Unit Descriptor

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the competency required to conduct interrogation while serving in an operational environment.

Application of the Unit

Application of the Unit

This unit of competency will only be used by a specialist interrogator. The duties of an interrogator will be conducted during military operations working to the direction of an interrogation commander.

Interrogation is the systematic extraction of information from a detainee which differs from tactical questioning as it involves a range of information gathering methods and techniques over time.

The person who is interrogated will be detained; the process of handling detainees is not covered by this unit.
