise • provide leadership, direction and support to other assessors, including role modelling good assessment practice • monitor the work of assessors and others involved in carrying out assessments • take responsibility for initiating, organising and facilitating assessment validation and appeals processes.

TAEASS801A Analyse, implement and evaluate e-assessment

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This Unit first released with TAE10 Training and Education Training Package version 3.0 .

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to analyse a range of technology-enabled assessment (e-assessment) options that are available for the design, delivery and administration of required assessment activities in an educational work group. It develops the advanced theoretical and technical knowledge required to evaluate e-assessment processes in that work group to ensure that they are fair, flexible, valid and reliable.

The unit provides guidelines for generating e-assessment strategies for diagnostic, formative and summative assessments.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to teachers, trainers, educators and facilitators wanting to develop the advanced theoretical and technical skills and knowledge to make use of e-assessment options in training.

They can use the skills and knowledge to analyse, implement, manage and evaluate the application of e-assessment processes that are fair, flexible, valid and reliable.

The unit is relevant to a range of assessment activities in small, medium or large organisations and for individuals, groups and organisations.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

Element	Performance Criteria
1. Analyse the learning context	1.1 Develop an understanding of the learners, their needs and the learning context 1.2 Review current assessment practice 1.3 Identify existing assessment resources
2. Plan to deliver e-assessment	2.1 Research types and suitability of e-assessment technologies for the required assessment 2.2 Identify the requirements for e-assessment 2.3 Plan online support for e-assessment 2.4 Ensure staff have the required skills and knowledge for e-assessment 2.5 Plan the scope of an e-assessment testing schedule 2.6 Source resources required to deliver the planned e-assessment 2.7 Assess and develop risk-management strategies for delivery of e-assessment
3. Design e-assessment tasks and processes	3.1 Select e-assessment appropriate for the learning context

Element	Performance Criteria
	3.2 Draft e-assessment resources 3.3 Design learner support materials for the planned tasks and resources 3.4 Identify tasks suitable for recognition of prior learning (RPL) options
4. Develop e-assessment tasks and processes	4.1 Prepare e-assessment tasks and processes 4.2 Prepare assessor resources for delivery 4.3 Trial e-assessment tasks and processes 4.4 Revise e-assessment resources based on trial feedback 4.5 Ensure the authenticity of the e-assessment tasks
5. Deliver e-assessment for learners	5.1 Clearly inform learners of assessment criteria 5.2 Manage the tasks associated with e-assessment
6. Evaluate the e-assessment process	6.1 Validate e-assessment tasks and processes 6.2 Evaluate e-assessment software and associated tools 6.3 Modify e-assessment processes as required to reflect evaluation

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- cognitive skills related to effective e-assessment to:
 - assess the impact of e-assessment
 - develop differentiated e-assessment programs
 - initiate self-directed learning and self-assessment
- communication skills to:
 - coach and mentor members of work group
 - conduct project-based activities
 - demonstrate effectiveness of e-assessment options
 - initiate and facilitate group discussions

- seek feedback on e-assessment designs and processes
- share ideas and information
- planning and organising skills to:
 - assess and develop risk-management strategies
 - develop e-assessment strategies for individuals, groups and organisations
 - provide diverse and relevant e-assessment options
- research skills to review a variety of e-assessment methods and their alignment to pedagogical theory and practice, learner interests and changing learning styles
- teamwork skills to:
 - collect and respond to feedback on e-assessment initiatives
 - develop solutions and resources to support e-assessment
 - monitor individual, group and organisation interactions in assessment process
- technology skills to:
 - ensure technology infrastructure will support e-assessment initiatives
 - identify and use appropriate e-assessment designs and software
 - undertake web-based e-assessment research
 - use online collaborative tools to support e-assessment initiatives.

Required knowledge

- contemporary policy and approaches to e-learning and e-assessment
- content and requirements of the relevant delivery and e-assessment strategies
- content of online learning resources and learning materials
- contexts where e-assessment can be used
- design and management of e-assessment resources
- e-assessment options that enhance learning and when to use them
- effective learning and assessment principles
- range of appropriate teaching, learning and assessment strategies, and an understanding of e-assessment methods
- range of learning styles suitable for e-assessment
- situations and contexts where e-assessment can be used
- sources and availability of relevant e-assessment resources and materials.

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the following is essential: • knowledge of effective assessment principles • construction of pedagogically sound contextually relevant e-assessment strategies and practices • research on theory and practice in relation to e-assessment, especially where these are enabled by new content solutions; and vocational education and training approaches or technologies.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: • competence is consistently demonstrated over time, and over a range and variety of complex situations • access to required e-assessment facilities and resources.
Method of assessment	A range of e-assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. Effective e-assessment methods should achieve one of more of the following criteria: • e-journal entries • direct questioning • review of a portfolio • blog.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units in this qualification: • TAEDEL801A Evaluate, implement and use ICT-based educational platforms • TAEDEL802A Use e-learning with social media • TAELED703A Implement improved learning practice • TAELED802A Investigate the application of ICT content knowledge.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Understanding learners and their needs may include:	• ensuring authentic learner engagement • familiarity with e-assessment processes • understanding different learning styles, including: • activist learners • audio learners • kinaesthetic learners • pragmatic learners • reflective learners • self-directed learners • tactile learners • theoretical learners • visual learners.
E-assessment may include:	• all online – no face-to-face assessment • blended – combination of online and face-to-face assessments • asynchronous e-assessment • synchronous e-assessment • automated electronic marking and recording of results • cloud-based e-assessment • computer-aided assessment • computer-based e-assessment • computerised adaptive testing • computerised classification testing • digital stories • electronic marking • e-portfolios, including video and audio files • instructor-led group e-assessment • online communication tools • online discussion forums • online peer assessment • online quizzes

	• on-screen testing • recorded interviews and discussions • self-directed e-assessment • simulations and demonstrations • social networks • video conference based assessment • web or virtual room based assessment • web-based e-assessment • web-based questions.
Required skills and knowledge may include:	• ability to ensure adequate technical support for e-assessment processes • ability to understand and manage security measures required for authentic e-assessment • awareness of workplace and regulatory requirements • familiarity with and skilled use of e-assessment systems and delivery platforms • understanding of the principles of fair, flexible, valid and reliable assessment.
Authenticity may involve:	• developing e-assessment tasks that are fair, flexible, valid and reliable • ensuring candidates understand and are able to participate fully in e-assessment processes • ensuring e-assessment evidence is appropriate for the given context • informing candidates of relevant e-assessment learning criteria • providing a range of e-assessments that support continuous competency development • allowing candidates to question e-assessment results and, if necessary, be reassessed.
Validating may include:	• checking that e-assessment tools have produced valid, reliable, sufficient, current and authentic evidence to enable reasonable judgements to be made as to whether course requirements have been met • making recommendations for future improvement to e-assessment tools and processes • setting up and conducting quality review processes.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to conduct individual and group instruction and demonstrate work skills, using existing learning resources in a safe and comfortable learning environment. The unit covers the skills and knowledge required to determine the success of both the training provided and one's own personal training performance. It emphasises the training as being driven by the work process and context.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit supports a wide range of applications across any workplace setting and so can be used by any organisation. Its use is not restricted to training organisations.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Organise instruction and demonstration	1.1. Gather information about learner characteristics and learning needs 1.2. Confirm a safe learning environment 1.3. Gather and check instruction and demonstration objectives and seek assistance if required 1.4. Access and review relevant learning resources and learning materials for suitability and relevance, and seek assistance to interpret the contextual application 1.5. Organise access to necessary equipment or physical resources required for instruction and demonstration 1.6. Notify learners of details regarding the implementation of the learning program and/or delivery plan
2. Conduct instruction and demonstration	2.1. Use interpersonal skills with learners to establish a safe and comfortable learning environment 2.2. Follow the learning program and/or delivery plan to cover all learning objectives 2.3. Brief learners on any OHS procedures and requirements prior to and during training 2.4. Use delivery techniques to structure, pace and enhance learning 2.5. Apply coaching techniques to assist learning 2.6. Use communication skills to provide information,

	instruct learners and demonstrate relevant work skills 2.7. Provide opportunities for practice during instruction and through work activities 2.8. Provide and discuss feedback on learner performance to support learning
3. Check training performance	3.1. Use measures to ensure learners are acquiring and can use new technical and generic skills and knowledge 3.2. Monitor learner progress and outcomes in consultation with learner 3.3. Review relationship between the trainer/coach and the learner and adjust to suit learner needs
4. Review personal training performance and finalise documentation	4.1. Reflect upon personal performance in providing instruction and demonstration, and document strategies for improvement 4.2. Maintain, store and secure learner records according to organisational and legal requirements

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- verbal and non-verbal communication techniques, such as:
 - asking relevant and appropriate questions
 - providing explanations
 - demonstrating
 - using listening skills
 - providing information clearly
- safety skills to implement OHS requirements, by acting and responding safely in order to:
 - identify hazards
 - conduct prestart-up checks if required
 - observe and interpret learner behaviour that may put people at risk
- time-management, skills to:

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- ensure all learning objectives are covered
- pace learning
- reflection skills in order to:
 - identify areas for improvement
 - maintain personal skill development
- literacy skills to:
 - complete and maintain documentation
 - read and follow learning programs and plans
 - read and analyse learner information
- technology skills to operate audio-visual and technical equipment
- interpersonal skills to:
 - engage, motivate and connect with learners
 - provide constructive feedback
 - maintain appropriate relationships
 - establish trust
 - use appropriate body language
 - maintain humour
 - demonstrate tolerance
 - manage a group
 - recognise and be sensitive to individual difference and diversity
- observation skills to:
 - monitor learner acquisition of new skills, knowledge and competency requirements
 - assess learner communication and skills in interacting with others
 - identify learner concerns
 - recognise learner readiness to take on new skills and tasks

Required knowledge

- learner characteristics and needs
- content and requirements of the relevant learning program and/or delivery plan
- sources and availability of relevant learning resources and learning materials
- content of learning resources and learning materials
- training techniques that enhance learning and when to use them
- introductory knowledge of learning principles and learning styles
- key OHS issues in the learning environment, including:
 - roles and responsibilities of key personnel
 - responsibilities of learners
 - relevant policies and procedures, including hazard identification, risk assessment, reporting requirements, safe use of equipment and emergency

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- procedures
- risk controls for the specific learning environment

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Assessment must address the scope of this unit and reflect all components of the unit. A range of appropriate assessment methods and evidence-gathering techniques must be used to determine competency. A judgement of competency should only be made when the assessor is confident that the required outcomes of the unit have been achieved and that consistent performance has been demonstrated.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- carry out a minimum of three training sessions, involving demonstrating and instructing particular work skills for different groups; with each session addressing:
 - different learning objectives
 - a range of techniques and effective communication skills appropriate to the audience.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Method of assessmentGuidance information for assessment

For further information about assessment of this and other TAE units, refer to relevant implementation guidance published on the IBSA website (www.ibsa.org.au).

Range StatementRANGE STATEMENT

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Learner characteristics may include:	• language, literacy and numeracy levels • learning styles • past learning and work experiences • specific needs • workplace culture.
Safe learning environment may include:	• exit requirements • personal protective equipment • safe access • safe use of equipment.
Instruction and demonstration objectives may include:	• competencies to be achieved • generic and technical skills, which may be: • provided by the organisation • developed by a colleague • individual or group objectives • learning outcomes.
Learning resources may include:	• any material used to support learning, such as: • learner and user guides • trainer and facilitator guides • example training programs • specific case studies • professional development materials • assessment materials • a variety of formats • those produced locally • those acquired from other sources.
Learning materials may include:	• handouts for learners • materials sourced from the workplace, e.g. workplace documentation, operating procedures, and specifications.
Details may include:	• location and time • outcomes of instruction or demonstration • reason for instruction or demonstration • who will be attending instruction session.

OHS procedures may include:	• emergency procedures • hazards and their means of control • incident reporting • use of personal protective equipment • safe work practices • safety briefings • site-specific safety rules.
Delivery techniques may include:	• coaching • demonstration • explanation • group or pair work • providing opportunities to practise skills and solve problems • questions and answers.
Coaching may include:	• learning arrangements requiring immediate interaction and feedback • on-the-job instruction and 'buddy' systems • relationships targeting enhanced performance • short-term learning arrangements • working on a one-to-one basis.
Measures may include:	• informal review or discussion • learner survey • on-the-job observation • review of peer coaching arrangements.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Interpret learning environment and delivery requirements	1.1. Access, read and interpret learning program documentation to determine delivery requirements 1.2. Use available information and documentation to identify group and individual learner needs and learner characteristics 1.3. Identify and assess constraints and risks to delivery 1.4. Confirm personal role and responsibilities in planning and delivering training with relevant personnel
2. Prepare session plans	2.1. Refine existing learning objectives according to program requirements and specific needs of individual learners 2.2. Develop session plans and document these for each segment of the learning program 2.3. Use knowledge of learning principles and theories to generate ideas for managing session delivery
3. Prepare resources for delivery	3.1. Contextualise existing learning materials to meet the needs of the specific learner group 3.2. Finalise learning materials and organise facility, technology and equipment needs in time for delivery of learning sessions 3.3. Confirm overall delivery arrangements with relevant personnel
4. Deliver and facilitate training sessions	4.1. Conduct each session according to session plan, modified where appropriate to meet learner needs 4.2. Use the diversity of the group as another resource to support learning 4.3. Employ a range of delivery methods as training aids to optimise learner experiences 4.4. Demonstrate effective facilitation skills to ensure effective participation and group management

5. Support and monitor learning	5.1. Monitor and document learner progress to ensure outcomes are being achieved and individual learner needs are being met 5.2. Make adjustments to the delivery sessions to reflect specific needs and circumstances 5.3. Manage inappropriate behaviour to ensure learning can take place 5.4. Maintain and store learner records according to organisational requirements

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- presentation skills to ensure delivery is engaging and relevant, including:
 - synthesising information and ideas
 - preparing equipment, such as data projectors and computer presentation applications
 - speaking with appropriate tone and pitch
 - using language appropriate to audience
 - encouraging and dealing appropriately with questions
- group facilitation skills to ensure that:
 - every individual has an opportunity for participation and input
 - group cohesion is maintained
 - behaviour that puts others at risk is observed, interpreted and addressed
 - discussion and group interaction are enhanced
- conflict resolution and negotiation skills to:
 - identify critical points, issues, concerns and problems
 - identify options for changing behaviours
- oral communication and language skills to:

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- motivate learners to transfer skills and knowledge
- engage with the learner
- interpersonal skills to maintain appropriate relationships and ensure inclusivity
- observation skills to monitor individual and group progress

Required knowledge

- introductory knowledge of learning theories
- sound knowledge of learning principles
- sound knowledge of learner styles
- industry area and subject matter of the delivery
- learner group profile, including characteristics and needs of individual learners in the group
- content and requirements of the learning program and/or delivery plan
- different delivery methods and techniques appropriate to face-to-face group delivery
- techniques for the recognition and resolution of inappropriate behaviours
- behaviours in learners that may indicate learner difficulties
- organisational record-management systems and reporting requirements
- evaluation and revision techniques
- specific resources, equipment and support services available for learners with special needs
- relevant policy, legal requirements, codes of practice and national standards, including commonwealth and state or territory legislation that may affect training and assessment in the vocational education and training sector
- OHS relating to the facilitation of group-based learning, including:
 - assessment and risk control measures
 - reporting requirements for hazards
 - safe use and maintenance of relevant equipment
 - emergency procedures
 - sources of OHS information
 - role of key workplace persons
- policies and procedures relevant to the learning environment

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Establish effective work environment for learning	1.1. Establish and agree upon objectives and scope of the work-based learning 1.2. Analyse work practices and routines to determine their effectiveness in meeting established learning objectives 1.3. Identify and address OHS implications of using work as the basis for learning
2. Develop a work-based learning pathway	2.1. Address contractual requirements and responsibilities for learning at work 2.2. Arrange for integration and monitoring of external learning activities with the work-based learning pathway 2.3. Obtain agreement from relevant personnel to implement the work-based learning pathway
3. Establish the learning-facilitation relationship	3.1. Identify context for learning and individual's learning style 3.2. Select appropriate technique or process to facilitate learning and explain the basis of the technique to learner 3.3. Develop, document and discuss individualised learning plan with learner 3.4. Access, read and interpret documentation outlining the OHS responsibilities of the various parties in the

4. Implement work-based learning pathway	4.1. Sequence introduction of workplace tasks, activities and processes to reflect the agreed work-based learning pathway 4.2. Explain objectives of work-based learning and the processes involved to learner 4.3. Encourage learner to take responsibility for learning and to self-reflect 4.4. Develop techniques that facilitate learner's transfer of skills and knowledge
5. Maintain and develop the learning/facilitation relationship	5.1. Prepare for each session 5.2. Structure learning activities to support and reinforce new learning, build on strengths, and identify areas for further development 5.3. Observe learner cues and change approaches where necessary to maintain momentum 5.4. Practise ethical behaviour at all times 5.5. Monitor effectiveness of the learning/facilitation relationship through regular meetings between the parties
6. Close and evaluate the learning/facilitation relationship	6.1. Carry out the closure smoothly, using appropriate interpersonal and communication skills 6.2. Seek feedback from learner on the outcomes achieved and value of the relationship 6.3. Evaluate and document process, including impact, self evaluation and reflection, and file according to legal and organisational requirements
7. Monitor and review the effectiveness of the work-based learning pathway	7.1. Document work performance and learning achievement and keep records according to organisational requirements 7.2. Evaluate effectiveness of the work-based pathway against the objectives, processes and techniques used 7.3. Recommend improvements to work-based practice in light of the review process

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- oral communication and language skills to:
 - motivate the learner
 - transfer skills and knowledge
- interpersonal skills to maintain appropriate relationships
- observation skills to monitor individual progress
- literacy skills to:
 - read and interpret organisational documents, legal documents and contracts
 - complete and maintain documentation
- organisational skills to provide guidance and feedback to individuals
- communication skills, including:
 - using effective verbal and non-verbal language
 - using critical listening and questioning techniques
 - giving constructive and supportive feedback
 - assisting learners to paraphrase advice or instructions back to the trainer/facilitator
 - providing clear and concrete options and advice
 - using appropriate industry/profession terminology and language
 - ensuring language, literacy and numeracy used is appropriate to learners

Required knowledge

- systems, processes and practices within the organisation where work-based learning is taking place
- operational demands of the work and impact of changes on work roles
- organisational work culture, including industrial relations environment
- systems for identifying skill needs
- introductory knowledge of different learning styles and how to encourage learning in each, for example:
 - visual learners
 - audio learners
 - kinaesthetic learners
 - theoretical learners
- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards that may affect training and assessment in the vocational education and training sector
- OHS relating to the work role, including:
 - hazards relating to the industry and specific workplace

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- reporting requirements for hazards and incidents
- specific procedures for work tasks
- safe use and maintenance of relevant equipment
- emergency procedures
- sources of OHS information

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- prepare and facilitate work-based learning
- provide evidence of a minimum of two examples of developing work-based learning pathways, that include:
 - identifying needs for learning
 - analysing work practices, work environment and work activities
 - organising and allocating work in a way that reflects learning needs and provides effective learning opportunities through work processes
- provide a minimum of two examples of a learning facilitation relationship being conducted:
 - with different individuals
 - demonstrating communication skills and flexibility
 - demonstrating one or more of the processes or techniques identified.

Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Prepare for distance-based learning	1.1. Access, read and interpret learning strategy and learning program to determine learning objectives and outcomes to be met 1.2. Develop knowledge of group, individual learner styles and learner characteristics to support effective planning for distance-based learning 1.3. Select and evaluate learning resources for appropriateness, and contextualise them for distance-based learning where required 1.4. Develop distance delivery-management plan, using knowledge of learning principles and research to date 1.5. Identify and organise support mechanisms and means of communicating with learners
2. Manage distance-based learners	2.1. Confirm expectations and requirements through direct contact and clarify any issues or questions 2.2. Establish distance-based learning relationships between trainer/facilitator and learners 2.3. Progressively distribute learning resources and learning materials according to plan and learner needs
3. Monitor learner progress	3.1. Monitor and document learner progress to ensure outcomes are being achieved and individual learner needs are being met 3.2. Develop and implement strategies to address learner difficulties and techniques for maintaining motivation and commitment 3.3. Provide support and guidance outside the formal communication process, where appropriate 3.4. Maintain, store and secure learner records according to organisational and legal requirements

4. Review distance-based learning process	4.1. Gather feedback to review own management of the distance-based process 4.2. Analyse feedback to determine success of the distance-based learning in meeting learner needs and expectations 4.3. Reflect on own performance as a coordinator/facilitator and document improvement plans 4.4. Identify and document options for improving the distance-based learning process, and discuss with relevant personnel for future action

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills using different mediums to establish rapport and provide guidance
- initiative and enterprise skills to:
 - contextualise existing resources to suit the distance-based learning method
 - develop delivery-management plan to reflect delivery method and learner styles
- interpretation skills to interpret and transfer the learning strategy and learning program to distance mode
- organisational skills to manage learners by distance
- problem-solving skills to:
 - offer flexible solutions to suit a range of learner needs
 - resolve disability and support needs
- technology skills to:
 - incorporate different delivery methods into the distance delivery-management plan
 - use a range of technology for direct contact with learners
- time-management skills to coordinate and facilitate a distance-based learning program

Required knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- sound knowledge of adult learning principles
- sound knowledge of learner styles
- content and requirements of the learning strategy and learning program to be used in distance delivery
- characteristics and needs of individual distance learners
- use of technology to support distance-based learning
- techniques for maintaining motivation and commitment of distance learners
- availability and types of support mechanisms relevant to distance learners
- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards, including commonwealth and state or territory legislation that may affect training and assessment in the vocational education and training sector

TAEDEL404A Mentor in the workplace

Modification History

Not applicable.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to establish and develop a professional mentoring relationship with a learner, in particular an apprentice or trainee employed by, or undertaking work placement in, a workplace. It includes establishing the need for mentoring, developing a mentoring plan/framework, facilitating and monitoring the mentoring relationship, and evaluating the effectiveness of mentoring.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit typically applies to workplace supervisors or other work colleague with responsibility for mentoring in the workplace.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

Employability Skills Information

Employability skills	This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Develop a mentoring plan	1.1. Identify scope and boundaries of the mentoring relationship according to organisational procedures 1.2. Establish ground rules and negotiate realistic expectations 1.3. Establish and maintain confidentiality of the relationship in accordance with legislation, policy and procedures
2. Facilitate mentoring relationship	2.1. Develop learner's confidence, self-esteem, respect and trust in the mentoring relationship 2.2. Share personal experiences and knowledge with the person being mentored according to agreed objectives 2.3. Support the person being mentored to develop and use skills in problem solving and decision making 2.4. Use personal and professional networks to assist the person being mentored 2.5. Provide information, guidance and constructive guidance to enhance engagement in the workplace 2.6. Use techniques for resolving differences without damaging the relationship, and obtain assistance according to organisational policy and procedures
3. Monitor mentoring relationship	3.1. Provide planning assistance and guidance as requested by the person being mentored in a form and style to suit their requirements 3.2. Provide feedback to the person being mentored on progress towards achieving the expectations and goals of the mentoring process 3.3. Recognise and discuss changes in the mentoring relationship with appropriate stakeholders 3.4. Negotiate and manage closure of the mentoring arrangement once objectives have been met

4. Evaluate effectiveness of mentoring	4.1. Establish and discuss benefits gained from the mentoring process 4.2. Reflect on and articulate the personal benefits gained from providing mentoring 4.3. Identify and report the outcomes of the mentoring arrangement and the benefits to the organisation according to organisational policy and procedures to improve the mentoring system or program

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- planning and time-management skills to mentor in a workplace
- oral communication and language skills to motivate learners
- organisational skills to provide guidance and feedback to individuals
- interpersonal skills to:
 - engage in relationship building, including building trust and maintaining confidentiality
 - respond to diversity, including gender and disability
- communication skills to use a range of communication strategies, including listening, questioning, and giving and receiving feedback
- initiative and enterprise skills to apply procedures relating to OHS and environmental legislation in the context of workplace mentoring

Required knowledge

- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards likely to impact on the provision of workplace mentoring
- training contracts and responsibilities of employer, registered training organisation

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- (RTO) and funding body
- training plans and responsibilities
 - training products and strategies for learning
 - mentoring methodologies and strategies
 - acceptable behaviour in the mentoring relationship
 - equal employment opportunity, equity and diversity principles
 - OHS relating to the work role, including:
 - hazards relating to the industry and specific workplace
 - reporting requirements for hazards and incidents
 - specific procedures for work tasks
 - safe use and maintenance of relevant equipment
 - emergency procedures
 - sources of OHS information

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment	Assessment must address the scope of this unit and reflect all components of the unit. Arrange of appropriate assessment methods and evidence-gathering techniques must be used to determine competency. A judgement of competency should only be made when the assessor is confident that the required outcomes of the unit have been achieved and that consistent performance has been demonstrated.
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • prepare a mentoring plan between the mentor and learner that reflects the scope and substance expected within a plan prepared for a learner undertaking a contracted apprenticeship or traineeship • facilitate at least three mentoring sessions • provide information on sessions, including comments and notes from both mentor and learner.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT
The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.
Mentoring may include:	• long-term focus on personal growth and learning • wide range of learning oriented to: • support • guidance in personal or career growth • relationship, not just a procedure or activity • one person professionally assisting the career development of another.
Ground rules may include:	• training for mentoring partners • mentoring agreement • active involvement of both partners in the mentoring process.
Legislation, policy and procedures may include:	• commonwealth and state or territory legislation and regulations, such as: • privacy legislation • equal employment opportunity, anti-discrimination and harassment legislation • OHS legislation • user choice • organisational policy, procedures and protocols.
Techniques for resolving differences	• finding a mutually beneficial solution • self-disclosure

may include:	• inviting discussion • providing explanations • accessing assistance.
Mentoring relationship may include:	• informal workplace development program • formal mentoring process associated with a contracted apprenticeship or traineeship, involving a formal training plan.
Stakeholders may include:	• trainee or apprentice • manager or supervisor • RTO • learning support services, including assistive technology and diagnostic testing • funding organisation • supplier of learning resources.
Benefits may include:	• insights into organisational culture, attitudes and expected behaviours • supportive environment in which successes and failures can be evaluated • networking opportunities • development of workplace competence and self-confidence • recognition and job satisfaction • mutual respect.
Benefits to the organisation may include:	• increased productivity • new competencies in the person being mentored • staff motivation • more committed, involved and responsible learners.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Establish the e-learning environment	1.1. Access, read and interpret learning strategy and learning program to determine learning outcomes and objectives to be met 1.2. Develop knowledge of group and individual learner styles and learner characteristics to support effective planning 1.3. Develop e-learning delivery plan to manage and sequence e-learning activities and events to ensure logical progression of learning content and continuity of e-learner progress 1.4. Confirm technical requirements for the e-learning environment 1.5. Trial and check e-learning resources and materials for technical glitches 1.6. Develop and document protocols for the e-learning environment 1.7. Identify and organise specific technical support needs and mechanisms for e-learners
2. Introduce e-learning	2.1. Provide effective introduction to the e-learning environment and discuss, clarify and agree upon objectives and e-learning protocols 2.2. Establish e-learning relationship with e-learners 2.3. Initiate relationships between e-learners to support inclusivity, acknowledge diversity and enable a positive e-learning environment
3. Guide and facilitate e-learning	3.1. Use relevant electronic tools to facilitate e-learning according to the e-learning delivery plan 3.2. Demonstrate good practice in e-learning facilitation to ensure an effective learning experience

	3.3. Use relevant support mechanisms to address technical issues 3.4. Build opportunities for authentic learning, practice and formative assessment into the e-learning experience
4. Monitor e-learning	4.1. Monitor and document e-learner progress to ensure outcomes are being achieved and individual learner needs are being met 4.2. Provide support and guidance inside and outside the e-learning environment as appropriate 4.3. Continuously monitor e-learner interaction with others and participation in e-learning activities, and intervene where necessary to maintain momentum and engagement 4.4. Maintain, store and secure learner records according to organisational and legal requirements
5. Review e-learning processes	5.1. Conduct a review to evaluate effectiveness of e-learning delivery and facilitation 5.2. Reflect on own performance as an e-learning facilitator and document improvement plans 5.3. Identify and document recommendations for improvements in facilitating e-learning and appropriateness of e-learning systems, tools and resources, and discuss with relevant personnel for future action

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- language and literacy skills using electronic media to:
 - communicate electronically using accepted language and style
 - ensure what is being said is appropriate and clear
- facilitation skills using electronic media
- technology skills to use e-learning tools
- high-level organisational skills to:

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- communicate efficiently using a number of mediums
- manage learners in a virtual environment
- keep up-to-date with each learner's progress
- provide prompt feedback
- be available for support during established times
- technology skills, including:
 - in different media
 - keyboard skills
 - using relevant hardware and software
 - accessing information on the internet
 - identifying technical problems and being able to troubleshoot or know where to get required technical assistance
- time-management skills to facilitate an e-learning program

Required knowledge

- adult learning principles
- technical knowledge sufficient to distinguish between a technical problem and a content problem, and to respond accordingly
- technical knowledge needed in using:
 - chat rooms
 - forums
 - bulletin boards
 - internet and website navigation
- relevant technologies and tools, including:
 - those that allow trainer/facilitator to monitor every entry and electronic movement of learner
 - learner/content management system, e.g. WebCT
 - other electronic methods, e.g. use of MS Excel and MS Word
 - internet
 - hyperlinks
- relevant learning management systems
- structure and content of relevant e-learning resources
- vocational and subject matter in area of delivery
- ethics and codes of conduct related to e-learning
- cultural sensitivity, particularly in regard to ensuring electronic discussions are culturally sensitive
- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards, including commonwealth and state or territory legislation that may affect training and assessment in the vocational education and training sector
- OHS relating to the work role, and OHS considerations to include in the design of conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Learning strategy provides:	documented framework to guide and structure learning requirements and teaching/delivery and assessment arrangements.
Learning program provides:	documented guide to support a cohesive and integrated learning process for the learner.
E-learning delivery plan may include tools to:	- manage and sequence e-learning - guide implementation of learning program.
Technical requirements may include:	- technology to be used in delivery - type of online learning management platform - time required to set up and test equipment and technology - liaison with information technology (IT) personnel/specialists.
Protocols for e-learning environment may include:	- boundaries of communication and standards of behaviour in public 'spaces' - guidelines for trainer/facilitator and e-learner interaction - arrangements for technical support - expectations and requirements of learners.
Good practice in e-learning facilitation may include:	- providing both educational and technical support to learners - offering flexible solutions to suit a range of learner needs - providing opportunities for collaboration - guiding and supporting inquiry and engagement - being flexible to allow for and support a range of appropriate learner skills, learning styles and learner characteristics.
Review may include:	- feedback from learners, colleagues and e-learning designers via survey or discussion - identification of issues in monitoring and managing e-learners using the delivery plan - identification of effectiveness of the e-learning protocols.
Reflecting on own performance may include:	- asking critical questions about performance, problems, methods used, and success of learners - listening to and acting on feedback from learners and others.

statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Extend facilitation practices	1.1 Update knowledge of learning methods, facilitation techniques and learning theories to improve delivery and facilitation practices 1.2 Maintain currency of vocational competencies and related subject matter expertise 1.3 Practise flexibility, innovation and responsiveness in facilitation practice 1.4 Reflect on own practice and experiences as a facilitator to determine and document potential improvements to delivery approaches
2. Prepare for complex environments	2.1 Identify environmental conditions and their potential impact on teaching practice 2.2 Manage the constraints to delivery with relevant personnel 2.3 Review and adjust training and assessment strategies to address the constraints of complex environments
3. Prepare for learners with complex needs	3.1 Research the characteristics of learners with complex needs and identify potential barriers to learning 3.2 Develop and adjust training and assessment strategies and customise learning materials to meet needs
4. Develop learner independence	4.1 Enhance learner experiences using a range of learning methods and inclusive practices 4.2 Acknowledge and address potential barriers to learning 4.3 Encourage learners towards self-directed learning by establishing enabling processes
5. Reflect on, and improve practice	5.1 Seek input from other relevant personnel about teaching, facilitation and learning practices 5.2 Review teaching, facilitation and learning practices to identify and document opportunities for improvement 5.3 Implement the documented improvement plan, review and adjust as required

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and interpersonal skills to:
 - apply active and reflective listening
 - adapt language to meet learner requirements
 - apply effective questioning techniques
 - maintain appropriate relationships
 - use appropriate body language
 - interpret resistance, reluctance, uncertainty, enthusiasm and confusion
 - monitor group and individual interactions
 - manage conflict/behavioural difficulties
 - monitor learner readiness for assessment/new areas of learning
- literacy skills to:
 - select, read and interpret Training Package/accredited course information
 - read and interpret information from a range of sources to identify and respond to learner needs, goals, skills and learning styles
- skills in delivery for a range of learning methods
- evaluation skills to:
 - identify gaps in skills or knowledge
 - systematically evaluate own or others' practice to improve performance or understanding
- problem solving skills to:
 - adjust strategies and address learning barriers
 - reliably evaluate alternative solutions.

Required knowledge

- the main branches of learning theory incorporating behavioural learning theory; cognitive learning theory; experiential learning theory; information processing theory and current research on learning as it relates to teaching in an adult environment
- different delivery modes and facilitation techniques and their appropriateness for different learners and learning situations
- code of practice and/or ethics relevant to the vocational education and training sector
- ways in which Training Packages, accredited curricula and learning resources can be contextualised to meet the needs of individual learners without compromising standards.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: - facilitate groups of learners demonstrating: - the selection and use of different teaching and delivery methods applied in different delivery modes which are relevant and appropriate to different learners and their needs - integration of theory and practice in own performance and in supporting learners to develop competency - a variety of strategies to support increased learner independence - documentation of reflective practice and proposed changes to practice - collect feedback from observers such as supervising teachers/trainers, peers, colleagues, learners or clients - analyse feedback from a range of sources and reflect on the success of the training delivery as well as own performance. The candidate must be able to show evidence of having conducted a minimum of 100 hours of group facilitation, in addition to any evidence provided of work with individual learners or in a different learning context.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided which will enable all the critical aspects for evidence outlined above to be assessed in a manner equivalent to a workplace.
Method of assessment	Critical aspects of evidence for the 3 units: - TAEDEL502A Provide advanced facilitation practice, - TAEASS501A Provide advanced assessment practice, and

	• TAEPPDD501A Maintain and enhance professional practice are intended to be assessed in the context of a 'practicum'. A holistic assessment covering these three units can be accessed on the IBSA website to support such assessment.

TAEDEL801A Evaluate, implement and use ICT-based educational platforms

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This Unit first released with TAE10 Training and Education Training Package version 3.0 .

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to evaluate, implement and use complex ICT-based educational platforms in an organisational context.

The unit also covers the skills required to facilitate learning, collaboration and development of online communities using ICT.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to educators taking a leadership position in using ICT-based solutions to facilitate learning.

Leaders in learning should be able to implement advanced electronic technologies, such as those associated with e-learning, mobile and wireless technologies; and technologies relating to the development of online communities and their use in project-based learning.

Leadership in learning in relation to introducing technologies to enhance educational processes may involve complex judgements.

The unit may relate to learning activities in an educational institution.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - collaborate and work with vendors and consultants
 - conduct project-based activities
 - initiate and facilitate group discussions
 - share ideas and information
- planning and organising skills to:
 - analyse and identify suitable learning practices and learning strategies for groups and individual learners
 - evaluate effectiveness of learning practices
- literacy skills to prepare reports and contract variations
- numeracy skills to calculate budget requirements
- teamwork skills to monitor group and individual interactions
- technology skills to:
 - assess suitability and reliability of hardware and software
 - compare and recommend new technology solutions that improve learning outcomes
 - complete electronic research
 - review and discuss learning styles and practice involving ICT.

Required knowledge

- budgeting and cost-benefit analysis principles
- capabilities and limitations of infrastructure of educational platforms
- content and requirements of the relevant delivery and assessment strategies
- content of learning resources and learning materials
- learner requirements for use of educational platforms
- pedagogical theory and practice, learner interests and changing learning styles, and application of ICT to learning and teaching
- process for creating an effective learning experience using electronic technology
- range of appropriate learning strategies, and teaching and assessment methods.

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the following is essential: • knowledge of contemporary ICT in an educational environment • documented review of ICT solutions for an educational environment, collaboration, and communication technologies • research on theory and practice in relation to advanced learning practice, especially where these are enabled by new content solutions; and vocational education and training approaches or technologies • creation of working pilot using relevant ICT solutions.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	A range of e-assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. Effective e-assessment methods should achieve one of more of the following criteria: • promote active learning, engaging learners actively in the learning process • provide opportunities to construct meaning by assisting learners to build their own cognitive structures, based on previous knowledge, to integrate new skills and knowledge • encourage collaboration by providing environments in which people learn from each other and solve problems together • support intentional learning by linking learning to the learner's goals • address real problems, engaging learners in solving the complex and ill-structured problems they will encounter in the real world • contextualise learning by situating it in some meaningful real world task, or by using simulated, case-based or problem-based learning • promote conversation by involving learners in dialogue so that they can appreciate multiple perspectives • promote reflection by providing opportunities for learners to reflect on the learning process and how they can apply what they have learnt to new situations. Assessment must ensure: • competence is consistently demonstrated over time, and over a range and variety of complex situations.

Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate • review of applied projects or learning activities • direct observation of contextual application of skills • oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of constructing and implementing advanced earning practice.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • TAEDEL802A Use e-learning with social media • TAELED704A Review enterprise e-learning systems and solutions implementation • TAELED802A Investigate the application of ICT knowledge.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

ICT resources may include:	• application: • commercial • database • internet browser • spreadsheet • word-processing • customised • development tools • cloud-based solutions • in-house • laptop • mobile communications • notebook • other mobile devices • peripheral devices • personal computer (Mac or PC) • personal digital assistant (PDA) • server • smartphone • system: • computer security • device drivers • operating system • tablet (iPad or similar) • virtual private network (VPN) • voice network • wide area network (WAN) • wireless solution • workstation.
Virtual environments may include:	• collaborative virtual environments (CVEs) • immersive virtual environments (IVEs) • massively multiplayer online games (MMOGs)

	• massively multiplayer online role-playing games (MMORPGs) • MUD object oriented (MOOs) • multi-user domains (MUDs) • multi-user virtual environments (MUVES).
Knowledge-building environments may include:	• community, collaboration, content management systems (C3MS) • computer supported intentional learning environments (CSILE) • learning management systems (LMS) • wikis.
Analysing and reporting risks may involve:	• budgetary considerations • contract variations • licensing • term contracts.
Organisational requirements may include:	• access and equity principles and practices • business and performance plans • collaborative or partnership arrangements • confidentiality requirements • defined resource parameters • ethical standards • existing technology and systems • goals, objectives, plans, systems and processes • legal and organisational policies and guidelines for ICT-based educational platforms • workplace health and safety (WHS) policies, procedures and programs • quality assurance or procedures manuals • recording and reporting procedures • team and business unit structures and focus.
Communication and collaboration technologies may include:	• asynchronous conferencing • synchronous conferencing • application sharing • data conferencing • electronic calendars • electronic meeting systems (EMS) • email • enterprise bookmarking • faxing • instant messaging

	• internet forums • knowledge management systems • online chat • online proofing • project management systems • revision control • SMS • social software systems • telephony • videoconferencing • voice mail • web publishing • wikis • workflow systems.

TAEDEL802A Use e-learning with social media

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This Unit first released with TAE10 Training and Education Training Package version 3.0 .

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to establish a social media learning community to provide the essential skills for contemporary learning for people engaging in the world of work in a global environment.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to educators taking a leadership position in using social networking as a mode for e-learning to facilitate learning.

This mode promotes constructivist learning, knowledge transfer and problem-solving skills highly relevant in a contemporary age. Connectivism, and the contribution of the collective through online communities, put learners at ease to engage in web-based learning and empower them to perform as confident members of the workforce and community.

The unit may relate to learning activities in an educational institution.

Identify and recommend appropriate environment for particular e-learning task	1.1 Analyse and evaluate appropriate learning theories for different forms of e-learning 1.2 Research appropriate sources of information and use research findings to understand the online environments available for the e-learning task 1.3 Analyse and evaluate proposed e-learning task specifications to determine possible online environments 1.4 Establish and justify the recommended social media environment and organisational requirements suitable for the learning task
evaluate the selected social media community	the selected social media community 3.2 Identify the attributes of champion users and their training techniques, and promote them to build a dynamic social media environment 3.3 Establish evaluation criteria as key performance indicators (KPIs) and measure the effectiveness of the implementation of the selected social media technologies 3.4 Incorporate a regular reflection, review and report of the evaluation to inform refinement of KPIs

4. Design and establish strategies to sustain the social media community	4.1 Estimate the longevity and nature of the community 4.2 Establish a plan using e-learning resources to encourage broad participation in social networking for learning 4.3 Establish the steps to develop a self-sustaining community, and then implement and document them 4.4 Identify social media community members and develop recruitment strategies

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - brainstorm a flexible approach to problem solving
 - build a shared sense of community
 - collaborate and work with learners and subject matter experts
 - identify attributes of learners and champions to sustain a dynamic interaction
 - initiate and facilitate synchronous and asynchronous communication
 - conduct information sharing among a diverse range of learners
- planning and organising skills to:
 - analyse and identify suitable learning practice for diverse learner participation
 - evaluate effectiveness and quality of community interaction and resources
 - implement a strategic plan to build effective online community environments
 - monitor group and individual interactions
 - review, report, action and communicate to social media community
- technology skills to:
 - assess and report on suitability of social media tools
 - build archival trails and resource repository
 - conduct online feedback mechanisms that enable rich content
 - design online community elements, including web applications and dynamic content
 - explore the options of free and customised social media applications
 - implement a range of appropriate learning strategies, and teaching and assessment methods
 - recommend technology for individual learning styles and practice
 - use elements and variety of social media software for uptake by a specific social media community.

Required knowledge

- agreed criteria for assessment of online content and rate
- content repositories relevant to specific community to build resources
- differences between social media communities for education, industry, business and government
- identifying features of a range of learning styles and how to map them to relevant social media tools
- key features of budgeting and cost-benefit analysis
- learner/individual community learning requirements
- options for the presentation of learning materials
- process for assessing quality of dynamic interaction
- processes for transferring and sharing knowledge with learners
- range of assessment tools relevant to social media community activities
- relevant repository of knowledge that can be shared

- skills of champions and mentors
- steps required to build an online social media community
- strategies to build effective interaction using ICT
- tangible and intangible elements of an online social media community.

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the following is essential: • knowledge of contemporary ICT in an educational environment • documented review of ICT solutions for an educational environment, collaboration, and communication technologies • research on theory and practice in relation to advanced learning practice, especially where these are enabled by new content solutions; and vocational education and training approaches or technologies.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: • competence is consistently demonstrated over time, and over a range and variety of complex situations • access to required assessment facilities and resources.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate • review of applied projects or learning activities, relating to the research • direct observation of contextual application of skills • oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of constructing and implementing advanced vocational education and training learning practice.

Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • TAEDEL801A Evaluate, implement and use ICT-based educational platforms • TAELED704A Review enterprise e-learning systems and solutions implementation • TAELED802A Investigate the application of ICT content knowledge.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Appropriate learning theories may include:	• applied learning • cognitivism • constructivism • discovery learning • experiential learning • inquiry learning • mobile learning • problem-based learning • self-directed learning • technology and learning • theory of multiple intelligences.
Forms of e-learning may vary with:	• assessment or qualification outcomes • blending with other modes of teaching, such as blending classroom with online delivery • instructional design • means of access • mode of teaching • standards compliance • technology involved.

Research findings may be compiled through:	• evaluation of existing products • focus groups • informal discussions • internet • interviews • literature reviews • questionnaires • workshops.
Online environments may include:	• blogs, wikis and nings • computer-supported collaborative learning (CSCL) • content management systems (CMS) • distributed online forums • game-based platforms • learning management systems (LMS) • rating and comments systems, e.g. YouTube • virtual and immersive online platforms.
Organisational requirements may include:	• access and equity principles and practice • code of ethics, creative commons and rights of use and distribution • codes of conduct • Copyright, Privacy and Charter Of Human Rights legislation • goals, objectives, plans, systems and processes • organisational policies for e-learning • policies, procedures and programs on acceptable use • quality and continuous improvement processes and standards.
Social networking may include:	• building repositories of knowledge and artefacts for community sharing in blogs, wikis and nings • participating in distributed online forums • rating and commenting to share and evaluate knowledge systems, e.g. YouTube • using communication and collaboration tools in an LMS to showcase knowledge • using communication and collaboration tools in CMS to share skills and knowledge • using CSCL to communicate and collaborate.

Learner styles may include:	• aural • kinaesthetic • visual.
Constraints relating to organisation's e-learning systems and resources may include:	• anticipated difficulties due to language, literacy and numeracy skills of learners/end users • financial limitations to achieve proposed options • infrastructure logistical issues • limited access of intended learners/end users to the necessary technology • limits of the technology to achieve desired outcomes • low levels of information technology skills of trainers or facilitators and intended learners/end users • restricted access to relevant technical or subject matter experts.
Learning models may include:	• blended • experiential • virtual, e.g. Second Life.
Data visualisation may include:	• dynamic, e.g. Google Docs • motion charts and gadgets, such as Gapminder, InfiView and Nexus.
Instructional design principles may include:	• ensuring learning is embedded in a realistic and relevant context • including a variety of approaches and techniques for presenting information and activities and for encouraging participation • need for authenticity in learning and assessment activities • need for collaborative learning opportunities • need for learner-centred activities and interactivity • opportunities for review of material and repetition • presenting material in a logical order and sequence, and in order of increasing difficulty • providing learner with feedback • structure of the information • techniques to engage the learner in learning.
Current legislation may include:	• Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities • Copyright Act • Privacy Act • Spam Act.

Policies and risks may include:	• acceptable use policies • code of conduct • digital citizenship • netiquette • security threats to data and information .
Champion users may include:	• experienced users • mentors • users committed to outcomes of the e-learning goals.
Training techniques may include:	• applied learning • collaborative activities • demonstrations • individual activities • instruction and explanation • questioning practice • written information.
Longevity may include:	• end goal • ongoing • short term.
Nature may include:	• member-based (people in a similar profession) • ongoing professional learning • project-based.
E-learning resources may include:	• assessment materials • generic skills materials • industry or enterprise-specific materials • information about the audience for the resource's learning objects and activities • professional development materials • self-paced or instructor-led materials • trainer or facilitator materials • Training Package toolboxes.
Social media community members may include:	• active participants • champion users • critics • flammers • lurkers

	• spoilers.
Recruitment strategies involve:	• establishing a plan • encouraging broader participation in social networking for learning.

TAEDES401A Design and develop learning programs

Modification History

Not applicable.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to conceptualise, design, develop and review learning programs to meet an identified need for a group of learners. The unit addresses the skills and knowledge needed to identify the parameters of a learning program, determine the design, outline the content and review its effectiveness.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit typically applies to a trainer or facilitator who designs or develops learning programs. A learning program can be discrete, providing a planned learning approach that relates to specific learning and training needs, or it may form part of the learning design for a qualification.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

Employability skills	This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Define parameters of the learning program	1.1. Clarify purpose and type of learning program with key stakeholders 1.2. Access and confirm the competency standards and other training specifications on which to base the learning program 1.3. Identify language, literacy and numeracy requirements of the program 1.4. Identify and consider characteristics of the target learner group
2. Work within the vocational education and training (VET) policy framework	2.1. Access relevant VET policies and frameworks, and apply to work practices 2.2. Identify changes to training packages and accredited courses and apply these to program development 2.3. Conduct work according to organisational quality assurance policies and procedures
3. Develop program content	3.1. Research, develop and document specific subject matter content according to agreed design options 3.2. Evaluate existing learning resources for content relevance and quality 3.3. Specify assessment requirements of the learning program

4. Design structure of the learning program	4.1. Break the learning content into manageable segments and document timeframe for each segment 4.2. Determine and confirm delivery strategies and required assessment methods and tools 4.3. Document complete learning program in line with organisational requirements 4.4. Review complete program with key stakeholders and adjust as required 4.5. Ensure a safe learning progression by analysing risks in the learning environment and including a risk control plan

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- organisational skills to ensure resources are available and suitable
- evaluation skills to determine the time required for each learning segment and the overall timelines of the learning program
- cognitive skills to develop the learning program content and design its structure
- language and literacy skills to read and interpret a range of documentation, including technical and subject matter documents, references and texts

Required knowledge

- information about training package developers and course accreditation agencies responsible for specific learning program parameters
- training packages and relevant competency standards to be used as the basis of the learning program
- other performance standards and criteria to be used as the basis of the learning program, where relevant
- distinction and relationship between a training package/accredited course, learning strategy and learning program, where linked
- different purposes and focus of learning programs
- sound knowledge of learning principles
- instructional design principles relating to different design options for learning program design and structure
- availability and types of different relevant learning resources, learning materials

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- and pre-developed learning activities
- methodology relating to developing and documenting new learning activities and related learning materials
- different delivery modes and methods
- relevant policies, legal requirements, codes of practice and national standards, including commonwealth and state or territory legislation that may affect training and assessment in the VET sector
- relevant OHS knowledge relating to the work role, and OHS considerations that need to be included in the learning program

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Assessment must address the scope of this unit and reflect all components of the unit. Arrange of appropriate assessment methods and evidence-gathering techniques must be used to determine competency. A judgement of competency should only be made when the assessor is confident that the required outcomes of the unit have been achieved and that consistent performance has been demonstrated.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- design, develop and review learning programs within the VET context
- prepare and develop a minimum of two learning programs:
 - that contain differentiated learning program designs to reflect particular needs, contexts and timelines
 - at least one of which must be based on competency standards or accredited courses and must cover at least one entire unit of competency or accredited course module.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Evidence must be gathered in the workplace whenever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Range StatementRANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Purpose may include:	• developing vocational competency or vocational skills • developing language, literacy and numeracy skills • developing general education • meeting legislative, licensing and registration requirements, such as OHS requirements.
Other training specifications may include:	• curriculum specifications • product specifications • organisational work requirements and training needs • induction needs • language, literacy and numeracy development needs • regulatory and licensing requirements.
Vocational education and training policies may include:	• policies and procedures set by national organisations, such as the National Quality Council • Australian Quality Training Framework • other relevant policies.
Delivery strategies may include:	• focus of delivery in terms of size and type of group • context of delivery, for example: • in the workplace • in a training room • in a community setting • mode of delivery, for example: • face-to-face • online • blended delivery mode • delivery methods, for example:

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Select appropriate training package or accredited course	1.1. Confirm training and/or assessment needs of client 1.2. Identify and source training packages and/or accredited courses which could satisfy client needs 1.3. Use training products in line with the training and assessment organisation's quality assurance policies and procedures
2. Analyse and interpret the qualifications framework	2.1. Read and interpret qualification rules 2.2. Review and determine applicable licensing requirements and prerequisites 2.3. Determine suitable electives that meet client needs and job roles
3. Analyse and interpret units of competency and accredited modules	3.1. Select individual unit or accredited module to meet client needs 3.2. Read, analyse and interpret all parts of the unit or accredited module for application to client needs 3.3. Analyse links between unit and/or accredited module to develop effective applications for the client 3.4. Document analysis of unit or accredited module in a clear and accessible manner
4. Contextualise units and modules for client applications	4.1. Use information from the client to contextualise the unit or accredited module to meet client needs 4.2. Use advice on contextualisation produced by the training package developer or course developer to meet client needs

5. Analyse and interpret assessment guidance	5.1. Read, analyse and apply the assessment guidance of the relevant training package or accredited course 5.2. Determine any special requirements for assessment or reasonable adjustment to suit client needs

- planning skills to develop a structure for a particular application of training packages and accredited courses
- cognitive skills to analyse, interpret and apply the various components of selected training packages and accredited courses
- research skills to analyse and interpret training package and accredited course content to meet client needs

Required knowledge

- Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) guidelines, including characteristics of AQF qualification levels
- functions and responsibilities of training package developers and course accreditation agencies, and their roles as key vocational education and training (VET) organisations
- dimensions of competency
- format and structure of accredited courses
- format and structure of competency standards
- function of training packages and accredited curriculum as benchmarks in a competency-based VET training and assessment system
- methodology relating to analysing and using competency standards for a range of applications and purposes to meet the needs of a diverse range of VET clients
- language and terminology used in training packages and accredited courses
- parts of training packages that can be contextualised and parts that cannot
- structure of training packages and the role and purpose of each endorsed component

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- sources of training package information

ELEMENTPERFORMANCE CRITERIA

performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Determine the parameters of the learning strategy	1.1 Clarify the purpose of the learning strategy, likely target groups and their learning needs 1.2 Research qualification or other benchmark options for meeting the likely target group needs and select an appropriate option 1.3 Consult with relevant people to confirm the parameters of the learning strategy
2. Develop the framework for the learning strategy	2.1 Develop a learning strategy design that reflects the requirements of the selected qualification or other benchmark 2.2 Analyse industry or organisation documentation to determine additional and supporting requirements 2.3 Research and analyse options for design, based on likely target groups, their learning needs and contexts for delivery 2.4 Use appropriate learning theories and instructional design principles to support the learning strategy design 2.5 Identify and document broad content headings 2.6 Consult to modify and confirm the framework 2.7 Develop the review process for the learning strategy
3. Devise the content and structure of the learning strategy	3.1 Elaborate on and document each content heading to form an overview of content to be addressed 3.2 Sequence the content to support learning and determine overall timelines within operating constraints 3.3 Express learning strategy outcomes to reflect both generic and specific learning outcomes to be achieved 3.4 Identify and document appropriate delivery and assessment strategies, taking account of the learning parameters, design framework and learning context 3.5 Identify and document operational requirements

4. Review the learning strategy	4.1 Review the learning strategy in collaboration with relevant people against specified criteria prior to and post implementation 4.2 Document a post-implementation review process that includes measures for identifying the effectiveness and quality of the learning strategy 4.3 Make recommendations and changes based on outcomes of the review processes, where appropriate, and document these 4.4 Make modifications and document as part of a continuous improvement strategy

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to collaborate with others on the strategy development
- literacy skills to write the learning strategy in accordance with design requirements
- planning skills to:
 - organise and structure the development process
 - identify measures to monitor progress
- research skills and techniques to gather and interpret information relevant to the content and development of the learning strategy.

Required knowledge

- Training Packages, including content of Training Packages relevant to learning strategy
- relevant accredited courses
- Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) for registered training organisations (RTOs)
- Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) including:
 - key features of each qualification level
 - guidelines on cross-sector qualification linkages
- industry and enterprise knowledge, such as:
 - industry or enterprise requirements relevant to the learning strategy

- industry licensing arrangements, where relevant
- the main branches of learning theory incorporating behavioural learning theory; cognitive learning theory; experiential learning theory; information processing theory and current research on learning as it relates to teaching in an adult environment
- instructional learning design
- assessment approaches, including:
 - the basis and rationale for different assessment methods appropriate to the learning strategy.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • present a minimum of two examples of learning strategies designed by the candidate with differentiated design structures in each that: • reflect the specific requirements of the qualification or skill set, and • reflect client needs and contexts of application • implement at least one learning strategy • document a review which provides outcomes and evidence of continuous improvement.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Research the learning resource requirements	1.1 Clarify with the client the brief, focus and type of learning resource 1.2 Research the target audience, their learning needs and the learning environment for the resource 1.3 Gather, collate and analyse relevant existing information 1.4 Identify any ethical and legal considerations and act on them 1.5 Write a development work plan
2. Design the learning resource and plan the content	2.1 Generate a range of design options using a variety of techniques 2.2 Develop and confirm with the client an outline or prototype for the learning resource 2.3 Analyse content specifications of the learning product and map out proposed content
3. Develop the learning resource content	3.1 Develop content and content specifications in accordance with the agreed design 3.2 Establish mechanisms for reviewing work in progress 3.3 Ensure any text is clear, concise, grammatically correct and appropriate for the intended audience 3.4 Ensure any visuals are relevant, instructive and appropriate for the intended audience
4. Review learning resource prior to implementation	4.1 Check resource content to ensure the accuracy and relevance of information against specifications 4.2 Check text, format and visual design for clarity and focus 4.3 Conduct an external review using appropriate review methods and incorporate feedback 4.4 Review final draft against the brief and other relevant criteria to ensure it meets all requirements prior to delivery to the client
5. Evaluate the design and development process	5.1 Review the design and development process against appropriate evaluation criteria 5.2 Reflect on the development process and methods and identify areas for improvement 5.3 Document identified improvements for future projects

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical skills to:
 - identify critical learning points
 - structure and weight the contents appropriately
 - determine appropriateness of feedback
- communication and interpersonal skills to:
 - establish and confirm requirements
 - collaborate with a range of people
 - seek feedback from others
- literacy and writing skills, including:
 - writing for different audiences
 - writing to the appropriate level
 - using an appropriate style
- planning skills to:
 - develop and schedule work plans
 - monitor and manage outcomes
- problem solving skills to:
 - analyse, identify and develop strategies to meet identified challenges
 - identify difficulties of those participating in provision
 - select and use a variety of problem-solving strategies
- review and analysis skills to:
 - identify areas for improvement
 - recognise personal limitations
- research skills to find content and relevant information.

Required knowledge

- principles, theories and contemporary practices of instructional design,
- the main branches of learning theory incorporating behavioural learning theory; cognitive learning theory; experiential learning theory; information processing theory and current research on learning as it relates to teaching in an adult environment
- language, literacy and numeracy (LLN) issues, such as:
 - requirements of target audience
 - using the Australian Core Skills Framework (ASCF) as a framework to aid instructional design
- legal, organisational and ethical responsibilities associated with the assessment system, including:
 - maintaining client privacy and confidentiality

- providing accurate information
- duty of care under common law
- compliance with AQTF requirements
- copyright and privacy laws, including the use of electronic technology.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • Research, design and develop print based resources that reflect client needs and the contexts of application, including: • the research and design of two print based resources, with documented evidence of: • consultation, research and findings • completed designs for the two resources • complete development of one resource with documented evidence of: • a review and trial of the resource, including user feedback and how this impacted on the development of the resource • the final print based resource, either complete or in part or sample • the candidate's specific role in the development process.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Brief may include:	• client proposal • identified gap in the learning product market • tender • organisational need.
Focus of the learning resource may include:	• whole Training Package • Training Package qualification • traineeship/apprenticeship • accredited course • unit/s of competency • non-accredited course • learning program • induction material.
Type of learning resource may include:	• print based, electronic, or technology dependent • learning resources aimed at learners or their facilitators • assessment resources aimed at candidates or assessors • learning resources produced in languages other than English as appropriate to target group learners and workplace.
Existing information may include:	• industry or end user needs • industry best practice and culture • existing learning resources and learning materials • relevant Training Packages/units of competency • relevant accredited courses • workplace procedures, documentation and requirements • information from industry experts and advisers.
Ethical and legal considerations may include:	• contract preparation • meeting contractual requirements

	• intellectual property • regulatory requirements, including occupational health and safety (OHS) • organisational requirements • equity issues and needs • potential legal consequences of false, misleading or incorrect information.
Development work plan may include:	• timelines and milestones to be achieved • scheduled meetings and focus groups • consultative processes • handover requirements • equipment, learning resources and learning materials needed • industry information/practices • budget • identification of risks/risk management strategies • organisation/industrial politics • access to experts or advisers.
Content specifications may include:	• requirements of relevant Training Packages, units of competency/benchmarks • work practices and procedures • culture and ethics of the learner/end user environment • copyright/intellectual property agreements/ acknowledgements.

TAEDES503A Design and develop e-learning resources

Modification History

Version	Comments

TAEDES503A	Released with TAE10 Training and Education Training Package version 2.0

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to design and develop e-learning resources.

Application of the Unit

This unit typically applies to those involved in product development relating to e-learning.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

Not applicable.

Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Determine the scope and research the e-learning resource	1.1 Clarify the brief and focus for the e-resource with the client 1.2 Research the likely target audience for the e-resource, their characteristics and learning needs 1.3 Read, interpret and analyse existing relevant information to determine the learning content for an e-learning resource 1.4 Determine the suitability of an e-learning resource for the likely target audience 1.5 Identify any ethical and legal considerations 1.6 Document findings of the research
2. Design the e-learning resource	2.1 Use knowledge and experience in learning theory and instructional design to create the design for the e-learning resource 2.2 Consider resources, materials and technical requirements needed for development of the e-learning resource based on the design 2.3 Present and discuss the design with the client and obtain further feedback of the e-learning resource 2.4 Incorporate feedback and address any additional issues in the design 2.5 Confirm with client the design to be developed into the e-learning resource
3. Develop the e-learning resource	3.1 Identify the relevant people to collaborate with on the development of the e-learning resources 3.2 Determine the timelines and resource issues for the production of the e-learning resource 3.3 Consult and use relevant technical guidelines and requirements 3.4 Address any identified legal or ethical obligations or issues that arise in the development of the e-learning resource 3.5 Develop content and technical framework of the e-learning resources, and address any issues as they arise with relevant persons 3.6 Document the development of the e-learning resource
4. Review, trial and evaluate the e-learning process	4.1 Review the e-learning resource against the client brief, likely target audience and learning needs 4.2 Plan for trial of e-learning resource with potential users 4.3 Trial the resource with appropriate recording of outcomes and feedback 4.4 Analyse outcomes and feedback of the trial

	4.5 Make adjustments to finalise the e-learning resource
	4.6 Discuss and reflect on production of the e-learning resource

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical skills to:
 - identify design requirements
 - structure and weight the contents appropriately
 - determine appropriateness of feedback
- communication and interpersonal skills to:
 - clarify requirements with clients
 - collaborate with a range of people
 - seek feedback from others
- literacy and writing skills, including:
 - writing for different audiences
 - writing to the appropriate level
 - using an appropriate style
- review and analysis skills to:
 - identify areas for improvement
 - recognise personal limitations
- research skills to:
 - identify likely target audience
 - find content and relevant information
 - interview relevant people
- problem solving skills to:
 - address design issues
- technology skills to design and develop resources.

Required knowledge

- characteristics of the intended learner group or audience that may impact on learning, including:
 - language, literacy and numeracy competency
 - cultural, educational and other backgrounds
 - attributes or experience
- knowledge of current and emerging technologies available for e-resources
- project management knowledge to ensure the design and development meets requirements

- of budget, time, resources and administration
- principles around effective learning using technology, including multiple perspectives, opportunity for reflection and collaborative learning, variety and organisation of information
- a range of e-learning environments and products and their suitability for different learning outcomes and audiences
- design models and technical requirements for e-learning resources.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: - Research, design and develop e-learning resources that reflect client needs and the contexts of application, including: - the research and design of two e-learning resources, with documented evidence of: - consultation, research and findings - completed designs for the two resources - complete development of one resource with documented evidence of: - a review and trial of the resource, including user feedback and how this impacted on the development of the resource - the final e-learning resource, either complete or in part or sample - the candidate's specific role in the development process.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.
Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Brief may include:	• client proposal • identified gap in the learning product market • tender • organisational need • industry or professional need.
Focus may include:	• unit/s of competency • Training Package qualification/s • set of specific skills • accredited or a non-accredited course • learning program • learning resource.
Research may include:	• Internet research • questionnaires • evaluations of existing products • literature reviews • interviews • informal discussions • focus groups and workshops.
Likely target audience may include:	• who the e-learning resource is designed for • what the e-learning resource is designed for • why an e-learning resource is appropriate for this audience • how the e-learning resource will be used • where the e-learning resource will be used.

Characteristics may include:	• current skills and knowledge • access to computer technology • physical or learning disability • location • language, literacy and numeracy needs • learning styles and preferences • motivation for learning.
Existing relevant information may include:	• units of competency, qualifications and other parts of Training Packages • learning resources • e-learning resources • organisational policy • legal documents or requirements • OHS requirements • technical manuals.
Ethical and legal consideration may include:	• copyright of materials used • privacy or confidentiality issues • anti discrimination laws • occupational health and safety requirements • intellectual property issues.
Document may include:	• minutes of meetings with clients and other client correspondence • research findings • draft materials/ideas • draft e-learning activities • technical specifications • discussions about the e-learning resource • Training Packages, units of competency or other information providing learning content of the e-learning resource.
Learning theory may include:	• behavioural learning theory • cognitive learning theory • experiential learning theory • information processing theory, and • current research on learning as it relates to teaching in an adult environment.
Instructional design may include:	• learner-centred activities and interaction • collaborative learning opportunities

	• authenticity in learning and assessment activities • presenting material in a logical order and sequence and in order of increasing difficulty • opportunities for review of material and repetition • inclusion of a variety of approaches and techniques for presenting information and activities and for encouraging participation by learning • structure of information • ensuring learning is embedded in a realistic and relevant context • providing feedback to the learner • techniques to engage the learner.
Design for the e-learning resource should consider:	• the type of the e-learning resource • delivery methods • web based • computer based • digital collaboration • virtual environment • Internet/Intranet/Extranet • Podcasting or Webcasting • m-learning • learning management systems (LMS) • a combination of the above • the layout and appearance of the e-learning resource • the learning approach of the e-resource: • collaborative learning • problem solving • virtual or simulated environments or scenarios • self-directed learning • discovery learning • process learning • project-based learning • learning activities, such as: • tutorials • quizzes, problems or scenarios • case studies

	• images and graphics • audio • interviews • projects or tasks • simulation • online discussions or forums, e.g. blogs, Wikis.
Relevant people may include:	• project manager • instructional designer • software designer, programmer or author to write the e-resource • technical specialist, such as IT experts • graphic artist • content expert and writer • trainer, facilitator and/or assessor involved in the use of the e-learning resource.
Technical guidelines and requirements may include:	• type of electronic media to be used • integration of different electronic media • required software and hardware to develop and use the e-learning resource • transferability of the e-learning resource • accessibility issues, e.g. for users with audio or visual impairment • content formats, e.g. text, visual, audio • storage of the e-learning resource • the use of m-learning technology.

Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of

performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Interpret requirements and research competency area	1.1 Clarify with the client the purpose and scope for developing the unit of competency 1.2 Identify and confirm with relevant people the systems and processes necessary to manage the development of the unit of competency 1.3 Conduct initial research in the defined scope to identify relevant information to the unit of competency 1.4 Analyse work role using a variety of research methods 1.5 Establish overview of the factors necessary to competently perform work functions 1.6 Confirm research outcomes with relevant people
2. Draft the unit of competency	2.1 Access and interpret relevant guidelines to format and structure the unit of competency 2.2 Use the research outcomes and relevant guidelines to draft the unit of competency in the required format 2.3 Draft a consistent and accessible unit of competency using plain English and technical language appropriate to the audience 2.4 Confirm the draft unit of competency with relevant people
3. Validate the unit of competency	3.1 Plan and write a comprehensive consultation process to review, validate and obtain feedback on the draft unit of competency 3.2 Review the consultation process 3.3 Conduct the consultation process with relevant stakeholders 3.4 Collate and analyse feedback from the consultation process and modify the draft unit of competency to address any issues raised 3.5 Document the consultation process and outcomes 3.6 Conduct further consultation if necessary, and any further modifications to the draft unit of competency 3.7 Confirm findings with relevant stakeholders
4. Finalise the unit of competency	4.1 Ensure the draft unit of competency includes all relevant changes and the draft meets all requirements

	4.2 Consider and address any final issues in the draft unit of competency and deliver to the client 4.3 Evaluate and reflect upon the development process to identify and make improvements

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- cognitive skills to consider, filter and evaluate relevant information and develop appropriate recommendations
- communication and interpersonal skills to consult effectively with relevant people, discuss issues relevant to the development of the unit of competency and present information and advice
- facilitation skills to conduct and gather information from focus groups and workshops, and present findings and recommendations
- literacy skills for reading and interpreting information, plain English skills for presenting information, and appropriate technical literacy in the area of vocational competency, training and assessment
- reflection skills to consider the progress of, and responses to, the competency standard
- research and analytical skills to gather and examine information relevant to the development of the unit of competency.

Required knowledge

- sound knowledge of the operation of Training Packages
- current DEEWR guidelines for developing competency standards and any other related guidelines
- roles of National Occupational Health and Safety Commission (NOHSC) and DEEWR
- who to collaborate with to get information about competency standards and their development, such as:
 - Industry Skills Councils
 - employer organisations and unions
 - professional bodies
 - other developers
 - trainers
 - facilitators and assessors
- the difference between:
 - skills, knowledge and attributes
 - technical skills and generic skills
 - tasks and work functions

- the dimensions of competency and the format of competency standards
- a range of research methods, such as:
 - focus groups
 - structured interviews
 - observation
 - literature and internet research
- the vocational education and training environment
- relevant OHS knowledge relating to the work role and OHS considerations which need to be included in the content of competency standards.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • research, plan and draft three units of competency, with consultation and review processes for each unit • provide the draft units of competency that meet format requirements, each with a written report detailing: • discussions with the client to clarify the scope and purpose of the unit of competency • research undertaken, including methods and outcomes • consultation process and feedback • changes made to the unit of competency as a result of the consultation process.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.
Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

The client may include:	• DEEWR • Industry Skills Councils (ISCs) • enterprise or business • government department • organisation, including a training and/or assessment organisation • professional association or body.
Systems and processes may include:	• project management requirements, including project plan • establishment of reference group/steering committee • determining key stakeholders • using relevant software and computer equipment • records and financial systems.
Initial research may include:	• preliminary discussions/consultations with key stakeholders, such as: • personnel in the industry/organisation • technical experts or specialists in the field • representative organisations • literature and/or internet research • survey/interviews.
Relevant information may include:	• existing competency standards, including other standards that may cross over scope/coverage • outcomes of organisational training needs analyses • industry or other research reports identifying trends, new developments, technological changes, organisational changes and global developments • competency standards from other countries.
Research methods may include:	• interviews, with groups and individuals • reviewing documentation, e.g. position descriptions, procedures • observation • consulting with internal and external stakeholders.

Relevant people may include:	• client/client representatives • steering committee/reference group • manager.
Guidelines may include:	• current DEEWR guidelines • guidelines produced by other bodies responsible for the competency specifications such as professional bodies • state/territory accreditation authority guidelines • guidelines from other countries • internal organisational guidelines.
Consistent and accessible may include:	• using the language of the industry • reflecting realistic work outcomes, practice, skills and knowledge requirements • reflecting the job role, environment and context • reflecting the dimensions of competency.
Consultation process may include:	• defining the audience for the consultation, e.g. stakeholders, clients • establishing the methods for validation, e.g. workshops, presentations, meetings, email, internet • a defined time frame for feedback • a defined scope of the consultation, e.g. organisational, cross-industry or profession, local, state, national.
Relevant stakeholders may include:	• the client • individuals in the work area, industry or profession for whom the unit of competency was written • individuals connected to the work area, industry or profession, e.g. supervisors • industry or profession experts and/or peak bodies • other developers of competency standards or Training Packages, trainers, facilitators and/or assessors • ISCs • reference groups or steering committees • NOHSC.

TAEDES505A Evaluate a training program

Modification History

Version	Comments

TAEDES505A	Released with TAE10 Training and Education Training Package version 2.0

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to evaluate a training program to measure the effectiveness of training in meeting workforce performance needs and capability requirements.

In an AQTF context it can contribute to the continuous improvement cycle within a registered training organisation (RTO).

Application of the Unit

This unit typically applies to those who have responsibility for delivery and assessment strategies in the training programs of an organisation.

Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Plan and prepare evaluation	1.1 Document the aim and scope of the evaluation study 1.2 Identify the data and information required and access sources of information 1.3 Establish a project plan and timelines which identify tasks and stakeholders in the evaluation process 1.4 Select and brief staff to be involved 1.5 Establish constructive relationships with the stakeholders identified in the evaluation plan
2. Collect and collate evaluation data and information for a training program	2.1 Identify the most appropriate technique(s) for gathering quantitative and qualitative data and information 2.2 Develop evaluation instruments to gather data and information 2.3 Arrange workplace visits and meetings, and access to data and information 2.4 Collect data and information and store in compliance with the record keeping and privacy policies and procedures of the organisation 2.5 Identify and record potentially useful information which is not identified in the evaluation plan 2.6 Collate and process data relevant to the evaluation
3. Analyse evaluation data and information and make conclusions	3.1 Analyse the data and information to identify the outcomes of training and their impact on workforce capability 3.2 Cross-check findings where possible by comparing with the results from different evaluation instruments 3.3 Develop conclusions about the effectiveness and efficiency of the training program, as per the evaluation aim and scope 3.4 Document areas of training that are satisfactory and those requiring improvement 3.5 Identify factors affecting performance and suggest possible enhancements or alternatives to the training program
4. Report on the conclusions and	4.1 Document issues and conclusions arising from the analysis conducted

recommendations of the evaluation	4.2 Make recommendations to stakeholders on areas of possible improvement 4.3 Discuss preliminary findings with stakeholders 4.4 Produce an evaluation report and distribute to all stakeholders

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - evaluate information management systems, policies and procedures of an organisation
 - select relevant evaluation information and documentation
 - access and interpret the organisation's standards and values
 - analyse records/notes of the evaluation process
- communication skills to:
 - explain the evaluation process
 - give clear and precise instructions and advice
 - discuss the evaluation process with other relevant people
 - seek information relevant to the evaluation
 - discuss the evaluation outcome with the stakeholders
- language and literacy skills to:
 - interpret training program requirements (including, where appropriate AQTF requirements)
 - develop resources to support the evaluation process
 - communicate with key stakeholders
 - produce and maintain documentation
- planning and organising skills to:
 - plan projects
 - plan and sequence work programs
 - coordinate the work of self and others
- research and evaluation skills to investigate training and workforce data, and determine and implement appropriate improvement.

Required knowledge

- Commonwealth and state/territory legislation, codes of practice and standards, for example:
 - Training Packages and accredited courses, and what comprises quality training and assessment services
 - how training and/or assessment organisations operate

- terminology relating to quality evaluation processes
- evaluation models/methods, including the Kirkpatrick Model
- records management systems of the organisation
- other relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards, including Commonwealth and state/territory legislation, for example:
 - plagiarism
 - copyright and privacy laws
 - security of information and confidentiality requirements
 - duty of care, as it relates to coordinating personnel and learning
 - the industrial relations system, industry/workplace relations and industrial awards/enterprise agreements
 - anti-discrimination legislation, including equal opportunity, racial vilification and disability discrimination
 - vocational education and training systems
 - OHS relating to planning and conducting an evaluation.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • evaluate a training program against workforce performance needs and capability requirements • produce an evaluation report that addresses all phases of the evaluation process including recommendations on areas for improvement • critically review the evaluation process and approaches taken and propose changes to improve the process.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.
Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Aim of the evaluation study may include:	- evaluating the effectiveness of the training in meeting workforce needs - estimating the cost effectiveness of the training provided - evaluating outcomes of a learning or assessment process or product - determining or trialling new processes/products - establishing client satisfaction - ensuring learning/assessment strategies and programs are relevant to client needs and capability requirements - determining resource requirements - providing solutions to organisational performance problems.
Scope of the evaluation study may include:	- whole of training and/or assessment of the RTO - specific training and/or assessment services - specific training and/or assessment products - specific aspects of training and/or assessment systems - partner organisation arrangements - workforce training needs.
Data and information to be gathered may include:	- work performance - workplace productivity - employer feedback - trainee feedback.
Stakeholders in the evaluation process may include:	- employer organisations - training graduates - workplace supervisors and managers - trainers and assessors - training designers - HR managers.
Technique(s) for gathering data/information may include:	- surveys - group discussion sessions - researching of organisational performance data

	- conducting interviews with course graduates, their supervisors and managers, trainers/ facilitators and assessors - examining the organisations documents and systems, such as: - policies and procedures - learning and assessment strategies - training/assessment records - course evaluation questionnaires - resources for delivery and assessment including assessment tools.
Evaluation instruments may include:	- surveys - feedback forms - work performance specifications - questionnaires - diaries - logs - discussion group questions.
Alternatives to the training program may include:	- job redesign - change in supervision arrangements or work support - individual mentoring - communication and information campaign, e.g. posters, brochures - job aids, e.g. manuals - standard operating procedures (SOPs).
Areas of possible improvement may include:	- analysis of skills requirements and training needs - design of training and assessment strategies - training materials development - training delivery methods and resources - assessment methods and tools - employer and trainee liaison and management.

TAEEDU401A Coordinate provision of pastoral care services to international students

Modification History

Not applicable.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to coordinate provision of quality services and support required by international students enrolled in an Australian education institution. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to individuals coordinating the provision of pastoral care in a variety of international education contexts. They will be carrying out administration work using well developed skills and drawing from a broad knowledge base in one or more international education sectors (schools, English language training organisations, vocational education and training, higher education, postgraduate education). These organisations could be onshore or offshore and could be public or private.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Coordinate information on international students' pastoral care needs	1.1. Report relevant information regarding potential and actual pastoral care requirements of student groups and individuals 1.2. Establish and promote organisational risk management strategies in relation to provision of pastoral care services 1.3. Administer and report on results of organisational surveys and assessments of international student expectations and needs 1.4. Ensure information is in line with relevant legislation, regulations and codes
2. Provide effective advisory services to students	2.1. Monitor own communication skills to ensure effectiveness of pastoral care advice for students from diverse cultural backgrounds 2.2. Coordinate work roles and responsibilities, and identify and assess resources for advising students 2.3. Consult relevant personnel in pastoral care specialisations to identify roles and services 2.4. Formulate support programs and services to meet international student needs 2.5. Manage grievance processes using organisational policy and procedures 2.6. Manage student information and records, for compliance with privacy and confidentiality standards 2.7. Schedule consultation and debriefing for and with, work colleagues

3. Ensure compliance with legislation, regulations, codes and organisational policies	3.1. Select and record information about relevant legislation, regulations and codes in relation to provision of pastoral care services 3.2. Select and record information about organisational policy and practices relating to provision of pastoral care services 3.3. Communicate information in relation to compliance with relevant legislation, regulations, codes and organisational policies and procedures, to clients and stakeholders 3.4. Monitor and report on implementation of policy and processes in relation to provision of pastoral care for students, to ensure compliance 3.5. Monitor compliance with standards applicable to the provision of pastoral care services 3.6. Recommend adjustments to organisational policies and procedures to appropriate organisational personnel
4. Manage information and resources relating to provision of pastoral care	4.1. Review information about and access to, international student support and pastoral care services 4.2. Consult appropriate pastoral care services external to the organisation 4.3. Manage resources for information to international students and other stakeholders 4.4. Make adjustments to formats and access to information, according to compliance and organisational requirements 4.5. Implement and review improvements to communication systems
5. Coordinate quality assurance processes for provision of pastoral care	5.1. Review trends in the provision and uptake of pastoral care services 5.2. Establish quality indicators and strategies for developing appropriate organisational student support programs 5.3. Conduct comparative reviews of student support programs across a range of organisations 5.4. Implement and promote improvements in student support and pastoral care provision 5.5. Survey student satisfaction with pastoral care services and report to appropriate organisational personnel

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to interact effectively in an intercultural context with clients, co-workers and stakeholders; to handle sensitive matters; to effectively gather, convey, receive and act on information; to use effective questioning and active listening techniques; to apply appropriate cross-cultural communication techniques, to overcome communication barriers, and to give and receive feedback
- initiative and enterprise skills to access and consult relevant people, and to manage compliance and risks associated with pastoral care provision
- learning skills to access and understand requirements of relevant legislation and regulations, particularly the Education Services for Overseas Students (ESOS) Act 2000 and subsequent amendments, and related legislation; Department of Immigration and Citizenship (DIAC) guidelines for international students under 18 years of age; child protection; occupational health and safety; and privacy and confidentiality
- literacy skills to gather and record information relevant to provision of pastoral care services; to interact with others and report on compliance and outcomes
- planning and organising skills to maintain an accessible contact list
- problem-solving skills to resolve issues and conflict, and to negotiate outcomes
- self-management skills to provide adequate and accurate information to students, and to plan and support provision of pastoral care services
- technology skills to use a computer and other office equipment to access, record and retrieve information relevant to pastoral care and related student services.

Required knowledge

- aspects of pastoral care offered in a range of settings
- cross-cultural communication principles and protocols
- impact and influence of cultural difference on provision of pastoral care services
- international education workplace environment

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- legislative and regulatory requirements governing overseas students studying in Australia under the auspices of an Australian organisation
- limitation of responsibility and own role parameters in coordinating pastoral care provision in relation to the roles of pastoral care specialisations both within and external to the organisation
- organisational policies and procedures
- own work role and team's work role
- position and work roles of organisational personnel
- requirements of education and training legislation
- student support services and systems such as learning support and counselling services
- types of issues that could concern international students such as:
 - student wellbeing and welfare such as cultural adjustment, cross-cultural communications and expectations, illnesses, accidents, mental health problems, accommodation, financial matters, loneliness and isolation
 - course-related issues such as student progress, access to services, English language and other support
 - grievances and concerns such as assessment and marking concerns, bullying or intimidation, crimes, property and personal security issues
 - compliance related issues such as non-attendance or insufficient attendance, visa non-compliance, interruption of studies
 - staffing related issues such as professional limitation of staff responsibility and parameters of roles, staff performance, student/teacher workplace behaviour expectations, differentiation among staff roles and managing staff workloads, time and resources.

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessmentCritical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- applying and monitoring cross-cultural communication in the provision of pastoral care services in an international education context
- providing relevant information and quality advice

EVIDENCE GUIDE
	about the provision of pastoral care services in relation to international education at the appropriate work role level • coordinating, reviewing and improving the provision of pastoral care services in line with organisational policies, legislative and regulatory requirements • knowledge of legislative and regulatory requirements governing overseas students studying in Australia.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: • access to opportunities to participate in a range of practical exercises and projects • access to relevant documents.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate • evaluation of supervisor's reports • analysis of projects, case studies, completed records and reports developed by the candidate • review of organisational risk management strategies established and promoted in relation to the provision of pastoral care services • oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of impact and influence of cultural difference on the provision of pastoral care services • evaluation of communication of compliance information in relation to clients and stakeholders • review of reporting on student satisfaction survey with pastoral care services • analysis of documentation reviewing trends in the provision and uptake of pastoral care services.

Maintain the partnership	4.1 Use appropriate communication and interpersonal skills to develop and maintain a professional relationship with the organisation 4.2 Provide support for own staff when providing the service to the organisation 4.3 Encourage organisation to provide support for their own staff when undergoing training, development and assessment
5. Evaluate and review the partnership	5.1 Evaluate the recipients' reaction to the learning and development service 5.2 Evaluate the development in terms of the application of new skills, knowledge and attitude to the workplace 5.3 Analyse the changes the learning and development service has made to the organisation 5.4 Set up review criteria and review the partnership arrangement, in consultation with the organisation 5.5 Use evaluation and review processes to make suggestions for improving existing and future partnership arrangements, and report to relevant personnel

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and interpersonal skills to:
 - negotiate with the partner organisation
 - communicate with a wide range of personnel
 - communicate with diverse community groups or target groups
 - listen to needs of the organisation
 - maintain the partnership
 - provide support to staff
 - write proposals, agreements and reports
- initiative and enterprise to:
 - base learning and development services on organisational needs
 - put an emphasis on continuous improvement
 - plan quality assurance processes
 - develop a learning and development strategy
 - contextualise learning and development services

- planning and organising skills to:
 - conduct a skills analysis
 - organise required services
 - establish reporting and recordkeeping processes
 - review the partnership
- problem solving skills to:
 - analyse organisational needs
 - analysing strengths, weaknesses, opportunities of and threats to the partnership
 - analyse resource needs of the partnership arrangement
 - evaluate the learning and development service.

Required knowledge

- industry knowledge to understand:
 - the organisation's business and complexity
- emerging technologies and trends within the industry
- sound knowledge of the industry area of the partner organisation, including:
 - services and/or products
 - emerging technologies
 - business complexities
 - conditions
- sound knowledge of the partner organisation, including:
 - strategic direction and plans
 - staffing
 - reporting and recordkeeping requirements
 - relevant policies and procedures including quality and OHS procedures
- training and assessment practices and procedures, including:
 - customisation of units of competency, resources and assessment tasks to meet organisational needs
 - requirements of the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF).

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment	Evidence of the ability to:

and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	- develop and maintain key aspects of a partnership between an RTO and at least one organisation through the stages outlined in this unit, including: - preparing for a partnership with an organisation - negotiating the partnership - implementing the partnership - maintaining the partnership - evaluating and reviewing the partnership.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.
Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

RTO readiness may include:	- making decisions about: - who will benefit from the partnership and why - what services the RTO can provide - flexibility of the RTO - whether the RTO staff have the required skills - whether there are structures in place as required by the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF).
Organisation may include:	- industry groups such as industry associations or peak bodies - enterprises such as small, medium or large commercial organisations - community groups such as not-for-profit organisations.
Skills needed by RTO staff may include:	- communication skills - creativity and innovation

	• management • industry knowledge • knowledge of training and assessment methodologies and practices.
Services may include:	• learning and development services • human resources services.
Responsibilities may include:	• regular reporting and communication • provision of resources.
Resources may include:	• equipment • money • personnel for training, assessment, supervision or mentoring • space to provide learning and development services • time for staff to undertake training.
Organisational processes may include:	• confidentiality agreements • insurances • key contacts in each organisation • ownership of intellectual property • reporting arrangements.
Reporting and recordkeeping processes may include:	• expenditure and budget • personnel records of training completed • progress reports and updates • evaluations.
Parameters for quality assurance may include:	• Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) • organisational quality assurance policies and procedures of partner • industry, legal and ethical standards.
Review criteria may include:	• budget • challenges • commitment • communication processes • expectations • lessons learned • successes.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to initiate and implement advanced learning practice that supports the improvement of learning strategies in an organisational context. The unit also covers evaluating ways to improve learning practice, managing and monitoring means to improve learning, and analysing and advancing adoption of improved learning practice. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to leaders or managers using learning to build organisational capabilities. It focuses on using research, theoretical analysis and professional investigation to identify ways of improving learning practice and implementing appropriate pedagogy. Methods for improving learning practice include developing individual staff members from the perspective of the organisation's needs and imperatives, and enhancing outcomes for learners and candidates. The unit may relate to learning activities within a small to medium sized organisation, or to a significant unit of activity in a large organisation.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Evaluate ways to improve learning practice	1.1. Review advances in learning practice within a given vocational, training, educational or content area 1.2. Review and challenge existing learning practice to develop and test improved approaches 1.3. Analyse interests, abilities, relationships and contextual needs of relevant individuals when promoting improved learning practice 1.4. Research how a range of appropriate learning theories and instructional design principles can improve learning practice 1.5. Ensure learning practice reflects qualification requirements for nominated qualification/s

2. Manage and monitor means to improve learning	2.1. Observe and assess learner styles with respect to appropriateness of current vocational, training and educational learning strategies 2.2. Evaluate the role and impact of new technologies on learners and training techniques 2.3. Plan improved learning practice based on how learners currently learn 2.4. Plan improved learning practice based on experience and personal interests of the learner
3. Analyse and advance adoption of improved learning practice	3.1. Develop improved vocational, training and educational learning practice appropriate to learner characteristics 3.2. Advocate for improved vocational, training and educational learning practice 3.3. Initiate research into improved learning practice 3.4. Design and test improved learning practice in real-world situations 3.5. Mentor colleagues to promote improved learning practice

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - demonstrate and model varied delivery and facilitation methods and techniques
 - give instruction, presentations and lectures
 - guide facilitation of individual and group learning activities, group work and case studies
 - initiate and facilitate group discussions
 - brainstorm activities
 - provide and guide practice opportunities
 - enable and support effective learner participation
 - tutor
 - conduct project-based activities
 - coach and mentor

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- undertake blended delivery
- learning-related skills to monitor learner progress, difficulties and readiness for assessment or new areas of learning
- planning and organising skills to evaluate effectiveness of learning practice, and to analyse and identify suitable learning practice and learning strategies for groups and individual learners
- teamwork skills to monitor group and individual interactions
- technology skills to complete electronic research, and to review and discuss learning modes and practice that involves information and communication technology.

Required knowledge

- contemporary policy and approaches to vocational learning and assessment
- content and requirements of the relevant delivery and assessment strategies
- content of learning resources and learning materials
- design and management of learning objects and content
- different learning styles and how to encourage learners, for example:
 - theoretical learners
 - pragmatic learners
 - activist learners
 - reflective learners
 - kinaesthetic learners
 - audio learners
 - visual learners
 - tactile learners
 - left and right brain learners
- learners and context of learning
- learning principles, for example connections of learning and experience, and adult learning principles
- range of appropriate learning strategies, and teaching and assessment methods
- research skills relating to pedagogical theory and practice, learner interests and changing learning styles, and application of information and communication technology to learning and teaching
- sources and availability of relevant learning resources and learning materials
- theory and practice relating to adult learning
- training techniques which enhance learning and when to use them, for example using:
 - instruction and explanation
 - questioning
 - practice

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- written information
- group, pair and team activities
- individual activities
- demonstration.

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessmentCritical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- knowledge of adult learning practice
- construction of pedagogically sound contextually relevant learning strategies and improved learning practice
- research on theory and practice in relation to advanced learning practice, especially where these are enabled by new content solutions, vocational, training and educational approaches, or technologies.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- competence is consistently demonstrated over time, and over a range and variety of complex situations
- access to required assessment facilities and resources.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate
- review of applied projects or learning activities, relating to the research, construction and testing of advanced learning practice for a specific target audience and learning content in a given vocational, training and educational context
- direct observation of contextual application of skills

	oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of constructing and implementing advanced vocational, training and educational learning practice.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: - BSBINN801A Lead innovative thinking and practice - BSBLED701A Lead personal and strategic transformation - BSBLED702A Lead learning strategy implementation.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT
The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.
Learning practice may be:	applicable pedagogy or learning theories and their relationship to the vocational, training and educational strategies, techniques and approaches that can be used to improve learning
Relevant individuals may include:	- employers - employees, staff - government agencies and departments - industry associations, employer bodies - industry representatives - learners/students - national Industry Skills Councils - professional associations - regulatory, licensing, compliance authorities - research agencies - state and territory industry training advisory bodies - subject or technical specialists and experts

	• unions • universities
Appropriate learning theories may include:	• action science • applied learning models • behavioural learning theory • cognitive learning theory • constructivist • discovery learning • humanistic • information processing theory • problem-based • situational • social learning
Instructional design principles may include:	• application of adult learning principles • inclusion of a variety of approaches and techniques for presenting information and activities and for encouraging participation by learning • need for learner activity and interactivity • opportunities for review of material and repetition • presenting material in a logical order and sequence • presenting material in order of increasing difficulty • structuring information effectively
Qualification requirements may include:	• relevant Training Package qualification packaging rules • Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) guidelines for qualifications, including: • key features of each qualification • guidelines for each qualification title • national guidelines on cross-sector linkages • issuing a qualification • Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) Standards for State and Territory Registering/Course Accrediting Bodies • levels and aspects of communication as described in the National Reporting System (NRS)

Learner styles may include:	• activist • auditory • global, analytical • kinaesthetic • left and right brain • pragmatist • theoretical • reflective • visual
Learning strategies would include:	• being logical, innovative and engaging to the learner group • establishing the learning context • identifying learner and client needs • identifying the delivery and assessment arrangements • identifying units of competency or other criteria which best reflect these needs • indicating pathways to, from and within the qualification; identifying the operational resources needed to deliver the strategy • outlining the learning framework which has been designed and sequenced to maximise learning • providing a review process both before and after implementation
Training techniques may include:	• demonstration • group, pair and team activities • individual activities • instruction and explanation • practice • questioning • written information
Learner characteristics may include:	• cultural background and needs • employment status • language, literacy and numeracy requirements • level of formal schooling in Australia or overseas • level of maturity • past learning experiences • preferred learning styles • specific needs, physical or psychological

Research may be compiled through:

- evaluations of existing products
- focus groups
- informal discussions
- internet
- interviews
- literature reviews
- questionnaires
- workshops

TAELED704A Review enterprise e-learning systems and solutions implementation

Modification History

Not applicable.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to design, review and implement advanced enterprise electronic learning (e learning) solutions as a member of a senior management team. The unit covers evaluating trends in e learning in relation to organisational plans, monitoring e learning resources, and ensuring any proposed solutions are tested and evaluated against organisational requirements. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to leaders or managers working to ensure learning can enhance individual, team and organisational capabilities. Managing the introduction of information and communication technology (ICT) to positively affect learning related processes and procedures may involve a complex range of considerations and choices. Processes to oversee and guide the evaluation of e learning technologies and systems are often necessary to support the provision of quality training and assessment services. The unit may relate to learning activities within a small to medium sized organisation or to a significant unit of activity in a large organisation. Leaders in learning can be required to improve how an organisation adopts, modifies or integrates existing ICT learning and related processes.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Evaluate trends in e learning	1.1. Identify and differentiate forms of e-learning 1.2. Analyse trends in deployment of ICT in education and learning 1.3. Analyse and evaluate integration of ICT for learning and business purposes 1.4. Explore how the convergence of different technologies can affect learning practice

2. Monitor e learning resource alignment to organisational requirements	2.1. Research trends in teaching methods associated with different types of electronic learning resources 2.2. Determine organisation's strategic and learning requirements 2.3. Analyse and report risks associated with e-learning implementation 2.4. Devise policy and procedures to ensure brief, focus and type of e-learning resources are designed appropriate to organisational requirements 2.5. Establish how international e-learning regimes, human resources and learning policies and procedures will affect the design of e-learning resources
3. Test and evaluate e learning solutions	3.1. Set the parameters for testing e-learning solutions consistent with technical, user and organisational requirements 3.2. Review e-learning resources and e-learning systems or solutions against criteria tied to learner and organisational requirements 3.3. Adjust learning resource design or delivery methods where required to meet changing user and organisational requirements 3.4. Test and evaluate instructional design principles as appropriate for the given focus and context 3.5. Consult with learners, educators, designers and other personnel to evaluate constraints relating to organisation's e-learning systems and resources 3.6. Use research findings and reports on suggested improvements to e-learning resources or systems design to inform future practice

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - collaborate and work with vendors and consultants

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- share ideas and information
- seek feedback on e-learning design
- research suitability of learning content for electronic development
- identify constraints, resources, standards and guidelines required to design and developing e-learning resources
- learning-related skills to represent e-learning design in a variety of ways such as:
 - describing learner's pathway through a program to a designer
 - writing e-learning pathways in a report
 - describing e-learning pathways in a sketch or drawing
 - referring to examples of other e-learning products with similar attributes to the desired online outcome
- planning and organising skills to:
 - develop a learning strategy for an organisation
 - anticipate or predict risks
 - plan for contingencies
 - generate options for e-learning resources
- problem-solving, initiative and enterprise skills to:
 - research and analyse learning theory and processes
 - design e-learning resources that meet Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) and other formal requirements, for example when designing resources to support endorsed Training Packages
- teamwork skills to collect and respond to user feedback to improve e-learning solutions and resources
- technology skills to:
 - use and understand electronic technology
 - identify international standards regimes and specifications that apply to the design of e-learning
 - confirm the technology to be used for different modes of teaching and learning.

Required knowledge

- assessment instrument and strategy design
- continuous improvement processes
- e-learning resource and systems testing and evaluation strategies
- information technology principles and terminology for example those related to using the internet, reviewing technology capabilities, describing e-learning methodologies and using related vocabulary
- how to create an effective learning experience using electronic technology, for example by using:
 - multiple perspectives
 - opportunities for reflection

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- opportunities for collaborative learning
- authentic assessment
- incremental learning
- variety
- organisation
- good practice design
- instructional design for electronic materials, for example:
 - systematic instructional strategies
 - learning design principles
 - criterion-referenced assessment
 - order of increasing difficulty
 - opportunities for review of material and repetition
 - need for interactivity
 - inclusion of a variety of approaches and techniques for presenting information and activities
 - structure and sequencing of information
 - what happens if the learner makes a mistake
 - how to get help
 - techniques to hold user's attention
 - designing visual interface for improved learning, including graphics, use of fonts and white space, repetitive items
- learning strategy design
- organisational learning theory
- organisational policies and procedures
- quality management compliance requirements
- relevant obligations under the AQTF Standards for Registered Training Organisations (if applicable)
- range of e-learning environments and their application in designing e-learning resources
- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards including commonwealth and state/territory legislation.

Forms of e-learning may vary with:

- assessment or qualification outcomes
- blending with other modes of teaching (for instance blending classroom with online delivery)
- instructional design
- means of access
- mode of teaching
- standards compliance
- technology involved

Business purposes may vary with factors and issues relating to:

- ability to gain and respond to customer feedback
- available resources (in all their form)
- business systems
- changes to workflow and processes
- competency, capability and skills of the workforce
- culture and values
- economic change
- emerging technologies
- executive support for innovation
- external
- globalisation

RANGE STATEMENT
	• government regulations, policy or funding initiatives • internal • labour market and industry changes and restructures • learning culture • management practices • new business models • new markets • research and development focus and support • shift to knowledge economy or new economy • structure and design of work in the organisation • technology change and convergence • vision, core purpose and capabilities
Brief may include:	• identified gap in learning product market • proposal developed for a client or supplier of products and services • tender for an organisational need
Organisational requirements may include:	• access and equity principles and practices • business and performance plans • collaborative or partnership arrangements • confidentiality requirements • defined resource parameters • ethical standards • goals, objectives, plans, systems and processes • legal and organisational policies, guidelines and requirements • occupational health and safety policies, procedures and programs • quality and continuous improvement processes and standards • quality assurance and procedures manuals • recording and reporting procedures
International e-learning regimes such as:	• Advanced Distributed Learning Co-Laboratory (ADL Co-Lab) (i.e. Sharable Content Object Reference Model - SCORM) • Aviation Industry Computer-based training Committee (AICC) • IMS Global Learning Consortium (i.e. IMS Learning design)

	• Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE) (i.e. Learning Object Metadata - LOM)
Human resources and learning policies and procedures may include:	• framework for consultation processes with industry for development of training and/or assessment services • framework under which the provision of training and assessment services is conducted • identification of roles and responsibilities of key personnel in an organisation • mechanism to facilitate continuous improvement within the training and assessment organisation • transparency of the training and assessment organisation's approach to training or assessment services
E-learning resources may include:	• assessment materials • generic skills materials • industry or enterprise specific materials • information about the audience for the learning resource • learning objects, activities • professional development materials • self-paced or instructor-led materials • trainer or facilitator materials • Training Package toolboxes
E-learning systems or solutions may include:	• ICT deployed as infrastructure, hardware, software, or applications to support the full range of learning activities (i.e. from design to reporting of outcomes)
Instructional design principles may include:	• ensuring learning is embedded in a realistic and relevant context • how to get help • inclusion of a variety of approaches and techniques for presenting information and activities and for encouraging participation by learning • need for authenticity in learning and assessment activities • need for collaborative learning opportunities • need for learner-centred activities and interactivity

	• opportunities for review of material and repetition • presenting material in a logical order and sequence, and in order of increasing difficulty • structure of the information • techniques to engage the learner in learning • what happens if the learner makes a mistake (feedback)
Focus may include:	• accredited course • individual units of competency, modules of accredited courses • learning program • learning resource to support introduction or implementation of new technology or equipment • non-accredited course • traineeship or apprenticeship qualification • Training Package • Training Package qualification
Constraints relating to organisation's e-learning systems and resources may include:	• access to relevant technical or subject matter experts • anticipated difficulties due to language, literacy and numeracy skills of learners/end users • financial limitations to achieve proposed options • limited access of intended learners/end users to the necessary technology • limits of the technology and what types of things it can do • logistical issues • low levels of information technology skills of trainers or facilitators and intended learners/end users
Research findings may be compiled through:	• evaluation of existing products • focus groups • informal discussions • internet • interviews • literature reviews • questionnaires

TAELED801A Design pedagogy for e-learning

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This Unit first released with TAE10 Training and Education Training Package version 3.0 .

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to evaluate how current pedagogical practices can be transformed to capitalise on the increasing options for learning based on the immediacy, mobility and portability of technology.

The unit develops the advanced theoretical and technical knowledge required to respond to the implications associated with learning now occurring any time, any place, on a range of digital devices, from a variety of digital sources, and with anyone from around the globe.

It develops the skills required to examine highly effective pedagogies based on the increasing use and availability of a wide range of e-learning options.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to teachers, trainers, educators and facilitators wanting to develop advanced pedagogical skills and knowledge based on the increasing range of learning options now available with technology.

They can use the skills and knowledge to analyse, evaluate and transform information in order to implement, manage and supervise the application of effective pedagogies using a range of e-learning options.

The unit may relate to learning activities in a small to medium sized organisation, or to a significant unit of activity in a large organisation.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Pre-Requisites

4. Use technology to personalise learning	4.1 Implement a program to allow learners to use a range of web services to create their own online learning environment 4.2 Use online analytical tools and data to understand and evaluate learning in an organisation 4.3 Design constructive procedures for learners to access, interpret and effectively use their own analytical learning data

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - advocate for change processes to implement new learning options
 - conduct project-based activities
 - demonstrate effectiveness of new learning options
 - initiate and facilitate group discussions
 - present research findings on the impacts of e-learning strategies
 - seek feedback on e-learning designs
 - share ideas and information
- pedagogical skills related to effective learner progress, in order to:
 - develop differentiated learning programs
 - assess the effects of e-learning
 - initiate self-directed learning
- planning and organising skills to:
 - evaluate e-learning options to cater for the unique learning needs of each learner
 - develop learning strategies for individuals, groups and organisations
 - provide diverse and relevant e-learning options
- teamwork skills to:
 - collect and respond to feedback on e-learning initiatives
 - develop solutions and resources to support e-learning
 - monitor individual, group and organisation interactions
- technology skills to:
 - ensure technology infrastructure supports e-learning initiatives
 - identify and use appropriate e-learning designs and software
 - undertake web-based e-learning research
 - use online collaborative tools to support e-learning initiatives.

Required knowledge

- contemporary policy and approaches to learning and assessment
- content and requirements of the relevant delivery and assessment strategies
- content of learning resources and learning materials
- design and management of e-learning resources
- different learning styles and how to encourage learners
- pedagogical theory and practice, learner interests and changing learning styles, and application of ICT to learning and teaching
- range of individual learner needs and learning contexts
- learning principles relevant to e-learning
- range of appropriate learning strategies, and teaching and assessment methods
- range of individual learner needs and learning contexts
- sources and availability of relevant learning resources and learning materials

- training techniques that enhance learning and when to use them.

The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate • review of applied projects or learning activities, relating to the research, construction and testing of advanced learning practice for a specific target audience and learning content in a given vocational education and training context • direct observation of contextual application of skills • oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of constructing and implementing advanced vocational education and training learning practice.

Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • TAEASS801A Analyse, implement and evaluate e-assessment • TAEDEL801A Evaluate, implement and use ICT-based educational platforms • TAEDEL802A Use e-learning with social media • TAELED703A Implement improved learning practice.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Recent research may be compiled through:	• evaluation of existing products • focus groups • ICT reports • informal discussions • internet • interviews • literature reviews • questionnaires • workshops.
E-learning programs may include:	• all online – no face-to-face learning sessions • synchronous and asynchronous • blended learning – combination of online and face-to-face • cloud-based • computer-based • face-to-face programs • instructor-led group • self-directed study

	• self-directed study with subject matter expert • web-based.
Existing learning practices may include:	• class-focussed instruction • classroom teaching • direct instruction • group learning • independent learning • summative assessment • teacher-controlled assessment • teacher-developed curriculum • teacher-directed learning.
Learning criteria may focus on:	• commitment to achievement • extending personal limits • high levels of motivation • learner engagement • learning essential skills • personal skill development • positive attitudes to self and others.
Readily available technology devices may include:	• games consoles • GPS devices • iPods • laptop computers • MP3/4 players • personal computers • personal digital assistants • smartphones • tablets • web-enabled televisions.
E-learning software options may include:	• blogging tools • cloud-based options • content authoring tools • dynamic learning objects and activities • online collaborative networks • online learning resources • organisational tools • proprietary learning software • survey tools.
Learning styles may include:	• activist learners • audio learners • kinaesthetic learners • pragmatic learners

	• reflective learners • self-directed learners • tactile learners • theoretical learners • visual learners.
Global access to like-minded learners may be:	• blogs • collaborative online networks • online expert groups • online forum groups • social networks • wikis.
Co-creators of their own learning may involve:	• communication and collaboration • ICT-enabled research and content creation • use of content authoring tools • web publishing.
Online learning environment may mean:	• content management system • game-based learning • ICT-enabled access to knowledge • learning management system • simulated learning • virtual learning environments.
Online analytical tools and data may be:	• adaptive software • data mining tools • direct assessment tools • learning analysis software • software delivering instant feedback.

TAELED802A Investigate the application of ICT content knowledge

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This Unit first released with TAE10 Training and Education Training Package version 3.0 .

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to analyse and apply effective ICT solutions and practices to meet the needs of various educational institutions.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to practitioners working to develop and apply a wide range of ICT knowledge. It equips educators to knowledgeably analyse and apply various technologies in an educational setting.

Educators may need to seek the assistance of an ICT technical specialist, depending on the limitations of their own technical skills and knowledge.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

Element	Performance Criteria
1. Identify ICT standards and trends for an educational context	1.1 Identify hardware and software standards currently in use 1.2 Identify and analyse network technology standards currently in use 1.3 Analyse trends in deployment of ICT in education and learning
2. Analyse competing new technology solutions	2.1 Identify specific educational requirement that can be met by technology 2.2 Identify range of functions and capabilities supplied by benchmarking competing technologies 2.3 Select critical features of competing technologies for analysis 2.4 Conduct an analysis of technologies using various performance indicators 2.5 Select and report on appropriate new technology by considering the analysis of critical features
3. Develop a strategy to optimise current technology	3.1 Identify unused capacity in existing technology 3.2 Identify applications for unused capacity appropriate to educational outcomes 3.3 Develop, and present where required, a strategy for exploiting additional capacity 3.4 Assess the cost and efficiency of the strategy against available resources and budgets 3.5 Recommend a course of action in line with the assessment

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- cognitive skills to:
 - review, analyse, consolidate and synthesise knowledge about current ICT-related technologies relating to education
 - think critically and generate and evaluate complex technical ideas
 - identify and provide complex solutions to ICT-related issues relating to education
- communication skills to:
 - collaborate and work with vendors, consultants and peers
 - conduct project-based activities
 - demonstrate and model varied delivery and facilitation methods and techniques
 - give presentations
 - initiate and facilitate group discussions in seeking feedback on applications for unused capacity
 - research suitability of learning content for electronic development
 - share ideas and information
- learning skills to:
 - analyse new areas of learning
 - evaluate effectiveness of learning practice, and analyse and identify suitable learning practice and learning strategies for groups and individual learners
- literacy skills to:
 - articulate ideas and information effectively
 - develop reports that deal with complex ideas and concepts
- numeracy skills to analyse, manipulate and validate data, specifications and reports
- planning and organising skills to:
 - anticipate or predict risks
 - develop a learning strategy for an organisation
 - plan for contingencies
- teamwork skills to:
 - monitor group and individual interactions when seeking feedback
 - respond to feedback to improve educational solutions
- research skills to ensure that all options are explored and recommendations are comprehensive and balanced
- technology skills to:

- complete electronic research
- confirm the technology to be used for different modes of teaching and learning
- review and discuss learning styles and practice involving ICT
- understand current ICT standards.

Required knowledge

- benchmarking principles to assess technologies
- budgeting and cost-benefit analysis principles
- contemporary policy and approaches to learning and assessment
- content and requirements of the relevant delivery and assessment strategies
- how to create an effective learning experience using electronic technology
- information technology principles and terminology, particularly those related to:
 - using the internet
 - reviewing technology capabilities
 - describing e-learning methodologies and using related vocabulary.

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the following is essential: • knowledge of contemporary ICT issues in an educational environment • documented review, analysis and recommendation of complex ICT solutions for an educational environment • research on theory and practice in relation to advanced learning practice, especially where these are enabled by new content solutions; and vocational education and training approaches or technologies.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: • competence is consistently demonstrated over time, and over a range and variety of complex situations • access to required assessment facilities and resources.

Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate • review of applied projects or learning activities, relating to the research • direct observation of contextual application of skills • oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of constructing and implementing advanced vocational education and training learning practice.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • TAEDEL801A Evaluate, implement and use ICT-based educational platforms • TAELED704A Review enterprise e-learning systems and solutions implementation.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Hardware and software may include:	• application: • database • internet browser • spreadsheet • word-processing • cloud-based solution • commercial • content management systems

	• customised • development tools • in-house • laptop • learning management systems • notebook • other mobile devices • peripheral devices • personal computer (Mac or PC) • personal digital assistant (PDA) • server • smartphone • student management systems • system: • computer security • device drivers • operating system • tablet (iPad or similar) • workstation.
Network technology may include:	• cabling infrastructure • internet • internet access • modems, routers and other connectivity devices • networks • remote sites • servers • virtual private network (VPN) • voice network • wide area network (WAN) • wireless networks.
Benchmarking competing technologies may include:	• assessment based on specifications and information presented by potential vendors • identifying organisations using different brands or versions of technology and comparing performance and functionality of other options • using operating data and direct testing to compare the performance of two or more competing technology products.
Critical features may include:	• capacity • compatibility with existing systems

	• cost of implementation • ease of implementation • end user friendliness • future expansion of the connection • speed of operation • training and support requirements.

TAEELN401A Address adult language, literacy and numeracy skills

Modification History

Not applicable.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to recognise the core language, literacy and numeracy (LLN) demands of training and assessment, and to tailor training and assessment to suit individual skill levels, including accessing relevant support resources.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit introduces trainers and assessors to core language, literacy and numeracy issues in training and assessment practice. Competence in this unit does not indicate that a person is a qualified specialist adult language, literacy or numeracy practitioner.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Determine the core LLN requirements of the training	1.1. Determine core LLN skill requirements of the training specification 1.2. Determine core LLN requirements of the training context 1.3. Use validated tools and other sources of information to determine existing core LLN skills of learners
2. Access specialist learning support	2.1. Determine the need for specialist core LLN assistance for the learner, based on evidence collected 2.2. Apply appropriate strategies for collaboration with specialist language, literacy and numeracy practitioners
3. Customise program to develop core LLN skills	3.1. Select and customise or develop learning and assessment materials that are appropriate to core LLN skills of training specification, training context and learners 3.2. Apply learning support strategies to assist learners to develop required core LLN skills 3.3. Continuously monitor and evaluate approaches to determine areas for improvement

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- language, literacy and numeracy skills to:
 - deliver effective training and assessment
 - analyse and apply the Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF) at a level appropriate to the outcomes of the unit
 - make judgements about the LLN requirements of learner skill levels and training
 - communicate with other professionals about LLN requirements
 - liaise with personnel, including managers or supervisors, from the training and/or assessment organisation
 - liaise with appropriate external authorities
 - interpret a wide range of documents
- self-management and organisational skills to meet the LLN requirements of learners
- interpersonal skills to:
 - encourage learner development
 - demonstrate sensitivity to cultural issues

Required knowledge

- definitions of core LLN skills, according to the ACSF
- methodology for determining skill levels using the ACSF
- national policy on the integration of LLN into training package competencies
- legislation and codes of practice, for example:
 - equal opportunity legislation
 - privacy legislation
 - organisational requirements
- OHS relating to the work role, including:
 - reporting requirements for hazards
 - emergency procedures
 - safe use and maintenance of equipment
 - sources of OHS information
 - OHS obligations of employers and employees, including supervisors

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE
The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.
Overview of assessment	Assessment must address the scope of this unit and reflect all components of the unit. A range of appropriate assessment methods and evidence-gathering techniques must be used to determine competency. A judgement of competency should only be made when the assessor is confident that the required outcomes of the unit have been achieved and that consistent performance has been demonstrated.
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • address core LLN issues in training and assessment practice on at least two different occasions • provide evidence that includes: • documentation setting out activities, resources and individual learning plans for a particular learner • third-party observations of the candidate with a range of learners • documentation of the use of the ACSF to determine LLN level.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided. Assessment must ensure access to: • specialist LLN practitioners for consultation and verification of approaches • tools based on the ACSF levels • training package support materials.
Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment	For further information about assessment of this and other TAE units, refer to relevant implementation guidance published on the IBSA website (www.ibsa.org.au).

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Core LLN skills include:	• core skills, as described by the ACSF • range of learning, reading, writing, oral communication and numeracy skills required to participate in work and the wider community.
Training specification may include:	• training package units of competency • learning outcomes from accredited courses with a vocational outcome • non-accredited industry specific learning programs.
Training context describes:	• environment in which the training takes place, which may include: • work setting • community setting • training organisation.
Validated tools to ascertain LLN levels include:	• tools based on the ACSF • information gained from an LLN specialist, including results from prior assessment.
Specialist core LLN assistance can include:	• specialist in-house support services • Workplace English Language and Literacy (WELL) program support • specialist consultants • team teaching approaches • mentoring • government and community support services.
Learning support strategies can include:	• demonstrating LLN practices to be learned in a workplace context • using plain English appropriate for the learner • using audio recording of texts • using video and/or audio material to support the training • providing simplified explanations of underpinning principles and concepts • providing explanations and examples of text types • ensuring that decision-making responsibilities are shared with learners • encouraging use of learners' personal word lists and dictionaries • mentoring in a learning situation • acknowledging and building on strengths of learners • providing opportunities to discuss, attach importance to, and build on different culturally-based behaviours and values.

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to use strategies to support adults to extend their language, literacy and numeracy skills. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

This unit typically applies to those in the vocational education and training sector who support adult learners to develop language, literacy and numeracy skills as part of their role. These VET practitioners require some knowledge of adult language, literacy and numeracy, a sound knowledge of the Australian Core Skills Framework, as well as strategies to support learners enrolled in VET programs. They may be supported by a coordinator or other colleagues more experienced in adult literacy and numeracy provision.

This unit also applies to those working in community programs or the workplace.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

ELEMENT

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Analyse the purpose and context for language, literacy and numeracy development	1.1 Analyse the language, literacy and numeracy requirements of the training specification or learning situation 1.2 Analyse the language, literacy and numeracy requirements of the training context
2. Determine learners' language, literacy and numeracy skill level	2.1 Identify each learner's language, literacy and numeracy background 2.2 Identify factors or potential barriers that may affect the learner's development of language, literacy and numeracy skills 2.3 Determine learner's existing language, literacy and numeracy skill level using relevant validated tools and other approaches
3. Design and apply strategies to develop literacy and numeracy skills	3.1 Examine limited range of strategies to develop reading, writing, speaking, listening and numeracy skills 3.2 Analyse strengths, needs and learning strategies of learners in relation to goals 3.3 Confirm areas for skill development with learner 3.4 Select and implement strategies 3.5 Access relevant language, literacy and numeracy learning resources 3.6 Modify resources to meet language, literacy and numeracy learning needs, and in relation to context
4. Review strategies	4.1 Monitor learner progress 4.2 Seek support and feedback from colleagues whenever required

	4.3 Review strategies in terms of their effectiveness and feedback received

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to communicate with a range of people for varying purposes to:
 - clarify meaning
 - give and respond to feedback
 - provide instruction
 - teach technical terms and language
- computer skills to teach digital literacy skills
- literacy skills to:
 - customise learning materials to suit reading levels of learner
 - design and produce materials
 - locate and evaluate information within texts
 - write fluently, accurately and legibly using appropriate text types
- numeracy skills to:
 - explain terminology, processes and calculations
 - use a combination of formal and informal oral mathematical and general language
- planning and organising skills to plan learning opportunities for learners
- problem-solving skills to:
 - analyse, identify and develop strategies to meet identified challenges
 - identify difficulties of those participating in provision
 - select and use a variety of problem-solving strategies
- self-management and learning skills to:
 - develop and adjust own teaching practice
 - reflect on and improve own professional practice
 - use advice from colleagues and others to adjust strategies
- teamwork skills to cultivate collaborative and participative work relationships.

Required knowledge

- current function of language, literacy and numeracy skills in Australian society, including how LLN skills impact an individual's participation in work, education and community
- the profile of language, literacy and numeracy competence in Australia,

according to recent research, such as surveys conducted by Australian Bureau of Statistics

- the Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF)
- how context affects language use, including:
 - how choice of linguistic style is affected by roles and relationships
 - how levels of formality are affected by factors such as age, role and ethnicity
 - how meaning making relies on linking to context
 - how people may be more proficient in some contexts and less in others
- variety of ways texts can be approached, depending on purpose of reader, for example skimming, scanning and critical analysis
- numeracy and language knowledge to the level of the numeracy and language being taught.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • determine language, literacy and numeracy levels using tools based on the ACSF, for at least ten (10) learners • select and apply language, literacy and numeracy support strategies relevant to each learner's context and purpose, for at least ten (10) learners • review strategies.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure access to: • learners wishing to develop language, literacy and numeracy skills • appropriate adult literacy and numeracy teaching resources • support from colleagues. Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.
Method of assessment

Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Language, literacy and numeracy skills include:	- core skills, as described by the Australian Core Skills Framework - the range of learning, reading, writing, oral communication and numeracy skills required to participate in work and the wider community.
Training specification may include:	- training package units of competency - learning outcomes from accredited courses - non-accredited industry programs
Training context describes:	- the environment in which the learning takes place, which may include: - work setting - community setting - training organisation - may also include situational or sociocultural contexts.
Language, literacy and numeracy background may include:	- past experiences in the education system - country or location in which language was learned - the style by which language was learned - identity as a learner - age - culture - ethnicity - socioeconomic background.
Factors that affect development of language, literacy and numeracy skills may include:	- disability - emotional factors - ethnicity - learning difficulties - personal factors - physical factors, such as eyesight and hearing - socioeconomic status.

Potential barriers that affect development of language, literacy and numeracy skills may include:	• cultural barriers relating to, for example: • identity • language • personal barriers relating to, for example: • family circumstances • physical factors • previous formal schooling experiences • social circumstances • language barriers relating to, for example: • influence of the first language on later language learning • use of standard English or non-standard English • learning difficulties.
Validated tools include:	• tools based on the ACSF • tools validated by LLN specialists.
Other approaches for identifying learners with language, literacy and numeracy needs may include:	• learner cues, such as reluctance to complete work in class time, and distracting or avoidance activities • feedback from other practitioners • information from pre-training enrolment forms • limited exposure to English language.
Strategies to develop reading skills may include:	• critical literacy strategies • skimming, scanning and reading for detail • those that focus on sociolinguistic factors • those that focus on syntax, semantics and grapho-phonetic cues.
Strategies to develop writing skills may include:	• graphology for Roman script and word processing • features and use of grammar, punctuation and spelling and role of these in meaning making • working from models of texts • writing process of planning, drafting and editing.
Strategies to develop speaking skills may include:	• conversation • modelling and repetition • pair or group work • simulated work activities.
Strategies to develop listening skills may include:	• listening for key information in longer spoken text • modelling and repetition.
Strategies to develop numeracy skills may include:	• communicating number concepts, skills and information • discussing range of possible responses to problems • drawing on range of knowledge to solve problems

	• drawing on real-life problems • identifying and using appropriate strategies and processes to solve problems.
Goals may include:	• to work more effectively • those related to VET learning programs • employment • community participation • personal goals.
Colleagues may include:	• colleagues more experienced and familiar with working with learners with language, literacy and numeracy needs • colleagues working in other language, literacy and numeracy programs • coordinators of adult literacy and numeracy professional development programs.

TAELLN701A Analyse and apply adult literacy teaching practices

Modification History

Not applicable.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to analyse and apply effective adult literacy teaching practices to meet the needs of those participating in literacy provision in vocational education and training (VET) contexts. The unit also addresses the analysis and application of literacy theories and teaching strategies. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to practitioners working to develop literacy skills and knowledge. Adult literacy is offered in stand-alone courses or integrated into programs with an adult English language, numeracy or general education focus. Adult literacy is also delivered to individuals or groups in vocational training and in the workplace. An adult literacy practitioner requires skills and knowledge to deliver literacy at Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF) levels 1 to 5. The client profile of those wishing to participate in adult literacy and numeracy provision is typically culturally and linguistically diverse. The classroom, the workplace and the community may include those for whom English is their second, third or more language, who wish to improve their English language skills. The performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to develop English language skills are described in TAELLN703A Develop English language skills of learners. The skills and knowledge needed to deliver and assess adult literacy skills are covered in TAELLN704A Implement and evaluate delivery of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

1. Analyse and apply conceptual frameworks and theories underpinning literacy teaching	1.1.Examine theories that inform adult literacy teaching and their application 1.2.Identify relevant frameworks and structures 1.3. Apply adult learning principles to teaching literacy 1.4.Review range of provision for learning literacy in VET contexts
2. Research literacy requirements of those participating in literacy provision	2.1.Identify diversity of skills and backgrounds of those participating in literacy provision 2.2.Identify range of learning goals of those participating in adult literacy provision 2.3. Identify literacy embedded in everyday life, training and workplace tasks 2.4.Review own literacy skills and knowledge in relation to the required skills and knowledge
3. Select from a range of teaching approaches to develop participants' literacy skills and knowledge	3.1.Evaluate teaching approaches that support the development of participants' literacy skills and knowledge in authentic and relevant contexts 3.2.Evaluate suitability of strategies to teach awareness of how language works 3.3.Determine applicability of teaching approaches to specific needs, levels of literacy, learning styles, and context of those participating in literacy provision 3.4.Refer any issues arising from numeracy teaching role to appropriate person(s)
4. Select from a range of learning resources to develop participants' literacy skills and knowledge	4.1.Examine learning resources from traditional and new and emerging technologies, that link to literacy learning outcomes and promote learner engagement with tasks and activities 4.2.Evaluate materials relevant to social and cultural needs of those participating in literacy provision
5. Apply and evaluate strategies for teaching literacy skills and knowledge	5.1.Devise activities that integrate literacy skills appropriate to specific needs, levels of literacy, learning styles, and context of those participating in literacy provision 5.2.Devise and apply activities that integrate numeracy skills appropriate to specific needs and context of those participating in literacy provision 5.3.Apply strategies to teach reading and writing skills at text, sentence and word levels 5.4.Apply strategies to teach oral communication skills with a range of audiences

	5.5. Apply strategies to develop learning skills 5.6. Use formal and informal monitoring to evaluate effectiveness of teaching strategies

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - evaluate relevant theories and teaching approaches in relation to those participating in literacy provision
 - identify and analyse literacy embedded in selected contexts
 - interpret information from pre-training assessments to identify and respond to learner needs, goals, skills and learning styles
- communication skills to:
 - facilitate discussions to encourage sharing of strategies and exploration of different solutions to problems
 - give clear explanations, present concepts clearly and respond to questions effectively
 - vary teacher talk to adjust to the English language level of others, including code-shifting activities where relevant to learners
- computer skills to:
 - evaluate literacy development software
 - teach skills needed to use email, SMS messaging and the internet
 - teach software packages, including educational software
- initiative, enterprise and creativity to:
 - devise, select and vary teaching strategies
 - interpret literacy theories in light of current practices
 - seek appropriate resources and materials
- learning skills to maintain currency and relevance of knowledge
- literacy skills to:
 - analyse texts for teaching and learning purposes
 - customise texts to suit reading levels of audience
 - design and produce materials to facilitate learning
 - model written genres

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- read and interpret complex texts, analyse theoretical viewpoints and form judgements
- research current approaches to literacy teaching
- write complex texts that meet audience needs
- numeracy skills to:
 - communicate using formal and informal language, symbolic and diagrammatic representations and conventions of mathematics
 - identify mathematical information and meaning in activities and texts
 - solve a range of numeracy problems within adult contexts
- planning and organising skills to:
 - identify relevant resources
 - monitor and evaluate participant progress
 - plan a sequence of learning activities consistent with a conceptual framework
- problem-solving skills to:
 - analyse, identify and develop strategies to meet identified challenges
 - identify specific difficulties of those participating in literacy provision
- self-management skills to:
 - comply with requirements, codes of practice and organisational policies and procedures
 - maintain evidence of performance for a portfolio

Required knowledge

- adult learning principles and practices as they apply to teaching literacy
- applied linguistics for teaching purposes, for example:
 - code switching and use of non-standard Australian English
 - conventions of formal English in a range of genres and registers
 - text analysis, including how to analyse the linguistic structure and features of a text
 - understanding learner needs in a multilingual and multicultural learning environment
- cognitive processes involved in reading, writing, speaking and listening
- diverse needs of those participating in literacy provision and learning resources to support them
- English language systems and structures, including basic features of English grammar, phonology and lexis development
- knowledge of generic features of texts
- national standards, such as:
 - accredited course documentation
 - ACSF
 - Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF)

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF)
- Training Packages
- range of literacy provision in VET, the workplace and the community
- relationship of teaching practice to adult literacy teaching theories, such as:
 - applied linguistics
 - applied social theory and sociolinguistics
 - cognitive and metacognitive theories
 - critical literacy
 - humanistic and progressivist pedagogy
 - psycholinguistics
- variables that interact to determine the level of difficulty of literacy tasks, for example:
 - application of language in variety of settings, including personal communication, social communication or workplace communication
 - familiarity of context
 - length and complexity of text language and structure
 - degree of inference the reader is required to make or how explicit a text is
 - kind of information in a text, for example concrete compared to abstract
 - extent of support required to respond to a text

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- analyse frameworks, theories and teaching approaches that underpin the teaching of adult literacy, demonstrating a significant depth of knowledge, which has been applied to analyse the literacy needs of those participating in literacy provision
- select appropriate learning resources
- devise, select and apply adult literacy teaching strategies appropriate to learner needs and delivery context, and demonstrate the rationale for the selection
- evaluate effectiveness of teaching strategies.

EVIDENCE GUIDE
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure access to: • a suitable workplace environment • research about profiles of those participating in literacy provision • wide range of resources about adult literacy theories and approaches • resources to support adult literacy teaching. Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.
Method of assessment	A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct observation or video recording of candidate's adult language, literacy and numeracy practice • evaluation of a portfolio of evidence comprising: • learner responses and feedback • personal reflections • planning notes • preparation, such as detailed session plans, learning activities and assessment tools • samples of resources • review of work samples, which may include session plans, units of work, resources, assessment tasks, evaluations and other work documents • questioning to establish required knowledge • review of third-party reports.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • TAELLN702A Analyse and apply adult numeracy teaching practices • TAELLN704A Implement and evaluate delivery of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Applying adult learning principles may include:

- acknowledging learners' non-standard English as valid communication and a resource for learning
- acknowledging that literacy learners have an implicit knowledge of the grammar of spoken and written English, possibly including non-standard varieties
- acknowledging the impact on learning of sociocultural differences and attitudes to schooling
- assisting learners to assume increasing responsibility for defining their learning objectives, planning their own learning and evaluating their progress
- assisting learners to use learning resources, including new technology
- creating a supportive environment to encourage efforts to change and to take risks with new literacy learning
- emphasising experiential, participative and project-based instructional methods and appropriate use of modelling
- encouraging learners to draw on own life experience and world knowledge to make meaning from texts
- encouraging learners to reflect on ways literacy skills can empower them
- reinforcing learners' view of themselves as learners and doers, by providing for progressive mastery
- selecting tasks and content in learning resources appropriate to adult learners in a multicultural context
- supporting learners to make links between the development of their literacy skills and areas of current or future employment and other areas of importance to them.

Provision for learning literacy in VET contexts may include:

- community programs integrating literacy into activities
- literacy integrated into other VET programs
- literacy integrated into workplace activities, for example in Workplace English Language and Literacy (WELL) programs
- stand-alone adult literacy classes.

Diversity may include:

- individual characteristics that limit skills in literacy or

	ability to achieve goals, such as: • culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds • effects of socioeconomic factors • low levels of formal schooling • low or limited meta-cognition skills, including adults with a learning or mild intellectual disability • physical or socio-emotional disabilities that impact on learning • 'spiky profiles' where oral communication, reading and writing skills vary • range in individual's literacy skills in relation to established frameworks such as ACSF, Training Package requirements and accredited course levels • range of motivation that leads adults to seek literacy provision.
Learning goals may include:	• completing equivalent to compulsory schooling in Australia • completing VET course • gaining employment • improving own education • interacting with bureaucracy • interacting with family and community • maintaining current job or managing promotion to next level • pursuing own interests.
Identifying may include:	• analysing features of language at the level of: • discourse or text • sentence and phrase • analysing language of texts for teaching and learning purposes to establish the required literacy skills • analysing tasks to identify their level of difficulty • identifying vocabulary and grammar appropriate to genre and register in a particular context • interpreting requirements of training products and texts in wider use.
Teaching approaches may include:	• bilingual approaches or peer support where individuals have low levels of English language • developing lexical and grammatical choices appropriate to genre and register • drawing on range of supports to learning, such as assistive technology

	• encouraging learners to use own life experiences to illustrate and clarify learning • exploring learners' previous experiences of literacy learning so that learners' perceptions become more positive • multi-sensory approaches, and activities and resources that build on learners' strengths • sequencing activities to reflect increasing level of skill development • using a variety of learning modalities, including: • visual • kinaesthetic • sensory • using a variety of learning resources, including: • games • hands-on activities • real-life materials • visual materials • using strategies that teach learners dominant literacy practices.
Strategies to teach awareness of how language works may include:	• acknowledging the relationship between language and social, cultural, political and religious identity • analysing how language varies and changes to suit needs of different groups and how this influences language use • developing meta-language skills and including activities to support learners in their own use of meta-language • discussing language and power relations in order to encourage recognition of dominant language / standard English if appropriate • discussing the role language plays in the formation, maintenance and transformation of power relations • discussing the role language plays in meeting work requirements effectively in a workplace setting • teaching differences between spoken and written forms.
Learning resources may include:	• bilingual and multicultural resources • computer-based delivery, software applications, educational software and CDs • documentation drawn from a workplace or vocational environment • everyday texts used by adults, including newspapers, magazines, newsletters, and fiction or non-fiction texts • online resources, including browsers, websites and social networking sites • resources drawn from a workplace or vocational environment • technology used in everyday life, such as automated teller machines (ATMs) and ticket machines.

Devising activities at a range of levels of difficulty may include:	• analysing variables that underpin level of difficulty of literacy tasks • drawing on sample activities from levels 1 to 5 of the ACSF.
Strategies to teach reading skills may include:	• analysing texts as reflection of writer's culture, experiences and values • analysing features of a range of text types, including: • electronic and printed texts • multi-modal texts • texts containing visual elements • building decoding skills • building meaning-making strategies • developing vocabulary • discussing effectiveness of the text • discussing audience and purpose • using phonological strategies, such as: • letter-sound relationships • blending activities.
Strategies to teach writing skills may include:	• building skills through discussion, modelling, scribing, copying and group writing • building text level skills by: • sequencing, paragraphing and using cohesive devices • using layout features • developing sub-skills, such as: • graphology, including handwriting / word processing and punctuation • grammatical structures • vocabulary • spelling patterns of English • evaluating the effectiveness of writing • providing opportunities to draft and edit • selecting relevant texts as models

	• using, providing and constructing meaningful contexts and purposes for writing activities as they relate to specific requirements, such as workplace recording and reporting requirements.
Strategies to teach oral communication skills may include:	• analysing audience and purpose of communication, such as conveying informational requirements in the workplace • developing skills to use a range of registers and styles • interactional strategies, such as: • varying language to reflect changes in social relations or contexts • using voice tone, volume and content to suit different social contexts • using appropriate introductions and greetings • turn taking.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to analyse and apply effective adult numeracy teaching practices to meet the needs of those participating in numeracy provision in vocational education and training (VET) contexts. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to practitioners working to develop or support the development of numeracy skills and knowledge. Adult numeracy is offered in stand-alone courses, or integrated into programs with an adult English language, literacy or general education focus. Adult numeracy is also delivered to individuals or groups in vocational training, and in the workplace. While most adult literacy and language course delivery will be at Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF) levels 1 to 3, applications of numeracy in vocational contexts and within the community can often require ACSF level 4 or level 5 skills. An adult numeracy practitioner therefore requires skills and knowledge to deliver numeracy at a minimum of ACSF level 3.

	This unit aims to equip practitioners to analyse and apply numeracy teaching practices to a minimum of ACSF level 3. Numeracy teachers need to be aware of the limitations of their own mathematical skills and knowledge and may need to seek the assistance of a mathematics or technical specialist. They may also need to undertake professional development to increase their own skill levels for teaching contexts requiring numeracy beyond ACSF level 3. The skills and knowledge needed to provide adult numeracy skills are covered in TAELLN704A Implement and evaluate delivery of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Analyse and apply conceptual frameworks underpinning numeracy teaching	1.1.Examine theories that inform adult numeracy teaching and their application 1.2.Identify relevant frameworks and structures 1.3.Apply adult learning principles to teaching numeracy 1.4.Identify and review range of provision for learning numeracy in VET contexts
2. Research numeracy requirements of those participating in numeracy provision	2.1.Identify diversity of skills and backgrounds of those participating in numeracy provision 2.2.Identify range of learning goals of those participating in numeracy provision 2.3.Identify numeracy embedded in everyday life, training and workplace tasks 2.4. Research the mathematical knowledge required to meet the needs of the numeracy provision 2.5.Review own mathematical skills and knowledge in relation to required skills and knowledge and seek assistance of mathematics or technical specialist where required
3. Select from a range of teaching approaches to develop participants' numeracy skills and knowledge	3.1.Evaluate teaching approaches that identify mathematical information and meaning in authentic and relevant contexts and teach mathematical terminology and language 3.2.Evaluate teaching approaches that incorporate reasoning, problem-solving and estimation activities 3.3.Determine the applicability of different teaching approaches to specific needs, levels of numeracy, learning styles, and context of those participating in numeracy provision 3.4.Refer any issues arising from numeracy teaching role to appropriate person(s)
4. Select from a range of learning resources to develop participants' numeracy skills and knowledge	4.1.Examine learning resources from traditional and new and emerging technologies, that link to numeracy learning outcomes and promote learner engagement with tasks and activities 4.2.Evaluate materials relevant to social and cultural needs of those participating in numeracy provision
5. Apply and evaluate strategies for teaching	5.1.Devise activities that integrate literacy skills appropriate to specific needs and context of those participating in numeracy provision

mathematical skills and knowledge	5.2. Review and apply strategies to teach number, measurement, space and location, and data and statistics, appropriate to identified knowledge and level of difficulty 5.3. Examine and apply strategies to develop learning skills 5.4. Use formal and informal monitoring to evaluate effectiveness of teaching strategies

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - evaluate a number of theories and teaching approaches in relation to those participating in numeracy provision
 - identify and analyse numeracy embedded in selected contexts
 - interpret information from pre-training assessments to identify and respond to learner needs, goals, skills and learning styles
- communication skills to:
 - facilitate discussions to encourage sharing of strategies and exploration of different solutions to problems
 - give clear explanations, present concepts clearly and respond to questions effectively
 - vary teacher talk to adjust to the English language level of others
- computer skills to teach:
 - software packages, such as numeracy-specific educational programs and spreadsheets
 - skills needed to use email, SMS messaging and the internet
- initiative, enterprise and creativity to:
 - devise, select and vary teaching strategies
 - interpret numeracy theories in light of current practices
 - seek appropriate resources and materials
- learning skills to maintain currency and relevance of knowledge
- literacy skills to:
 - analyse texts for teaching and learning purposes

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- read and interpret complex texts, analyse theoretical viewpoints and form judgements
- research current approaches to numeracy teaching
- write complex texts that meet audience needs
- numeracy skills to:
 - communicate using formal and informal language, symbolic and diagrammatic representations, and conventions of mathematics
 - identify mathematical information and meaning in activities and texts
 - solve a range of numeracy problems within adult contexts
- planning and organising skills to:
 - identify relevant resources
 - monitor and evaluate participant progress
 - plan a sequence of learning activities consistent with a conceptual framework
- problem-solving skills to:
 - analyse, identify and develop strategies to meet identified challenges
 - identify specific difficulties of those participating in numeracy provision
- self-management skills to maintain evidence of performance for a portfolio

Required knowledge

- adult learning principles and practices as they apply to teaching numeracy
- diverse needs of those participating in numeracy provision and learning resources to support them
- formal and informal mathematical and general language, including some specialised mathematical language and terminology
- national standards, such as:
 - accredited course documentation
 - ACSF
 - Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF)
 - Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF)
 - Training Packages
- mathematical knowledge as required for teaching purposes (minimum ACSF level 3):
 - data and statistics
 - measurement
 - quantity and number
 - space and location
- mathematical knowledge to analyse and articulate a problem at ACSF levels 4 and 5, including to:
 - identify which operations are necessary
 - give possible approaches without necessarily being able to successfully solve

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- the problem
- range of numeracy provision in VET, including higher level mathematics provision
 - role that mathematics plays in conveying information, for example:
 - critical appreciation of the place of mathematics in society
 - interplay between mathematics, language, context and the political, social and cultural contexts within which the mathematics arises
 - relationship of teaching practice to theories that inform adult numeracy teaching, such as:
 - applied social theory, for example mathematics and culture, mathematics and gender
 - constructivism
 - critical literacy and numeracy
 - cultural use of specific mathematics
 - functionalism
 - variables that interact to determine the level of difficulty of numeracy tasks:
 - complexity of mathematical information or data
 - type of operation or skill
 - expected number of operations
 - kind of information included, for example how relevant it is to the task
 - type of match / problem transparency

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- analyse frameworks, theories and teaching approaches that underpin the teaching of adult numeracy, demonstrating a significant depth of knowledge, which has been applied to analyse the numeracy needs of those participating in numeracy provision
- select appropriate learning resources
- select and apply adult numeracy teaching strategies appropriate to learner needs and delivery context
- evaluate effectiveness of teaching strategies.

EVIDENCE GUIDE
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure access to: • a suitable workplace environment • research about profiles of those participating in numeracy provision • wide range of resources about adult numeracy theories and approaches • resources to support numeracy teaching. Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.
Method of assessment	A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct observation or video recording of candidate's language, literacy and numeracy practice • evaluation of a portfolio of evidence comprising: • learner responses and feedback • personal reflections • planning notes • preparation, such as detailed session plans, learning activities and assessment tools • samples of resources • review of work samples, which may include session plans, units of work, resources, assessment tasks, evaluations, and other work documents • questioning to establish required knowledge • review of third-party reports.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • TAELLN701A Analyse and apply adult literacy teaching practices • TAELLN704A Implement and evaluate delivery of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills.

Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Adult learning principles may include:	• acknowledging impact of cultural differences and attitudes on learner autonomy • assisting learners with a fear of mathematics or numeracy to overcome that anxiety • assisting learners to assume increasing responsibility for defining their learning objectives, planning their learning and evaluating their progress • assisting learners to use learning resources, including new technologies • creating a supportive environment to encourage efforts to change and to take risks with new numeracy learning • encouraging learners to draw on their life experience and world knowledge to make meaning from numbers • encouraging learners to reflect on ways numeracy skills can empower • explaining mathematical theories and concepts by linking to learners' existing knowledge • reinforcing learners' view of themselves as learners and doers, by providing for progressive mastery • selecting tasks and content in learning resources appropriate to adult learners • supporting learners to make links between the development of their numeracy skills and other areas of importance to them • using experiential, participative and project-based instructional methods.
Range of provision may include:	• community programs integrating numeracy into activities • numeracy integrated into financial literacy or money management programs • numeracy integrated into other VET programs • numeracy integrated into workplace activities, for example in Workplace English Language and Literacy (WELL) programs • stand-alone adult numeracy classes, or those integrated

	- into literacy classes - tuition from teachers of higher level mathematics.
Diversity may include:	- individual characteristics, for example: - culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds with differing experiences of learning mathematics - low levels of formal schooling - physical, intellectual, learning or socio-emotional disabilities that impact on learning 'spiky profiles', where numeracy skill levels are different from literacy or oral communication skill levels - effects of socioeconomic factors - where skills in numeracy limit ability to achieve goals - range in individual's numeracy skills in relation to established frameworks such as ACSF, Training Package requirements and accredited course levels - range of motivation that leads adults to seek numeracy provision.
Learning goals may include:	- completing equivalent to compulsory schooling in Australia - completing VET course - gaining employment - improving ability to make informed financial decisions and interact with financial institutions - interacting with family and community - maintaining current job or managing promotion to next level - pursuing own interests.
Researching the required mathematical knowledge may include:	- analysing tasks and texts for teaching and learning purposes to establish the required numeracy skills - analysing tasks and texts to identify their level of difficulty - examining mathematical terminology - interpreting requirements of training products and texts in wider use.
Mathematical skills and knowledge may include:	- data and statistics: - gathering and organising data - interpreting and presenting data - understanding everyday probability and chance events and terminology

	• measurement: • length, mass (weight), volume, temperature and time • estimating, measuring and comparing objects using formal and informal methods • recognising and identifying relationships between attributes • selecting and using appropriate units of metric measurement • number: • counting and numeration, including place value • whole numbers, fractions, decimals and percentages • computation and applying number • computation and estimation • identifying number patterns and relationships • simple ratio and scale • space and location: • recognising and identifying shapes and objects • symmetry relevant to common shapes • reading and interpreting location in relation to maps and street directories • calculating simple area, perimeter and simple angles of different shapes.
Teaching approaches may include:	• a range of classroom activities delivered: • to individuals • in small groups • to a whole group • bilingual approaches or peer support where individuals have low levels of English language • drawing on range of supports to learning, such as assistive technology • encouraging use of own life experiences to illustrate and clarify learning • modelling numeracy operations • projects and investigations • referring to other educational and community services for support, including for higher level mathematics • sequencing activities to reflect increasing level of skill development • using a variety of learning modalities, including: • visual

	• kinaesthetic • sensory • using a variety of learning resources, including: • games • hands-on activities • real-life materials • visual materials • using strategies to overcome the effects of numeracy and number anxiety • verbal-based approaches, such as discussions and 'questions and answers' to explore, plan, generalise, hypothesise, test ideas and form conclusions • verbalising processes to establish linkages between language of mathematics and operations, symbols and key words.
Issues arising from numeracy teaching role may include:	• areas that involve higher level mathematical skills and knowledge (at or above ACSF level 4) • knowledge of application of numeracy in particular contexts, such as a particular workplace or vocational application.
Appropriate persons may include:	• those with higher level mathematical knowledge • those with knowledge of specific applications • those who use numerical information for other purposes, such as workplace supervisor managing and reporting on outputs.
Learning resources may include:	• bilingual and multicultural resources • calculators, graphic calculators and abacus • computer-based delivery, software applications, educational software and CDs • everyday household and realia / authentic materials, for example: • newspapers and magazines • utility bills, bank statements and information leaflets • shopping and advertising materials • goods and materials, including foodstuff, packaging and containers • domestic measuring equipment, such as scales, cups, builder and dressmaker tapes, clocks, watches and calendars • local maps, plans and street directories • online resources, including websites

	- resources drawn from a workplace or vocational environment - technology used in everyday life, such as: - automated teller machines (ATMs) and EFTPOS - ticket machines - internet and telephone banking.
Levels of difficulty include:	- analysing variables that underpin numeracy tasks, such as: - complexity of mathematical information - type of operation or skill - expected number of operations - kind of information included, for example how relevant it is to the task - type of match / problem transparency - drawing on sample activities from levels 1 to 3 of the ACSF.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to develop English language teaching strategies to meet the literacy and numeracy needs of adult learners in vocational education and training (VET) contexts. It includes analysing the English language requirements of VET contexts, applying teaching approaches and strategies for teaching English language skills, and selecting English language learning resources that meet learner requirements. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to adult literacy and numeracy practitioners working in the VET sector. The classroom, the workplace and the community may include those who wish to develop their English language skills. Teaching groups of diverse learners in diverse delivery contexts requires adult literacy and numeracy practitioners to draw on a wide range of teaching pedagogies and practices, including those related to English language teaching. Specialist adult English language provision is offered: • in stand-alone courses for settlement purposes, such as the Adult Migrant Education Program (AMEP) • in curricula designed specifically for English as a second language (ESL) learners as specialist support for learners. The qualifications required by teachers in these programs are described in human resource statements in ESL-accredited course documentation.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Analyse English language skills required in the delivery context	1.1. Identify and analyse English language skills required by learners 1.2. Establish profile of the language skills of learner group

	1.3. Analyse English language skills of learner group
2. Select teaching approaches	2.1. Review strategies to address barriers and impediments to language development 2.2. Examine English language teaching approaches 2.3. Determine applicability of teaching approaches for specific learners
3. Select range of learning resources to develop English language skills	3.1. Identify and review realia / authentic materials 3.2. Review learning resources from traditional and new and emerging technologies 3.3. Evaluate ICT and e-learning resources that link appropriately to language learning outcomes and promote learner engagement 3.4. Contextualise identified resources 3.5. Select and use appropriate resources, drawing on knowledge of English language and knowledge of learner needs and goals
4. Apply and evaluate activities to develop learners' English language skills	4.1. Create an environment conducive to language learning using interpersonal skills 4.2. Apply adult learning principles to teaching English language skills 4.3. Apply strategies to develop English language speaking and listening skills 4.4. Apply strategies to develop reading and writing skills in English 4.5. Develop activities that integrate listening, speaking, reading and writing skills appropriate to purposes, contexts and learners' level of English language skills 4.6. Use formal and informal monitoring to evaluate effectiveness of teaching strategies

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - interpret information from pre-training assessments to identify and respond to

- learner needs, goals, skills and learning styles
 - select and interpret underpinning skills in training specifications and particular workplace contexts
- communication skills to:
 - adjust intonation and stress in order to convey meaning
 - give clear instructions and explanations and respond to learner questions effectively
 - interact appropriately with learners from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds
 - paraphrase as part of effective listening techniques
 - teach technical terms and language
 - use appropriate language
 - vary teacher talk to adjust to the English language level of others
- initiative, enterprise and creativity to:
 - devise, select and vary teaching strategies
 - seek appropriate resources and materials
- interpersonal skills to establish productive relationships with learners
- literacy skills to:
 - identify and analyse English language requirements embedded in selected contexts
 - select, read and interpret VET documents
- planning and organising skills to plan:
 - effective programs that reflect understanding of range of learner group needs
 - learning opportunities for learners
- problem-solving skills to:
 - evaluate language skills required by learning software
 - identify specific English language difficulties of learners
 - select strategies to address barriers to English language learning
- self-management and learning skills to:
 - develop and adjust own teaching practice
 - use advice from colleagues and others to adjust teaching practice
- technology skills to:
 - use a range of educational technology tools to support language learning
 - teach software packages and educational software

Required knowledge

- adult learning principles and practices as they apply to working with culturally and linguistically diverse adults
- conventions of English language in a range of genres and registers

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- English language needs of learners in a multilingual and multicultural learning environment
- English language systems and structures, including basic features of English grammar, phonology and lexis development
- English language teaching and learning approaches applicable to learners with English language needs in different contexts
- national standards, such as:
 - accredited course documentation
 - Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF)
 - International Second Language Proficiency Rating (ISLPR) scale
 - Training Packages
- social, cognitive and affective factors that may influence language development
- text analysis, including how to analyse the linguistic structure and features of a text

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- analyse the English language demands of delivery contexts
- identify English language skills of learners
- apply teaching approaches and strategies to develop the English language skills of a learner group in a specific delivery context
- evaluate effectiveness of teaching strategies
- review and use a range of learning resources to develop English language skills.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure access to:

- a suitable workplace environment relevant to the context in which the candidate intends to work
- learners who need to develop their English language skills
- research about profiles of learners with English language needs
- wide range of resources on teaching approaches and strategies that develop English language skills
- resources to use with learners to support English language skill development.

EVIDENCE GUIDE
	Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.
Method of assessment	A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct observation or video recording of candidate's adult language, literacy and numeracy practice • evaluation of a portfolio of evidence comprising: • learner responses and feedback • personal reflections • planning notes • preparation, such as detailed session plans, learning activities and assessment tools • samples of resources • review of work samples, which may include session plans, units of work, resources, assessment tasks, evaluations, and other work documents • questioning to establish required knowledge • review of third-party reports.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • TAELLN704A Implement and evaluate delivery of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT
The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.
Identifying may require	• academic writing • accredited course documentation

analysis of:	• formal and informal workplace communication systems • language and cultural demands of texts, tasks and instructions commonly used in literacy and numeracy lessons • reports using English language scales • text features and performance strategies at the required ACSF level • underpinning language requirements of specific Training Packages.
Analysing English language skills required by learners relevant to the delivery context may include:	• establishing level of complexity of English language features in a wide range of texts by aligning them to a framework, such as the ACSF • investigating basic features of language at the level of: • discourse or text • sentence and phrase level.
Language skills of the learner group may include learners:	• from Australian Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander backgrounds who speak Indigenous language(s) as their first, second, third or more language • whose first language is not English, but who have been resident in Australia for long periods and have developed differing levels of spoken and written skills • who have experienced trauma and dislocation • who speak Aboriginal English • with disrupted education or limited formal education for a range of reasons.
Analysing English language skills of learner group may require:	• aligning language use to frameworks, such as ACSF • drawing on existing information, for example from: • pre-training assessment • previous language assessments, such as ISLPR.
Strategies may include:	• advice and support from specialist English as a second language (ESL) teachers • approaches and multi-sensory activities and resources that build on learners' strengths • bilingual approaches or peer support where learners have low levels of English • designing tasks and contexts that provide opportunities for learners to internalise and practise new skills • developing meta-language skills by teaching grammatical terms and structures: • to provide a language for learners to discuss their learning

	- including activities to support learners in their own use of meta-language, if appropriate for the level of the group - referring learners to specialist ESL provision where necessary - strategies, like scaffolding activities, that build on learners' existing skills and knowledge in English and other languages - support from teachers with specialist skills and knowledge in working with learners with physical or mental health issues.
Barriers and impediments to language development may include:	- effects of trauma - extent and type of exposure to English speakers - factors resulting from current socioeconomic circumstances - influence of first language - limited education in first language - sensory disabilities - specific learning difficulties.
English language teaching approaches may include:	- task-based - topic-based.
Applicability of teaching approaches may include:	- learners' different skill profiles - previous experiences of language learning - range of linguistic backgrounds - requirements of particular learning context.
Learning resources may include:	- bilingual materials, including: - lists of useful words and phrases - published dictionaries and personal dictionaries - reference materials - bilingual support workers - group members' experiences of other cultures - guest speakers - materials that are adult in orientation and relevant to learner needs - technology, such as mobile telephones and computers.
ICT and e-learning resources may include:	- audio recording technology, such as podcasts and digital tracks - CDs and DVDs - digital cameras and video capture

	• educational software, such as dictionaries, word games and other commercial products • online resources, including downloadable learning resources • software applications, including: • digital stories • word-processing and multimedia packages, such as PowerPoint • technology used in everyday life, such as: • automated teller machines (ATMs) and EFTPOS • mobile telephones • internet • DVDs, television and film.
Environment conducive to language learning may include:	• demonstrating empathy for students from diverse backgrounds • for Indigenous learners: • being prepared to allow time to develop a relationship of mutual respect with learners as individuals • demonstrating an understanding of the history of Indigenous people, and how cultural history can impact on the learning process • recognising how the backgrounds of individual students and the communities in which they live impact on the learning process.
Applying adult learning principles to teaching English language skills may include:	• acknowledging learners' life experience and world knowledge • acknowledging that implicit and explicit knowledge of the grammar of English and other languages is a resource for learning English • applying awareness of differences in cultural attitudes to learner autonomy • selecting tasks and content in learning resources appropriate to adult learners in a multicultural context.
Strategies to develop English language speaking and listening skills may include those that:	• develop accuracy and fluency in spoken English, including pronunciation, such as: • drills, chants, pair work and small group work • formulaic expressions • role plays and simulations • develop active listening strategies, such as: • awareness of different accents

	• listening for detail • listening for gist • develop knowledge of, and skill in using, English grammar and lexis, such as: • choosing appropriate grammatical structures • introduction and practice of new lexical items, grammatical structures and text types • strategies that equip learners to make lexical and grammatical choices appropriate to genre and register • develop phonological skills, such as: • pronunciation of individual sounds • stress, rhythm and intonation • with the sounds of English • develop skills in interaction, such as: • joining and leaving discussions • structured dialogues • turn taking • identify discourse structure, such as basic language features of particular form of interaction depending on context.
Strategies to develop reading and writing skills in English may include:	• analysing features of a range of text types, including: • electronic and printed texts • texts containing visual elements • multi-modal texts • building sociocultural knowledge to assist learners to make meaning of texts • developing graphological skills, such as: • awareness of different scripts • handwriting • Roman script • spelling patterns in English • punctuation in English texts • developing letter formation, scribing, group editing and writing collective texts • developing vocabulary • locating the text in context, including purpose and audience • meaning-making strategies, such as building on existing knowledge and evaluating information in light of

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to plan, develop, monitor, and assess adult language, literacy and numeracy skills at different levels and in vocational education and training (VET) contexts. It also includes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to evaluate delivery. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to those who deliver adult language, literacy and numeracy skills provision, including: • stand-alone courses, such as are required for the Language Literacy and Numeracy Program (LLNP) • workplace courses, such as the Workplace English Language and Literacy (WELL) program • those delivering in vocational and community-based settings. Delivery and assessment of adult literacy and numeracy skills require a broad skills and knowledge base in adult literacy and numeracy theory and practice. These skills and knowledge are covered in TAELLN701A Analyse and apply adult literacy teaching practices, and TAELLN702A Analyse and apply adult numeracy teaching practices. The profile of those wishing to participate in adult literacy and numeracy learning is typically culturally and linguistically diverse. The performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required for working with culturally and linguistically diverse adults in a range of contexts are described in TAELLN703A Develop English language skills of learners. This unit aims to develop expertise in planning, delivering and assessing programs that address adult language, literacy and numeracy skills and knowledge.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Plan to develop adult	1.1. Analyse training specifications

language, literacy and numeracy skills	1.2. Analyse initial assessments to establish learner profiles 1.3. Ensure legal, organisational and ethical requirements of delivery and assessment are met 1.4. Plan delivery program with others if relevant 1.5. Plan evaluation strategy with others if relevant
2. Plan delivery within relevant frameworks	2.1. Prepare session plans to ensure coverage of skills and knowledge outcomes of training specification according to relevant frameworks 2.2. Select content appropriate to learners' needs, interests and goals, and reflecting learning context 2.3. Confirm content of activities with others to ensure learning goals are addressed 2.4. Choose and sequence teaching activities to reflect theoretical understandings of skill development 2.5. Construct frequent and varied opportunities for learners to demonstrate achievement of skills 2.6. Select wide range of print, media and electronic text appropriate to learner purposes
3. Select and apply adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching strategies appropriate to context	3.1. Evaluate teaching strategies to determine those most appropriate for the specific learners, learning styles, groups and learning context 3.2. Contextualise strategies to teach adult literacy and numeracy skills to meet learner needs 3.3. Contextualise strategies to teach learning skills to meet learner needs 3.4. Use knowledge of language, literacy and numeracy skill development to facilitate learning 3.5. Establish productive relationships with learners using interpersonal skills
4. Monitor adult language, literacy and numeracy skill development	4.1. Use formative assessment to monitor learner progress and modify course design 4.2. Identify perceived barriers to skill development and address them where possible 4.3. Provide guidance to learners about other options and relevant services when appropriate 4.4. Maintain records of individual learners' progress as the basis of reporting
5. Design and implement assessment processes	5.1. Ensure assessment processes are consistent with training specification requirements 5.2. Develop assessment tools consistent with training

	specification requirements 5.3. Conduct assessment, making reasonable adjustments appropriate to learner needs 5.4. Provide feedback to learners to facilitate continuous improvement 5.5. Maintain records of assessment decisions 5.6. Map learner outcomes to reporting instruments and complete reports
6. Evaluate program	6.1. Collect feedback on assessment process from relevant parties 6.2. Review program in light of evidence and make changes as necessary

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - interpret information from pre-training assessments to identify and respond to learner needs, goals, skills and learning styles
 - select and interpret underpinning skills in training specifications and particular workplace contexts
- communication skills to:
 - adjust stress and intonation in order to convey meaning
 - ask open-ended questions providing learners with opportunities to explain strategies
 - facilitate discussions to encourage sharing of strategies and exploration of different solutions to problems
 - give clear instructions and explanations, present concepts clearly and respond to learner questions effectively
 - paraphrase as part of effective listening techniques
 - teach technical terms and language
 - use spoken language to plan and to influence others
 - vary teacher talk to adjust to the English language level of others, including code-shifting activities where relevant to learners
- computer skills to teach skills needed to use:

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- email, SMS messaging and the internet
- software packages, such as word processing and presentation
- data entry programs, including spreadsheets
- initiative, enterprise and creativity to:
 - demonstrate innovative approaches to teaching practice
 - facilitate learning of language, literacy and numeracy skills in diverse contexts
- interpersonal skills to:
 - establish a supportive environment, encouraging risk-taking and bringing together different points of view
 - liaise effectively with staff at all levels in an organisation
- literacy skills to:
 - complete documentation required to conduct the course, such as reports and evaluations
 - critically organise, evaluate and apply content from a range of structurally complex texts
 - customise texts to suit reading levels of learners
 - design and produce materials, such as training and assessment materials and instruments
 - model written genres
 - select appropriate conventions and stylistic devices to express precise meaning
- numeracy skills to:
 - extract and evaluate mathematical meaning from activities or tasks that include some formal mathematical symbols, abbreviations and language that is embedded in relevant texts or stimuli
 - select and use a variety of developing mathematical and problem-solving strategies in a range of familiar and less familiar contexts
 - transfer own knowledge of numeracy to teaching role to explain terminology, processes and calculations required in a training context
 - use a combination of formal and informal oral mathematical and general language, including some specialised mathematical language and terminology
- planning and organising skills to plan:
 - effective programs that reflect understanding of range of learner group needs
 - learning opportunities for learners
- problem-solving skills to:
 - analyse, identify and develop strategies to meet identified challenges
 - identify specific difficulties of those participating in provision
 - select and use a variety of problem-solving strategies in a range of familiar and less familiar contexts
- self-management and learning skills to:
 - develop and adjust own teaching practice

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- maintain evidence of performance for a portfolio
- reflect on and improve own professional practice
- use advice from colleagues and others to adjust teaching practice
- teamwork skills to:
 - cultivate collaborative and participative work relationships
 - share ideas and resources with others
 - work effectively as a team member

Required knowledge

- adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching approaches applicable to learners at different levels of the Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF), and in different contexts
- broad repertoire of teaching strategies and learning activities incorporating various types of learning to meet specific language, literacy or numeracy need
- current influential teaching theories that underpin teaching of adult literacy and adult numeracy
- relevant national standards, codes of practice and legislation, such as:
 - ACSF
 - Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF)
 - equal opportunity legislation
 - training specifications, such as:
 - accredited course documentation
 - non-accredited course documentation
 - Training Packages
- VET sector, including the structure, purpose and delivery of Training Packages and accredited courses

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify and analyse training specifications and learner profiles
- design a program to develop language, literacy and numeracy skills, including preparing session plans appropriate to delivery

	context • apply adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching strategies appropriate to learner needs and delivery context • monitor learning and provide feedback to learners • develop assessment tools consistent with training specification and appropriate to learner needs • prepare records and reports developed to meet needs of stakeholders • evaluate own practice.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure access to: • a suitable workplace environment • adult language, literacy and numeracy learners • training specifications appropriate to context • appropriate adult literacy and numeracy teaching resources. Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.
Method of assessment	A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct observation or video recording of candidate's adult language, literacy and numeracy practice • evaluation of a portfolio of evidence comprising: • learner responses and feedback • personal reflections • planning notes • preparation, such as detailed session plans, learning activities and assessment tools • samples of resources • review of work samples, which may include session plans, units of work, resources, assessment tasks, evaluations, and other work documents • questioning to establish required knowledge • review of third-party reports.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • TAELLN701A Analyse and apply adult literacy teaching practices

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Training specifications may include:

- agreements with stakeholders that specify training requirements
- ACSF
- course outline
- relevant section of accredited course documentation
- training organisation's delivery and assessment plan
- unit from relevant Training Package
- workplace adult literacy and numeracy skill development plan, as agreed with employers and workforce representatives.

Learner profiles may include:

- current level of skill when compared with level of skill required for work or training outcome
- factors that influence learning, such as:
 - illness
 - attendance
 - income
 - role as carer
- identified language, literacy and numeracy needs, linked to initial assessment
- learners' perceptions of their learning needs
- learners' previous education and training experience
- level of formal education in first language
- if of a language background other than English, language and cultural background
- level of skills, described using the ACSF

RANGE STATEMENT
	• preferred learning strategies • short-term and long-term training goals • third-party reports from supervisors and other training colleagues.
Legal, organisational and ethical requirements may include:	• assessment reporting and subsequent procedures, such as: • complaints • grievances • appeals • audit requirements • enrolment and assessment records and other data and information management • equity issues and needs • intellectual property • potential legal consequences of false, misleading or incorrect information • privacy legislation • regulatory requirements, including occupational health and safety (OHS).
Planning delivery program may include:	• pre-training assessment • team teaching • use of training materials • small group or one-to-one support.
Others may include:	• colleagues involved in delivery and assessment of learner group or similar groups • external stakeholders, such as Centrelink • in a workplace, all parties involved in the program, such as supervisors, workforce organisations, employers and other trainers • support persons, such as bilingual aides and counsellors • those with knowledge relevant to context in which working, such as vocational or workplace trainers • those with specialist teaching expertise, such as higher level mathematics or English as a second language (ESL) teachers.
Planning delivery within relevant frameworks includes consideration of:	• application of adult learning principles • integration of language, literacy and numeracy delivery with vocational training • pathways to other qualifications • requirements of the AQTF • training specifications as set out in Training Packages and accredited courses.

Learners' needs may include development of skills, such as:	• reading • writing • speaking • listening • critical thinking • employability skills • learning strategies • non-verbal communication and body language • use of new technologies • visual literacy.
Ways in which theoretical understandings of skill development may be reflected in the choice and sequence of teaching activities include:	• judgements about focus of the program and particular sessions to facilitate development of skills • decisions about content and use of resources depending on level of difficulty of reading materials, numeracy tasks or writing tasks • decisions about the suitability of particular delivery options to meet learner group needs • extent of support a particular learner might need to succeed with course materials • order in which new material, such as language structures, may be introduced.
Theoretical understandings of skill development may include:	• theories that inform adult literacy teaching, such as: • applied linguistics • applied social theory and sociolinguistics • critical literacy • humanistic and progressivist pedagogy • psycholinguistics • theories that inform adult numeracy teaching, such as: • applied social theory, for example mathematics and culture, mathematics and gender • constructivism • critical numeracy • cultural use of specific mathematics • functionalism.
Wide range of print, media and electronic text may include:	• authentic texts, such as written texts commonly found in the home, at workplaces and in the public domain • documents, such as those relating to government services and requirements • numeracy materials, such as:

	• calendars • money • number • ratio • shapes • street directories and maps • weights and measures • technology, such as: • automated teller machines (ATMs) and EFTPOS • CDs • e-learning activities • m-learning activities • mobile telephones • visual materials, such as: • graffiti • illustrations • photographs • posters, signs and charts • telephone displays • television shows, movies and animations • videos and DVDs • workplace documentation, such as: • manufacturer specifications • OHS notices • personnel forms • rosters • standard operating procedures.
Facilitating learning may include:	• active questioning • correcting learner errors • developing resources to meet specific learner needs • explaining concepts and processes • making judgements about individual's skill development • using peer learning and group work.
Other options may include:	• ESL course • other adult literacy and numeracy program • other community-based option • peer support

	• shift to a vocational course • support service, such as counselling or welfare service.
Reasonable adjustments may take into account:	• communication styles, preferences and levels of confidence • learners' differing linguistic and cultural backgrounds • learners' previous experiences of assessment • specific learning difficulties or disabilities.
Reporting instruments may include:	• ACSF • training organisation's own reporting systems.
Reports may include:	• individual and aggregated reports about improved adult literacy and numeracy outcomes, described using the ACSF • reports written for the workplace using particular formats and styles, covering: • benefits to the company • improvements in workplace skills • individuals taking further training of their own • participation in teams and meetings • job flexibility and promotional opportunities • morale and attendance • those required by funding bodies • those required by training organisations.
Relevant parties may include:	• employers and supervisors • learners • vocational colleagues.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to design and implement a process to assess the language, literacy and numeracy skills of prospective adult learners. The purpose of this pre-training assessment is to determine the most appropriate provision, given the person's current language, literacy and numeracy skills, knowledge and goals, the learning context, and the varying eligibility requirements of adult literacy and numeracy programs. The unit prepares a practitioner to carry out initial assessments in workplace, training organisation and community contexts, and to maintain knowledge of current provision and requirements in the vocational education and training (VET) sector. The unit also addresses skills and knowledge required to evaluate the assessment process. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to adult literacy and numeracy practitioners who design processes to assess the skills of a prospective learner for adult language, literacy and numeracy provision, and who carry out, record and report pre-training assessments.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Design a pre-training assessment process to analyse adult language, literacy and numeracy skills	1.1.Design assessment process within an assessment framework 1.2.Contextualise assessment process within organisational, policy and legislative framework and program funding profile 1.3.Create pre-training assessment kit that provides opportunity for candidates to demonstrate their range of language, literacy and numeracy skills 1.4.Select location for the assessment that meets the needs of candidate and assessor
2. Conduct the assessment	2.1.Clarify assessment process with candidate, including context and purpose 2.2.Note and record conditions of assessment

	2.3. Tailor assessment process to meet individual needs of candidate, particular context and requirements of assessment 2.4. Select and use questioning and self-assessment strategies to assess oral communication and learning 2.5. Select and use range of reading and writing tasks for assessment purposes 2.6. Select and use range of numeracy tasks for assessment purposes
3. Analyse data to establish candidate's language, literacy and numeracy skills	3.1. Compare responses to interview questions with benchmarks in relevant frameworks to analyse oral communication and learning 3.2. Compare responses to reading material with text features and performance strategies to analyse reading skills 3.3. Compare samples of candidate's writing with text features and performance strategies to analyse writing skills 3.4. Compare responses to numeracy tasks with numeracy features and performance strategies to analyse numeracy skills
4. Provide effective advice on suitable program options	4.1. Provide feedback to candidate on assessment outcomes emphasising strengths and positive strategies 4.2. Apply current knowledge of VET provision in discussions with candidate 4.3. Apply current knowledge of options suiting specific needs of candidate when discussing future options for skill development
5. Report outcome of assessment	5.1. Maintain records of assessment process, evidence collected and outcome according to policies and procedures of the training organisation and/or funding body 5.2. Report outcome of assessment process to relevant parties in required format and manner and in line with confidentiality requirements
6. Evaluate the assessment process	6.1. Collect feedback on the pre-training assessment process from relevant parties 6.2. Improve assessment processes in response to evaluation

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - negotiate complex spoken exchanges by establishing a supportive environment
 - ask a mix of open-ended and closed questions to give candidates opportunity to demonstrate competence
 - paraphrase to clarify meaning and encourage further discussion
 - display depth of understanding of complex oral texts, which may include multiple and unstated meanings
- initiative, enterprise and creativity to:
 - assist candidates to perform in unfamiliar contexts
 - design a range of assessment tasks which cover all levels of the Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF), and relevant personal, social and employment-related contexts of learners
 - identify changing dynamics of interview situation and vary assessment processes accordingly
- interpersonal skills to:
 - provide feedback on assessment outcome in a constructive and sensitive manner
 - interact with a diverse range of candidates
 - negotiate successful assessment processes
- planning and organising skills to:
 - plan and maintain collection of assessment resources of relevance to assessment context and to the range of client interests and needs
 - plan and maintain system to record and report assessments
- reading and writing skills to:
 - design assessment activities and resources which:
 - allow for fair, valid and reliable assessment of candidates' adult language, literacy and numeracy skills
 - provide the basis for judgements about the best outcome from the assessment process for individuals
 - identify, analyse and interpret information from a wide variety of sources, such as:
 - course accreditation documentation
 - funding arrangements and eligibility requirements for program
 - units of competency
 - interpret results from assessment

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- take notes on information presented orally
- document the assessment process to meet the requirements of a number of interested parties
- research skills to access and evaluate research into factors that effect language, literacy and numeracy development

Required knowledge

- adult language, literacy and numeracy research, for example:
 - range of social, psychological, physical, economic and cultural factors that influence language, literacy and numeracy development in learners
 - levels of adult literacy and numeracy in the Australian community
- issues and challenges that typically arise in the context of assessing language, literacy and numeracy skills
- knowledge of non-standard Australian English to be considered when assessing oral communication, such as local dialects and creoles
- legislation, codes of practice and national standards, such as:
 - ACSF
 - Assessment Guidelines of TAE10 Training and Education Training Package
 - equal opportunity legislation
 - policies of government departments that affect placement of learners into programs
 - Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) requirements, including understanding assessment theory and principles
- organisational philosophy and guidelines, for example:
 - own role and responsibilities
 - risk management strategies
- range of factors that impact on adult language, literacy and numeracy development, such as:
 - physical and sensory factors
 - specific learning difficulties
 - changes in cultural and linguistic contexts
 - socioeconomic factors
 - social and mental health issues
- range of provision in the VET sector available to meet candidate learning needs
- variables that interact to determine the level of difficulty of literacy and numeracy tasks, such as:
 - familiarity of context
 - length and complexity of text language and structure
 - degree of inference the reader is required to make or how explicit a text is
 - kind of information in a text, for example concrete compared to abstract

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- extent of support required to respond to a text

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- outline the assessment process, including own role
- develop a pre-training assessment kit that:
 - is consistent with AQTF requirements
 - is customised to meet needs of particular learner group, funding body, industry or workplace
 - demonstrates significant depth of knowledge of:
 - range of social, psychological, physical and cultural factors that influence language, literacy and numeracy development in learners
 - how these issues have been considered in the design of the assessment process
- provide records of assessments (confidentiality protected)
- provide current information about the range of adult literacy and numeracy options available to learners
- provide records of evaluations of the process and the assessment kit
- provide evidence of changes made to the assessment process as a result of feedback.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure access to:

- candidates to be assessed
- standards to be assessed against, such as ACSF or Training Package unit
- suitable assessment venue
- standard recording and reporting forms.

Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.

EVIDENCE GUIDE
Method of assessment	A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct observation or video recording of candidate's adult language, literacy and numeracy practice • evaluation of a portfolio of evidence comprising: • samples from a pre-training assessment kit developed by the candidate • records of interviews and assessments • current information about options and outcomes of the process • questioning to establish required knowledge.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • TAELLN701A Analyse and apply adult literacy teaching practices • TAELLN702A Analyse and apply adult numeracy teaching practices.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT
The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.
Assessment frameworks may include:	• ACSF • Assessment Guidelines in Training Packages • International Second Language Proficiency Rating (ISLPR) scale • those tied to accredited curricula.
Policy and legislative framework may include:	• access and equity principles • AQTF standards • confidentiality requirements of government agencies • Disability Discrimination Act • program eligibility rules of commonwealth and state departments, such as Department of Immigration and Citizenship (DIAC) visa categories.

Program funding profile may include:	• funding sources that determine specific eligibility of candidates for programs based on immigration, employment or social status, such as eligibility requirements of the: • Language Literacy and Numeracy Program (LLNP) • Workplace English Language and Literacy (WELL) program • eligibility requirements of state training authorities.
Pre-training assessment kit may comprise:	• questions to elicit information on learner's educational history and issues that may have affected learning • resources and materials to assess a wide range of language, literacy and numeracy skills, such as: • numeracy materials drawn from genres familiar to candidate, and drawn from candidate's immediate social or training environment • reading samples, drawn from genres familiar to candidate, and drawn from candidate's immediate social or training environment • sample questions to: • assess oral communication skills • identify learning strategies or styles • identify candidate's purposes in attending assessment • writing tasks and associated materials • tasks and materials that are aligned to levels in the assessment framework.
Location may include:	• space where confidential information can be provided • space where the assessment can be the main focus of attention • environment with a wide range of resources within close proximity • environment where personal risk factors have been mitigated.
Features of assessment process may include:	• confidentiality conventions about the nature and extent of information which may be disclosed to third parties, such as: • employers • government or other officials • feedback on the assessment provided with various options for candidate consideration • extent to which communication supports, such as interlocutors, translators and calculators, may be used by candidate during assessment process.

Ways in which assessment process may be tailored may include:	• allowing for differences in communication styles, preferences and levels of confidence, by: • allowing sufficient time for the assessment process to proceed at the pace required by candidates • encouraging questions • explaining unfamiliar concepts • providing a support person of candidate's choice where appropriate • selecting materials at an appropriate level, while keeping the range sufficiently broad to allow candidate to demonstrate full range of skills • selecting materials of relevance to the candidate • using culturally appropriate processes when assessing Indigenous students, such as: • including community members as part of the process whenever possible and practicable • using appropriately qualified Indigenous assessors • varying the process if necessary to accommodate such things as confidentiality considerations.
Individual needs of candidate may include:	• physical and sensory factors • specific learning difficulties • changes in cultural and linguistic contexts • socioeconomic factors • social and mental health issues.
Benchmarks in relevant frameworks may include:	• information from each level of the ACSF, including: • context • level of support required • text type • text complexity • text features and strategies from ISLPR • information about text features and strategies contained in units of accredited courses.
Providing feedback may include:	• allowing plenty of time so that the session is not rushed • ensuring candidate is confident to ask questions • focusing on positives • using feedback as a learning opportunity.

RANGE STATEMENT
Options may include:	• program at appropriate level and focus within accredited or non-accredited adult literacy and numeracy course • program involving an adult literacy and numeracy mentor • vocational program with a literacy and numeracy component • referral to other agencies or services, such as Refugee Support Services, Community Health Services, and youth networks • referral to other training organisations offering more appropriate adult English language, literacy and numeracy courses or courses with a different focus • workplace-based support.
Reporting may include:	• hard copy or electronic written reports using commonwealth government proformas • internal reporting procedures • verbal reports to officers of other government and non-government agencies.
Relevant parties may include:	• government officials, such as Centrelink staff • counsellors • other training organisation staff • practitioners not involved in the assessment process • youth workers.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to devise and provide adult language, literacy and numeracy support services within a training organisation. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to those who devise a range of strategies to develop adult language, literacy and numeracy skills in learners enrolled in vocational education and training (VET) within a training organisation, where the vocational course is the major focus. Individuals in this role work collaboratively with a team of VET colleagues and contribute educational leadership in developing adult language, literacy and numeracy skills within the context of vocational courses. They may work alongside VET colleagues by directly teaching individuals and small groups, developing resources and support materials, and designing and delivering self-access materials. This requires that they can apply knowledge of the terminology, language styles, writing conventions, and underpinning skill and knowledge requirements of the technical areas in which the support services are offered, as well as the wider VET environment. Typically, those working in this concurrent support role require wide-ranging skills in formally and informally assessing language, literacy and numeracy skills, and analysing and responding to learner needs. Formal reporting of literacy and numeracy outcomes may not be required. However, those working in this role may work with other VET colleagues on assessment activities through partnerships, assessment panels and other arrangements. Teaching of programs where adult literacy and numeracy is the major focus is covered in TAELLN704A Implement and evaluate delivery of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Research language, literacy and numeracy demands of vocational training context	1.1. Identify broad issues for involvement in training through consultation with relevant parties 1.2. Analyse training specification outcomes to identify language, literacy and numeracy skills required for successful performance 1.3. Analyse learner and assessment materials to identify language, literacy and numeracy required for successful performance 1.4. Analyse training and assessment processes in terms of language, literacy and numeracy demands on learners 1.5. Analyse workplace practices to determine language, literacy and numeracy skills required 1.6. Develop a profile of language, literacy and numeracy requirements of vocational context
2. Analyse individual's language, literacy and numeracy skills	2.1. Develop profile of potential participants 2.2. Identify language, literacy and numeracy skills of potential participants 2.3. Make diagnostic judgements about individual's language, literacy and numeracy skills in relation to vocational requirements
3. Develop a language, literacy and numeracy support strategy for vocational training	3.1. Plan most appropriate mode(s) of training 3.2. Plan instructional sequence that links to identified language, literacy and numeracy training needs 3.3. Plan training arrangements 3.4. Undertake joint planning when working with content experts to integrate language, literacy and numeracy with teaching and assessment activities 3.5. Seek advice on technical matters from others in the VET environment when required 3.6. Confirm own role and responsibilities in training and assessment context with relevant parties 3.7. Confirm stages and processes for gathering evidence for assessment, and monitoring and evaluating training with relevant parties
4. Select and apply a range of teaching strategies to develop language, literacy and numeracy skills	4.1. Evaluate teaching strategies to determine those most appropriate for individual learners in particular vocational context 4.2. Apply strategies to interpret, explain and produce features of spoken and written English texts used

relevant to vocational context	within vocational context 4.3. Teach terminology and language of the industry and workplace 4.4. Apply strategies to interpret and teach mathematical features 4.5. Incorporate adult learning practices 4.6. Work with VET colleagues to develop their approach to addressing language, literacy and numeracy issues within their training
5. Participate in assessment processes	5.1. Make assessment arrangements consistent with quality compliance processes 5.2. Provide advice to vocational trainers and assessors about appropriate reasonable adjustment in conducting assessments 5.3. Complete reports as required by relevant bodies
6. Evaluate support services	6.1. Review the support services in collaboration with others 6.2. Modify the support services in line with recommendations from the review

Required Skills and Knowledge

Required knowledge
- adult learning principles and practices as they relate to teaching practice - experiential, participative and projective instructional methods - language, literacy and numeracy skill development - national standards, such as: - Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF) - International Second Language Proficiency Rating (ISLPR) scale - policies and procedures of the training organisation based on the requirements of the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) - training specifications of the VET sector - sufficient knowledge of relevant industry or technical area in which working, including language, reading and writing, and calculation requirements to enable the: - identifying and teaching of underpinning skills - customising of learning materials, methods and strategies - teaching of vocationally relevant terminology

Required knowledge

- theoretical approaches to adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- undertake research resulting in a profile of language, literacy and numeracy requirements of vocational context
- develop sample of learner profiles with analyses of individual's literacy and numeracy skills, and teaching notes developed by the candidate, including activities and resources
- collaborate with others in the VET context
- develop an outline of strategies for language, literacy and numeracy support implemented in vocational training
- evaluate support strategies and resulting outcomes.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure access to:

- learners in vocational programs
- wide range of resources appropriate for language, literacy and numeracy delivery in vocational contexts
- access to vocational teaching colleagues.

Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.

Method of assessment

A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- evaluation of a report or case study
- questioning to establish required knowledge
- review of third-party reports
- review of work samples.

Guidance information for assessment

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Broad issues for involvement may include:	• developing capacity of vocational trainers to support learners with language, literacy and numeracy needs • developing language, literacy and numeracy skills of learners to allow them to complete training or further training successfully • meeting quality compliance requirements, such as AQTF standards • meeting the language, literacy and numeracy or communication skill requirements of a relevant industry Training Package or accredited vocational course.
Relevant parties may include:	• enterprise personnel where there is an on-the-job component of training • school personnel responsible for VET in schools arrangements • those responsible for managing quality compliance within the training organisation • those responsible for vocational training.
Training specifications may include:	• accredited courses • manufacturer specifications • standard operating procedures • Training Packages.
Workplace practices may include:	• enterprise-specific language, literacy and numeracy demands where known • industry expectations of language, literacy and numeracy skills

	practices around core and incidental work activities.
Profile of potential participants may include:	- accounts of learners' previous formal education and training experience - background information, such as age or gender - existing skills of learners in relation to work context - learners' attitudes to assessment - learners' perceptions of their learning needs - learners with identified language, literacy and numeracy needs, such as: - those with a low level of formal education - first language, if from a language background other than English.
Identifying language, literacy and numeracy skills may be:	- a formal or informal process as required by particular context - consistent with requirements of assessment frameworks, such as the ACSF or ISLPR.
Diagnostic judgements may include:	- areas of strengths - specifics of areas in need of improvement - those based on sound knowledge of English phonological, grammatical and lexical systems.
Most appropriate mode(s) of training may include:	- delivering course focusing on language, literacy and numeracy underpinning skills of specific units of competency of a Training Package - developing and customising self-access resources for an independent learning centre - developing assessment tools and training support materials for language, literacy and numeracy across a qualification or a range of qualifications - providing specialist course for selected participants, including one-to-one, small group, classroom, face-to-face, distance and on-the-job support - referring to bridging programs with focus on developing language, literacy and numeracy skills - teaching workplace communication and numeracy skills contextualised into relevant industry area - working alongside vocational practitioners to provide language, literacy and numeracy support to learners.
Training arrangements may include:	- scheduling of training, including classes, team teaching, one-to-one, self-access, online, and combinations of these - time arrangements, including during class, in learners' own time, and self-access

	• suitable training venues • teaching equipment • program promotion strategies.
Own role and responsibilities may include:	• area of specialisation • arrangements about assessments of technical areas • relationships with other training organisation personnel • reporting arrangements.
Teaching strategies may include:	• influential theories in adult literacy pedagogy, including: • psycholinguistics • sociolinguistics • humanistic and progressivist pedagogy • critical pedagogy • influential theories in adult numeracy pedagogy, including: • transmission • constructivism • cultural use of specific mathematics • critical numeracy • language teaching methodologies, including communicative language teaching.
Adult learning practices may include:	• assisting learners to assume increasing responsibility for: • defining their learning objectives • planning their language, literacy and numeracy learning in relation to vocational objectives • evaluating their own progress.
Working with VET colleagues may include:	• exchanging information about specific individual learner or group needs • sharing ways to identify learners with language, literacy and numeracy needs • suggesting ways to design materials to make them more reader-friendly • supporting them in implementing training customised to meet learners' language, literacy and numeracy needs • using inclusive teaching strategies.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to identify and analyse policy that has adult language, literacy and numeracy implications, and to formulate, implement and evaluate strategic responses within a training organisation. Knowledge of adult language, literacy and numeracy theory and teaching approaches is also important in the development of the strategic response to policy. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	Provision of adult language, literacy and numeracy is impacted by social, economic, community and education policy decisions. This unit applies to those in a training organisation who have a leadership role in accessing, analysing and responding to policy.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Analyse policy and its relationship to adult language, literacy and numeracy provision	1.1. Identify new opportunities in policy environments in response to internal and external factors and government priorities 1.2. Access policy that may impact on adult language, literacy and numeracy provision 1.3. Analyse policy to establish changes that may impact on current adult language, literacy and numeracy provision 1.4. Identify potential impact of policy on the training organisation 1.5. Propose actions to be taken in response
2. Lead the implementation of adult language, literacy and numeracy strategic response	2.1. Provide information and advice on the relevant policy according to organisational procedures 2.2. Formulate strategy for adult language, literacy and numeracy provision in response to policy 2.3. Implement strategy in collaboration with stakeholders

3. Review the response to policy	3.1. Develop a plan for evaluation and review of policy implementation in consultation with stakeholders 3.2. Gather, collate and analyse feedback on implementation process and related issues according to organisational requirements 3.3. Evaluate implementation of policy against initial criteria in implementation plan 3.4. Document and report on outcomes of review according to organisational requirements 3.5. Provide feedback to policy body on implementation issues or consequences of policy shift, if relevant

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and presentation skills to:
 - collaborate and negotiate with others
 - interpret language that is highly nuanced
 - use language to influence others
- computer skills to access policies and report
- initiative and enterprise skills to:
 - identify opportunities through policy analysis
 - think broadly about a range of program options
- literacy skills to:
 - read and evaluate complex and formal documents, such as policy and legislation
 - prepare written advice requiring precision of expression and language and structures suited to intended audience
- planning and organising skills to:
 - collect, analyse and organise information
 - devise a strategy to respond to policy changes
 - take initiative and make decisions
- problem-solving skills to propose solutions to policy changes
- research skills to identify, access and analyse policy documents

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- teamwork skills to plan collaborative activity

Required knowledge

- continuous improvement processes, systems and strategies
- impact of policy changes on training organisations' operations
- policy areas likely to impact on adult language, literacy and numeracy provision
- range of ways adult language, literacy and numeracy provision can be implemented
- relationship between adult language, literacy and numeracy skill development and program planning, including:
 - theories and models of adult language, literacy and numeracy skill development and how to apply them
 - how to analyse the English language, literacy and numeracy requirements of a range of education programs
 - how to plan, alone or with colleagues, programs that embed English language, literacy and numeracy skills
 - how to plan effective programs that incorporate opportunities to:
 - develop a range of appropriate transferable skills
 - meet the aims and learning needs of learners
- relationship between international, federal, state and local policy related to adult language, literacy and numeracy provision
- reporting frameworks, such as the Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF)
- roles of stakeholders in the implementation of policy
- theoretical frameworks of adult language, literacy and numeracy
- trends in education and training policy

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- access and analyse a broad range of policies that may impact on adult language, literacy and numeracy provision
- identify impact that policy may have on the training organisation
- implement response to the policy within the training organisation lead by the candidate

EVIDENCE GUIDE
	- analyse and report on the effectiveness of the response to policy implementation within the training organisation - provide evidence of reflection on own practice.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure access to: - broad range of policies - opportunities to lead the strategy development and implementation of a response to policy within a training organisation. Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.
Method of assessment	A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: - evaluation of documented evidence of a policy response by the candidate - review of applied projects - questioning to establish required knowledge - review of third-party report.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: BSBRES801A Initiate and lead applied research.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT
The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.
Policy environments may include:	- community services - economic reform - education

	• employment • Indigenous affairs • industry • manufacturing.
Policies may be accessed through:	• advice in Training Packages • Industry Skills Councils and state Industry Training Boards • international, federal and state or territory government departments, regulatory and/or licensing bodies • networks from a range of training providers • policy directives from state training authorities • senior management.
Policy may include consideration of:	• commonwealth and state government policies and initiatives in a wide range of areas, including community development, economic policy, capacity building, and social welfare, such as: • capacity building programs for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples • certification requirements in specified industry areas, for example child care and aged care • commonwealth, state or territory legislation relating to occupational health and safety (OHS) • entitlement to English language provision based on immigration status • guidelines for labour market and employment initiatives • immigration regulations affecting categories of visa holders • National Quality Council (NQC) guidelines and vocational education and training (VET) policy, including the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) • policy on levels of school (or equivalent) completion.
Analysis of policy may include:	• confirming relevance for implementation within the training organisation • determining application to the training organisation • determining effectiveness of current policy in light of new policy objectives • determining intent of policy • identifying areas where policy has not been applied appropriately - identifying implications for adult language, literacy and numeracy provision - identifying relationships at the international, national, state and local levels between potential key stakeholders in VET policy development and implementation - identifying stakeholders.

Relevant policies may be expressed in:	- Acts - codes of practice - guidelines - procedures - regulations - standards.
Potential impacts of policy on training organisations may include:	- administrative and reporting systems - alternative funding sources - cross-sectoral relationships - current and emerging markets - impacts on provision resulting from changes in funding arrangements - industrial relations - pedagogy - quality systems and processes - relationships with industry - roles and competency requirements of staff - technologies.
Actions to be taken may include:	- applying for funding or responding to tender - changing administrative and reporting arrangements - changing adult language, literacy and numeracy provision - changing organisation's provision in regard to adult language, literacy and numeracy - changing pedagogy - identifying and accessing resources - identifying possible funding sources - providing professional development to staff - responding to policy bodies on possible consequences of policy shift, and suggestions for revision if necessary - revising organisation's policies.
Organisational	- who needs to be consulted - format of the advice, including level of detail

procedures may include:	• timeframe for decision making.
Strategies may include:	• adult language, literacy and numeracy integrated into community programs • adult language, literacy and numeracy integrated into other VET programs • adult language, literacy and numeracy integrated into workplace activities • adult language, literacy and numeracy stand-alone programs, including: • full-time or part-time • accredited or non-accredited • distance delivery • on-site or off-site face-to-face delivery • resource development • recognition of prior learning (RPL) and assessment-only services.
Implementing strategy may include:	• analysing guidelines to establish level and focus of provision • developing eligibility criteria consistent with policy • developing training and assessment plans sequenced to reflect the adult language, literacy and numeracy development of participants • identifying and accessing resources and materials • implementing administrative and reporting schedules • selecting accredited courses or developing non-accredited programs to meet participant needs • selecting participants for provision consistent with policy • working with other VET colleagues to implement adult language, literacy and numeracy strategy.
Stakeholders could be internal and external and may include:	• administrative staff • enterprises • funding bodies • government departments • industry and community bodies • teaching staff • training organisation management • unions.
Plan for evaluation and review of policy may	• criteria for policy implementation • outline of the intended use and consequences of policy implementation

include:	• personnel and their responsibilities • policy implementation review process • process to collect feedback on implementation issues • strategy for consultation with relevant personnel • timelines.
Evaluation of policy implementation may address:	• cost of implementation • implementation processes and procedures • interpretation of intent of policy • outcomes for learners • scope of implementation • staff knowledge of and adherence to policy.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to research new adult language, literacy and numeracy practices and implement them to meet the needs of adults seeking to develop their language, literacy and numeracy skills. New adult language, literacy and numeracy practices may be theories, approaches or strategies that are new to education, new to the adult literacy field, new to Australia, new to particular delivery contexts or provider organisations, or simply new to the practitioner. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to adult language, literacy and numeracy practitioners who need to critically reflect on their own practice in order to research and identify new, innovative or alternative approaches to practice, and adapt and apply these to their own work context as appropriate. An advanced application of adult literacy and numeracy practice is required at this level. It is recommended that those who have previously completed education theory and practice units, and/or have established skills and experience as a teacher or practitioner undertake this unit.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Review effectiveness of current adult language, literacy and numeracy practices	1.1. Identify current adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching practices 1.2. Review criteria to evaluate effectiveness of current practices 1.3. Assess and evaluate current practice in relation to requirements of learning context
2. Research advances in practice	2.1. Identify areas of research relevant to own professional practice 2.2. Use appropriate sources of information to identify new practices
3. Analyse new adult language, literacy and numeracy practices	3.1. Evaluate new practices in relation to requirements of learning context 3.2. Evaluate new practices in relation to specific

	requirements of learners enrolled in adult language, literacy and numeracy programs 3.3. Review new practices in relation to adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching theory 3.4. Identify potential issues arising from new practices
4. Apply new adult language, literacy and numeracy practices	4.1. Plan introduction of new learning practices into program 4.2. Undertake joint planning with others as relevant, to introduce new practices into teaching and assessment activities 4.3. Make changes to existing practices
5. Evaluate new adult language, literacy and numeracy practices	5.1. Establish criteria to monitor and evaluate new practices 5.2. Monitor and evaluate learning outcomes 5.3. Disseminate findings of evaluation to other colleagues 5.4. Review changes to practices based on feedback and evaluation findings

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to evaluate teaching practices in relation to the needs of those participating in adult language, literacy and numeracy provision
- communication skills to:
 - facilitate discussions to encourage sharing of strategies and exploration of different solutions to problems
 - give clear explanations, present concepts clearly and respond to questions effectively
- computer skills to locate sources of information for research purposes
- initiative, enterprise and creativity to:
 - seek appropriate new resources and materials
 - think critically about teaching practices
- learning skills to:
 - maintain currency and relevance of knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- reflect on and improve own professional practice
- literacy skills to:
 - analyse texts for teaching and learning purposes
 - read and interpret complex texts, analyse theoretical viewpoints and form judgements
 - research current approaches to adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching
- numeracy skills to analyse statistical information
- planning and organising skills to:
 - identify relevant resources
 - monitor and evaluate progress of learners
 - plan a sequence of learning activities consistent with teaching practices
- problem-solving skills to introduce new learning practices into language, literacy and numeracy programs in vocational education and training (VET)
- self-management skills to comply with requirements, codes of practice and organisational policies and procedures
- teamwork skills to plan collaboratively with colleagues changes to teaching and assessment activities

Required knowledge

- adult learning principles and practices as they apply to teaching language, literacy and numeracy
- adult language and literacy teaching theories, such as:
 - applied linguistics
 - applied social theory and sociolinguistics
 - critical literacy
 - humanistic and progressivist pedagogy
 - psycholinguistics
- adult numeracy teaching theories, such as:
 - applied social theory, for example mathematics and culture, and mathematics and gender
 - constructivism
 - critical literacy and numeracy
 - cultural use of specific mathematics
 - functionalism
- diverse needs of those participating in adult language, literacy and numeracy provision
- national standards, such as:
 - Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF)
 - Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF)
 - Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF)

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- curriculum documents
- Training Packages
- sources of research into adult language, literacy and numeracy practice
- teaching practices that:
 - meet learner needs in a multilingual and multicultural learning environment
 - reflect cognitive processes involved in reading, writing, speaking, listening and numeracy

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- review current practice
- undertake research into English language, literacy and numeracy teaching practices, and evaluate their relevance to current context
- implement new practices
- evaluate the effectiveness of new practices.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- access to program evaluation information
- access to sources of information about new teaching practices in adult language, literacy and numeracy
- opportunity to implement and evaluate new practices.

Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.

Method of assessment

A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- review of applied project or case study
- evaluation of documented evidence
- questioning to establish required knowledge

EVIDENCE GUIDE
	review of third-party report.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: - BSBRES801A Initiate and lead applied research - TAELLN807A Design, implement and evaluate an adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development program.

Teaching practices may include:	- pedagogy or teaching theories - teaching approaches and strategies.
Criteria to evaluate effectiveness of current practices may include:	- feedback from: - community organisations regarding positive impacts - learners regarding positive impacts on language, literacy and numeracy skills - other adult language, literacy and numeracy colleagues - other VET colleagues regarding contribution to successful outcomes from VET courses - workplace personnel regarding positive impacts on workers and workplace - learner persistence - quantitative indicators, such as: - ongoing attendance - satisfactory completion of qualifications or units - non-completion.
Requirements of learning context may include:	- funding body guidelines - specific learning needs of adults participating in provision

	• specific needs of employer or workplace organisation • VET national standards, such as: • accredited course documentation • ACSF • AQF • AQTF • Training Packages.
Appropriate sources of information may include:	• adult language, literacy and numeracy journals • communities of practice • conferences • international research organisations, such as the National Research and Development Centre for Adult Literacy and Numeracy (NRDC) • adult language, literacy and numeracy journals • professional workshops • VET research organisations, such as the National Centre for Vocational Education Research (NCVER).
Specific requirements of learners may include:	• improving English language skills • improving literacy skills • improving numeracy skills • individual requirements of learners: • from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds • with low levels of formal schooling • with physical, intellectual, learning or socio-emotional disabilities that impact on learning • with 'spiky profiles', where oral communication, reading and writing skills vary • who are or have been affected by socioeconomic factors • whose skills in English language, literacy and numeracy limit their ability to achieve their goals • preferred learning styles • range in English language, literacy and numeracy skills in relation to established frameworks such as ACSF, Training Package requirements and curriculum levels • range of motivations that lead adults to seek English language, literacy and numeracy provision.
Potential issues may include:	• cultural distance • financial costs

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to formulate a strategy to deliver language, literacy and numeracy skill development in a workplace. The unit addresses the analysis of industry factors that impact on the English language, literacy and numeracy required of employees. It enables practitioners to design programs that meet the requirements of the Workplace English Language and Literacy (WELL) program. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to those who design strategies for adult language, literacy and numeracy skill development in a workplace. The performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required for delivering adult language, literacy and numeracy programs in the workplace is covered in unit TAELLN704A Implement and evaluate delivery of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills. Individuals undertaking this unit may also be required to manage a team of people implementing the workplace adult literacy and numeracy strategy, including monitoring, evaluating and improving performance as required. The performance outcomes, skills and knowledge for mentoring others are covered in TAELLN807A Design, implement and evaluate an adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development program. The profile of those in the workplace is typically culturally and linguistically diverse. The performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to work with culturally and linguistically diverse adults in a range of contexts are described in TAELLN703A Develop English language skills of learners.

Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Analyse company profile	1.1. Identify broad issues for training through consultation with enterprise personnel and workforce representatives 1.2. Analyse company background information 1.3. Identify changes impacting on the organisation 1.4. Develop profile of the industry workforce 1.5. Identify potential risks that could impact on the effectiveness of the organisation 1.6. Analyse company and workforce profile for language, literacy and numeracy training implications
2. Analyse English language, literacy and numeracy demands of the workplace	2.1. Analyse relevant training specification to identify the levels of language, literacy and numeracy required 2.2. Examine workplace's formal and informal communication systems and practices to identify the level of language, literacy and numeracy required 2.3. Identify funding source for training and note parameters of program focus and reporting
3. Provide leadership in developing language, literacy and numeracy skill development plan	3.1. Design most appropriate mode(s) of training and assessment, given participant profile and workplace operations 3.2. Design most appropriate program, based on application of conceptual frameworks underpinning adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching in vocational education and training (VET) 3.3. Develop a language, literacy and numeracy skill development plan for approval by representatives of the training organisation, company or workplace, and the workforce 3.4. Develop an evaluation strategy to enable ongoing monitoring of the language, literacy and numeracy skill development plan 3.5. Develop a communication strategy to ensure stakeholders are informed of process, programs, changes and outcomes
4. Identify program participants	4.1. Design criteria and processes for selection of participants 4.2. Ensure processes comply with the industrial arrangements of the workplace and funding body requirements

	4.3. Develop a pre-training assessment kit 4.4. Assess the literacy and numeracy skills of potential program participants 4.5. Develop a profile of potential participants for training purposes 4.6. Refine training delivery plan to enable maximum participation 4.7. Liaise with others in the workplace impacted by the training
5. Implement and review the language, literacy and numeracy skill development plan	5.1. Undertake skill development that meets learner and workplace requirements 5.2. Implement the evaluation strategy of skill development plan 5.3. Review the implementation of the language, literacy and numeracy skill development plan periodically and make modifications when required

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - identify and analyse the English language, literacy and numeracy demands embedded in enterprises and particular workplace contexts, including policies and procedural documents, legislation, memos, notices and forms
 - interpret information from the pre-training assessment process to identify possible participants
 - select and interpret underpinning skills in Training Package and accredited course documentation
- communication skills to:
 - facilitate discussions to encourage sharing of strategies and exploration of different solutions to problems
 - give presentations to promote the skill development program
 - keep training partners informed about the progress while maintaining confidentiality about individual participant's skills
 - negotiate a commitment to the training from all players in an enterprise, including employer, union, workforce, workforce representatives and

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- management
 - negotiate opportunities for learners to apply skills to perform workplace tasks and to practise English language, literacy and numeracy skills
 - paraphrase as part of effective listening techniques
 - present concepts clearly and respond to questions effectively
- computer skills to use software packages, such as:
 - presentations
 - project management
 - word processing
- initiative, enterprise and creativity to develop a strategy that meets the complex requirements of a workplace
- literacy skills to:
 - develop a skill development plan that is understood and agreed upon by stakeholders
 - meet written requirements of funding bodies
- numeracy skills to:
 - cost projects and manage finances, monitor timelines and expenditure
 - use spreadsheets to monitor budgets
- planning and organising skills to identify and consult effectively with a range of stakeholders
- research skills to locate general knowledge required to develop company profiles and industry knowledge
- teamwork skills to:
 - consult with relevant parties to get support for the implementation of the plan
 - work effectively as a team member
 - work with people at all levels of an organisation to develop a plan

Required knowledge

- adult learning principles applied to a workplace context
- adult language, literacy and numeracy issues in a workplace context, such as:
 - attitudinal barriers
 - confidentiality issues relating to language, literacy and numeracy identification procedures
 - cross-cultural awareness and sensitivity
 - need to adapt training strategies to meet multiple learner needs
- adult language and literacy teaching theories, such as:
 - applied linguistics
 - applied social theory and sociolinguistics
 - critical literacy

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- humanistic and progressivist pedagogy
- psycholinguistics
- adult numeracy teaching theories, such as:
 - applied social theory, for example mathematics and culture, and mathematics and gender
 - constructivism
 - critical literacy and numeracy
 - cultural use of specific mathematics
 - functionalism
- national frameworks, such as:
 - Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF)
 - VET frameworks and structures
- changes in the Australian economic and industrial context that can impact on language, literacy and numeracy skills requirements at the workplace level, such as:
 - changes in legislation
 - changes in technology
 - compliance requirements
 - impact of globalisation
 - introduction of new management techniques, such as team-based management practices
 - workplace quality requirements
- levels of English language, literacy and numeracy in Australia and the effect these have on the capacity of industry and the workforce to deal effectively with specific areas of workplace change
- own role and responsibilities in a workplace environment
- workplace agreements and structures

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate

Evidence of the ability to:

- analyse a company profile and consult with stakeholders at all levels within the workplace

competency in this unit	• identify the English language, literacy and numeracy needs of a workplace aligned to national frameworks • develop a language, literacy and numeracy skill development plan for a specific workplace, including undertaking the research that underpins the plan, detailing the rationale for the particular forms of training recommended • use pre-training assessment processes contextualised into the workplace environment • implement a communication strategy and an evaluation strategy.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure access to: • real or simulated workplace context • broad range of workplace and training documentation • senior management within a workplace • opportunities to design workplace language, literacy and numeracy strategies. Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.
Method of assessment	A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • evaluation of a report or case study • review of authenticated evidence from the workplace, including verified work samples • questioning to establish required knowledge.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • TAELLN704A Implement and evaluate delivery of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills • TAELLN807A Design, implement and evaluate an adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development program.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Broad issues for training may include:	• implementing a relevant industry Training Package that meets company expectations • implementing general training policies for the whole company or one section of the company • improving language, literacy and numeracy skills of the workforce to participate in further training • meeting a specific objective or set of objectives, such as: • introduction of new machinery or process • legal requirements • occupational health and safety (OHS) requirements • quality indicators • reporting processes • workforce restructure • meeting training goals outlined in the company's profile, and business and strategic plans.
Company background information may include:	• category of Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) industry groups into which the business fits • company's core business • company's learning culture and training history • company's recruitment strategy • company's vision and mission statements, business and strategic plans and organisational learning plan • products the company produces • training requirements.
Changes may include:	• changes in work organisation in response to changes in market trends • company or enterprise embarking on capital and technical improvements • industrial relations issues • new management systems being introduced • projected product or process diversification.
Profile of the industry workforce may include:	• size of overall workforce • composition of workforce, including:

RANGE STATEMENT
	• full time and part time • casual and permanent • gender and age ratios • education and training backgrounds • language and cultural backgrounds • occupational groups.
Potential risks may include:	• compliance issues • OHS issues • performance issues • quality issues.
Language, literacy and numeracy training implications may include the need to develop:	• language skills of the workforce to implement changes or meet compliance issues • literacy and numeracy skills of the workforce to implement changes or meet compliance issues.
Training specification may include:	• accredited courses • Training Packages • work outcomes • workplace-specific training goals.
Level of language, literacy and numeracy may include:	• levels 1 to 5 of the ACSF.
Formal communication systems and practices may include:	• company communication systems, such as emails, memos, newsletters and information sessions • forms of communication within and between sites and departments • internal and external modes of communication • language, literacy and numeracy practices • those related to communications technology employed by the enterprise, such as intranet and internet • workplace documentation, schedules, plans, personnel forms and pay or time sheets.
Informal communication networks and practices may include:	• communication within and between individuals • social and other informal occasions.
Funding sources may include:	• commonwealth funded programs, such as WELL program • company funding training directly • funding for specific groups • profile funding specific initiative arrangements for specific states.

Most appropriate mode(s) of training and assessment may include:	- delivering training focusing on language, literacy and numeracy underpinning skills of specific units of competency of a Training Package - developing a training program with an emphasis on language, literacy and/or numeracy - developing and customising self-access resources for an independent learning centre - developing assessment tools and training to integrate language, literacy and numeracy assessment with vocational competency - providing adult literacy and numeracy programs for selected participants, including one-to-one, small group, classroom, face-to-face, distance and on-the-job support - providing expert advice to technical trainers - working alongside workplace trainers and assessors to identify language, literacy and numeracy and support for selected employees with one-to-one or gap training - writing enterprise documentation and training resources to match the language, literacy and numeracy levels of employees.
Application of conceptual frameworks may include:	- adult learning principles - theories that inform adult language and literacy - theories that inform literacy teaching - theories that inform numeracy teaching - VET frameworks and structures.
Language, literacy and numeracy skill development plan may include:	- barriers that may exist to the workplace training and strategies to overcome them - funding and reporting arrangements - language, literacy and numeracy skills to be developed described in broad terms, such as: - those of the ACSF - those required to deal with the company communication system or documentation - skills related to other training being conducted at the workplace, such as particular Training Package outcomes or introduction of new technology - mode(s) of instruction and the agreed training arrangements - program outline - qualifications and experience of staff

	• resourcing available • responsibilities of relevant parties • workforce profile.
Evaluation strategy may include:	• evaluation instruments, such as: • surveys • structured interviews • questionnaires • observations • feedback or debriefing from group discussions or meetings of stakeholders • meetings with relevant parties such as the training manager, line managers, workforce representatives and/or training committee • processes, such as: • defining the purpose and audience • planning the evaluation • gathering the data • analysing and interpreting the data • using the findings to improve the processes, practices, systems or outcomes • gathering qualitative and quantitative data to review and monitor training outcomes and to initiate corrective action when required.
Communication strategy may include:	• email • formal meetings of organisation stakeholders • informal strategies • newsletters • posters.
Pre-training assessment kit may:	• link to the ACSF • meet the requirements of selected units of competency from Training Packages • reflect actual workplace practice with embedded language, literacy and numeracy skills required for a particular work role • require formal or informal processes.
Profile of potential participants may include:	• background factors, such as: • age ratio • education and training backgrounds • gender ratio • language and cultural backgrounds

	• level of formal education in first language • previous experience of training • employees' perception of their learning needs and attitudes to training and assessment • occupational groups and existing qualifications and skills of employees in relation to work context • those with self-identified language, literacy and numeracy needs.
Training delivery plan may include:	• human and physical resources • location • mode of training • participants and groupings • timing.
Others in the workplace may include:	• other trainers and assessors • relevant supervisors.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to design and review programs that develop adult language, literacy and numeracy skills. The unit requires analysis of factors that impact on the design of programs where adult language, literacy and numeracy are the major focus, such as the Language, Literacy and Numeracy Program (LLNP). No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to practitioners who design programs for the delivery of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills and knowledge. Practitioners design programs to meet specific requirements of funding bodies and learners accessing adult language, literacy and numeracy provision. Programs are based on delivery of accredited courses in states and territories. The accredited course when contextualised to meet a particular purpose is here described as 'a program'. Designing adult language, literacy and numeracy programs requires a broad skills and knowledge base in adult language, literacy and numeracy pedagogy and teaching approaches. These skills and knowledge are covered in: • TAELLN701A Analyse and apply adult literacy teaching practices • TAELLN702A Analyse and apply adult numeracy teaching practices • TAELLN703A Develop English language skills of learners. The skills and knowledge needed for delivering and assessing adult language, literacy and numeracy skills in a range of delivery contexts are covered in TAELLN704A Implement and evaluate delivery of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills. The design and delivery of specific language-based courses may require additional qualifications as set out in accredited course documentation.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Examine parameters of adult language, literacy and numeracy program design	1.1. Analyse program funding guidelines to establish program parameters 1.2. Use knowledge of pedagogies of adult language, literacy and numeracy to clarify program focus 1.3. Clarify eligibility requirements 1.4. Research range of course options
2. Select course level and units	2.1. Analyse courses to identify underpinning theoretical frameworks 2.2. Examine qualification packaging rules of courses 2.3. Select course with qualification packaging rules that meet the program focus 2.4. Analyse outcome statements of course at a range of levels, to select suitable level for the program 2.5. Review units of competency and Assessment Guidelines from Training Packages 2.6. Select units relevant to level and program focus, consistent with qualification packaging rules
3. Tailor program to meet needs of learner group	3.1. Access pre-training assessment records to establish learner needs , goals, skills and learning styles 3.2. Establish profile of the learner group 3.3. Select learning resources and program content consistent with learner profiles and program focus
4. Design program structure	4.1. Use knowledge of language, literacy and numeracy learning needs of culturally and linguistically diverse adults to plan program structure 4.2. Use knowledge of language, literacy and numeracy skill development to sequence learning 4.3. Select delivery options 4.4. Prepare delivery and assessment plan consistent with course content and learner needs, goals, skills and learning styles 4.5. Plan collaborative arrangements for teaching and learning activities when more than one practitioner is working with a group of learners 4.6. Note reporting requirements of funding body and build in at appropriate points in the program

5. Review the program design	5.1. Devise criteria by which the program is reviewed 5.2. Review the program design in collaboration with others 5.3. Modify the program design according to recommendations from the review

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - identify and analyse the language, literacy and numeracy practices used in the context of the program being designed
 - identify opportunities for learners to develop skills
 - interpret information about program specifications from commonwealth government, state training authorities and other funding bodies
 - locate and integrate employment, family and community resources in program design
- communication skills to listen perceptively to colleagues
- computer skills to:
 - record and report
 - support planning
- initiative and enterprise skills to:
 - identify opportunities through program design
 - think broadly about a range of program options
- literacy skills to:
 - complete complex reports for a range of bodies
 - interpret information from the learner placement process to identify and respond to learner needs, goals, skills and learning styles
 - pursue new knowledge through reading of professional journals and participation in conferences
 - select, read and interpret accredited course documentation
 - select, read and interpret Training Packages
 - synthesise information from complex and, at times, conflicting interpretations
 - write a training program

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- planning and organising skills to:
 - collect, analyse and organise information
 - devise a delivery and assessment plan
 - participate in a continuous improvement process
 - plan the use of resources
 - take initiatives and make decisions
- problem-solving skills to develop programs according to program guidelines
- self-management skills to take responsibility for planning
- teamwork skills to plan collaborative activity

Required knowledge

- adult learning principles as applied to program design
- legislation, codes of practice and national standards appropriate to program being designed, for example:
 - Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF)
 - Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF)
 - Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF)
 - guidelines for course developers
 - guidelines for labour market and employment initiatives
 - immigration regulations affecting program eligibility
 - International Second Language Proficiency Rating (ISLPR) scale
 - privacy legislation affecting confidentiality issues relating to adult literacy and numeracy identification procedures
 - training organisation's policies and procedures
- pedagogies of adult language, literacy and numeracy
- relationship of language, literacy and numeracy to the Australian vocational education and training (VET) context

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate

Evidence of the ability to:

- analyse factors influencing program design
- analyse packaging rules and Assessment Guidelines of courses

competency in this unit	and Training Packages - tailor a course to meet program requirements - design a program delivery and assessment plan that is consistent with program requirements, and demonstrate how the required skills and knowledge were used to inform the design - review a delivery program.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure access to: - course documentation - Training Packages - opportunities to design a plan for program delivery and assessment. Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.
Method of assessment	A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: - evaluation of an example of program design that reflects the program guidelines and needs of particular target groups of learners, and the delivery and learning context - evaluation of a report or case study - questioning to establish required knowledge.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: TAELLN801A Analyse policy and formulate strategic language, literacy and numeracy response.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT
The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

RANGE STATEMENT
Program funding guidelines may include:	• those from commonwealth and state government departments that fund adult literacy and numeracy programs • those of the training organisation.
Program parameters may include:	• eligibility for the program • entry literacy and numeracy skills of participants measured against frameworks, such as the ACSF • length of time of the training to be provided • outcomes to be achieved through the program described in competencies or employment outcomes, or linked to frameworks, such as ACSF levels • qualifications of teaching staff • specific priority groups.
Program focus may include:	• employment outcomes • equity initiatives • community integration • general education • labour market • pre-vocational.
Eligibility requirements may include:	• people who are employed and wish to improve their literacy and numeracy skills • people who have been unemployed for a defined period • people with a specified level of formal schooling, such as those who haven't completed a Year 12 equivalent level of schooling • those at a particular level of the ACSF • those in a particular age group, such as: • 15-19 years • over 55 years • those in Australia with a particular class of visa • those with a language background other than English • those with English as a first language.
Course options may include:	• course focussing on cultural or vocational knowledge, but with a major component of literacy and numeracy skill development • those accredited by states and territories, such as: • literacy or numeracy-focused course at relevant AQF level • literacy or numeracy course with vocational skills and knowledge included • literacy or numeracy course with work placement

	included • literacy or numeracy course with English language skills support included • those designed by a training organisation to meet a specific need • those of the required number of hours to meet program guidelines.
Underpinning theoretical frameworks may include:	• adult learning principles • ACSF • those related to pedagogy of adult literacy and numeracy • VET constructs, such as the AQF and AQTF.
Qualification packaging rules may include:	• core units of literacy and numeracy only • core and elective units of literacy and numeracy • qualification that addresses 'spiky profiles' • qualification that allows for inclusion of units from Training Packages and other accredited courses • qualification that allows for inclusion of work placement • qualification that encourages use of recognition of prior learning (RPL).
Suitable units of competency from Training Packages may include:	• communication • customer service • numeracy • occupational health and safety (OHS) • operating an item of machinery or a process • planning for work or work induction • quality indicators • working in teams.
Assessment Guidelines from Training Packages may include:	• qualifications required to assess units from the Training Package • qualifications required to deliver units from the Training Package • restrictions on use of units, such as: • prerequisite units • use at specific AQF level.
Learner needs may include:	• development of specific English language, literacy, numeracy and communication skills: • reading • writing

	• speaking • listening • visual literacy • non-verbal communication and body language • learning strategies • use of new technologies • critical thinking.
Profile of the learner group may include:	• age • gender ratio • identified language, literacy and numeracy needs, linked to pre-training assessment and qualification level • learners' perception of their learning needs • learners' previous education and training experience • learners' short-term and long-term goals • learners' level of formal education in first language • if of a language background other than English, language and cultural background • specific needs, such as those linked to disability.
Delivery options may include:	• classroom-based • delivery of discrete units • flexible delivery options using e-learning technologies • integration of units for delivery and assessment purposes • mix of classroom and project-based activities.
Delivery and assessment plan may include:	• adult literacy and numeracy skills to be developed • English language skills to be developed • competencies to be achieved • human and physical resources • needs of individual learners or grouping arrangements, where possible • places of training • program outline and sequencing of training • qualifications and experience of teachers • suitable assessment methods • timetable and length of course.
Collaborative arrangements may include:	• activities to integrate learning • division of program into coherent 'chunks', with different practitioners taking responsibility for different areas • timetabling.

TAELLN805A Formulate strategy for adult language, literacy and numeracy skill development in a community program

Modification History

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to formulate and lead a strategy for adult language, literacy and numeracy skill development in a community program. The unit addresses the research, analysis and application of practice that supports language, literacy and numeracy development in community programs. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to adult language, literacy and numeracy practitioners who draw on their skills and knowledge to formulate and implement strategies to support programs that meet community needs. Community organisations may seek to create awareness of a community or personal issue, such as health literacy or financial literacy, and to change behaviour in relation to it. Support from adult language, literacy and numeracy practitioners may be required to ensure the program reaches the widest possible audience by identifying and addressing language, literacy and numeracy barriers to participation, and developing strategies to assist individuals to achieve their personal goals by developing underpinning language, literacy and numeracy skills. Community programs may also teach skill development in non-vocational areas, such as basic computing, personal budgeting or cooking. An adult language, literacy and numeracy practitioner may identify underpinning skills needed for successful completion of these courses and develop strategies to support delivery.

2. Analyse language, literacy and numeracy requirements of community program	2.1. Analyse English language, literacy and numeracy implications of program goals 2.2. Examine potential risks relating to language, literacy and numeracy impacting on effectiveness of community program 2.3. Identify intended target group in consultation with program managers 2.4. Investigate possible issues for the target group in meeting program goals
3. Provide leadership in designing language, literacy and numeracy support for the program	3.1. Design the most appropriate strategy, based on theoretical understandings of adult language, literacy and numeracy 3.2. Recommend the most appropriate strategy given the profile of the target group and the program goals 3.3. Confirm the language, literacy and numeracy component of the overall project plan with community program personnel 3.4. Develop an evaluation strategy to enable ongoing monitoring of the language, literacy and numeracy component
4. Implement support for the program	4.1. Establish project support systems with community program personnel 4.2. Design and develop resources that address the language, literacy and numeracy components of the program
5. Devise a communications strategy	5.1. Analyse possible barriers to communication with the target group 5.2. Draft guidelines to support the development of communication with the target group at an appropriate language and literacy level 5.3. Analyse communications to ensure compliance with guidelines
6. Review the language, literacy and numeracy component of the project plan	6.1. Implement the evaluation strategy 6.2. Review the implementation of the language, literacy and numeracy component periodically and make modifications when required 6.3. Review project outcomes for target group 6.4. Meet reporting requirements of stakeholder groups

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - identify and analyse the language, literacy and numeracy embedded in community issues and activities
 - interpret information from a range of sources to identify and respond to project goals, skills of the target group and learning styles
 - make judgements about project activities based on analysis and interpretation
 - synthesise information from complex and, at times, conflicting interpretations
- communication skills to:
 - ask open-ended questions to provide others with opportunities to explain strategies
 - facilitate discussions to encourage sharing of strategies and exploration of different solutions to problems
 - give clear explanations, present concepts clearly and respond to questions effectively
 - give presentations to promote the program
 - liaise effectively with all members of the project team
 - listen in order to make notes from spoken texts across a range of contexts
 - make hypotheses, plan and influence others
 - paraphrase as part of effective listening techniques
 - vary talk to adjust to the English language level of others, including code-shifting activities where relevant
- computer skills to use software packages, such as word processing and presentation software
- initiative, enterprise and creativity to:
 - develop resources and materials to meet needs of community projects
 - formulate strategies in response to community needs
- literacy skills to:
 - complete documentation required
 - design communications at an appropriate level
 - design resources at an appropriate level to meet goals of project
 - examine materials developed by the project team, and analyse the language, literacy and numeracy demands
 - generate complex texts, demonstrating control over a broad range of styles and

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- purpose
 - use and experiment with a broad range of structures and features when writing
 - write complex texts that meet audience needs and purpose of text
- numeracy skills to design strategies to embed mathematical processes in routine tasks
- research skills to:
 - analyse data about the literacy and numeracy levels of the Australian community
 - locate and evaluate successful solutions in other environments
 - locate general information to inform the project
- teamwork skills to work collaboratively with stakeholders and members of the project team

Required knowledge

- adult learning principles and practices as they relate to community education
- Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF)
- features of texts that contribute to reading difficulty
- issues in the Australian community where English language, literacy and numeracy skills may have a role
- language, literacy and numeracy demands of community and personal activities, and the way low levels of language, literacy and numeracy skills can act as a barrier for many in dealing effectively with them
- own role and responsibilities to work strategically in a community environment
- research indicating levels of English language, literacy and numeracy in Australia, both in terms of the population as a whole and sections within it
- theoretical understanding of adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching practices

work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Goals for community program may include:	- developing an awareness campaign addressing personal issues that have implications for the community as a whole, for example health management programs such as diabetes awareness and management - developing programs that address areas of community need, such as using the internet and social networking sites for older citizens - meeting a specific objective, such as classes to inform the community about introduction of new fire safety support systems.
Role may include:	- alerting project team members to potential language, literacy and numeracy issues that may affect project outcomes in a community context, such as: - attitudinal barriers - confidentiality issues relating to language, literacy and numeracy identification procedures - cross-cultural awareness and sensitivity - learners with multiple needs - analysing material developed by the project team to ensure language style does not create barriers for potential readers - developing resources to support particular aspects of the program - mentoring other project team members in language, literacy and numeracy issues.
Language, literacy and numeracy implications of program goals may include:	- identifying requirements for a communication strategy - language, literacy and numeracy skills required to be able to perform target behaviours.
Potential risks may include:	- high levels of English language, literacy and numeracy skills required for certain activities acting as a barrier to shifts in target behaviour - complex explanations not easily understood by target group, leading to advice being ignored or mistaken.
Intended target group may include:	- specific gender - specific groups

	• specific language and cultural backgrounds • overall population • those wanting to develop specific skills.
Theoretical understandings may include:	• how language is structured to: • achieve a range of social purposes • establish and maintain social relationships • construct texts • features of written and spoken English across a diverse range of genres • social practices involved in reading, writing, visual literacy, talking and listening.
Appropriate strategies may include:	• delivering training focusing on identified language, literacy and numeracy underpinning skills • developing a communication strategy • developing resources designed for those with low levels of English language, literacy and numeracy • mentoring others in the community organisation in language, literacy and numeracy • strategies for specific groups or individuals.
Evaluation strategy may include:	• evaluation instruments, such as: • surveys • structured interviews • questionnaires • observations • feedback or debriefing from group discussions or meetings of stakeholders • evaluation processes that include: • defining the purpose and audience • planning the evaluation • gathering the data • analysing and interpreting the data • using the findings to improve processes, practices, systems or outcomes • gathering qualitative and quantitative data to review and monitor project outcomes and to initiate corrective action when required.
Guidelines may include:	• taking account of factors that contribute to difficult communication, such as: • complexity of sentence structure • layout, including:

	• dense text • text not supported by visual cues • length, including: • overall length • length of sentences • unclear sequencing of information • vocabulary, including: • jargon • not-widely recognised technical terms • idioms.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to adult language, literacy and numeracy practitioners initiating, developing and evaluating teaching and learning resources with broad applicability to the vocational education and training (VET) sector. These include: • national Workplace English Language and Literacy (WELL) program resources • resources to support implementation of adult language, literacy and numeracy courses or policies • resources to facilitate development of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills by priority learner groups. Adult language, literacy and numeracy resources may take a variety of forms, such as materials for practitioners; learner guides; participant resources; and assessment materials, including RPL. They may include e-learning resources, such as computer-based learning resources, simulations, interactive CDs and DVDs, and m-learning using mobile telephone communication. This unit does not include the technical skills required to develop e-learning and m-learning resources. Practitioners developing materials to support learning at the local level are also advised to consider TAADES502B Design and develop learning resources.

language, literacy and numeracy resource	numeracy resource 1.2. Research the language, literacy and numeracy skills and learning strategies to be developed in the resource 1.3. Evaluate existing resources for language, literacy and numeracy skills 1.4. Evaluate whether existing resources reflect current language, literacy and numeracy research and theoretical understandings of good practice 1.5. Evaluate existing resources for accessibility 1.6. Identify opportunities for contextualising existing resources
2. Establish support for resource development	2.1. Design broad format of resource 2.2. Locate and access funding sources 2.3. Identify suitable stakeholders for a representative consultative group 2.4. Develop effective relationships with relevant experts 2.5. Refine project brief in consultation with stakeholders and relevant experts 2.6. Prepare project plan for sign-off by the representative consultative group
3. Design the adult language, literacy and numeracy resource	3.1. Produce summary of desirable features of resource 3.2. Consider range of design features appropriate to audience 3.3. Agree on best design options with key stakeholders 3.4. Ensure processes comply with relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards
4. Develop the adult language, literacy and numeracy resource	4.1. Select content appropriate to project brief 4.2. Develop activities to ensure coverage of skills and knowledge 4.3. Reflect theoretical understandings of adult language, literacy and numeracy skill development in the choice and sequencing of content 4.4. Align language, literacy and numeracy content to recognised frameworks to ensure consistent interpretation and delivery 4.5. Seek and review feedback on the resource from a wide range of sources and incorporate feedback as appropriate

5. Evaluate the resource	5.1. Review design and development process against appropriate evaluation criteria 5.2. Review final product against the brief to ensure it meets all requirements 5.3. Identify a mechanism for ongoing monitoring and responses to feedback

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - facilitate discussions to encourage sharing of strategies and exploration of different solutions to problems
 - listen for detail
 - maintain professional networks
 - negotiate project brief and resource content
 - seek, give and respond to feedback and suggestions
- initiative, enterprise and creativity to:
 - develop appropriate resources and materials
 - think critically about teaching resources
- learning skills to:
 - maintain currency and relevance of knowledge
 - reflect on and improve own professional practice
- literacy skills to:
 - adjust writing styles for different audiences and audience levels
 - sequence material logically and transparently
 - structure and weight content appropriately
 - use an appropriate style
- numeracy skills to integrate numeracy into resource development
- planning and organising skills to:
 - identify appropriate members of representative consultative group
 - monitor and evaluate progress of resource development
 - plan a sequence of activities consistent with learning resource development
- problem-solving skills to identify and address specific difficulties in resource

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- development
- research and analysis skills to:
 - ask questions
 - determine appropriateness of feedback
 - find content and relevant information
 - identify areas for resource development
- self-management skills to comply with requirements, codes of practice and organisational policies and procedures
- teamwork skills to work collaboratively with colleagues and other experts
- technology skills to:
 - use software packages to support design
 - use software to facilitate consultations

Required knowledge

- adult learning principles and practices as they apply to resource development
- adult language, literacy and numeracy skill development
- instructional design for adult language, literacy and numeracy learners, such as:
 - adjusting language, layout, design features to suit appropriate level for learners
 - demonstrating cultural awareness in relation to content
 - using genres
 - appealing to a range of learning styles and strategies
 - planning, analysing, developing, synthesising and evaluating content of planned resources
- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards, including commonwealth and state or territory legislation, for example:
 - anti-discrimination, including equal opportunity, racial vilification and disability discrimination
 - copyright and privacy laws relating to electronic technology
 - duty of care under common law
 - industry and workplace requirements
 - plagiarism
 - workplace relations
- theoretical models and teaching approaches to adult language, literacy and numeracy skills
- VET system, including:
 - Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF)
 - Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF)
 - Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF)
 - key bodies

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- relationship of adult language, literacy and numeracy to the Australian VET context
- training and assessment processes
- Training Packages and accredited courses

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- design a project brief and plan agreed by stakeholders, including rationale for the project and research undertaken
- develop a draft of the resource, including rationale for choice of content and design features
- evaluate and use feedback from consultations
- produce a final version of the resource
- evaluate the process and product.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- the opportunity to initiate, develop and evaluate resource
- access to colleagues to support development
- access to resources to support development.

Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.

Method of assessment

A range of appropriate assessment methods should be used to determine competency. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- evaluation of a portfolio of evidence
- questioning to establish required knowledge
- third-party reports.

Guidance information for assessment

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

EVIDENCE GUIDE

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Identifying need for resource may include consideration of:	- consequences of implementation of new language, literacy and numeracy policies or programs - implications of language, literacy and numeracy policy shifts - need for support to implement social or economic policy with language, literacy and numeracy implications - intended learner group, including learner profiles and characteristics - level of language, literacy and numeracy skill described using national frameworks - relationship with VET frameworks.
Evaluating may include:	- analysing language, literacy and numeracy skills developed in the resource - analysing extent to which language, literacy and numeracy underpinning skills are identified in a vocationally-oriented resource - identifying gaps in available resources related to language, literacy and numeracy skill development - examining the suitability of existing resources for culturally and linguistically diverse learners.
Evaluating resources for reflection of current language, literacy and numeracy research and theoretical understandings of good	- current language, literacy and numeracy research into good practice to: - improve access to training for culturally and linguistically diverse adults - improve outcomes from language, literacy and numeracy training

practice may include:	• support and extend existing vocational training • support community need for language, literacy and numeracy support • support and extend language, literacy and numeracy training in workplaces • accessing research available from National Centre for Vocational Education Research (NCVER) or National Research and Development Centre for Adult Literacy and Numeracy (NRDC).
Evaluating resources for accessibility may include:	• analysing language, literacy and numeracy skill levels required to access the resource, aligned to national frameworks, such as the ACSF • evaluating: • text type • structure • language • format.
Broad format may include:	• audiovisual • electronic • print-based.
Access to funding sources may include consideration of:	• consultation requirements • costs involved in process of securing funding, such as researching and writing a competitive tender proposal • guidelines from potential funding bodies • level of funding in relation to estimated resource costs • parameters of funding • reporting requirements • timelines • type of resource.
Representative consultative group may include:	• wide representation of stakeholders, such as: • associated industry or community organisations • professional associations • representatives from states and territories • representatives of the funding body • subject matter experts • training organisations.
Relevant experts may include:	• e-learning designers • web developers • audio designers.

RANGE STATEMENT
Refining the project brief may include:	• definition of audience in relation to language, literacy and numeracy goals • definition of purpose, outcome and impact in terms of language, literacy and numeracy skills to be developed aligned to recognised language, literacy and numeracy frameworks • detailed costing • information on project personnel and capacity to deliver project • timeline.
Project plan may include:	• consultation strategy • evaluation strategy to ensure product meets the needs of intended users • potential risks and strategies to avert risk • staged timeline with activities defined at each stage of development, including meetings and responsibilities of project consultative group • strategy to communicate information about the project to the adult literacy and numeracy community.
Design features may include:	• by what means the learner is engaged by the resource • features of layout, including font, white space and colour • if electronic text: ease of navigation, inclusion of audio, inclusion of video, signposting and internal links • if for independent access: level of instructions, ease of accessing materials, sequencing, layout features and links • mix of text-based information and visual information • opportunities for collaborative learning • practical activity-based content • reading level of text, including: • genre • grammatical structures • verb tenses • active or passive voice; • use of abbreviation, idiom and jargon • sequencing of material to reflect adult literacy and numeracy skill development • sources of further information and further reading.
Ways in which theoretical	• decisions about the suitability of particular delivery options to meet learner group needs, such as the

understandings of skill development may be reflected in the content include:	suitability of materials for a particular group of learners • inclusion of a 'how to' guide to assist practitioners in using the resource • extent of support a particular learner might need to succeed with materials • level of difficulty of: • reading materials • particular writing tasks • particular numeracy tasks • adult language, literacy and numeracy strategies and activities • order in which new material may be introduced.
Evaluation criteria may include:	• extent to which finished resource met the language, literacy and numeracy needs of the learner group • progress of the project.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to design, implement and evaluate an adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development program. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to those involved in the educational leadership of adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development programs. Adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development programs include those within training organisations or workplace settings, where an experienced adult language, literacy and numeracy practitioner, provides professional development to other practitioners to develop their skills and knowledge in providing language, literacy and numeracy to adult learners. Professional development programs also occur in community settings, such as in volunteer adult literacy programs. Professional development programs may be formal or informal. Examples of formal programs include delivery of: • TAELLN401A Address adult language, literacy and numeracy skills • TAELLN501A Support the development of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills • TAE70110 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Practice.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Design an adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development program	1.1. Identify skills and skill development requirements of individuals and teams 1.2. Formulate an adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development program plan in consultation with stakeholders

	1.3. Design program to reflect social and educational context in which it operates 1.4. Determine mode and methods for professional development program 1.5. Design participant selection criteria 1.6. Design adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development training sessions 1.7. Design processes for monitoring and evaluating professional development program
2. Implement and deliver program plan	2.1. Clarify responsibilities of parties involved in adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development program 2.2. Design professional development activities as required 2.3. Locate and develop resources to support program 2.4. Choose, sequence and conduct professional development activities 2.5. Use formal and informal monitoring to support the professional development, and provide feedback 2.6. Undertake assessment of participants and provide support as required 2.7. Maintain records as required by the training organisation
3. Evaluate professional development program outcomes	3.1. Implement program evaluation 3.2. Complete program evaluation report for stakeholders 3.3. Introduce changes to program in response to strategic analysis and participant feedback

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to collect, analyse and interpret data using a range of methods
- communication skills to:

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- adjust teacher talk to the English language level of the participants
- advocate on behalf of others
- explain concepts clearly
- model collaborative communication and learning
- provide corrective feedback
- promote the program in the community, training organisation or workplace
- seek opinions and elicit feedback from a range of stakeholders
- computer skills to use:
 - email, internet and telephone messaging
 - software packages, such as educational software
- interpersonal skills to:
 - maintain relationships with participants
 - relate to people from a range of backgrounds and with a range of skills
 - use active listening skills
- literacy skills to:
 - complete documentation required to conduct the course
 - design and produce teaching and learning materials
 - model written genres
- planning and organising skills to design, plan and implement a professional development program
- research and learning skills to:
 - maintain relevant data about language, literacy and numeracy issues in Australia and globally
 - pursue new knowledge through reading of professional journals and participation in conferences
 - research current issues in adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching
- teamwork skills to:
 - consult with relevant parties to get support for the implementation of the plan
 - network with others

Required knowledge

- adult learning principles, as they relate to professional development programs
- adult language, literacy and numeracy issues as they apply in workplace, community and training contexts
- adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching approaches
- changes in the Australian economic and industrial context, community context and training context that can impact on literacy and numeracy skills requirements
- data collection methods
- legislation, codes of practice and national standards, such as:

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- training organisation quality compliance policies and procedures
- equal opportunity legislation
- English language, literacy and numeracy frameworks, such as the Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF)
- range of circumstances and special requirements of the adult learner group likely to access a literacy and numeracy program
- range of teaching and learning resources
- social and educational context in which the program operates
- theories that inform literacy and numeracy teaching

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- develop an adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development plan, with stakeholder support
- develop an adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development training program, which demonstrates significant depth of knowledge of strategies to support adults wanting to develop language, literacy and numeracy skills
- plan and deliver activities to support professional development program
- provide a program evaluation report
- demonstrate changes made to the program as a result of feedback.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure access to:

- an actual or simulated environment
- appropriate adult literacy and numeracy professional development facilities
- media equipment
- research materials.

Assessment must also ensure the use of culturally appropriate processes, and techniques appropriate to the language, literacy and

Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.
Adult language, literacy and numeracy professional development program may include:	• community-based volunteer tutor training programs, where volunteer tutors work with adults to improve skills and knowledge • programs in training organisations where an experienced adult language, literacy and numeracy practitioner develops the skills of other colleagues so that they can work with learners enrolled in VET programs, or adult language, literacy and numeracy programs • programs in the workplace where an experienced adult language, literacy and numeracy practitioner works with other training colleagues to develop their skills in training in adult literacy and numeracy.

RANGE STATEMENT
Program plan may include:	• goals and principles of program • participants • possible risks and strategies to avert them • program content • projected outcomes • resources required • responsibilities of parties involved in the program.
Stakeholders may include:	• language, literacy and numeracy colleagues • managers of community programs • other vocational education and training (VET) colleagues • policy makers • program managers within VET environment • workplace personnel.
Social and educational context may include:	• community context • training organisation context • workplace context.
Mode and methods for professional development program may include:	• classroom delivery • flexible delivery methods • individual or small group mentoring • providing expert advice to technical trainers, as required.
Participants may include:	• adults who wish to assist a learner with reading, writing, oral communication and numeracy skills • those enrolled in TAELLN401A Address adult language, literacy and numeracy skills • those enrolled in TAELLN501A Support the development of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills • those enrolled in TAE70110 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Practice • those working within a training organisation, a workplace or in a voluntary role in the community.
Selection criteria may include:	• ability to meet legal and regulatory requirements • availability to participate in training and ongoing professional development • meeting a range of criteria which may affect relationship-building with an adult in a community program, such as particular skills, interests and availability

	• meeting the entry requirements of relevant qualifications • self-audit of training needs, including: • developing strategies for evaluating and reflecting on own learning strengths and weaknesses • with assistance, developing or revising individualised plans and strategies to achieve goals.
Design may include:	• adult learning theories and learning styles • analysis of language, literacy and numeracy: • integrated into training specifications, such as Training Packages or accredited curriculum • involved in community participation • underpinning workplace activity • examination of adult language, literacy and numeracy learner profiles, including: • background information or case studies, which include factors that typically affect language, literacy and numeracy skill development • goals and needs of adult learners consistent with the program's context • impetus for adult learners to participate in language, literacy and numeracy programs, including developing literacy and numeracy skills for a variety of purposes, such as: • community participation • coping better with bureaucratic demands of Australian society • dealing with technology • employment-related reasons • improved outcomes from training • personal needs • learning strategies • language, literacy and numeracy skills aligned to frameworks, such as the ACSF • third-party reports from interested others • statistical information, such as levels of adult language, literacy and numeracy in the Australian community • program guidelines, such as those relating to confidentiality • teaching strategies and learning resources

	• TAELLN401A Address adult language, literacy and numeracy skills • TAELLN501A Support the development of adult language, literacy and numeracy skills • TAE70110 Vocational Graduate Certificate in Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Practice.
Responsibilities of parties may include:	• responsibilities of the program leader, such as: • educational quality of program • maintaining knowledge of current research • program management • risk management • support for program participants • responsibilities of program participants, such as: • working in accordance with program's guidelines • working in accordance with training organisation's policies and procedures • joint responsibility to develop a program for adult learners wishing to develop literacy and numeracy skills, including: • learning activities and resources to develop language, literacy and numeracy skills • sequencing of activities guided by theoretical understandings of skill development • teaching activities to develop language, literacy and numeracy skills relevant to the goals, learning styles and strategies of learners.
Professional development activities may include:	• activities to support adult learning • activities to support literacy and numeracy learning • adult language, literacy and numeracy teaching strategies • activities to cover legislation, codes of practice and national standards.
Resources may include:	• human resources, such as: • content experts • representatives of support agencies • technical experts • learning resources, such as: • teaching strategies • those supporting long-term goals of adults • those that develop language, literacy and numeracy

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Model high standards of performance	1.1 Incorporate individual responsibilities and accountabilities into personal work plans in accordance with organisational and legal requirements 1.2 Model appropriate professional techniques and strategies 1.3 Apply ethical and inclusive practices in professional practice
2. Determine personal development needs	2.1 Assess own knowledge and skills against relevant benchmarks to determine development needs and priorities 2.2 Seek input from other relevant personnel about own development needs and priorities 2.3 Identify ways to update and maintain currency of vocational competency and prepare a vocational currency plan 2.4 Identify ways to update and maintain Vocational Education and Training (VET) knowledge and skills as well as trainer and assessor competence and prepare a VET currency plan 2.5 Combine vocational currency plan and VET currency plan into an overall professional development plan
3. Collaborate with peers in professional development	3.1 Observe facilitators in facilitation practice and provide them constructive feedback 3.2 Invite peers to observe and provide constructive feedback on own facilitation practices 3.3 Interview assessors in relation to the judgements they make in their assessment practices and provide them constructive feedback 3.4 Invite peers to question own judgements in assessment practices and provide constructive feedback
4. Participate in professional development activities	4.1 Select and implement development opportunities to support continuous learning and maintain currency of professional practice 4.2 Participate in professional networks to support continuous learning and maintain currency of professional practice 4.3 Engage in processes which include observing peers in training and assessment practices and providing them feedback 4.4 Invite peers and others to observe and provide feedback on own training and assessment practices 4.5 Use technology to maintain regular communication with relevant networks, organisations and individuals

5. Reflect on and evaluate professional practice	5.1 Research developments and trends impacting on professional practice and integrate information into work performance 5.2 Use feedback from colleagues and clients to identify and introduce improvements in work performance 5.3 Document professional development activities, learning and planned changes in behaviours in accordance with the organisation's systems and processes

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - obtain feedback from colleagues and clients
 - participate in professional networks
 - consult with colleagues and clients
- interpersonal skills to:
 - participate in industry events and activities
 - build professional relationships and networks
 - engage with peers professionally to give and receive feedback constructively
- leadership skills to:
 - influence and motivate others
 - guide and support others
 - make informed decisions and recommendations
- literacy skills to:
 - read and interpret vocational education and training information such as legal and organisational policy documents
 - complete and maintain records related to professional development
- reflection skills to systematically evaluate personal work practices to improve performance or understanding
- research skills to:
 - keep up with trends in vocational education and training
 - identify relevant industry affiliations
 - keep up with trends, changes and developments in own vocational area of competency
- self-evaluation skills to:
 - identify gaps in skills or knowledge
 - obtain competencies to meet current and future organisational objectives
 - analyse and identify opportunities to improve training and assessment practices

- time management skills to:
 - organise professional development activities.

Required knowledge

- organisational goals and objectives
- organisational processes, procedures and opportunities relating to professional development
- continuous improvement techniques and processes and their application
- social and education trends and changes impacting on the vocational education and training environment, such as:
 - policy changes
 - technological changes
 - cultural changes
 - economic changes
- networks relevant to professional practice
- ethical and inclusive principles and practices associated with assessment of competence
- types and availability of development activities and opportunities.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • model appropriate professional techniques and strategies • contribute to own professional development plan • network and use technology to gain information and other support • participate in professional development activities and maintain currency of skills and knowledge in VET sector as well as vocational area • document, reflect and discuss with peers evidence of feedback from at least 10 hours of facilitation practice and interviews with assessors covering at least the assessment of 10 candidates.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided which will enable all the critical aspects for evidence outlined above to be assessed in a manner equivalent to a workplace.

Method of assessment	Critical aspects of evidence for the 3 units: • TAEDEL502A Provide advanced facilitation practice, • TAEASS501A Provide advanced assessment practice, and • TAEPPDD501A Maintain and enhance professional practice are intended to be assessed in the context of a 'practicum'. A holistic assessment covering these three units can be accessed on the IBSA website to support such assessment.

Conduct research in training and assessment practice	2.1 Manage and conduct research activities using effective techniques for project management, implementation and data collection 2.2 Collect data and record appropriate project activities in line with the research proposal 2.3 Analyse data from research in relation to its application to improving current and future training and assessment practice
3. Investigate and apply educational theory to the research	3.1 Identify appropriate sources of information to identify relevant educational theory 3.2 Apply appropriate educational theories to the outcomes of the training and assessment research 3.3 Make recommendations for training and assessment development and improvement in line with the identified current and future needs of the organisation
4. Report on application of educational theory to training and assessment practice	4.1 Prepare relevant documentation on research findings using academic referencing and citation protocols, for presentation to key personnel 4.2 Make recommendations for action to improve current and future training and assessment practice based on the research findings and present to relevant personnel for approval 4.3 Establish criteria to monitor and evaluate new practices based on the research recommendations and recommend monitoring and evaluation processes

5. Review entire process	5.1 Design a process to review the research procedures, methodologies, data collection, analysis and reporting 5.2 Conduct the review in consultation with key personnel 5.3 Make recommendations for further research based on the review

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - prepare reports
 - explain research objectives, processes and outcomes clearly to others
 - ask relevant research questions
- critical thinking skills to:
 - think critically about learning and assessment processes
 - identify innovative applications of research to training and assessment practices
- learning skills to select appropriate research methodology
- literacy skills to:
 - prepare research briefs
 - locate and evaluate information
 - write fluently, accurately and legibly using appropriate text types
- numeracy skills to:
 - prepare and monitor budgets
- planning and organising skills to plan and conduct research
- problem solving skills to review processes and make recommendations
- teamwork skills to collaborate with others as required in the research process
- technology skills to locate sources of information for research purposes.

Required knowledge

- academic referencing and citation protocols
- Australian Code for the Responsible Conduct of Research
- ethical principles and guidelines for Indigenous research
- intellectual property protocols
- range of relevant research methods
- sources of information relevant to research.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: - complete at least one research project which includes: - a research brief including purpose of research, rationale, methodology, research activities, timeframe, resources required and expected outcomes - wide research into educational theory - analysis of data in relation to its application to improving current and future training and assessment practice - recommendations for action to improve current and future training and assessment practice - criteria to monitor and evaluate new practices based on research - conduct a review of the research process with recommendations for future research.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.
Method of assessment
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Organisation may include:	• an enterprise • industry body • government department or agency • non-government or community organisation.
Research proposal may include:	• methodology • procedure • research tools • variables • legal or ethical considerations for the research including timeline • proposed budget.
Documentation may include:	• discussion of any limitations of methodology, data and analysis or process • presentation of the outcomes and recommendations • relevant appendices • research report • support for the activity, process or research hypothesis.

Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Research sustainability skill requirements of an industry area	1.1. Identify sustainability issues and practices in relation to a specific industry area 1.2. Investigate current and emerging practices in relation to sustainability in the specific industry area 1.3. Evaluate various approaches to building these into training practice and processes 1.4. Identify specialist sustainability practitioners and seek advice as required
2. Determine sustainability skills relevant to training	2.1. Analyse and document relevant sustainability skills in the training specification 2.2. Identify potential or implicit sustainability skills in the training specification 2.3. Document these skills as part of the learning and assessment strategy
3. Customise program to incorporate sustainability skills	3.1. Select and customise or develop learning and assessment materials linked to the required sustainability skills and appropriate for the training specification and training context 3.2. Document customised program

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - make judgements about the sustainability skill requirements of training
 - communicate with other professionals about sustainability skill requirements
 - liaise with personnel, including managers and supervisors, from the training and assessment organisation
 - analyse a wide range of documents
- self-management and organisational skills to analyse and apply sustainability skills to learning programs
- research skills to analyse training specifications and determine embedded, explicit and implicit sustainability skills

Required knowledge

- definitions of sustainability and different contexts in which a variety of definitions can be used
- training package contents, including industry-specific approaches to identifying sustainability skills within them
- national policy on sustainability, including specific policy in relation to the development of sustainability skills in the vocational education and training sector
- legislation, codes of practice and associated requirements, such as:
 - environmental legislation
 - equal employment opportunity legislation
 - privacy legislation
 - organisational requirements
- OHS relating to the work role, including:
 - reporting requirements for hazards
 - sources of OHS information
 - OHS obligations of employers and employees, including supervisors

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment

EVIDENCE GUIDE
Guidelines for the Training Package.
Overview of assessment	Assessment must address the scope of this unit and reflect all components of the unit. A range of appropriate assessment methods and evidence-gathering techniques must be used to determine competency. A judgement of competency should only be made when the assessor is confident that the required outcomes of the unit have been achieved and that consistent performance has been demonstrated.
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • identify sustainability skill issues in at least two different training products • provide documentation setting out training products and learning strategies that incorporate sustainability skills • provide outlines of how those sustainability skills are to be incorporated into training and assessment approaches.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.
Specific industry means:	• a specific industry area or sector area in which the candidate usually trains or assesses.
Sustainability skills include:	• technical skills, knowledge, values and attitudes needed in the workforce to develop and support sustainable social, economic and environmental outcomes in business, industry and the community, as defined in the National Green Skills Agreement December 2009.

Training specification may include:	• training package units of competency • learning outcomes from accredited courses with a vocational outcome • non-accredited industry specific learning programs.
Potential or implicit sustainability skills may include:	• areas of the training specification where the achievement of the performance criteria has an implied sustainable or green skills context (e.g. increasing fuel efficiency in a performance criteria related to effective use of powered equipment).

knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Identify effective learning and teaching principles and practices	1.1 Explore effective learning and teaching pedagogies in education and training 1.2 Identify and critique the criteria for effective learning 1.3 Analyse and document the relationship between effective learning and teaching and learner centred change 1.4 Explore the place of values and worldviews in VET 1.5 Document the nexus between effective learning and teaching and institutional policies and programs
2. Research development of current sustainability education principles and practice	2.1 Investigate historical development of education about sustainability and education for sustainability 2.2 Identify current and emerging sustainability education principles and practices 2.3 Evaluate current and emerging national and international sustainability education strategies for best practice 2.4 Investigate the relationship between effective learning and teaching and sustainability education and training 2.5 Articulate stages of embedding sustainability education into all learning and teaching programs
3. Apply current sustainability education principles and practice to learning program	3.1 Select and apply or develop learning and assessment materials utilising current best practice sustainability education principles and practice appropriate for the training specification and training context 3.2 Investigate synergies and challenges of embedding sustainability education into learning and teaching programs 3.3 Document customised program

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical skills to:
 - analyse training specifications and determine appropriate application of sustainability education principles and practice
 - make judgements about the sustainability education application to training
- communication skills to:
 - communicate with other professionals about sustainability education requirements
 - liaise with personnel, including managers and supervisors, from the training and assessment organisation
 - analyse a wide range of documents
- research skills to explore, identify, critique and evaluate teaching and learning and sustainability education
- self-management and organisational skills to analyse and apply best practice sustainability education principles and practice to learning programs.

Required knowledge

- characteristics of EfS including:
 - systems thinking
 - critical and reflective thinking
 - interdisciplinarity and transdisciplinarity approaches
 - experiential learning and real life issues
 - reconnecting to sense of place
 - developing dialogue
 - space for emergence
 - learning for action
 - reflection on learning (reflexivity)
 - campus as curriculum
- definitions of sustainability education, including:
 - environmental education
 - education about sustainability
 - education for sustainability (EfS)
 - education for sustainable development (ESD)
- definitions of sustainability and different contexts in which a variety of definitions can be used
- international codes of practice for Education for Sustainability including:
 - UN Decade of Education for Sustainable Development (2005-2014)
 - Talloires Declaration
- principles and practices for effective learning and teaching, including:
 - adult learning theory
 - constructivism

- systems thinking
- critical thinking and practice
- participatory learning
- experiential learning
- student / learner centred learning
- multiple learning and teaching styles
- empowerment of the learner
- teacher as mentor and facilitator
- action research
- transformative and translational learning
- appreciative inquiry
- collaborative learning and co-inquiry
- problem based learning
- values education
- legislation, codes of practice and associated requirements including:
 - environmental legislation
 - equal employment opportunity legislation
 - privacy legislation
 - organisational requirements
- national policy on sustainability, including specific policy in relation to the development of sustainability skills in the vocational education and training sector including:
 - National Green Skills Agreement 2009
 - National Action Plan for Education for Sustainability 2009 (Living Sustainably: the Australian Government's National Action Plan for Education for Sustainability)
 - Victorian Tertiary Education for Sustainability Strategy 2011
- training package contents, including industry-specific approaches to identifying sustainability skills within them
- ways of viewing EfS including:
 - the education we need to make the transition to a sustainable society
 - building people's capacity to innovate and implement solutions
 - what skills, knowledge, values and ethics we need for the transition ahead
 - what we need to know to live responsibly and within the means of nature
 - the learning processes and institutional processes we need to support transformative living
 - transformative learning that integrates learning for being, knowing and doing
 - transforming teaching practice to support change for sustainability and challenging and changing curriculum, pedagogy and assessment
 - empowering people of all ages to assume responsibility for creating a sustainable future.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Provide initial and ongoing information and advice on training and assessment services	1.1. Provide potential learners with relevant information about the range of training and assessment services provided by the training and/or assessment organisation 1.2. Explain specific program content and assessment requirements to learners in a clear and concise manner 1.3. Confirm training schedule with relevant personnel and disseminate to learners 1.4. Access, provide and explain relevant organisational policies and procedures relating to training and/or assessment services to learners according to organisational and legal requirements
2. Complete training and assessment records	2.1. Collect, verify and record personal learner information on learner records management system 2.2. Collect, verify and record details of the specific learning strategy and learning program on the learner records management system 2.3. Confirm and record relevant additional requirements 2.4. Confirm and record learner progress and assessment outcomes in a timely manner

	2.5.Organise certification processes according to national reporting requirements, where appropriate 2.6.Address custody and management requirements of training and/or assessment information and records
3. Complete reporting requirements	3.1.Complete and forward final results to appropriate personnel for signature, using systems to support reporting 3.2.Finalise, check and provide data for national reporting purposes to appropriate personnel for signature 3.3.Identify, document and address issues and irregularities in recording and reporting activities in a timely and effective manner 3.4.Refer issues and irregularities outside area of responsibility or expertise to appropriate personnel for resolution, if relevant 3.5.Finalise certification arrangements, send to learners and store copies according to organisational and legal requirements, where appropriate

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- language and literacy skills to:
 - elicit appropriate and critical information from learners in order to complete recording requirements
 - prepare national and state or territory reporting information
 - liaise with personnel, including managers and supervisors, from the training and/or assessment organisation
 - liaise with appropriate external authorities
 - analyse a wide range of documents
- self-management and organisational skills relating to planning, and meeting deadlines and organisational and regulatory requirements

Required knowledge

- organisational policies and procedures relating to records and reporting procedures,

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- and disseminating information to learners
- established training and assessment information systems
- training and assessment services provided by the organisation
- requirements for collecting, recording and reporting vocational education and training information
- Australian Quality Training Framework and AVETMISS requirements, covering:
 - records management
 - reporting requirements
- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards, including commonwealth and state or territory legislation, for example:
 - copyright and privacy laws in terms of electronic technology
 - security of information
 - recording information and confidentiality requirements
- OHS responsibilities associated with maintaining training and/or assessment information requirements

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Identify the organisation's needs	1.1 Discuss with relevant staff from the organisation their objectives, expectations and organisational requirements 1.2 Use appropriate communication and interpersonal skills to develop a professional relationship with the organisation. 1.3 Identify, analyse and address any existing or potential issues that may impact on the organisation's objectives and requirements 1.4 Identify and access resources in accordance with organisational requirements 1.5 Develop a project plan with relevant persons to be negotiated and agreed by the organisation
2. Conduct training needs analysis	2.1 Use reliable, appropriate and efficient methods for collecting information and data on current, emerging and future training needs 2.2 Analyse the organisation's work roles to determine skills and competencies needed for effective performance 2.3 Follow legal, organisational and ethical requirements to gather information and data to assess the current skills and competencies of staff 2.4 Use reliable and valid data analysis methods to determine current and emerging organisational training needs
3. Provide advice to the organisation	3.1 Provide the organisation with clear advice and recommendations on training and assessment needs 3.2 Provide the organisation with options for meeting identified training needs 3.3 Obtain feedback and comments from the organisation on the suitability and sufficiency of advice and recommendations 3.4 Use legal requirements to process, complete and present final report to the organisation

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- cognitive skills to analyse and interpret research and conceptualise and synthesise issues around training needs

- communication and interpersonal skills to consult with client and relevant people, to discuss client needs and provide observations and recommendations for training development
- literacy skills to critically evaluate information and prepare reports providing advice and recommendations
- negotiation and facilitation skills for research, presenting and discussing recommendations and obtaining feedback
- numeracy skills to analyse data and present statistical information
- problem solving skills to apply effective approaches to training needs
- research skills to collect information around training needs, including observation and consultation.

Required knowledge

- competency standards and Training Packages/accredited courses
- Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) requirements and standards
- risk identification and management strategies
- industry and enterprise knowledge
- evaluation and research methodologies
- relevant social, political, economic and technological developments
- principles of intellectual property
- training and development strategies
- change management concepts/strategies
- occupational health and safety (OHS) relating to undertaking an organisational training needs analysis.

Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Review auditee documentation	1.1. Where applicable, review auditee's previous quality audits to establish possible impact on the conduct of the current audit 1.2. Request relevant organisational documents from auditee, and review and check the adequacy of these documents 1.3. Amend reviewed documents, and determine and source any further documentation required 1.4. Resolve issues which arise with auditee and relevant parties
2. Participate in developing audit schedules	2.1. Access or prepare appropriate checklists/tools and audit related documentation 2.2. Confirm schedules and required resources with auditee before beginning auditing activities

	2.3. Anticipate possible issues and outline strategies to address these issues, should they arise 2.4. Ensure preparation activities and documentation correspond to the audit plan 2.5. In consultation with auditing team, determine appropriate methods and techniques 2.6. Assist lead auditor in creating entry and exit meeting agendas
3. Gather and analyse information	3.1. Access a range of potential sources of information 3.2. Collect and make an initial assessment of sample documentation 3.3. Interview appropriate persons in relation to relevant documentation 3.4. Identify and report patterns, trends, interrelationships and areas of risk 3.5. Identify aspects of the audit that require the use of specialists and request appropriate assistance
4. Evaluate information	4.1. Evaluate information against prescribed benchmarks 4.2. Form a defensible opinion as to the meeting of these benchmarks by the auditee 4.3. Ensure opinions are formed from and supported by available information
5. Report findings	5.1. Formulate findings and prepare a corrective action report if discrepancies or non-compliances are detected 5.2. Examine results/findings against audit objectives and present to lead auditor 5.3. Report recommendations for improvements as applicable
6. Participate in exit meeting	6.1. Prepare for exit meeting 6.2. Ensure reporting arrangements are agreed upon and documented during the meeting 6.3. Ensure context and consequences of audit are explained, and follow-up is discussed

BSBCOM501B Identify and interpret compliance requirements

Modification History

Not applicable.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to identify and interpret the range of internal and external compliance requirements and obligations that must be fulfilled by an organisation. A range of legislation, rules, regulations and codes of practice may apply to this unit at the time of endorsement, depending on job roles and jurisdictions.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to individuals working as a chief executive or manager in a small organisation (where it would be part of their broad role) or as a member of a compliance management team within a larger organisation. These individuals require a sound theoretical knowledge of compliance and well established skills in identifying and interpreting compliance requirements relevant to the operations and sphere of business of the organisation and/or industry sector concerned. The unit also applies to internal or external consultants as part of a broader advisory role to the chief executive or management team of a large or small organisation on compliance management policies and systems. As the activities are focused primarily on identifying and interpreting specific legislative requirements, codes of practice, and internal standards and procedures as they relate to a particular organisation, this unit differs from BSBCOM601B Research compliance requirements and issues. Researching compliance issues is a higher order competence aimed at carrying out research into a wider range of compliance-related issues, such as the costs of compliance, the potential impact of compliance on an organisation or industry, and the risks and consequences of non-compliance.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Organise learning to use information or knowledge management system	1.1. Identify learning needs of relevant personnel and stakeholders for input into, and use of, an information or knowledge management system 1.2. Identify and secure human, financial and physical resources required for learning activities to use an information or knowledge management system 1.3. Organise and facilitate learning activities 1.4. Promote and support use of the system throughout the organisation 1.5. Monitor and document effectiveness of learning activities
2. Manage use of information or knowledge management system	2.1. Ensure implementation of policies and procedures for the information or knowledge management system are monitored for compliance, effectiveness and efficiency 2.2. Address implementation issues and problems as they arise

	2.3. Monitor integration and alignment with data and information systems 2.4. Collect information on achievement of performance measures 2.5. Manage contingencies such as system failure or technical difficulties by accessing technical specialist help as required
3. Review use of information or knowledge management system	3.1. Analyse effectiveness of system and report on strengths and limitations of the system 3.2. Review business and operational plan and determine how effectively the system is contributing to intended outcomes 3.3. Make recommendations for improvement to system, policy or work practices

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical and problem-solving skills to ensure the system is working in accordance with organisational expectations and to deal with contingencies
- technology skills to work with and manage the use of the information or knowledge management system.

Required knowledge

- legislation, codes of practice and national standards, for example:
 - privacy and confidentiality legislation
 - freedom of information legislation
 - AS 5037:2005 Knowledge management - A guide
- organisational policies and procedures, for example:
 - records management
 - information management
 - customer service
 - commercial confidentiality
- organisational operations, and existing data and information systems.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE
The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.
Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the following is essential: - analysis of the strengths and weaknesses of information or knowledge management system/s and evaluation of suitability for a particular work or organisational context - knowledge of relevant legislation, codes of practice and national standards.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: - access to system - access to system user feedback.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: - assessment of written reports reviewing and evaluating information or knowledge management systems - direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate - observation of presentations - oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of relevant organisational policies and procedures - review of identified learning needs personnel and stakeholders regarding the information or knowledge management system - evaluation of monitoring and documentation about the effectiveness of learning activities - analysis documentation reporting on the strengths and limitations of the system - review of recommendations made for improvements to the system, policy or work practices.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to conceptualise and establish new systems that support and encourage innovation in the workplace. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit may apply to individuals working in any community or industry context, in small or large organisations. While managers are often responsible for the development of new systems, depending on the organisation size and the nature of the system being developed, senior operational personnel or internal/external specialists may also undertake this role. Systems are varied in nature and might apply to human resources management, team management, organisational structures, product development, information technology, marketing or training and assessment. The critical focus is on systems conceived and developed with innovation as the key driver.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Research context for new system development	1.1.Explore and analyse the impact of systems in the overall context of innovation 1.2.Explore and gain clarity around system objectives , particularly in relation to innovation 1.3.Analyse current organisational systems to identify gaps or barriers to innovation 1.4.Research and analyse current and emerging information about systems in other organisations and contexts 1.5.Evaluate the resources and other commitment required to foster innovation 1.6.Identify key stakeholders who can play a role in conceptualising or supporting new system ideas
2. Generate system	2.1.Create system concepts that will foster innovation

concepts and options	using individual and group techniques 2.2. Evaluate and discuss a range of ideas with relevant stakeholders 2.3. Clearly articulate the ways in which innovation is better supported by system ideas and options 2.4. Clearly articulate how the system itself is innovative 2.5. Expose ideas and options to ongoing testing, exploration and challenge 2.6. Select and refine system ideas that meet the workplace requirements and which are both feasible and innovative
3. Develop a plan for the system	3.1. Determine the need for specialised assistance and integrate into system planning 3.2. Analyse the potential impact of the new system on people, resources and other organisational practices 3.3. Consult with all stakeholders who will be involved with, or affected by, the new system 3.4. Develop an operational plan for the system, with budget, time lines and responsibilities 3.5. Develop a communication strategy to support the introduction of the new system 3.6. Evaluate the coaching and training needs of those who will use the system and plan a learning and development strategy
4. Trial the system	4.1. Present and consult on system proposals with relevant stakeholders 4.2. Analyse and integrate feedback into the system development process 4.3. Determine appropriate context and parameters for the trialling process 4.4. Initiate the trial, taking account of all required consultative, coaching and technical issues 4.5. Monitor and review the trial in relation to its goals for fostering innovation 4.6. Open the improvement process to ongoing collaborative input and challenge 4.7. Adjust system to reflect evaluation feedback

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to conduct potentially complex and challenging negotiations and consultations on new systems development and implementation
- creative thinking skills to explore and generate innovative concepts
- learning skills to stretch boundaries of own knowledge and skills, and to foster similar approaches in others
- literacy skills to analyse and develop potentially complex organisational requirements and documentation for work systems
- numeracy skills to develop and interpret financial estimates
- planning and organisational skills to plan the implementation of new systems and to organise and implement training and learning activities
- research skills to investigate the broader context for system development
- self-management skills to take responsibility for driving system development with a focus on innovation

Required knowledge

- concepts and theories of change management, including ways of introducing change in different organisational contexts and change management communication strategies
- concepts and theories of innovation and how these link to innovation in practice
- in-depth understanding of the ways in which workplace systems can contribute to innovation in the workplace
- project planning and management techniques
- technical context in which the system is being developed
- typical ways in which systems may present barriers to innovation

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and

Evidence of the following is essential:

EVIDENCE GUIDE
evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	- designing, trialling and reviewing more than one work system that is planned and structured to maximise opportunities for innovation by workers and managers in the workplace - clearly articulating and understanding how and why the work system fosters workplace innovation among workers and managers - knowledge of concepts and theories of innovation.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: - interaction with others to reflect the collaborative nature of systems development and of innovation more broadly - use of current industry technology in the development of systems.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: - direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate - evaluation of systems developed by the candidate for a particular workplace context, with a focus on innovation (both in terms of process and outcome) - oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of links between systems and innovation, wider innovation concepts and change management processes - review of analysis of current organisational systems to identify gaps or barriers to innovation - review of operational plan developed for the system - review of communication strategy developed to support the introduction of the new system - evaluation of learning and development strategy for users of the system.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is strongly recommended, for example: - BSBHRM506A Manage recruitment, selection and induction processes - BSBINM601A Manage knowledge and information - BSBINN601B Manage organisational change

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to generate, lead and sustain innovative organisational thinking and practice. The unit also covers generating innovative thinking and creativity to lead sustainable innovative practices; supporting a culture of innovation; and maintaining a sustained approach to innovative thinking and practice. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to individuals who initiate and lead innovation in any industry or community context. Each organisation's thinking and practice will be different depending on its core business, purpose, size, complexity and broader operating context. Leaders encourage innovative thinking and practice in relation to drivers shaping the particular work environment. Managers may use innovative thinking and practice to advance learning and business processes that contribute to organisational strategies, business plans and goals.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Generate innovative thinking and creativity	1.1. Research and use a range of techniques and tools to generate new ideas and thinking 1.2. Research and analyse trends shaping organisation's current and future thinking and practice 1.3. Introduce and promote creative thinking techniques to foster personal and team innovation 1.4. Evaluate overall context for individual and collective innovative thinking and creativity 1.5. Research and analyse specific conditions for innovation and issues that impact on individual and collective innovative thinking and creativity 1.6. Research and review innovation drivers and enablers
2. Lead innovative	2.1. Develop personal leadership style to model positive

practices	innovative thinking and practice 2.2. Review, challenge and refine own style and practice in relation to modelling and supporting innovation 2.3. Assess and determine the requirements to promote sustainable innovative activity for the operational context and people involved 2.4. Devise and implement most appropriate means to promote knowledge transfer 2.5. Identify, evaluate and manage risks associated with innovation within an organisation
3. Generate and support a culture of innovation	3.1. Introduce and promote innovative practices, processes, products or services appropriate to audience and organisational requirements 3.2. Establish ways to capture, communicate and share innovative ideas and practices 3.3. Initiate and foster communication, consultation and team development approaches that support innovation 3.4. Identify, assess and provide adequate resources for innovation to occur 3.5. Develop and apply strategies to foster a workplace culture capable of encouraging innovation 3.6. Establish mechanisms at system and process level that can support innovation
4. Sustain innovative thinking and practice	4.1. Develop strategies to make innovation an integral part of organisational activity 4.2. Develop and monitor processes to ensure ongoing awareness of individual and collective contributions to innovative thinking and practice 4.3. Analyse potential barriers and risks to innovation and devise strategies to respond 4.4. Analyse and reflect on innovation performance as a basis for developing strategies for improvement

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

Required skills

- communication, consultation and negotiation skills to model and lead open and collaborative relationships
- planning and organisational skills to develop, implement and sustain practical strategies for innovation
- problem-solving skills to assess challenges and risks at a strategic level and to develop appropriate responses
- research and analytical skills to work with structurally intricate and conceptually complex innovation texts and broader industry contexts; and to develop materials which deal with complex ideas and concepts
- self-management and learning skills to evaluate and enhance personal effectiveness, and to promote a culture of ongoing learning and development
- team and leadership skills to generate, promote and sustain innovation in an organisational or community setting
- technology skills to use computers for document production and research of innovative practices and theories

Required knowledge

- current and past theories and thinking about innovation and creativity
- leadership styles including the way that different approaches impact on innovation in organisations, and specific approaches that foster innovation
- legislative framework that affects business operations in a given context, including particular legislation with a direct impact on innovation, for example concerning copyright, trademarks, intellectual property, occupational health and safety (OHS)
- management techniques and tools for the encouragement of creative thinking and for turning good ideas and creative thinking into innovation
- organisational and industry context for innovation including overarching mission, objectives and strategies
- relationship between theory and thinking on innovation and creativity, and applied practice
- risk assessment and management strategies in the context of innovation
- social, political, economic and technological developments that determine the broad context for innovation in the relevant workplace context
- theories, processes and practice of organisational transformation and the management of the stages of change
- typical strategic challenges and barriers to innovation within organisations and ways of overcoming these challenges and barriers

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE
The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.
Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the following is essential: - comprehensive understanding and application of key concepts, current theories and processes for promoting innovative thinking and practices in an organisational context - critical examination of trends in thinking and emerging practices as they relate to an organisation's current thinking and practices - knowledge of social, political, economic and technological developments that determine the broad context for innovation in the relevant workplace context.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: - assessment over a sufficient timeframe to allow holistic assessment of the candidate's capacity to lead and sustain innovative thinking and practice - opportunities for interaction with others to reflect the collaborative nature of the innovation process - access to current organisational documentation and support materials.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: - direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate - evaluation of reports prepared by the candidate to propose strategies and techniques for building innovative thinking and practice within a given organisational context - oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of innovation theory and practice, context for innovation, and factors that affect innovation in a particular organisation.

EVIDENCE GUIDEGuidance information for assessment

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

- BSBINN601B Manage organisational change
- BSBLED701A Lead personal and strategic transformation
- BSBLED702A Lead learning strategy implementation
- PSPMNGT614A Facilitate knowledge management.

Range StatementRANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Range of techniques and tools for creative thinking may include:

- brainstorming
- concept maps
- creative thinking matrix
- DeBono tools (e.g. six hats)
- foresight tools
- Kirton Adaptation Innovation Inventory
- mindmapping (Buzan)
- nominal group technique
- scenario analysis.

Overall context may include the environment relating to:

- culture
- electronic and non-physical context
- global
- local or regional
- national
- work group or community.

Conditions for innovation may span causal factors and issues relating to:

- ability to gain and respond to customer feedback
- available resources (in all their forms)
- business systems

	• changes to workflow and processes • competency, capability and skills of the workforce • culture and values • economic change • emerging technologies • executive support for innovation • external • globalisation • government regulations, policy or funding initiatives • internal • labour market and industry changes and restructures • learning culture • management practices • new business models • new markets • organisational sociocultural circumstances and issues (for example, within Indigenous organisations) • research and development focus and support • shift to knowledge economy or new economy • structure and design of work in the organisation • technology change and convergence • vision, core purpose and capabilities.
Drivers are factors or changes that impel innovative practice and may include:	• customer expectations • globalisation • market shifts • new legislation (such as compliance) • policies (such as environmental protection) • price and profitability • technology change.
Enablers are factors that help innovation overcome barriers and may include:	• breakthroughs • collaboration • culture • development • intellectual property • inventions • management support

	• profitability • research • resources • responsiveness • skilled workforce • technology.
Leadership style will usually be differentiated by five classical approaches:	• autocratic (non-participative) • charismatic flexibility • democratic (participative) • laissez faire (free reign) • paternalistic.
Risks may include:	• damage to property/equipment • environmental • market changes • OHS (including disease) • product failure • professional incompetence • resource deficiencies • systems and process failures.
Mechanisms at system and process level may be physical or electronic and relate to:	• customer management • human resources • information technology • learning • market • OHS • operations • planning (strategic and corporate) • quality • research and development • risk • resource management • supply chain management • structural and performance hierarchies (strata).

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to improve business, learning and knowledge outcomes through implementing advanced electronic technologies, as a member of a senior management team. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to leaders or managers working to ensure learning advances individual and organisational capabilities. Leaders in learning should be able to implement advanced electronic technologies such as those associated with electronic business (e business) models; electronic retail (e retail) sales, service and payment solutions; mobile and wireless technologies; and technologies relating to the management of the supply chain. Operational management in relation to introducing technologies to enhance business processes may involve complex judgements. This unit may relate to learning activities within a small to medium sized organisation or to a significant unit of activity in a large organisation.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Implement electronic technologies to advance business models	1.1. Determine and communicate to stakeholders the commercial set up of the business to supply electronic commerce (e-commerce) products or services 1.2. Analyse and evaluate e-business models appropriate to a specific operational context 1.3. Implement arrangements for conducting e-commerce appropriate to data management, and business and organisational requirements 1.4. Ensure e-business models interoperate technically and operationally with organisation's management of customer service, performance, learning and decision support

	1.5. Implement customer authentication and transaction systems appropriate to business and organisational requirements 1.6. Review and report opportunities to improve e-commerce infrastructure, systems and solutions
2. Implement electronic technologies to advance retail sales operations	2.1. Determine and communicate to stakeholders the commercial set up of the business to supply e-retail services 2.2. Analyse and evaluate appropriate e-retail tools and processes 2.3. Align e-retail strategy with business strategies, and business and organisational requirements 2.4. Implement arrangements for conducting e-retailing appropriate to business and organisational requirements 2.5. Review and report opportunities to improve e-retail infrastructure, systems and solutions
3. Implement electronic technologies to advance mobile operations	3.1. Identify and communicate to stakeholders, range of options available in mobile computing devices and mobile technologies appropriate to business unit and organisational requirements 3.2. Confirm trends in mobile commerce and related systems 3.3. Research trends in mobile internet and other communication networks 3.4. Implement arrangements for mobile commerce and related systems appropriate to business and organisational requirements 3.5. Review and report opportunities to improve mobile electronic infrastructure, systems and solutions
4. Implement electronic technologies to advance supply chain management	4.1. Determine and communicate to stakeholders the commercial set up of the business to electronically manage a supply chain 4.2. Research and report strengths and weaknesses of options relating to electronic enhancement of supply chain management 4.3. Develop electronic supply chain model and strategy 4.4. Align supply chain management with e-business strategies and model 4.5. Implement electronic supply chain model 4.6. Review and evaluate electronic supply chain model

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and teamwork skills to consult with stakeholders and system users
- problem-solving, initiative and enterprise skills to:
 - assess vulnerabilities in e-commerce systems and infrastructure set up
 - manage risks and implications of electronic payment systems
 - monitor business customer satisfaction
 - map business customer needs and expectations
 - evaluate competitive technologies for implementing electronic payments
- teamwork skills to provide leadership in occupational health and safety (OHS) practice and observance of ethical standards, legislative requirements and good corporate governance requirements
- technology skills to:
 - use appropriate technology to achieve system and business outcomes
 - use appropriate terminology
 - use high levels of accounting (mathematical), technological and e-commerce systems
 - assess suitability and reliability of hardware and software
 - compare and recommend new technology solutions that have potential to improve organisational outcomes.

Required knowledge

- business policies and procedures impacting on job role or function
- capabilities and limitations of infrastructure
- customer needs
- electronic payment and processing
- facilities and infrastructural management
- information sources on product and supply arrangements for customers
- manufacturers' specifications for use and maintenance of equipment and systems
- methods for assuring safe and secure payment using electronic medium

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- planning techniques
- principles of supply chain management
- quality measures and principles
- relevant legislation, codes and regulations that affect business operations, especially in regard to OHS and environmental issues, equal opportunity, industrial relations and anti-discrimination
- relevant obligations under the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) Standards for Registered Training Organisations
- resource investment and maintenance solutions
- resource requirements and limitations
- secure electronic system for merchant transactions
- technology underlying secure transmission and verification of information
- trends in business to business e-commerce and e-business systems
- written policies and internal procedures on trading, e-trading and associated contractual documents.

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessmentCritical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- research and evaluation of appropriate electronic technology for a given business system
- capacity to analyse, develop and implement plans for an effective e-business solution, e-retail solution, mobile business solution and electronic supply chain management solution to meet specific organisational needs
- knowledge of methods for assuring safe and secure payment using electronic medium.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- competence is consistently demonstrated over time, and over a range and variety of situations
- access to required assessment facilities and resources.

EVIDENCE GUIDE
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate • review of applied projects or learning activities, for instance related to implementing effective electronic solutions across e-commerce, mobile, e-retail and electronic supply chain management for a specific business requirement • direct observation of contextual application of skills • oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of capabilities and limitations of infrastructure • review of research and evaluation of the appropriate electronic technology for a given business system.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • BSBLED704A Review enterprise e-learning systems and solutions implementation.

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- identifying and implementing learning opportunities for others
- giving and receiving feedback from team members to encourage participation in and effectiveness of team
- creating learning plans to match skill needs
- knowledge of relevant legislation.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- access to an actual workplace or simulated environment
- access to office equipment and resources
- examples of learning and development plans, policies and procedures
- examples of documents relating to diversity policies and procedures.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate
- analysis of responses to case studies and scenarios

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Learning opportunities may include:

- structured learning activities conducted outside and within the workplace such as:
 - accredited training through an independent organisation such as a state/territory OHS authority
 - action learning
 - short courses
 - training through a Registered Training Organisation (RTO) leading to a nationally recognised Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) qualification or Statement of Attainment
 - workshops
- workplace learning activities, that may also contribute to a recognised credential, such as:
 - coaching
 - exchange/rotation
 - induction
 - mentoring
 - shadowing

Learning needs may include:

- developmental learning, for example the learning required to progress through an organisation and take on new tasks and roles
- gaps between the competencies held by the employee, and the skills and knowledge required to effectively undertake workplace tasks

Learning plans may include:

- codes of conduct
- key performance indicators
- negotiated agreement with individual/s
- OHS requirements
- performance standards
- team competencies
- team roles and responsibilities
- work outputs and processes

RANGE STATEMENT

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to analyse and improve personal leadership style and professional competence, and to lead organisational transformation and learning for strategic outcomes. The unit also covers leading transformational practices, cultivating collaborative practices, completing ongoing professional development, and providing strategic leadership in a dynamic context. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to leaders or managers working in organisations where learning is used to build capabilities. Their effectiveness is based on professional expertise and personal integrity, and they provide a role model for others. The unit may relate to learning activities within a small to medium sized organisation or a significant unit of activity in a large organisation. Leaders in learning must be able to respond strategically, acting as transformational agents in response to multiple drivers for change - they seek to improve competitive advantage through transformation of individual, team and operational capabilities.

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessmentCritical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- capacity to improve own development, personal leadership style and self-management skills
- demonstrated application of leadership style and approach appropriate to individuals involved, outcomes being sought and context
- knowledge of relevant legislation.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- access to an actual workplace or simulated environment
- competence is consistently demonstrated over time, and over a range and variety of complex tasks/projects and situations
- access to appropriate documentation and resources normally used in the workplacesuch as organisational policies and procedures, relevant legislation • access to clients.

Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate • review of applied projects and learning activities such as reports and case studies • direct observation of contextual application and presentations to a range of stakeholders • oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of leadership styles • analysis of personal reflection and self-awareness of leadership styles and impact of this approach on task completion and others • review of personal development plan.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • BSBINN501A Establish systems that support innovation • BSBINN601B Manage organisational change • BSBINN801A Lead innovative thinking and practice • BSBLED702A Lead learning strategy implementation • PSPHR616A Manage performance management system.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT
The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to provide professional leadership in improving organisational learning, and the quality of training and assessment products and services. The unit also covers leading strategy formation; designing, developing and implementing an organisational learning strategy; and reviewing and improving overall organisational learning and development. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to senior leaders or managers working in an enterprise where learning is used to build capabilities. The unit may relate to leadership of a small to medium sized organisation or a significant unit of activity in a large organisation. Effective leadership requires the professional respect of colleagues, contacts, clients and the community. When applied to the development of organisational learning strategies this involves contributing to organisational strategies, business plans, goals, values and the bottom line by providing learning related services either directly, through partnerships or by using external providers. Learning leaders must be able to collaboratively implement relevant organisational strategies to ensure learning has a strategic role among the ever changing context and complex influences that affect learners, employees, and business and learning processes.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to plan, develop and implement a mentoring program and to review the outcomes for those involved in the program. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	This unit applies to leaders working to ensure learning advances individual and organisational capabilities. The mentoring program may apply to a: - particular section or group within an educational organisation (for example, as part of a Registered Training Organisation's professional development activities) - specific business purpose or objective within an enterprise whose core business is not education - collaborative partnership that spans more than one organisation (such as to advance occupational or industry specific skill needs). This unit may relate equally to small scale learning activities within a small to medium sized organisation or to a significant activity in a large organisation. Leaders in learning must be able to plan, implement, monitor and evaluate a mentoring program that results in learning forged through a defined and active learning partnership with a mentor. The program should develop and use tools that enhance both the learning and the phased relationship, and it should be monitored and evaluated to ensure it explores and meets the mentee's learning needs.

BSBPMG609A Direct procurement and contracting for a project program

Modification History

Not applicable.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to direct the management of contracting and procurement activities across projects and programs. It covers setting up the contracting process, directing the management of contract and procurement processes and finalising contracts for projects across the program. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	A program is defined as a set of interrelated projects, each of which has a project manager. Multiple projects (sometimes called a portfolio of projects) refers to a number of projects related in some way and managed by the same person as a program to achieve a common organisational objective/s. For the purposes of this unit someone who manages a suite of projects (a program) will be referred to as a program manager. The functions performed by a project manager to manage procurement within individual projects are addressed in BSBPMG509A Manage project procurement. It should be noted that conflicting priorities between projects are managed with higher project authority support, in this case project governance committees or senior management.

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Communicate to influence relevant individuals and stakeholders	1.1. Generate trust, confidence and support from relevant individuals, other stakeholders and potential learners by demonstrating a high standard of personal performance and conduct 1.2. Implement communication strategies to represent the organisation positively to media, local community and stakeholders

	1.3. Make decisions in consultation with relevant stakeholders and relevant individuals where appropriate 1.4. Use a range of influencing strategies to increase commitment from staff and stakeholders to achieve organisational requirements and to contribute to desired culture 1.5. Undertake selected community and/or professional engagements that project a positive image of the organisation to the broader community and stakeholders
2. Cultivate new and existing partnerships with stakeholders	2.1. Establish outcomes to be achieved from a learning partnership 2.2. Analyse models for effective consultation and collaboration within a partnership 2.3. Cultivate collaborative communities and partnerships through application of a range of learning and communication solutions 2.4. Forge relationships, collaborative communities or partnerships between a training and assessment organisation and a public or private sector enterprise 2.5. Consult stakeholders to establish vocational education and training partnership learning programs
3. Establish positive collaborative relationships	3.1. Establish processes that contribute to the creation and maintenance of a positive culture that embraces collaboration 3.2. Establish processes to resolve conflict in a fair, equitable and collaborative manner 3.3. Organise and allocate work activities in a cost effective and equitable manner with clear, quantifiable and agreed performance standards 3.4. Encourage staff to embrace a learning culture and to undertake activities that develop their personal competence and performance 3.5. Empower individuals to develop their own ways of working within agreed boundaries of competence, cultural, diversity and organisational and legal requirements 3.6. Establish indicators and feedback processes that can be used to evaluate the health of the work environment

4. Lead establishment of a partnership program	4.1. Identify and address relevant organisational policies and procedures in partnership learning program plans 4.2. Identify and incorporate relevant legal requirements into planning of learning programs established in a community or partnership setting 4.3. Form partnership learning programs in collaborative and consultative processes involving public or private sector enterprises 4.4. Plan and allocate resource requirements to accomplish a partnership learning program 4.5. Establish relevant organisational policies and procedures relating to partnerships, and training and assessment services
5. Establish reporting mechanisms for partnership program	5.1. Establish reporting systems for reporting results, that meet reporting requirements, against planned partnership outcomes 5.2. Implement reporting systems to map learner progress against partnership outcomes

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analysis and interpretation skills to:
 - evaluate organisational information management systems, policies and procedures
 - select relevant evaluation information and documentation
 - identify any potential and current non-compliance
 - access and interpret organisation's standards and values
 - analyse records or notes of the evaluation process
- initiative and enterprise skills to establish collaborative partnerships and relationships
- interpersonal and communication skills to negotiate, to question, to listen and investigate, to network and clarify issues
- planning and organising skills to:
 - research and evaluate validation processes, and to determine and implement

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- improvements to these processes
 - develop and establish agreement to plans
- problem-solving skills to review feedback and to plan improvements
- teamwork skills to lead and motivate a team in establishing productive networks, partnerships and other relationships.

Required knowledge

- relevant legislation that affects the business operation, especially in regard to OHS and environmental issues, equal opportunity and anti-discrimination, industrial relations
- organisation mission, purpose and values
- organisation objectives, plans and strategies
- leadership styles
- personal development planning methodologies
- data collection methods
- external environment scanning relating to social, political, economic and technological developments
- emotional intelligence and its relationship to individual and team effectiveness
- organisational transformation and the management of the stages of change
- organisational design and building in responsiveness of operations to change in customer or market conditions.

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessmentCritical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- demonstrated capacity to foster learning partnerships, conduct stakeholder consultation and use strategic and personally enhancing communication skills
- developing collaborative approaches to enhance individual, team and organisational outcomes
- initiating and implementing learning program partnerships in line with relevant regulatory, employment and organisational requirements knowledge of relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards.

Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: - competence is consistently demonstrated over time, and over a range and variety of situations - access to required assessment facilities and resources.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: - direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate - review of applied projects or learning activities, especially relating to formation of professional networks and stakeholder consultation in relation to forming partnerships for vocational education and training programs - direct observation of contextual application of skills - submission of a portfolio of evidence including previous work forging partnerships - oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of development of industry learning partnerships.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: - BSBLED702A Lead learning strategy implementation - BSBLED707A Establish career development services - BSBLED709A Identify and communicate trends in career development - PSPMNGT614A Facilitate knowledge management.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Relevant individuals may include:	• employees • employers • government agencies and departments • learners/students • industry associations, employer bodies, professional associations • industry representatives • national Industry Skills Councils • people working in the roles targeted by training • regulatory and licensing authorities • research agencies • state/territory industry training advisory bodies • subject or technical specialists or experts • unions • universities
Stakeholders may include:	• administrative and regulatory bodies • coordinators, teachers, assessors, coaches, mentors and support staff • employees • industry, employee, employer, professional and peak bodies or associations • learners/students • other training and assessment organisations • public or private sector enterprise
Potential learners may include:	• apprentices and trainees • current or ongoing learners and clients • existing industry and enterprise employees • individuals changing careers • individuals learning new skills and knowledge • individuals or groups meeting licensing or other regulatory requirements • individuals seeking to upgrade competencies • individuals who are unemployed • individuals who have a disability • members of target groups such as Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities

	• overseas learners and international students • potential learners and clients • recent migrants and people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds • school leavers, new entrants to the workforce
Communication strategies may include:	• conducting presentations • developing and applying interview and interpersonal communication protocols • developing and circulating marketing materials • developing promotional materials and course outlines • initiating and conducting a public communication strategy
Influencing strategies may include:	• debate • dialogue • discussion • formal and informal techniques • levels of participation • moderated negotiations • networking • strategies applied face-to-face or collectively (e.g. in a learning community or community of practice)
Partnerships may:	• be informal • be physical or virtual (e.g. online) • involve a formal agreement • involve one or more enterprises, and training and assessment organisations • involve one or more learning programs
Collaborative communities may include:	• communities of practice • formal or informal relationships • informal and formal groups in collaborative relationships • knowledge communities • knowledge networks • learning communities • physical or virtual relationships • supply chain communities • virtual circles
Training and assessment	• organisation that delivers non-recognised

organisation may include:	vocational education and training • organisation working in a partnership arrangement with an RTO to deliver recognised vocational education and training • RTO delivering recognised vocational education and training services such as TAFE institutes, private commercial colleges and organisations, enterprises, community organisations, group training companies and secondary schools
Public or private sector enterprises may include:	• community bodies • government agencies • privately owned companies
Partnership learning program may include:	• accredited course which includes Training Package outcomes • community education program • nationally endorsed qualification from a Training Package or accredited course • part of a VET in Schools program • part of an apprenticeship or traineeship • professional development program • short course or non-recognised vocational program • short-term development plan • short-term induction program • subset of a learning strategy • traineeship or apprenticeship • workplace learning program
Resolving conflict in a fair, equitable and collaborative manner may include:	• adherence to relevant legislative, legal, workplace requirements • application of organisational complaints procedures • internal or external specialists
Performance standards may be based on:	• personal or task outcomes • span short- or long-term outcomes • strategic, operational outcomes
Diversity includes difference in:	• age • belief systems and values • culture • expertise, experience and working styles • gender

	• interpersonal style • interests • language, literacy and numeracy • physical differences • politics • race • religion • sexual orientation • thinking and learning styles
Organisational and legal requirements may include:	• collaborative and partnership arrangement agreements such as memoranda of understanding • confidentiality and privacy requirements • licensing requirements • requirements for initial and continuing registration as defined in the AQTF Standards for Registered Training Organisations and state/territory legislation and regulations governing provider registration and course accreditation • requirements of awards and enterprise bargaining agreements • requirements of endorsed Training Packages • requirements of other relevant commonwealth and state/territory legislation, for example relating to matters such as OHS, anti-discrimination, workplace and industrial relations, workers compensation, apprenticeships and traineeships • requirements set by professional associations • requirements set by quality systems
Indicators may include:	• formal human resources and related indicators to provide benchmark, comparative measures on: • average hours in relation to output per employee • down-time • related operational and planning indicators • revenue per employee/team • staff absenteeism • staff satisfaction

	• staff turnover • training hours
Feedback processes include:	• formal complaints or suggestions procedures • formal-informal • independent audits • management audits/workplace checks • surveys • virtual or physical • whistleblower policy
Relevant organisational policies and procedures may include:	• access and equity • assessment procedures and options • client services • confidentiality requirements • ethical standards • fees and payment schedule • grievance and appeals processes • learner selection, enrolment, induction and orientation procedures • mutual recognition obligations • policies and procedures being available to all personnel, learners, clients and candidates • staff recruitment, induction and ongoing development and monitoring • support services available • human resources policies and procedures and legal requirements including anti-discrimination, equal employment, OHS • administrative and records management systems, for example that relating to: • contract manager • document version control • maintenance, retention, archiving, retrieval, storage and security of training and assessment information and records • personnel responsible for analysing statistics and data to ensure organisation complies with relevant standards across all of its operations and training and assessment activities • privacy and access to training and assessment information and records

	• reporting and recording requirements and arrangements • supervisors and managers • union and employee representatives • users of training information such as finance personnel, human resources personnel, employers
Resource requirements may include:	• additional staff • distribution costs • equipment • production costs • promotional costs • research and development • re-tooling • staff training
Reporting systems for reporting results may include:	• arrangements for the issuing of Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) qualifications and Statements of Attainment • arrangements for recognising and recording current competencies • electronic student management system which complies with AVETMISS or other reporting or statistical collection requirements • internal organisational recording and reporting systems • record keeping policies and procedures
Reporting results may include:	• Australian Apprenticeship Centre forms and letters such as for incentives and completions • availability of all reports and records for audit and monitoring purposes • enrolment forms • financial reporting for funding and payments from funding body • OHS incident reporting systems • performance agreements • reporting for apprenticeship and traineeship program delivery • reporting for in-house or internal program delivery • Training Contract and RTO notifications
Reporting requirements may	• AQTF Standards for Registered Training

include those specified in:	Organisations • AVETMISS process documentation • organisational documentation
Reporting systems to map learner progress against partnership outcomes may include:	• electronic systems including those using business technology such as: • computers • hardware • software • telephone networks • physical systems such as face-to-face and print communications

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Gather and organise information	1.1. Gather and organise information in a format suitable for analysis, interpretation and dissemination in accordance with organisational requirements 1.2. Access information held by the organisation ensuring accuracy and relevance in line with established organisational requirements 1.3. Ensure that methods of collecting information are reliable and make efficient use of resources in accordance with organisational requirements 1.4. Identify research requirements for combining online research with non-electronic sources of information 1.5. Use business technology to access, organise and monitor information in accordance with organisational requirements 1.6. Update, modify, maintain and store information, in accordance with organisational requirements
2. Research and analyse information	2.1. Clearly define objectives of research ensuring consistency with organisational requirements 2.2. Ensure that data and research strategies used are valid and relevant to the requirements of the research and make efficient use of available resources 2.3. Identify key words and phrases for use as part of any online search strategy, including the use of Boolean operators and other search tools

	2.4. Use reliable methods of data analysis that are suitable to research purposes 2.5. Ensure that assumptions and conclusions used in analyses are clear, justified, supported by evidence and consistent with research and business objectives
3. Present information	3.1. Present recommendations and issues in an appropriate format, style and structure using suitable business technology 3.2. Structure and format reports in a clear manner that conforms to organisational requirements 3.3. Report and distribute research findings in accordance with organisational requirements 3.4. Obtain feedback and comments on suitability and sufficiency of findings in accordance with organisational requirements

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- literacy skills to read, write and understand a variety of texts; and to edit and proofread documents to ensure clarity of meaning, accuracy and consistency of information
- problem-solving skills to deal with information which is contradictory, ambiguous, inconsistent or inadequate
- technology skills to select and use technology appropriate to a task
- research skills to identify and access information.

Required knowledge

- key provisions of relevant legislation from all levels of government that may affect aspects of business operations, such as:
 - anti-discrimination legislation
 - ethical principles
 - codes of practice
 - privacy laws
 - occupational health and safety (OHS)
- organisational record keeping/filing systems, security procedures and safe

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- recording practices
- organisational policies and procedures relating to distribution of workplace information, and legal and ethical obligations
- research processes and strategies to identify new sources (online and print) of information and to use them most efficiently and effectively.

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessmentCritical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- presenting information and data
- maintaining and handling data and documents systematically
- analysing and interpreting data to support organisational activities
- knowledge of research processes and strategies to identify new sources of information.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- access to an actual workplace or simulated environment
- access to office equipment and resources
- examples of research tasks and resources.

Method of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate
- analysis of responses to case studies and scenarios
- demonstration of techniques
- observation of presentations
- review of documentation outlining recommendations and issues

EVIDENCE GUIDE
	• review of reports outlining research findings.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: • general administration units • IT use units • Governance units

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.
Information may include:	• demographic data • service delivery records • computer databases (library catalogue, customer records, subscription database, internet) • computer files (letters, memos and other documents) • correspondence (faxes, memos, letters, email) • financial figures • forms (insurance forms, membership forms) • information on training needs • invoices (from suppliers, to debtors) • marketing reports/plans/budgets • personnel records (personal details, salary rates) • production targets • sales records (monthly forecasts, targets achieved)
Organisational requirements may include:	• anti-discrimination and related policy • business and performance plans • Code of Conduct/Code of Ethics

	• defined resource parameters • ethical standards • goals, objectives, plans, systems and processes • information protocols • legal and organisational policies, guidelines and requirements • management and accountability channels • OHS policies, procedures and programs • procedures for updating records • quality assurance and/or procedures manuals • security and confidentiality requirements
Methods of collecting information may include:	• checking research provided by others • checking written material including referrals and client files • individual research • information from other organisations • interviews with community members, colleagues/customers • observation and listening • previous file records • questioning (in person or indirect) • recruitment applications and other forms
Business technology may include:	• answering machine • computer • fax machine • photocopier • telephone
Objectives of research may include:	• comparative analysis • hypothesis testing • identification of trends • industry pricing policies • process mapping • situational diagnosis
Research strategies may include:	• data analysis • documentation reviews • focus groups • interviewing colleagues and clients • online searching • product sampling • subscription databases

RANGE STATEMENT
Key words and phrases may include:	• American spellings when searching online • cultural or geographic terms • using different thesauri in different databases
Boolean operators may include:	• exclude - / NOT • include +/ AND • or • phrase searching " "() • variations, depending on the resource being used
Methods of data analysis may include:	• data sampling • feedback on results • peer review • review of previous research • statistical analysis
Business objectives may include:	• community capacity building • community development • service provision • business planning • financial performance • flexibility, responsiveness • interpersonal communication • marketing and customer service • organisational values and behaviours • people management • work procedures and quality assurance manuals
Feedback may include:	• audit documentation and reports • comments from community, board members, clients and colleagues • customer satisfaction questionnaires • quality assurance data • returned goods

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Construct an applied research strategy	1.1. Clarify and confirm applied research purpose and needs of the target group 1.2. Determine policies and procedures in relation to conducting applied research 1.3. Establish mechanisms for collecting and maintaining data in a systematic manner 1.4. Analyse factors affecting the reliability and validity of data 1.5. Review relevant research ethics and codes of conduct 1.6. Prepare applied research strategy and hypothesis 1.7. Frame a research strategy in consideration of available tools and resources

2. Use a range of applied research techniques	2.1. Review and evaluate a range of applied research methods, theories and data collection techniques 2.2. Select appropriate methods to gather and analyse data 2.3. Use, as appropriate, suitable technology and technology services to support data collection and analysis 2.4. Access appropriate sources of information and contributors relevant to the research 2.5. Optimise relevance of the research through integrity of the data collected and analysis tools used
3. Analyse and present findings	3.1. Evaluate how research findings such as trends and changes will impact on learning strategy 3.2. Review data and research findings for accuracy of details and adherence to any legal requirements 3.3. Collate and analyse data for relevance against the original applied research strategy 3.4. Document and present research findings in a clear and logical manner consistent with audience needs 3.5. Identify the need for and an appropriate approach to, further research

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication and teamwork skills to:
 - analyse and interpret structurally intricate information in the area being researched
 - consult with target groups using a range of communication techniques
 - develop written texts which deal with complex ideas and concepts
 - present research results creatively to meet audience needs
- initiative and enterprise skills to discover and source appropriate information, and to identify future implication of information and data collected
- planning and organising skills to:
 - construct an applied research strategy

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- initiate and design research methodology
- manage an applied research project
- frame research strategy in consideration of available resources
- problem-solving skills to:
 - develop and examine the validity of the hypothesis using a range of applied research techniques
 - collect, organise, analyse and present data
 - analyse research
 - check the integrity of data collected
 - conduct trend analyses
- self-management and learning skills to:
 - manage own time and determine priorities
 - review and adhere to relevant ethics and codes of conduct
 - store data to maintain privacy and confidentiality of information
 - conduct research to develop capabilities and learning related activities
- technical skills to:
 - select suitable technology and technical services
 - use a range of software programs
 - use technology and the internet to discover, access, collect and store data, information and research in a systematic manner.

Required knowledge

- communication processes and methods
- data collection methods
- legislation, regulations, policies, procedures and guidelines relating to handling or storing data, including privacy and freedom of information
- presentation techniques
- reporting methods
- research ethics and codes of conduct
- research tools and methods
- selection of appropriate applied research techniques.

EVIDENCE GUIDE
Guidelines for the Training Package.
Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the following is essential: • formulating a research proposal or plan which includes: • specific research questions or hypotheses • valid population or sample size • description of the geographical, cultural, social or institutional context within which the research will be carried out • full description of the data collection methods • analysis of the limitations to research design • designing an applied research project using appropriate tools and techniques • research report with analysis of data, and valid and reliable findings • utility and relevance of the research results • knowledge of applied research techniques.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: • research activity relates to an actual workplace or simulated context and topic • competence is consistently demonstrated over time, over a range of applied topics, and using a range of tools and techniques appropriate to the given situations and research topic.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: • direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate • applied projects or assessment activities relating to conducting applied research • observation of contextual application of skills • oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of applied research.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended,

Range StatementRANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Applied research purpose may be contained in documents such as:

- agreements
- research brief
- research contracts
- research guidelines
- research statement

Target group may include:

- age cohort
- career choices
- cultural background and needs
- diversity
- employees
- employment status or role
- end users
- learners/students
- learning styles and preferences
- level of education achieved
- literacy and numeracy skills
- location

RANGE STATEMENT
	• occupational health and safety • predetermined service user group • skill or competency profile • socioeconomic background
Applied research strategy may cover:	• analysis of industry specific trends, statistics and issues • collection of data to assist informed decision making, planning or risk management • data and information relating to strategy, policy, practices, or work processes developed and implemented by an organisation • formation of solutions to complex problems • information and analysis needed to develop a campaign, strategic plan, industry or sector plan and strategy, or to bargain effectively with employers • information and analysis to conduct a strategic or community campaign or activity • relationship or relevance of a theory, principle or practice to an immediate practical problem, issue or to test a proposed solution
Factors affecting reliability and validity may include:	• sample size • type or survey used (e.g. comparing types and methods to increase validity) • capacity to generalise findings across the whole population • access appropriate population
Hypothesis is:	• conceptual or operational proposition or explanation that will be tested through the conduct of the applied research
Tools may be:	• designed for electronic or physical presentation • involve a range of technologies (online or computer-based)
Resources may include:	• components required • design specifications • infrastructure • monetary • physical • technical manuals • samples
Applied research methods and	• methods such as:

theories may cover:	• action research • case study • classification • experience and intuition • experiments • interviews • map making • mathematical models and simulations • participant observation • physical traces analysis • semiotics • surveys • statistical data analysis • statistical surveys • ethnographic research • content, textual analysis, theories and techniques, which will vary upon consideration of: • application of statistical methods • causal factors and dependant or independent variables • critical analysis • experimental, quasi-experimental, non-experimental • mathematical calculations • problem solving • qualitative or quantitative research • sampling and sample size
Data collection techniques may include:	• collaboration with other experts or mentors • desk research • document research • field study • observation • physical items analysis • interviews • questionnaires • surveys
Suitable technology may include:	• communication technology and networks • databases and the use of spreadsheets, graphs,

	trend and time series, and mathematical equations • hardware and software
Appropriate sources of information may include:	• archives • community organisations • computer data, including internet • discussions with current industry practitioners • discussions with industry personnel, manufacturers, and technical and sales personnel • government departments • industry associations and organisations • industry journals • libraries (such as text, film, video, sound, graphic) • media (such as film, television, radio, newspapers, multimedia) • media archives • museums, galleries • organisational policies, procedures and journals • personal observations and experience • professional organisations • reference books • technical publications, manuals
Contributors may include:	• individuals and groups both inside and outside the organisation who have some direct interest or expertise in relation to the applied research or who provide data
Relevance of the research may be based on:	• available time and resources • feasibility of implementing the recommendations • findings of previous and current research • original research parameters and brief • quality and credibility of the methodology • value of its usefulness • value of the information and data
Legal requirements may include:	• agreements with third parties that supply research or data • competency standards • contracts • copyright and privacy laws relating to physical

	materials and electronic technology • licensing • plagiarism • privacy • relevant commonwealth and state/territory legislation, policy, codes of practice and national standards • security of information
Presenting research findings may include:	• circulating publications for comment and critique on the internet • contributing to strategic policy • drafting publications or reports • presentations at seminars and conferences • providing data, plans, specifications and reports resulting in changed work practice/s or design/s • providing internal reports verbally, in writing or via presentations • publishing papers and articles for expert review and audiences • publishing reports and articles for lay audiences

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to collect, analyse and communicate information and to use that information to develop and maintain effective working relationships and networks, with particular regard to communication and representation. No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

Application of the unit	Frontline managers play an important role in developing and maintaining positive relationships in internal and external environments so that customers, suppliers and the organisation achieve planned outputs and outcomes. They play a prominent part in motivating, mentoring, coaching and developing team cohesion through providing leadership for the team and forming the bridge between the management of the organisation and team members. At this level, work will normally be carried out within routine and non routine methods and procedures, which require planning and evaluation, and leadership and guidance of others.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Collect, analyse and communicate information and ideas	1.1. Collect relevant information from appropriate sources and analyse and share with the work team to improve work performance 1.2. Communicate ideas and information in a manner which is appropriate and sensitive to the cultural and social diversity of the audience and any specific needs 1.3. Implement consultation processes to encourage employees to contribute to issues related to their work, and promptly relay feedback to the work team in regard to outcomes 1.4. Seek and value contributions from internal and external sources in developing and refining new ideas and approaches

	1.5. Implement processes to ensure that issues raised are resolved promptly or referred to relevant personnel as required
2. Develop trust and confidence	2.1. Treat all internal and external contacts with integrity, respect and empathy 2.2. Use the organisation's social, ethical and business standards to develop and maintain effective relationships 2.3. EVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the following is essential:

- range of methods and techniques for communicating information and ideas to a range of stakeholders
- range of methods and techniques for developing positive work relationships that build trust and confidence in the team - accessing and analysing information to achieve planned outcomes - techniques for resolving problems and conflicts and dealing with poor performance - knowledge of the theory associated with managing work relationships to achieve planned outcomes.

Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure: access to appropriate documentation and resources normally used in the workplace.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit: - demonstration of techniques in managing poor performance and communicating effectively - direct questioning combined with review of portfolios of evidence and third party workplace reports of on-the-job performance by the candidate - observation of performance in role plays - observation of presentations - oral or written questioning to assess knowledge of relevant legislation - review of consultation processes implemented to encourage employees to contribute to issues related to their work - review of documentation outlining reviewing of workplace outcomes.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example: other units from the Certificate IV in Frontline Management.

Ability to sensitively and respectfully communicate with persons of diverse backgrounds and cultures

Ability to respectfully and sensitively respond to cultural beliefs and practices that may cause harm

Ability to form effective workplace relationships with co-workers and colleagues of diverse backgrounds and culture

Ability to participate in identifying and implementing culturally safe work practices

Ability to employ basic conflict resolution and negotiation skills

Relationship with other units:

This unit can be delivered and assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other general health services units of competency is encouraged.

Resource implications:

Resource requirements include all the relevant resources commonly provided in the health service setting. Specific tools may include:

Relevant policies and procedures manuals, legislation and standards

Organisation's mission statement, strategic and business plan

Other documentation relevant to the work context such as:

organisational charts organisations protocols for access to interpreter services

Method of assessment:

Assessment may include:

observation of work performance

written tasks

interview and questioning

authenticated portfolio/log book

supporting statement of supervisor(s)

authenticated evidence of relevant work experience and/or formal/informal learning

Context of assessment:

This unit is most appropriately assessed in the workplace or a simulated workplace environment under the normal range of work conditions.

Assessment should be conducted on more than one occasion to cover a variety of circumstances to establish consistency.

A diversity of assessment tasks is essential for holistic assessment.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Evaluate the procurement processes of the organisation	1.1 Identify existing IT procurement processes in the organisation 1.2 Establish evaluation criteria for procurement processes 1.3 Evaluate procurement processes against criteria
2. Direct strategic planning to support IT procurement	2.1 Establish priorities based on organisational need 2.2 Lead the development of strategy to align IT procurement with the organisational goals and objectives 2.3 Implement IT procurement strategic plan 2.4 Develop procurement policy, including vendor selection based on strategic plan
3. Lead risk management of IT procurement	3.1 Lead development of strategy for risk assessment of IT procurement activities 3.2 Ensure IT procurement complies with organisational policy 3.3 Ensure risk mitigation based on identified risks 3.4 Ensure continuous improvement of IT procurement processes

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical skills to:
 - conduct enterprise resource planning and management

- critically evaluate the key principles of procurement
- determine the validity of arguments
- evaluate procurement contract proposals
- formulate a logical plan of action based on proposed solutions
- investigate situations and provide recommendations and remedies
- make effective decisions
- probe for consistency in information or data presented
- communication, teamwork and leadership skills to:
 - liaise with people working across different levels and in different contexts (e.g. operational staff, government officials)
 - prepare reports to senior management
 - read and interpret an organisation's reports, policies and procedures to establish and review business continuity management framework
 - resolve conflicts
- initiative, enterprise and problem-solving skills to:
 - assess vulnerabilities in organisational processes and infrastructure set-up
 - develop and refine strategies to ensure that procurement processes align with organisational needs
 - evaluate competitive technologies
 - solve problems individually and in teams in response to changing environments
 - translate a range of ideas into appropriate action
- literacy skills to:
 - interpret reports dealing with complex ideas and concepts
 - review complex and unfamiliar information
- numeracy skills to:
 - negotiate adjustments to operational budgets based on benefits realisation plans
 - validate procurement estimation and cost-benefit analysis
- planning and organisational skills to establish and monitor the organisation's procurement processes
- research skills to:
 - locate and interrogate complex and varied sources of information
 - undertake the necessary background research for the development and monitoring of the strategic procurement plans
- technology skills to:
 - compare and recommend new technology solutions to improve organisational outcomes
 - apply understanding of complex information technology issues within the organisation's environment.

Required knowledge

- AS/NZS ISO 31000:2009 Risk management
- business continuity issues for the organisation
- organisation's industry and current functionality, including existing data and information systems
- organisation's internal and external dependencies and interdependencies
- organisational policies and procedures, including risk management strategy
- past and current internal, external and industry disruptions
- relevant legislation and regulations that impact on business continuity, such as OHS, environment, duty of care, contract, company, freedom of information, industrial relations, privacy and confidentiality, due diligence and records management
- key principles of procurement.

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Evidence of the ability to: • develop a strategy to align IT procurement with organisational goals • undertake direct risk analysis of IT procurement activities and implement procedures that identify where risk occurs and what measures need to be taken to handle the risk • establish warning systems and an ongoing process that includes regular or programmed reviews of the risk profile • develop strategy for the implementation of appropriate processes and procedures that ensure that quality expectations are met.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment must ensure access to: • relevant strategic level enterprise documentation, including planning, financial and IT infrastructure documentation • relevant legislative policies. Where applicable, physical resources should include equipment modified for people with special needs.
Method of assessment	A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

	• direct observation of the candidate carrying out project work • verbal or written questioning to assess required knowledge and skills • review of reports and implementation plans • review of a portfolio of the project work undertaken. The preferred assessment method is through a workplace project or through a simulated medium to large enterprise workplace.
Guidance information for assessment	Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, where appropriate. Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate, and suitable to the communication skill level, language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed. Indigenous people and other people from a non-English speaking background may need additional support. In cases where practical assessment is used it should be combined with targeted questioning to assess required knowledge.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Procurement may relate to:	• acquisition of appropriate goods and services at the best possible total cost of ownership to meet the needs of the purchaser in terms of: • location • quality • quantity • time.
Strategic plan may include:	• components from separate disciplines, such as IT or human resources • mission, vision and values

	- objectives and targets - organisational environment - part of organisational strategic plan or a stand-alone document - process map outlining organisation's decision-making strategies on resource allocation, including its capital and people.
Risk assessment may include:	- coordinated and economical application of resources to minimise, monitor and control the probability or impact of unfortunate events or to maximise the realisation of opportunities - establishment of a secure environment for IT assets - risk plans - gathering information - identifying, assessing and prioritising risks - identifying and evaluating threats - developing scenarios - ranking risk - identifying counter measures - reporting and following up.
Organisational policy may refer to:	- documentation internal to the organisation that guides actions that are particular to the organisation issuing the policy, and guides processes that are most likely to achieve a desired outcome - process of making important organisational decisions, including the identification of different alternatives, such as programs or spending priorities, and choosing among them on the basis of the impact they will have - political, management, financial and administrative mechanisms arranged to reach explicit goals.
Risk mitigation may include:	- identification of one or more potential solutions to reduce or remove each risk if it arises - implementation of policies or actions that identify risks in an existing or planned process.
Continuous improvement may include:	- efforts that seek incremental improvement over time or breakthrough improvement at once - ongoing effort to improve products, services or processes - processes that are constantly evaluated and improved in the light of their efficiency, effectiveness and flexibility.

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor

This unit covers the management of an organisation's performance management system to review and enhance employee performance. It includes developing a new or existing performance management framework, developing performance management processes, and managing the implementation of these processes.

In practice, managing a performance management system overlaps with other generalist and specialist workplace activities such as managing diversity, managing policy implementation, facilitating workforce effectiveness, managing human resource development etc.

This unit replaces PSPHR606A Manage performance management processes. The units are not equivalent. The revised unit has additional requirements and no longer covers evaluation of performance management processes. Evaluation is addressed in PSPMNGT611A Manage evaluations, added to the Management Competency field of the Training Package in 2004.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements are the essential outcomes of the unit of competency. Together, performance criteria specify the requirements for competent performance. Text in bold italics is explained in the Range Statement following.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

1. Develop performance management framework

- 1.1 Goals, objectives and required outcomes for the organisation's performance management framework are determined/confirmed in consultation with key stakeholders to improve the work effectiveness of the organisation
- 1.2 The performance management framework is established/developed through consideration of existing good practice models and is integrated with other key human resource functions and areas
- 1.3 The framework is linked to the organisation's operating context and strategic direction and developed through consultation with key stakeholders

Unit Descriptor

Unit descriptor

This unit covers management of knowledge and information in the business unit to improve productivity and organisational efficiency, promote innovation and meet business unit goals. It includes establishing the organisational context for knowledge management, developing capability, facilitating knowledge management, and integrating aspects of knowledge management with information/records management.

In practice, facilitation of knowledge management may overlap with other generalist or specialist public sector work activities such as acting ethically, complying with legislation, applying government systems, managing change, managing diversity, facilitating workforce effectiveness, etc.

Related units in the Information competency theme in the Working in Government Competency field are:

PSPGOV206B Handle workplace information

PSPGOV307B Organise workplace information

PSPGOV406B Gather and analyse information

PSPGOV504B Undertake research and analysis

This is a new unit of competency, added to the Management Competency field of the Training Package in 2004.
