Introduction

This Companion Volume Implementation Guide (CVIG) has been developed to provide advice and guidance on the implementation of the SIS Sport, Fitness and Recreation Training Package.

This is the primary Companion Volume for the SIS Training Package. It provides a summary of changes in each release of the SIS Training Package, full lists of products with mapping and equivalence between versions and information to support implementation of the package. HumanAbility is undertaking a review of existing companion volumes to develop new structures and content for a suite of guides. These will be available on VETNet once developed.

Additional companion volumes may be developed to support aspects of the SIS Sport, Fitness and Recreation Training Package and its implementation. Always check VETNet for the latest guides.

Training Package

Training packages consist of endorsed and non-endorsed components that are developed to comply with the Standards for Training Packages. Endorsed components must be submitted for approval by the Skills Ministers before they are released for use.

Endorsed components can include:

- units of competency which specify the standard of performance required in the workplace
- assessment requirements (associated with each unit of competency)
- qualifications that are consistent with the Australian Qualifications Framework specifications
- credit arrangements which specify any arrangements between training package qualifications and higher education qualifications.

Non-endorsed components can include:

- a quality-assured Companion Volume Implementation Guide (Implementation Guide)
- other quality-assured guides to assist users
- skill sets.

Quality assurance of Companion Volumes Implementation Guides

This SIS Companion Volume Implementation Guide contains some mandatory content such as lists of units and their prerequisites. Other content is informed by consultation processes with industry representatives, trainers, assessors and project technical committees so that information is relevant and useful to all users of the training package.

The content is reviewed by the technical writers, editors, and State and Territory Training Authorities before publication. Implementation Guides are reviewed and updated in response to ongoing feedback received by HumanAbility, and IAC advice.

1 Oversight and Governance

Jobs and Skills Councils (JSCs) are a national network of not-for-profit, industry-led organisations, entrusted by the federal government to drive the advancement of education and workforce development. HumanAbility was established by a group of Foundation Members - around 30 industry groups, employers, unions and consumer organisations with a direct interest in one or more of our industries.

HumanAbility covers industries that offer community services and support such as aged care, disability services, mental health, early childhood education and health, and sport and recreation services. JSCs perform a number of functions to fulfil their role within the national training system, including identifying, forecasting and strategically responding to current and emerging skills needs, workforce challenges, and opportunities.

JSCs are responsible for the following four core functions:

- Workforce Planning
Workforce Planning is the strategic centrepiece for JSCs and informs the other functions. Workforce planning will underpin intelligence-gathering for strategic priorities and will be a critical focus to guide strategic planning.
- Training Product Development
Training product development requires JSCs to develop training products in line with standards set by Skills Ministers to improve the quality, speed to market and responsiveness of training products.
- Implementation, Promotion and Monitoring
JSCs partner with training providers and organisations to align workforce planning objectives and national training products with career advice and ‘on the ground’ training delivery.
- Industry Stewardship
JSCs act as a source of intelligence on workforce issues affecting their industries and provide advice on national training system policies. JSCs leverage their engagement and involvement with stakeholders to become a trusted source of information, intelligence and strategic advice regarding workforce challenges for both industry and Skills Ministers.

The CEO of HumanAbility is the primary decision-maker, supported by the board of directors, the five industry advisory committees, and project technical committees. The board provides strategic oversight, while the industry advisory committees offer specialised insights from sectors such as health, human services, aged and disability support, sport and recreation, and children’s education and care. Project technical committees provide expert guidance on specific projects. This collaborative structure ensures that the CEO’s decisions are well-informed, balanced, and aligned with industry needs and goals.

This Companion Volume has been developed and revised by previous Training Package developers. Most recently Skills IQ had carriage of the Companion Volume within their Skills Service Organisation role supporting the (then) Industry Reference Committees for the SIS Sport, Fitness and Recreation Training Package. Skills IQ acknowledged the initial development of the Companion Volume by the former Community Services and Health Industry Skills Council. HumanAbility has made minor changes to this version of the Companion Volume to reflect the 6.1 minor release.

1.1 SIS Qualifications

Qualifications are created by combining units of competency into groups which provide skill outcomes meaningful in the workplace for different job roles and aligning those groups of competencies to qualification levels consistent with the specifications nominated in the Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF).

Qualifications therefore:

- represent key industry functions directly related to occupational positions in industry
- are a framework, not a course.

1.2 SIS Skill sets

Skill sets contained within a training package are a group of units of competency that provide a specific array of skills that are able to be gained outside of a qualification. They can be:

- a group of skills that link to a licensing or regulatory requirement
- a group of skills that can link to a defined industry need; these could comprise a set of units to upskill workers and can be thought of as a short upskilling course
- a set of units linked to a defined industry need where a whole qualification is not required; workers just need a very specific array of skills.

A skill set can comprise a single unit of competency.

1.2.1 Offering other groups of units

Users can, over and above the nominated training package skill sets, deliver a stand-alone unit or any other combination of units which meets an identified industry need.

This approach can provide tailored training opportunities that meet local industry and/or employer needs and should be subject to RTO consultation with industry or employers. Careful consideration should be given before offering short courses to ensure that demand is driven by industry rather than the learner market, and that the combination of units provides a coherent skills outcome for use in employment.

1.3 SIS Units of competency and prerequisites

Units of competency are developed by industry to meet the skill needs of industry. Each unit of competency identifies a discrete workplace skill and includes the knowledge that underpins competency. Units of competency therefore:

- are statements about the skills and knowledge required for effective performance in a particular job function
- describe work outcomes, not training input or modular ways of delivering training
- logically describe stand-alone skills which are used in a work situation
- can be combined together in groups which align to work functions and job roles.

1.3.1 Prerequisites

A prerequisite is a unit of competency in which the individual must be deemed competent prior to the determination of competency in another unit. Prerequisites are applicable when competency cannot be achieved in a given unit of competency without first gaining essential knowledge and skills from other unit(s) of competency.

Minimal prerequisites have been nominated in SIS units of competency. This avoids a trail of prerequisites leading to multiple others, and a mandatory 'lock-step' approach to training and assessment. Nomination of multiple prerequisites reduces flexibility, may create challenges for holistic delivery, and can force all RTOs to sequence delivery in the same way, despite diverse course content, learner and industry needs.

1.3.2 Imported units of competency

In addition to units developed specifically for the sport, fitness and recreation industry, qualifications contain a range of units imported from other training packages. These have been selected because of their applicability to industry job roles.

1.4 Lists of units of competency, qualification and unit mapping

The following information is contained within appendices to this Implementation Guide:

2 Key industry work and training requirements

2.1 Overview of the Sport, Fitness and Recreation Industry

The sport, fitness and recreation landscape is complex. It comprises four industry sectors - sport, fitness, community recreation and outdoor recreation - that are made up of:

- not-for-profits (including volunteer organisations)
- government bodies (local, state and federal)
- commercial enterprises (from large companies to sole traders such as personal trainers).

It also intersects with a number of other industries, particularly tourism, education and health. For example, outdoor recreation overlaps with both the tourism and education sectors. Fitness instructors provide services to optimise clients' fitness outcomes, health and wellbeing and often work collaboratively with medical and allied health professionals.

According to the 2001 Australian census information, there are 68,907 people employed in the industries covered by the SIS Sport, Fitness and Recreation Training Package, with a total of 95,590 recorded as working in the industry overall.¹

Additionally, the involvement of volunteers is a key feature of the sport and recreation sectors. These sectors benefit significantly from the input of volunteers, with sporting organisations in particular relying heavily on volunteers to provide services for their members. Volunteers participate in a broad range of activities including administration, fundraising, coaching, catering and grounds maintenance.

2.2 Industry sectors

2.2.1 Fitness

The fitness sector encompasses the provision of fitness and exercise services in the context of health clubs, fitness centres and gyms, and leisure and community centres, as well as the provision of personal training for individuals and groups in a variety of settings. There is a wide variety of business models ranging from fully staffed multi-purpose fitness centres which often include an aquatic exercise area, to gyms with 24-hour access that may only be staffed for periods of the day. Online delivery of exercise sessions is emerging as a popular service offering for groups and individuals and can involve live or pre-recorded on-demand sessions.

The ABS defines fitness instructors as those who 'direct, instruct and guide individuals and groups in the pursuit of physical fitness and wellbeing'. This includes a broad range of fitness service occupations, such as gym, group and aqua instructors, and personal trainers.

¹ ABS, 2014, Census Table Builder (Census of Population and Housing 2011) Includes the occupations Sport and Fitness Workers nfd, Outdoor Adventure Guides, Sportspersons, Fitness Instructors and Sport Coaches, Instructors and Officials

Employment in the fitness sector can be on a full-time, part-time or casual basis. There is an increasing reliance on self-employed fitness instructors who subcontract to gyms and/or operate bespoke personal training businesses.

2.2.2 Outdoor Recreation

Please refer to the separate Outdoor Recreation Companion Volume Implementation Guide for specific information about the outdoor recreation sector.

2.2.3 Sport

The sport sector includes a diverse range of sport clubs and organisations ranging from small community sport clubs to schools to large professional National Sporting Organisations (NSOs). Sport sector occupations include coaches, athletes, sport trainers and officials. The workforce includes paid and volunteer employment.

The Australian Sports Commission (ASC) is Australia's primary national sports administration and advisory agency, a Commonwealth entity within the Australian Government's Department of Sport and Aged Care. ASC works directly with sporting organisations, peak bodies, the Office of Sport, state and territory departments, institutes and academies of sport, and the business sector. Further information can be found on the SPORTAUS website.

2.2.4 Sport, Aquatics and Recreation

Recreation is defined as activities that require physical exertion but are predominantly engaged in for the purpose of enjoyment. However, the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) does not differentiate between sport and recreation. The sport and recreation sector encompasses a broad range of services to promote an active and healthy lifestyle and is comprised of a diverse set of business and organisation types. These include not-for-profit organisations including many volunteer-run organisations; local, state or federal government-managed bodies; and businesses of different sizes.

Community recreation refers to recreation at the community level, such as community recreation facilities, aquatic centres, multi-sport wet (pool) and dry (gyms, sports courts, recreation hall) centres and community activity programs. The organisations involved in community recreation are diverse and run across national, state and territory, and local levels. The delivery of community recreation activities is facilitated by commercial providers, clubs, schools, higher education institutions, and youth and community groups. Recreation activities are also supported by the management of venues and facilities, such as aquatic centres, fitness centres, outdoor centres and camps. Relevant organisations include peak and representative bodies for individual recreation activities and for the sector as a whole.

Aquatics programming is a major sub sector of the industry and includes learn to swim, aquatic safety, swimming stroke development, aquatic exercise classes and use of aquatic facilities. It can include built, natural and inland open water venues. Surf parks, wave pools, inflatable on water amusements structures has been a consideration of this latest update.

3 Pathways information

Please refer to the separate Outdoor Recreation Companion Volume Implementation Guide for specific information about outdoor recreation sector pathways.

3.1 Occupational outcomes for each SIS qualification

Table 5: Occupational outcomes of qualifications by industry sector

Qualification	Occupational Outcome
Fitness
SIS30321 Certificate III in Fitness	This qualification reflects the role of group and gym fitness instructors. These fitness instructors may plan and deliver group exercise sessions and develop gym-based programs for individuals where the level of personalised instruction and ongoing client monitoring is limited. They work in predictable environments under general supervision. When instructing groups or interacting with clients, they use discretion and judgement to solve routine issues within the parameters of clearly defined organisational policies and procedures. This qualification provides a pathway to work as a fitness instructor in settings such as fitness facilities, gyms, and leisure and community centres.
SIS40221 Certificate IV in Fitness	This qualification reflects the role of personal trainers who develop, instruct and evaluate personalised exercise programs for generally healthy and low-risk clients to achieve specific fitness goals. Clients with higher health risks are referred to medical or allied health professionals. Personal trainers work independently using highly developed fitness skills and knowledge in both routine and unpredictable situations. They use well-developed communication and collaboration skills to interact with clients and health professionals to improve client fitness outcomes. This qualification provides a pathway to work as an employed or self-employed personal trainer in settings such as fitness facilities, gyms, leisure and community centres, client workplaces, and homes and outdoor locations. Personal trainers may offer services to individuals and groups and may provide online training services. In some employment contexts, personal trainers may be involved in team leadership or supervisory activities.

Outdoor Recreation
SIS20419 Certificate II in Outdoor Recreation	This qualification reflects the role of individuals who assist with operational logistics and the delivery of recreational activities. They work under direct supervision and with guidance from those responsible for planning, finalising and delivering activities, including program managers and leaders. Assistants use a range of fundamental activity techniques during activities and can work in indoor and outdoor recreation environments, adventure learning centres or camps. The combined skills and knowledge provided by this qualification do not provide for a job outcome as a leader, and further training would be required before moving into a leadership role.
SIS30619 Certificate III in Outdoor Leadership	This qualification reflects the role of skilled outdoor recreation leaders who lead and supervise dependent participants in recreational activities according to pre-determined activity plans, adjusting them as required to suit conditions and participant abilities. Leaders are skilled in recreational activity techniques and have well-developed leadership skills to manage group participation, cohesion, operational logistics, risk, and problems as they arise. Using discretion and judgement, they work with some independence and under limited supervision using clearly defined plans, policies and procedures to guide work activities. This qualification reflects the role of leaders who can work in a range of settings, including indoor centres and outdoor adventure learning centres and camps, or relatively close to base in the field. They have access to reliable communication systems and assistance from medical and emergency services. When in the field, supervision is provided remotely in the form of support from base to deal appropriately with unplanned events or significant problems.

Qualification	Occupational Outcome
SIS40621 Certificate IV in Outdoor Leadership	This qualification reflects the role of highly skilled outdoor recreation leaders who lead and supervise dependent participants in recreational activities according to activity plans which they develop. These leaders are proficient in recreational activity techniques and have well-developed leadership skills to manage group participation, cohesion, operational logistics, risk, and significant problems as they arise. While actions are limited by the parameters of plans, policies and procedures, they work with a considerable amount of autonomy. This qualification reflects the role of leaders who can work at or close to base but often work in remote areas distant from support. Communication systems may be unreliable and assistance from medical and emergency services may not be readily available. They are expected to make high-level independent judgements about logistical, technical, safety, and emergency response issues.
SIS50421Diploma of Outdoor Leadership	This qualification reflects the role of highly skilled senior leaders or program, logistics and operations managers. Senior leaders lead and supervise dependent participants in recreational activities and have a role in planning these activities. They are highly proficient in activity techniques and have well- developed leadership skills to manage group participation, cohesion, operational logistics, risk, and significant problems as they arise. Managers are involved in recreational program planning, implementation and evaluation, facility and equipment management, the leadership of personnel, and the operational management of a department or a small business. All work with significant autonomy, using initiative and judgement to analyse and solve complex problems, and to design systematic approaches to operational practices.

SPORT
SIS20221 Certificate II in Sport - Developing Athlete	This qualification reflects the role of individuals who apply the skills and knowledge to pursue a career as an athlete at a regional, state or territory level in a specific sport in the Australian sport industry. This qualification reflects the role of a developing athlete and provides a pathway to work as an athlete in a specific sport. Individuals with this qualification are involved in mainly routine and repetitive tasks using limited practical skills and basic sport industry knowledge. They work under the guidance of a coach.
SIS20321 Certificate II in Sport Coaching	This qualification reflects the role of individuals who apply the skills and knowledge to conduct pre-planned coaching sessions with foundation level participants in a specific sport. This qualification provides a pathway to work in assistant coaching roles working or volunteering at community-based sports clubs and organisations in the Australian sport industry. Individuals with this qualification use a defined and limited range of basic coaching skills to engage participants in a specific sport and are involved in mainly routine and repetitive tasks using limited practical skills and basic sport industry knowledge. Athletes at this level may have access to match payments, prize money, grants or endorsements as the primary source of their income. This qualification provides a pathway to work as an athlete. Individuals with this qualification train for events, work with coaches and support staff, compete in sport at a regional, state or territory level and undertake promotional duties. They possess a range of well-developed skills where discretion and judgement are required. They are responsible for their own outputs under the guidance of a coach.

Qualification	Occupational Outcome
SIS30521 Certificate III in Sport Coaching	This qualification reflects the role of individuals who apply the skills and knowledge to coach participants up to an intermediate level in a specific sport. This qualification provides a pathway to work in community coaching roles working or volunteering at community-based sport clubs and organisations in the Australian sport industry. 3.2 Qualification pathways

The Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) is the policy for qualifications in the Australian education and training system covering the school, vocational education and training, and higher education sectors. The AQF Qualifications Pathways Policy asks for flexibility in training package qualifications so that they:

- enhance learners' progression into and between qualifications
- recognise the multiple pathways that learners take to achieve qualifications
- can comprise, within a training package, integrated qualifications at different levels allowing credit for learning (units) completed in lower-level qualifications and exit points in higher qualifications.

SIS qualifications are designed to both meet these requirements and those of industry.

3.2.1 Credit arrangements for higher education qualifications

Articulation and credit arrangements from Diploma to higher education qualifications can be made on an individual basis by RTOs. Additionally, providers of higher education qualifications can decide what credit will be provided towards those qualifications without any specific arrangement.

The AQF Qualifications Pathways Policy provides more details. Please see:

<https://www.aqf.edu.au/publication/aqf-qualifications-pathways-policy>

3.3 Pathways into and from SIS qualifications

The following charts show the possible pathways into and from qualifications within the SIS Sport, Fitness and Recreation Training Package.

Individuals can exit each qualification to work in industry at a different level of technical expertise and responsibility. It is not, however, intended to imply that an individual will gain immediate employment at that level.

It is recognised that career paths are not always linear and that learners will choose a range of training pathways to meet their individual needs. The qualifications are flexible to meet a range of job outcomes and to support a wide range of career paths. Qualifications allow for various entry options and enable significant transfer between qualifications within and across each sector.

3.3.5 Entry requirements for SIS qualifications

Entry requirements must be:

- achieved prior to commencing the qualification
- specific to the knowledge, skills, or experience required to commence the qualification, and
- expressed in terms of competency or licensing.

SIS40221 Certificate IV in Fitness	This qualification has an entry requirement. See information below.

3.3.6 Entry requirement for SIS40221 Certificate IV in Fitness

Entry to the SIS40221 Certificate IV in Fitness is open to individuals who hold a qualification or Statement of Attainment which includes the following units of competency or units that have been superseded by these units:

- HLTAID011* Provide First Aid (or a unit that supersedes this unit)
- HLTWHS001* Participate in workplace health and safety
- SISFFIT032* Complete pre-exercise screening and service orientation
- SISFFIT033* Complete client fitness assessments
- SISFFIT035* Plan group exercise sessions
- SISFFIT036* Instruct group exercise sessions
- SISFFIT040* Develop and instruct gym-based exercise programs for individual clients
- SISFFIT047* Use anatomy and physiology knowledge to support safe and effective exercise
- SISFFIT052* Provide healthy eating information

The entry requirement allows for superseded units to account for learners who may leave time between completion of a superseded Certificate III in Fitness and enrolling in a Certificate IV in Fitness.

This entry requirement is mandatory. It has been determined as a result of industry having identified essential skills a learner must possess prior to entering a Certificate IV in Fitness. Learners require foundational underpinning skills and knowledge of exercise programming before progressing to learning higher-order skills for tailoring programs for individual clients. These foundational skills can be achieved via superseded units or current (updated) units.

3.3.7 Considerations for young learners – Certificates III and IV in Fitness

Entry requirements for training package qualifications must be expressed in terms of competency or experience and based on skills and knowledge held by the learner. It is, therefore, not possible for the training package to mandate an age requirement for entry to the Certificates III and IV in Fitness. However, RTOs will be aware of the considerable leadership skills required to manage group exercise participation, cohesion, operational logistics, risk, and problems as they arise. Group exercise instructors use discretion and judgement and work with some independence and under limited supervision when instructing groups. Personal trainers work independently to meet the needs of individual clients. It is likely that employers in the fitness industry will expect graduates to be at least 18 years of age in order to employ them.

RTOs are strongly advised by industry to counsel potential learners about the job requirements and both employer and client expectations before enrolling young learners in a course.

This is equally important to the sport, community and outdoor recreation sectors where many employers also expect their employees to be at least 18 years old to hold a position that assumes duty of care for participants.

3.4 Pathways that learners can take to achieve SIS qualifications

SIS units of competency and qualifications can be attained via:

- formal or informal education and training
- experience in the workplace
- general life experience, or
- any combination of the above.

All pathways are valuable to industry in procuring qualified personnel. Formal education and training may include any qualifications completed:

- independently with an RTO

- as part of employment arrangements in partnership with an RTO
- via a traineeship or apprenticeship (more details follow)
- via VET delivered to secondary school students (more details follow).

Informal training, such as in-house training, may or may not use SIS units as a basis. If skills achieved align to unit coverage, they can be recognised and certified.

Recognition of prior learning (RPL)

It is likely that many individuals could be assessed via RPL to become certified in some (or many) SIS units of competency. These might include:

- those who have years of sport or recreational experience in an activity but no application of these skills in the workplace; they may be seeking a formal qualification to enhance job opportunities
- those who have gained their activity, leadership and coaching skills through workplace or volunteer application and in-house training but who hold no certification
- those who are employed and have a significant skills base who are progressing to senior or program management job roles; many Certificate III units could be achieved through RPL to achieve a Certificate IV or Diploma qualification.

Credit transfer

Learners may choose a formal training pathway to progress through qualifications with the same or different RTOs. Whenever an individual holds AQF certification in a unit issued by an RTO, this must be recognised by subsequent RTOs. (This is particularly important with regard to entry requirements). This allows those individuals to efficiently progress through staged learning from one qualification to the next.

3.4.1 Pathway via Australian Traineeships and Apprenticeships

Most qualifications in the SIS Sport, Fitness and Recreation Training Package are suitable for an Australian Apprenticeship pathway, provided appropriate supervision can be provided if the employee is working independently with clients.

Please refer to the Outdoor Recreation Companion Volume Implementation Guide for specific information about the suitability of traineeships and apprenticeships for the outdoor recreation sector.

For Fitness, a traineeship or apprenticeship pathway for the SIS40221 Certificate IV in Fitness would only be appropriate for personal trainers who are engaged as an employee, not for those who are self-employed.

Part-time school-based traineeships and apprenticeships

Part-time school-based traineeships and apprenticeships are delivered by RTOs in conjunction with on-the-job training provided by employers. This would be appropriate provided the significant demands of the relevant SIS qualification can be met alongside the requirements for completion of the Senior Secondary Certificate of Education, e.g. HSC, VCE.

3.4.2 Pathway via vocational training delivered to secondary school students

The following qualifications in SIS Sport, Fitness and Recreation Training Package are suitable for delivery via VET in schools:

- SIS10122 Certificate I in Sport and Recreation
- SIS20122 Certificate II in Sport and Recreation
- SIS20419 Certificate II in Outdoor Recreation (refer to the Outdoor Recreation Companion Volume Implementation Guide for further information)
- SIS30122 Certificate III in Sport, Aquatics and Recreation
- SIS20221 Certificate II in Sport – Developing Athlete
- SIS20321 Certificate II in Sport Coaching
- SIS30421 Certificate III in Sport – Athlete
- SIS30521 Certificate III in Sport Coaching
- SIS30321 Certificate III in Fitness.

Employers expect all individuals certified in SIS qualifications to be ready to work and to be competent in the required skills. Delivery to secondary school students must comply, in the same way as any other delivery, with the requirements outlined in Outdoor Recreation units, including those for environments, resources and assessors. Wherever a school-based Registered Training Organisation (RTO) cannot provide the mandated resources, delivery can be provided by, or in conjunction with, other RTOs which are sufficiently resourced.

Certificate III in Fitness for delivery to secondary school students

RTOs will be aware of the considerable leadership skills required to manage group exercise participation, cohesion, operational logistics, risk, and problems as they arise. Group exercise instructors use discretion and judgement and work with some independence and under limited supervision when instructing groups.

RTOs are strongly advised by industry to counsel potential school-based learners about the job requirements, and both employer and client expectations, before enrolling young learners in a school-based VET course. Specifically, the student should understand that employers in the fitness industry expect their employees to be at least 18 years old to hold a position that assumes duty of care for participants.

4 Regulatory and industry accreditation information

Please refer to the separate Outdoor Recreation Companion Volume Implementation Guide for specific information about regulation and accreditation in the outdoor recreation sector.

4.1 Regulation and licensing implications for implementation

4.1.1 General and specific laws that apply to the SIS industry

Sport, fitness and recreation personnel must comply with general laws common to all industries and business types that regulate various issues, e.g. workplace health and safety, consumer protection. At the time of publication, there are no specific laws which have been developed to regulate the sport, fitness and recreation industries or that require industry personnel to hold an occupational licence.

4.1.2 Regulatory requirements

A range of regulatory requirements apply to the following circumstances. (Links to units of competency are identified.)

Table 7: Regulatory requirements for Sport, Fitness and Recreation industries

Regulatory Requirements	Links to Units
WA Code of Practice for aquatic facilities
The Western Australian Code of Practice for the Design, Construction, Operation, Management and Maintenance of Aquatic Facilities. The code mandates qualification requirements for aquatic facility operators, supervisors and emergency care personnel. These are linked to SIS units of competency. https://ww2.health.wa.gov.au/-/media/Files/Corporate/general-documents/water/PDF/CoP-for-design-construction-operation-management-maintenance-aquatic-facilities.pdf Always check current requirements.	SISXEMR003 Respond to emergency situations SISXEMR004 Coordinate emergency responses SISCAQU015 Test pool water quality SISCAQU020 Perform basic water rescues SISCAQU017 Monitor and maintain aquatic facility plant and equipment SISCAQU016 Manage pool water quality SISXFAC009 Coordinate facility maintenance SISCAQU019 Supervise patron safety in aquatic locations SISCAQU021 Perform complex water rescues SISCAQU018 Operate self-contained breathing apparatus in aquatic facility emergencies.

Regulatory Requirements	Links to Units
How does the WA code impact on training package implementation? RTOs will use aquatic facilities for the delivery of training and assessment for SIS units of competency. RTOs based in WA should ensure that the pool operator implements appropriate safe operational practices and can provide evidence of how the operator complies with the WA code of practice. Additionally, WA pool operators will seek RTO training for aquatic facility staff to comply with the qualification requirements outlined in the code of practice, based on SIS units and code requirements.
Safe operation of pools
State and territory work health and safety laws require aquatic facility operators to implement codes of practice, guidelines or policies for the safe operation of pools. To assist with compliance, the Royal Life Saving Society Australia develops and updates The Guidelines for Safe Pool Operations (GSPO) which includes key information that can be adopted by owners and operators of aquatic facilities: https://www.royallifesaving.com.au/Aquatic-Risk-and-Guidelines/guidelines/GSPO.	SISCAQU015 – 028 SISFFIT039 Instruct group water-based exercise sessions
How does the safe operation of pools impact on training package implementation? RTOs will use aquatic facilities for the delivery of training and assessment for SIS units of competency. They should ensure that the pool operator implements appropriate safe operational practices and can provide evidence of how the operator complies with a code of practice, guidelines or policies. SISFFIT039 Instruct group water-based exercise sessions includes: • requirements relating to safe pool operations, on which RTOs must test learners' knowledge • requirements in the Assessment Conditions for learners to be assessed in a pool which meets regulatory requirements for safe pool operations through the implementation of appropriate guidelines, policies and procedures.

Working with Children checks

Sport, fitness and recreation personnel regularly coach, lead or instruct minors (those under 18 years). They are required to complete Working with Children checks.

These could be relevant to any sport unit, particularly sport coaching and officiating. It is particularly relevant to:

SISCAQU024 Teach water familiarisation, buoyancy and mobility skills

SISCAQU025 Teach water safety and survival skills

SISCAQU026 Teach swimming strokes

SISCAQU027 Promote development of infants and toddlers in an aquatic environment

SISFFIT037 Develop and instruct group movement programs for children

SISFFIT045 Develop and instruct personalised exercise programs for adolescent clients.

How does working with children impact on training package implementation?

Any learners working with young clients during their training and assessment must receive formal clearance to work with children via the completion of a Working with Children check required in the relevant state or territory.

Trainers and assessors will also need to complete checks because they will be completing their work, namely the assessment of the learner coach/sports official/instructor's activities, while minors are participating, and will therefore also be in contact with these young people.

RTOs and other users should facilitate the process of Working with Children checks.

CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) and first aid currency

State and territory work health and safety laws require organisations to identify the relevant requirements for first aid. They may adopt various jurisdictional codes of conduct or develop policies relevant to their organisations.

This generally means that sport, fitness, aquatic and recreation organisations require first aiders to attend training on a regular basis to refresh and update their first aid knowledge and skills. Refresher training in CPR should be carried out annually and first aid qualifications renewed every three years.

How does currency of first aid certification impact on training package implementation? The currency of a learner's first aid certification is most relevant to industry employers. However, it can have implications for RTOs when determining whether a credit transfer is appropriate. The SIS40221 Certificate IV in Fitness entry requirement allows learners to enter that qualification with: • unit HLTAID011 Provide First Aid • a unit that has been superseded by HLTAID011 (most likely HLTAID003) • a unit that supersedes HLTAID011 (thinking futuristically). This allows learners to enter without unnecessary barriers. The usual employment requirement for refresher training would apply once they gain employment.
Permits for the use of public spaces
Fitness operators and personal trainers are required to apply and pay for permits to use public spaces, e.g. parks and beaches.	This could be relevant to SISFFIT036 Instruct group exercise sessions and a range of units relevant to personal training (adolescent and older clients) but is most relevant to: SISFFIT042 Instruct personalised exercise sessions SISFFIT051 Establish and maintain professional practice for fitness instruction (which covers knowledge requirements).
How do permit requirements impact on training package implementation? Whenever an RTO is delivering training and assessment in a public space (outdoor environment), a permit will need to be applied for in the same way that fitness operators and personal trainers are required to obtain permits. This is usually managed by local governments (councils) and each authority will have a different requirement.

4.1.3 Learning about laws and regulatory requirements

Wherever knowledge of a law or regulatory requirement is required to effectively perform a job task described in a unit, it is covered in the Knowledge Evidence field of the assessment requirements.

In many cases, operational workers do not require direct knowledge of the contents of the law as written. Instead, the information they require will have been synthesised by their organisation into a range of staff-focused guidelines, policies or procedures which are also covered within the Knowledge Evidence.

The Assessment Conditions field requires RTOs to ensure access to, or use of, current regulatory documents or policies and procedures as a resource for assessment. Workplace policies and procedures can either be samples/examples or actual organisational documents in instances where the learner is employed or on work placement.

Table 8: Knowledge Evidence requirements - coverage of laws or regulatory requirements

SISFFIT045 Develop and instruct personalised exercise programs for adolescent clients
- legal requirements for fitness instructors specific to working with adolescents: - Working with Children checks - obtaining informed consent from parent or guardian - sharing adolescent health information with parents or guardians, including ability of adolescents to limit or refuse information sharing - procedures for obtaining informed consent from parents or guardians.	- parental informed consent forms - procedures for obtaining informed consent from parents or guardians.

4.2 Industry accreditation and registration schemes

There are a number of industry-led voluntary registration or accreditation schemes across the sectors covered by the SIS Sport, Fitness and Recreation Training Package. These schemes provide a framework for self-regulation and provide best practice for an identified job role or industry sector. These schemes also provide for the continuing professionalism of the sector through requirements for ongoing professional development and currency in the workplace. Many also provide insurance as a benefit of registration/accreditation. Given the unregulated nature of the industry, numerous schemes exist, including different schemes for the same job role or sector.

Industry schemes include (but are not limited to):

- AUSTSWIM Provides the AUSTSWIM Teacher Licence™ to individuals who complete their training program.
- Swim Coaches and Teachers Australia \(SCTA\) Provides the ASCTA accreditation to individuals who complete their training program.
- Royal Life Saving Society \(NSW & ACT\) Provides an Australian Pool Lifeguard Licence in some states and territories (after completion of on-the-job assessment) to individuals who complete their training program.
- Leisure Institute of Western Australia \(LIWA\) Aquatics Provides accreditation to individuals who provide evidence of completion of a recognised pool operators' training course, a current first aid certificate, a current Pool Lifeguard award and details of current and past employment in the aquatic industry.
- AUSactive Provides registration of individual fitness instructors in different categories.
- Physical Activity Australia Provides registration of individual fitness instructors in different categories.

Some of these accreditation schemes align their training courses and/or registration criteria to SIS training package units of competency, skill sets and qualifications. Training package and other requirements should be checked with each operator.

How does industry accreditation and registration impact on training package implementation?

RTOs should be aware of these important industry initiatives and the potential for learners to participate in accreditation and registration schemes after achieving certification (and sometimes as learner registrants). Many of these schemes provide for continuing education and offer opportunities for participation in short, specialist upskilling courses.

Accreditation or registration can also allow access to industry-based codes of practice and guidelines which can be implemented by individuals to inform quality industry practice. RTOs can introduce learners to these schemes during training and assessment, particularly where units contain content relating to established industry standards.

4.2.1 Industry-established standards, codes and guidelines

Various industry bodies produce industry standards, codes or guidelines to assist their stakeholders to manage sport, fitness and recreation practices. These may be linked to voluntary membership of a body or participation in a voluntary accreditation scheme. Some industry bodies may mandate the use of codes for their membership or accreditation purposes. Some industry associations make guidelines freely available to encourage professionalism and best practice for the sector they cover.

While these industry-established standards may not be directly linked to compliance with a law or regulatory requirement, they are generally accepted by industry as best practice for industry self-regulation.

Because of this, some units of competency make reference to such things as:

- established industry guidelines for safe pool operations
- industry standard pre-exercise screening questionnaires and guidelines (fitness sector)
- industry-developed children's health and fitness services guidelines (fitness sector).

How do industry-established standards, codes and guidelines impact on training package implementation?

Because some industry initiatives are widely accepted as an industry standard implemented by industry operators, they are referenced in units of competency. They must therefore be covered as part of an RTO's training and assessment.

4.2.2 Fitness instructor scope of practice

Unlike some allied health professionals, fitness instructors do not have a 'medical' or 'clinical' scope of practice determined by their qualification, employer or regulated registration with the Australian health practitioner regulation agency.

Their job roles do, however, intersect with health-related functions, and they deal on a day-to-day basis with the function of the human body. To this extent, it has been important for industry to define a scope of practice so that fitness instructor roles and limitations can be broadly defined. This scope varies for group instructors, gym instructors and personal trainers and depends on the level of interaction with a client's needs.

This industry-driven scope provides reasonable boundaries in line with the level of vocational education and training and types of services expected by industry and consumers.

There are many references within units to scope of practice and boundaries, such as:

- boundaries and responsibilities of fitness instructors in completing pre-exercise screenings, determining health risks and providing exercise prescription
- boundaries and responsibilities of fitness instructors in providing personalised exercise prescription and the relationship to duty of care
- situations where referral to a medical or allied health professional is required

- types of client guidance that may be provided by medical or allied health professionals, and the implications for exercise programming
- scope of practice for a personal trainer in instructing personalised exercise sessions, responsibilities and limitations
- the roles and limitations of fitness instructors in providing nutritional advice to clients.

Units define the required skills and knowledge, and their complexity, for fitness instructors aligned to industry's defined scope of practice.

Units do not include content that exceeds the required skills and knowledge, job functions and scope for fitness instructors.

RTOs should adhere to unit content to deliver training that is in keeping with, and does not exceed, a fitness instructor's scope of practice as generally accepted by industry.

4.3 Legal considerations for learners on work placements

Work-based learning programs and placements give learners an opportunity to gain experience in the workplace. Under the Fair Work Act (2009), a vocational placement is a working arrangement where all of the following apply:

- The worker is not paid a wage
- The placement is a requirement of an Australian-based education or training course; and
- The placement is authorised under a law or administrative arrangement of the Commonwealth, a state or territory.

A learner in an arrangement that meets all of these criteria is not covered by the Fair Work Act and is not entitled to the minimum wages and other entitlements provided in the National Employment Standards or any applicable modern awards or agreement.

For more information, please refer to: <https://www.fairwork.gov.au/pay/unpaid-work>.

Learners gaining work experience are considered to be workers under work health and safety (WHS) legislation. Provisions of law relating to worker and employer responsibilities apply. Learners should be inducted and supervised to ensure compliance.

Learners on work placements must comply with any general or specific laws that regulate sport, fitness and recreation industry practices and should be inducted and supervised to ensure compliance. Health and safety implications in industry

Please refer to the separate Outdoor Recreation Companion Volume Implementation Guide for specific information about outdoor recreation health and safety implications.

Workers in the sport, fitness and recreation industry are exposed to significant risks to health and safety. Risks vary according to the particular environment in which they operate and the activity in which they participate, coach or instruct.

In industry, risk management is a crucial part of an organisation's practice; risks are managed for both workers and their dependent participants.

Table 9: Examples of risk of injury and illness related to Sport, Fitness and Recreation work activities that may be relevant during training.

Activity Type	Risk
Water-based activities – community recreation and fitness	To instructors: • effects of extended exposure to chlorinated water and sunlight • slips, trips and falls on the pool deck • demands of extended energy expenditure on the pool deck and in the pool • exercise injuries. To participants: • drowning • fatigue and exhaustion • hyperthermia and hypothermia • exercise injuries.
Fitness	To instructors: • slips, trips and falls during instruction • demands of extended energy expenditure during instruction • hyperthermia • hypothermia (in outdoor environments) • exercise injuries. To participants: • fatigue and exhaustion • hyperthermia • exercise injuries • exacerbation of existing injuries or health conditions.
Sport – participation, coaching and officiating	• slips, trips and falls • demands of extended energy expenditure • hyperthermia • sunburn and hypothermia (in outdoor environments) • sports injuries.

5 Health and safety implications in industry

5.1 Managing health and safety during training and assessment

During training and assessment, learners are equally exposed to significant risks. These can be managed through:

- completion of risk assessments for training and assessment events
- the provision of procedures, to learners, to identify hazards and manage risks
- work health and safety induction and training of learners
- close supervision of learners by trainers, assessors, workplace supervisors and managers.

Assessment Conditions for fitness and other relevant units require that RTOs replicate industry conditions of operation during assessments by providing equipment used to manage health and safety incidents:

- first aid equipment
- communication equipment for emergency response
- rescue equipment.

5.2 Learning about safety and risk management

Because risk management is central to all job roles within sport, fitness and recreation organisations, SIS units of competency incorporate:

- assessable Performance Criteria that describe skills required to complete such things as:
 - safety and serviceability checks on equipment
 - participant safety briefings about the environment, equipment and safe participation
 - ongoing monitoring of clients/participants during activities to check on safe technique, signs of fatigue or difficulties in continuing
- modification or cessation of activities when risks are unacceptable
- knowledge of particular health and safety issues, e.g. safe condition of equipment and checks that confirm serviceability, common medical conditions and contraindications for exercise participation, how exercises can be modified to allow safe participation
- Performance Evidence that stipulates collection of evidence that relates to safety and risk management, e.g. briefing participants about safety issues, modifying activities when clients are fatigued.

In addition, there are specific units which describe work health and safety, and risk management processes:

- BSBWHS303 Participate in WHS hazard identification, risk assessment and risk control
- BSBWHS332X Apply infection prevention and control procedures to own work activities
- HLTWHS001 Participate in workplace health and safety
- HLTWHS003 Maintain work health and safety
- HLTWHS004 Manage work health and safety
- HLTWHS005 Conduct manual tasks safely
- SISOPLN004 Identify hazards, assess and control risks for outdoor recreation activities
- SISOEQU010 Identify hazards, assess and control safety risks for horse handling and riding activities
- SISOPLN007 Manage risk for outdoor programs
- SISXPLD006 Identify hazards, assess and control risks for sport, fitness and recreation activities.

In other words, safety requirements are thoroughly embedded throughout many units that make up a qualification. This reflects workplace practice, and each and every requirement must be assessed.

Industry expects that graduates who are certified as competent will be able to identify hazards and safety issues and evaluate and manage associated risks. As a result, RTOs need to carefully consider risks associated with client groups, equipment and environments nominated in units.

Assessment should confirm the learner's ability to use risk assessment processes for the activity and take appropriate measures to protect the safety of clients/participants. This confirmation requires that learners know and are able to apply techniques and procedures to deal appropriately with client/participant fatigue, changes in environmental conditions (e.g. weather) or equipment failure that have the potential to impact on the safety of clients/participants. As these circumstances cannot be reliably predicted, assessment activities should include the opportunity to demonstrate competency using scenarios that incorporate a variety of health and safety issues.

5.3 Pre-exercise health screening and referral processes - Fitness

Fitness instructors are qualified to plan and deliver exercise for low- and moderate-risk clients based on the guidelines defined in the Adult Pre-Exercise Screening System (APSS). Pre-exercise screening is used to identify individuals who may have medical conditions which put them at a higher risk of an adverse event during physical activity or exercise. Skills and knowledge, which are aligned to industry standards, are provided in SISFFIT032 Complete pre-exercise screening and service orientation.

Screening for young people, according to the industry standard pre-exercise screening system for young people, is covered in the following units:

- SISFFIT037 Develop and instruct group movement programs for children
- SISFFIT045 Develop and instruct personalised exercise programs for adolescent clients.

Fitness instructors may work with higher-risk clients (whose conditions are stabilised and managed) after making a written referral and receiving documented guidance on the exercise program from the client's treating medical and/or allied health practitioner. Skills for referring clients and/or working with clients according to medical guidance are covered in the following units:

- SISFFIT032 Complete pre-exercise screening and service orientation
- SISFFIT033 Complete client fitness assessments
- SISFFIT041 Develop personalised exercise programs
- SISFFIT042 Instruct personalised exercise sessions
- SISFFIT044 Develop and instruct personalised exercise programs for older clients
- SISFFIT051 Establish and maintain professional practice for fitness instruction.

6 Implementation information to assist users

6.1 Assessor Requirements

Requirements for assessors are defined on a unit-by-unit basis and vary because they are tailored to the specific unit of competency. Information is found in the Assessment Conditions field within the assessment requirements document for each unit of competency. Each SIS unit should be checked for specific requirements.

Assessors must meet certain requirements to assess SIS units of competency. These requirements align to the Standards for Registered Training Organisations 2012 which cover requirements for:

- vocational competency (vocational competencies at least to the level being assessed)
The Standards for Registered Training Organisations are silent on what vocational competency means and do not include a requirement for workplace experience.
- currency of industry skills directly relevant to the assessment being provided

Currency of industry skills, as required by the Standards for Registered Training Organisations, is crucial to the sport, fitness and recreation industries. It ensures that assessors have expertise in current operational practice and current industry knowledge so that assessments reflect up-to-date workplace practice and provide skilled industry workers.

- currency of knowledge and skills in vocational training and learning that informs their assessment
- the appropriate TAE qualification or skill set to assess.

Where there are no additional assessor requirements specific to individual units of competency, the Standards for Registered Training Organisations' assessor requirements apply:

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations requirements for assessors.

6.1.1 Fitness assessor requirements

The fitness sector considers it essential for assessors to have a relevant qualification and industry experience to appropriately assess learners. The qualification requirement allows an option for a VET or higher education qualification.

For units that appear in the Certificate III in Fitness, assessors must:

- satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations' requirements for assessors, and
- hold a Certificate III or IV in Fitness, and have a collective period of at least two years' experience working in fitness instruction, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the two years' experience can incorporate full- and/or part-time experience; or

- be a registered or accredited practising health or exercise professional with a degree and experience relevant to this unit of competency.

For units that appear in the Certificate IV in Fitness, assessors must:

- satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations' requirements for assessors, and
- hold a Certificate IV in Fitness, and have a collective period of at least two years' experience working in fitness instruction, where they have applied the skills and knowledge covered in this unit of competency; the two years' experience can incorporate full- and/or part time experience; or
- be a registered or accredited practising health or exercise professional with a degree and experience relevant to this unit of competency.

For healthy eating units (SISFFIT052 and SISFFIT053), the option provides for an assessor to be a registered or accredited practising dietitian, sports dietitian, health or exercise professional with a degree and experience relevant to the unit of competency.

6.1.2 Outdoor Recreation assessor requirements

Please refer to the separate Outdoor Recreation Companion Volume Implementation Guide for specific information about assessor requirements.

The majority of units prescribe a requirement for assessors to have workplace experience because the outdoor recreation sector considers this vital for assessors. SCUBA diving and equine units have specific requirements.

6.1.3 Sport assessor requirements

A minority of SIS training package units require assessors to meet requirements beyond those required by the Standards for Registered Training Organisations, notably Equestrian (SISSEQS) units.

National Sporting Organisations (NSOs) provide training specific to their sport coverage. They may have additional trainer and assessor requirements, beyond SIS training package requirements, for the purposes of their individual accreditation schemes. NSOs are listed on the Sport Australia website.

6.1.4 Sport, Aquatic and Recreation assessor requirements

A number of the aquatic units of competency (prefix SISCAQU) require assessors to meet requirements beyond those required by the Standards for Registered Training Organisations. There is a requirement for assessors to have workplace experience because the aquatic sector considers it vital for assessors to have industry experience in the units of competency they are assessing.

6.2 Environments for assessment

Please refer to the separate Outdoor Recreation Companion Volume Implementation Guide for specific information about environments for assessment.

Assessment requirements for environmental conditions are defined on a unit-by-unit basis and are tailored to the specific unit of competency. Information is found in the Assessment Conditions field within the assessment requirements document for each unit of competency. Each SIS unit should be checked for specific requirements.

6.3 Resources and equipment for assessment

The assessment requirements for each unit of competency specify the equipment and other resources which must be provided by the RTO for assessment. This information is found in the Assessment Conditions field which specifies:

- if relevant, other people who must be present during assessment, e.g. a group of participants whom the individual instructs during group exercise classes
- any equipment, including rescue equipment, that must be provided for assessment, e.g. specific sport and exercise equipment, and pool rescue equipment
- any workplace documentation that must be provided, e.g. exercise program and session plans, template safety checklists, equipment fault and incident reports.

Again, requirements are tailored to each unit of competency.

6.4 Simulations

Industry employers and RTOs have highlighted the fact that industry experience and working with real clients enriches training opportunities for the learner. However, they also note that there are a number of considerations that can impede assessment in the workplace.

Simulations, set up for the purpose of assessment, usually involve two components:

- simulated environments
- simulated activities.

6.4.1 Simulated environments for assessment

For some industries, it is possible to simulate workplace environments, e.g. tourism offices. However, the assessment of sport, fitness and recreation skills is heavily reliant on providing the actual environment applicable to the activity, as mandated in the Assessment Conditions of many units. For example, aquatic/pool venues, tennis courts and equestrian arenas cannot be simulated.

This equally applies to rescue units; activities can be simulated but the environment must be real for assessments. Those environments are mandated in the Assessment Conditions. For example, the unit SISORSC005 Rescue others in white water stipulates that:

Skills must be demonstrated on inland white water rivers with rapids which must include, as a minimum, features of grade 2 rivers:

- fairly frequent but straightforward rapids
- rapids with regular medium sized waves, less than one metre
- low ledges or drops, easy eddies and gradual bends
- small obstacles that require manoeuvring around passages through rapids that are generally straightforward and can be seen from the water.

The assessment environment for many SIS planning and administrative units is not crucial as these describe skills not used in the field. It is possible to simulate, within a training organisation, the environment where planning and administration takes place.

In any environment where simulated workplace activities are completed, it is important to provide resources that reflect workplace practice. This might involve:

- ensuring that sufficient numbers of required people are present, e.g. participants
- providing current equipment and technology which is typically used by industry operators
- providing sufficient numbers of all equipment and resources to service the assessment needs of each learner, in instances where sharing and 'taking turns' using inadequate numbers would result in down-time for tasks and would not allow learners to demonstrate their capacity to work with commercial speed, timing and productivity
- providing the types of workplace documents which are currently used in industry, e.g. policies, procedures, codes of conduct, guidelines; these might be samples provided by industry, or those for a specific organisation if the learner is employed, or even those developed by an RTO applicable to a 'dummy' organisation.

6.4.2 Simulated workplace activities for assessment

Industry employers highly value graduates who are ready to work in their organisation because they have been exposed to industry conditions. Whenever a simulated assessment activity is conducted it is essential that industry-relevant conditions are provided, i.e., those as close to a real work situation as possible. This can involve:

- learners working and communicating with multiple and varied team members, supervisors, and clients, including difficult ones
- requiring learners to work with commercial speed, timing and productivity, e.g. to set up activity equipment
- building in a time and efficiency imperative which might include:
 - setting deadlines for certain tasks, e.g. producing exercise program plans and evaluation reports
 - requiring learners to handle a number of tasks simultaneously

- expecting learners to deal with multiple and varied problems and prioritise tasks within critical timeframes, e.g. for rescue tasks
- integrating multiple competencies which an individual would naturally complete simultaneously as part of their job function
- incorporating requirements to use the appropriate level of language, literacy and numeracy required by the work tasks.

6.5 Work placement for Fitness

Industry strongly supports the use of work placements in the fitness sector for a number of reasons:

- to strengthen the individual's experience of the workplace to support expectations of performance in the workplace
- to practise skills and apply knowledge within the workplace, which promotes stronger embedding of learning
- to provide exposure to real workplace situations and circumstances which cannot always be replicated in a learning environment or simulation.

Work placements can also prepare individual candidates for their assessment experiences. Learning and practising skills in a simulated learning environment, and then coming to the workplace only for assessment, can prove challenging to individuals as they encounter a new environment for assessment. Work placements, when integrated with learning, can also be used for 'on the spot' assessment and to capture a range of third-party evidence to support an assessor's decision of competency.

To successfully conduct training and assessment or evidence gathering in the workplace, the RTO must provide the learner and workplace supervisor with an agreed, structured learning plan that indicates the purpose of the work placement and the minimum requirements for training and assessment in the specified units of competency. It should also clearly identify the training, monitoring and assessment roles and responsibilities of all parties.

Work placements should always involve appropriate supervision and guidance from supervisors in the workplace and trainers and assessors from the RTO. In sourcing an appropriate workplace, attention should be paid to the availability of opportunities for the learner to observe, develop and practise required skills, and the availability of appropriately experienced workplace supervisors.

Evidence of work placement should be collected and may include timesheets, logbooks, meeting minutes or other forms of workplace documentation.

6.6 Integrated (holistic) assessment

Units of competency describe individual skills which do not exist in isolation. In the workplace, individuals combine skills described in different units.

Holistic assessment brings together a number of units of competency relevant to business operations and the job role that reflect actual workplace practices. Assessors should design integrated assessment activities to collect evidence for a number of units together. This approach can also be used for training delivery.

Related units can be grouped together in a number of combinations for logical integrated assessment. Any units that relate to a job function can be effectively combined and should be identified by the assessor to support the needs of industry operations and learners.

Training packages cannot nominate co-requisite units. However, there are a number of SIS units for which it would be very sensible to combine assessment of parts or whole units together. Examples of Fitness units are provided.

6.7 Contextualising training and assessment

Please refer to the separate Outdoor Recreation Companion Volume Implementation Guide for specific information about contextualising training and assessment for this sector.

SIS units can apply to any type of sport, fitness, aquatic or recreation organisation including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations. Business models, service styles, programs and participant characteristics can vary greatly. While some units apply to specific sport, fitness and recreation activities and environments, others are more general in nature and are written to apply to different contexts. This is particularly relevant to SIS cross-sector units.

Imported units, such as BSB business service units, have been selected because of their applicability to sport, fitness and recreation industry job roles.

In all cases training and assessment can be tailored to provide meaningful outcomes for both industry and learners.

6.7.1 Contextualising Sport units

Some sports are covered by sport-specific units which include the name of the sport in the unit title, e.g. SISSRGL001 Conduct rugby league coaching sessions with foundation level participants.

All other sports are covered by generic sport units, e.g. SISSSCO001 Conduct sport coaching sessions with foundation level participants. Training and assessment must be contextualised to the specific sport.

Specific sports are represented nationally by National Sporting Organisations (NSOs) recognised by Sport Australia, e.g. Tennis Australia.

NSOs are responsible for meeting Sport Australia compliance expectations for sport governance, finance, participation and safe sport. RTOs should obtain information from the relevant NSO to ensure the most current sport-specific policies and procedures are available to provide context for training and assessment. A list of NSOs is available from the Australian Sports Directory website. Please see:

https://www.sportaus.gov.au/australian_sports_directory.

6.7.2 Providing context in pre-employment institutional training

For all units covered in a pre-employment training course, RTOs would be expected to cover a range of contexts to provide students with broad vocational outcomes and transferable skills.

Contextualisation might mean:

- covering knowledge of a range of organisation types and the particular requirements of their client groups
- for SIS cross-sector and imported units, ensuring training and assessment is relevant to the particular sport, fitness or recreation sector-specific qualification so that learners understand how important context is to functions covered by those units
- sourcing and using sample codes of conduct, policies, procedures and guidelines used by organisations for particular activities and participant cohorts to ensure relevance. General information irrelevant to sport, fitness and recreation activities, environments and clients can be unhelpful.

6.7.3 Providing context when a learner is employed

Employed students may be enrolled with RTOs and may be:

- trainees or apprentices
- sponsored by their employer who engages with the RTO
- employed and completing training independently of their employer.

In each of these cases, there is a real opportunity to highly tailor training and assessment that directly relates to the learner's employment. Not only should those learners be allowed a choice of relevant electives within their qualification, but they can also be provided with training and assessment activities relevant to their organisation. For example, trainers and assessors can:

- allow learners to interpret, use and describe the content of their actual workplace policies and procedures
- allow learners to develop and format plans for programs and sessions in line with their own organisational guidelines

- use assessment methods which evaluate the actual work of the learner via work samples, e.g. risk assessments using organisational templates
- tailor knowledge and problem-solving questions that elicit a response relevant to their employment experience (What does your procedure say about ...? How did you respond when a participant ignored safety guidelines? Tell me about a time when you had to modify activities?)
- provide logbooks to allow the learner to use workplace activities to count towards their assessment (useful, for example, when they are required to lead/coach/instruct a specified number of sessions or use a nominated range of exercises or techniques)
- consult with the employer about learner needs so training is relevant
- negotiate arrangements with the employer to spend time in the workplace to complete assessments
- use third-party reports to verify workplace performance and supplement other evidence. Many of these techniques would also be useful for learners on work placements.

Care must be taken to ensure that learners understand privacy and commercial confidentiality, and that they have the relevant permissions from their employers. Of course, the assessor must engage normal processes for ensuring the authenticity of evidence, i.e. by verifying that the work is that of the learner.

6.7.4 Using the notion of context as a starting point for developing activities

When writing training and assessment activities, RTOs can use the notion of contextualisation as a starting point. This should mean that RTOs do not have to adapt their assessments continually and specifically to an individual learner's workplace or the type of organisation with whom they seek employment.

In other words, activities can be written broadly and in such a way that options are provided. RTOs can then encourage or direct learners to build workplace or other context into their project and other activities. For example:

- Create a plan using guidelines or templates provided by your employer or use the sample ones provided.
- Complete an evaluation report using the template provided or use your employer's template.
- Select the sector in which you are currently employed, or one that you seek employment in, and, for this activity, you can:
 - select codes of practice used by your employer
 - use the sample codes of practice provided
 - source, via the Internet, relevant codes of practice for chosen activities.

6.7.5 Maintaining the integrity of the unit

Contextualisation means customising training and assessment to a particular industry sector, business type or organisation. It does not mean modifying the unit outcomes. The full content of a unit must be assessed, and all listed evidence must be collected. RTOs should not make adjustments that would result in training and assessment that falls short of training package requirements.

6.8 Foundation Skills

Foundation Skills, which are embedded within SIS units of competency, include:

- language, literacy and numeracy (LLN), identified as reading, writing, oral communication and numeracy
- employment skills necessary for effective participation in the workforce, identified as learning, problem solving, initiative and enterprise, teamwork, planning and organising, self-management and using technology.

Not every unit will contain every foundation skill, e.g. some only include reading, numeracy and problem solving.

Foundation Skills are an integrated part of a unit of competency, must be assessed, and have been included in units in three ways:

1. Relevant skills essential to performance are explicit, or evident, in the Performance Criteria, written in a way that reflects both the job task and skill level.

For example, communication skills have been written explicitly in the Performance Criteria of SISXPLD002 Deliver recreation sessions as follows:

Performance Criteria	2.1	Explain session objectives and activities using communication suited to participant characteristics.
	2.2	Provide clear information about safety procedures, safe behaviour, safe areas and boundaries.
	2.3	Advise participants of roles and responsibilities of activity leaders and communication protocols to use during activities.
	2.4	Encourage participants to ask questions and seek advice before and during session.

2. Skills essential to performance that are not explicit in the Performance Criteria are summarised in the Foundation Skills (FS) field together with a description reflecting the workplace skill.

For example, SISSSCO016 Coach participants in sport competition requires the individual to source, interpret and analyse competition and competitor performance information. However, numeracy skills associated with these tasks are not explicit within the Performance Criteria and have been summarised in the FS field as follows:

Numeracy skills to:	interpret, analyse and discuss statistical information about competitors and competition data.

3. In some cases, the Foundation Skills are evident in the Performance Criteria (PC) but the level of skill is not explicit. The PCs have been written in order to retain their vocational focus and are not distracted by forcing an explicit level of foundation skill. In these cases, the FS field provides a more detailed explanation to assist trainers and assessors to understand the level of skill. For example:

Performance Criteria	- Develop and document client profile to assist with programming and ongoing evaluation. - Document exercise program in appropriate format. - Document session plans in appropriate format.
Supported by FS - Writing skills to:	- produce detailed program and session plans that use fitness terminology and abbreviations for instructional use - use fundamental sentence structure to complete forms, and client records that require factual and subjective information.

6.9 Access and equity considerations

SIS training package products are designed to be accessible to all learners, to provide flexibility for implementation by RTOs and other users, and to allow for progression of skill development. This has been achieved in the following ways:

- Units meet a diversity of learner and employer needs. While many are activity and environment specific, others are written broadly enough to apply to different contexts. Training and assessment can be contextualised to a particular environment, sport, outdoor activity or workplace.
- Units and qualifications can be implemented during workplace activities, via simulation, via a Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) process, or in combination.
- Prerequisites have been minimised to allow flexibility in sequencing of training and assessment.
- Most qualifications allow direct entry to avoid barriers to enrolment.
- Foundation Skills embedded in units do not exceed those required to complete the workplace tasks described by units. The same applies to the Knowledge Evidence.

- For equity in assessment, Performance Evidence statements describe the type and amount of evidence that all individuals must provide, and all assessors must collect.
- Performance Evidence statements require rigorous assessment of workplace skills but allow RTOs flexibility to choose methods.

Training organisations should not impose any restrictions that exceed the requirements specified in this training package and which impede a learner's access to training and assessment.

6.9.1 RTOs' role in providing accessible and equitable training and assessment

The Standards for Registered Training Organisations include requirements for RTOs to:

- minimise barriers to access and participation in training and assessment that might result from a learner's age, gender, cultural or ethnic background, disability, sexuality, language, literacy or numeracy skill level, employment status, or geographical location
- respond to the individual needs of learners
- provide sufficient educational and support services for the individual learner to meet the requirements of the specified training package outcomes.

Approaches that can assist learners to participate in training and assessment, meet training package requirements and achieve meaningful outcomes include:

- providing modified equipment, assistive or adaptive technologies, or assistance to increase access for learners with special circumstances, including those with disability
- customising instructions for training and assessment activities so that they are specific to what will happen for the individual
- providing language, literacy and numeracy (LLN) programs to increase ability to the level required by the units of competency and the workplace
- scheduling assessment events or adjusting to account for cultural beliefs, traditional practices and religious observations
- customising training and assessment to the individual's current employment, or employment prospects, to include activities that directly relate to their work
- choosing units that can be readily achieved by learners in their location and that are relevant to local employment opportunities, or ensuring learners have access to other locations to encourage the transferability of skills to other settings
- counselling learners pre- and post-enrolment to ensure they best select units appropriate for their location, desired employment outcomes, and abilities
- making reasonable adjustments to assessments.

6.9.2 Reasonable adjustment

Reasonable adjustment is any action taken by a training organisation that makes it possible for learners with special characteristics or circumstances to fully participate in training and assessment on the same basis as those without special circumstances.

An individual may be faced with a temporary or permanent issue that affects their ability to participate in the RTO's standardised training and assessment activities and methods. By making reasonable adjustments, RTOs can assist learners to participate and be certified as competent in units, skill sets and qualifications.

Special needs, characteristics or circumstances are diverse and may include:

- disability
- temporary or chronic illness
- temporary injury
- temporary or permanent use of medication that affects performance
- language and literacy skills that fall short of the demands of an RTO's standardised assessment methods.

Disability considerations

The Disability Standards for Education (2005) and accompanying guidelines provide information on an RTO's obligation to make reasonable adjustments for those with disability, how best to consult and determine reasonable adjustments that provide value to the learner, and information on 'unjustifiable hardship' to the training organisation.

Current links to the standards and guidelines are provided in Section 7 of this Implementation Guide so that RTOs, their trainers and assessors can fully consider all issues by a case-by-case determination.

Language and literacy considerations

Units include a requirement for individuals to have a certain level of skill in reading and both written and oral communication. These requirements reflect but do not exceed those required to complete the workplace tasks described by the units of competency.

Assessments must ensure that students demonstrate the appropriate level of language and literacy skill embedded in the Performance Criteria or further outlined in the separate Foundation Skills field.

This means that careful consideration must be given to what is a reasonable adjustment for those learners with language and literacy issues.

Some examples of reasonable and unreasonable adjustments:

- Knowledge Evidence can be assessed in a number of ways. For example, SISSSOF003 Officiate sport competitions requires the learner to know about sport-specific rules and regulations. It does not matter how the learner demonstrates that knowledge; it is only important that they satisfy the requirement. It would be reasonable to adjust from using standardised written exercises to oral questioning, should the learner have literacy issues.

- If writing is a requirement of the unit, the learner must be able to write but only to the level described. For example, SISFFIT036 Instruct group exercise sessions requires the learner to complete session documentation and evaluation reports according to recordkeeping procedures. It would not be appropriate to adjust an assessment so that the learner only verbally reports.

6.9.3 Adjusting practice, not the standard

The content of the unit cannot be changed as this describes a skill outcome. It is the method of training or assessment to achieve that outcome that can be adjusted. Adjustment practices must not:

- alter the skill and knowledge outcomes, e.g. by missing content from the Performance Criteria, Foundation Skills or Knowledge Evidence
- change the types of evidence that are required to be collected (the Performance Evidence)
- reduce the nominated volume of evidence prescribed in the Performance Evidence, e.g. the number of group exercise sessions that must be instructed, or the range of exercise types that must be instructed for those sessions.

Key messages about reasonable adjustment are as follows:

- The integrity of the unit(s) must be upheld; the learner must be able to demonstrate the workplace demands described in the unit
- The inherent requirements of workplace performance described by the unit must inform decisions about what adjustment is reasonable
- All learners must be judged against the same standard. This does not mean that all learners must be assessed in the same way.

8 Terminology

8.1 Fitness

Session

A session is a short period of time devoted to exercise; durations will vary, e.g., 30 minutes, 45 minutes, 60 minutes. Session plans incorporate details such as specific timings for phases of the session, exercises to be included, number of repetitions and sets.

Sessions can be tailored to individual client goals as part of a longer program, with multiple and varied sessions comprising a program.

Sessions can also be developed for a group of mixed-ability participants where the goal is linked to broader health or skill-related components of fitness. A range of session types (sometimes known as classes or workouts) might be offered by a fitness business to meet the needs of different consumer groups, e.g., spin class, aqua class, and those designed for a specific population, such as children.

Program

Programs are short- or long-term exercise plans tailored to individual client needs by personal trainers and gym instructors. Programs incorporate details such as client goals, the range of exercises, frequency of activities and duration of sessions. Clients are monitored during the life of the program, with program content modified and updated according to client need. The duration of a program will vary according to client goals and could vary from weeks, e.g. increasing fitness levels to participate in a scheduled event such as a community or charity run, to months, e.g. body composition goal of losing 30 kgs.

8.2 Sport

Foundation, intermediate, advanced

These terms are used to refer to three different levels of participant skills in the generic coaching units. The technical and tactical sport skills and knowledge relevant to each level depend on the specific sport and information is available from the relevant National Sporting Organisation.

Sport-specific

This term refers to a sport. The specific sport depends on the context. For example, in a netball sport context the specific sport would be netball. The term appears throughout the units to enable the units to be delivered in a broad range of specific sport contexts without the need for separate units for every sport context. E.g.

Unit Code	SISSPAR001
Unit Title	Participate in sport at an intermediate level
Application	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to perform sport-specific tactical and technical skills at an intermediate level through participation in a specific sport. Activities may include conditioning, drills, discussions, games, competitions and other activities relevant to the specific sport. This unit applies to athletes in the Australian sport industry competing in a sport at a local, state or national level. Those undertaking this unit work with the support of a coach.

Unit Code	SISSSCO001
Unit Title	Conduct sport coaching sessions with foundation level participants
Application	This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to prepare for and conduct sport coaching sessions with foundation level participants in a specific sport. This unit applies to individuals working under supervision in community-based assistant coaching roles in the Australian sport industry. This includes individuals working and volunteering in sport clubs and organisations.

Athlete

This term is used to describe individuals who participate in sport as a job. These can be paid or volunteer job roles. The term appears in units that describe job functions performed by athletes and developing athletes.

Participant

This term is used to describe individuals who participate in sport as a community activity. The term appears in units that describe job functions performed by coaches and officials when referring to the sport participants they interact with in a community sport environment. National Sporting Organisations (NSOs) are responsible for the design and implementation of their coaching and officiating frameworks.

Participation

This term refers to the act of participating in a physical activity that is competitive and a recognised sport.

Session

This term refers to a single participant development event delivered by a coach to participants.

Program

This term refers to a series of sessions delivered by a coach to participants.

National Sporting Organisations (NSOs)

NSOs are national sporting bodies recognised by Sport Australia. A list of NSOs can be found here: https://www.sportaus.gov.au/australian_sports_directory

NCAS (National Coaching Accreditation Scheme) and NOAS (National Officials Accreditation Scheme).

These schemes were retired by Sport Australia in 2017. Each National Sporting Organisation is responsible for its own systems and quality assurance in this regard

Workplace or simulated environment

A workplace is an environment where sport-related job roles described by the qualifications are found. These can be paid or volunteer job roles - for example, a volunteer community coach at a local basketball club. A simulated environment can be a school or a training provider, provided it reflects sport-industry workplace conditions and meets the mandatory requirements specified in the Assessment Conditions.

8.3 Sport, Aquatic and Recreation

Session

This term refers to a single participant development event delivered by a coach to participants.

Program

This term refers to a series of sessions delivered by a coach to participants.

- Units have been added to the core, providing additional skill and knowledge outcomes
- Units have been removed from the core, reducing skill and knowledge outcomes
- A significant number of additional elective units are required, or the choice of electives has changed significantly
- Entry requirements are altered creating significant differences to the structure of the qualification.
